RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

While on that European hockey junket with the world champion McFarlande a couple of years ago, we read, or had read to us, not a few strange versions of the great Canadian winter game. As is well known European sports journalists, as they are called, loathed Canadian methods and styles of play in no uncertain terms.

That perhaps is understandable. However, what takes the bloody cake, matey, is a story in the Los Angeles Times written a week or so prior to the opening of hockey there and the start of the city's puck-chasing Blades as the club is known.

It is a rood thing perhaps that a great number of Los Angeles sports fans have seen hockey played "as she is" in Canada otherwise they might draw from the article that our great game of organized skinny is a cross between the St. Valentine's Day Massacre, Custer's Last Stand and the Battle of Verdun.

Here is the story in part:

"This winter a new game has come to Los Angeles —hurdling on the Rocks. It combines some of it is hockey but there's no polite way to play it. It's a combination of the Ice Capades and the Untouchables . . ."

Hockey is the kind of game where the mere news of a new franchise is going to be opened is enough to send surgical supply stocks soaring. There is a bull market in sutures and gauze factories run overtime. The local mortician is always in the front row surreptitiously going over the program notes case he has a few words to say over one of the participants later in the week."

"Much is made of the mayhem in pro football where two 250-pound human bulldozers crack into one another at the snap of a ball. In hockey, the bulldozers ram into each other at 45 miles per hour. That's a closing speed of 90 m.p.h., and if they did it without protective armor there wouldn't be enough left for the mortician to say a few words over."

"A hockey player wears 30 pounds of equipment just to qualify for insurance. This includes gloves so heavy that you have to be in shape just to put them on. There are elbow guards, and guards for the Achilles tendon, which used to be a favorite target of oldtimers with sharp blades because it not only put victims out of the game, it put them out of the sport. And sometimes out of the world . . ."

The way the L.A. writer puts it, we Canucks are rough, tough and ready to rend limb from limb any hockey opponent once what may. He goes on:—

"The puck in hockey travels 90 miles an hour and the War of 1812 between the States and Canada was fought with more humane weapons. As if things aren't bad enough, some Canucks on skates perfected the 'slap shot' some years ago. This is hockey's answer to the baseball . . ."

"The puck leaves the ice in a slow rising trajectory, usually in the direction of an opponent's teeth. Sometimes there's so much scrimmage in the ice, it looks like someone sat down on his dentures. Even the spectators have to wear mouthpieces."

"If you're a goalie in hockey you can get someone to stand in the corner (take a penalty) for you. To be sure they frown upon drawing blood in hockey. It messes up the ice."

"If you draw blood you get five minutes in the penalty box. If you kill somebody, you're out of hockey. Unless you can prove you didn't mean to do it. That's hard to prove when 19,000 people sat there and watched you do it."

"Hockey is played by a bunch of roughneck Canadian and Minnesota kids who say 'oot' for 'out' and 'aboot' for 'about.' They didn't learn to say it much a thing as summer until they grew up. They just thought there was six weeks when the ice was kind of slushy."

I wonder how the writer describes the great American game of football when 250-300 pound Titans weighted down with gear hurl themselves at one another, and the divil takes the hindmost. At least hockey has not reported 17 fatalities in a season, as is the American football record to date.

Hay Day For Hawks, Whip Leafs 6-0

Centre Sets Up Four

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A healthy Bill (Red) Hay may be all the Stanley Cup champion Chicago Black Hawks need to cure their sputtering offence.

Hay, a 190 - pound centre, never has dazzled too many National Hockey League teams but he makes several fine saves with his scoring talent. But his play - making proficiency is something else.

This was probably never more evident than Tuesday night.

Hay, who returned to the Chicago lineup last weekend after missing nine games with a bad knee, set up four goals as the Hawks drubbed Toronto Maple Leafs 6-0 in the league's only scheduled game.

The win boosted the Black Hawks into fourth place in the league standings, two points ahead of idle Detroit Red Wings.

The Leafs remain tied for second with New York Rangers. A win would have pushed them into first place, one point ahead of Montreal Canadiens.

OFFENCE PUNCHLESS

Without Hay, who had a carbuncle removed in his knee, the Hawks' offence was punchless. In the nine games the red-haired centre missed, he produced only 16 goals as the Hawks—who tied three and won only once.

Against the Leafs, Hay set up two goals for Ab McDonald and one each for Murray Balfour, and Bobby Hull.

The Hawks other goals were by Eric Nesterenko and Ken Wharram.

Chicago had an edge in play every period, handing last year's Leafs their worst defeat of the season. The Leafs were outshot 42-22.

Goalie Glenn Hall, however, had to make several fine saves for his first shutout of the season. It was only the third whitewash job in the NHL this season. The others were by rookie Don Head of Boston, beating last year's Leafs, and veteran Terry Sawchuk of Detroit.

Johnny Bower had not allowed more than four goals in any of Toronto's first 10 starts. The six goals upped his goals-against average to 2.18, still best in the league.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

The Hawks built up a 3-0 lead in the first period as McDonald's first goal and others by Nesterenko and Balfour.

McDonald made it 4-0 in the second and Hull and Wharram completed the rout with tallies late in the third period.

The game might prove costly for the Leafs. Al Arbour, a defenceman, is out for the season and up to now their best defenceman, has suffered a pinched nerve in his right arm early in the second period.

Coach Punch Imlach is running two defencemen — veterans Allan Stanley and Larry Hillman — through extra duty.

The Rangers will have a chance tonight to leap past Montreal in the standings when they play host to Boston. It is the only game scheduled.

Bisons Defeat Aces 8-2

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Little Charlie Hodge must be wondering today who the Montreal Canadiens ended their scoring agreement with Buffalo for the American Hockey League. It's a sure thing he'd rather be playing for 'em than again 'em.

Hodge, the blonde goalie who put in a 30-game stint with the Canadiens last year, was loaned to the Quebec Aces of the AHL prior to the start of the current campaign. He was doing all right, too, until he met up with the powerful Bisons.

Sunday, they beat him 5-2. Tuesday night, the Western Division leaders ripped through the Aces' defence for an 8-2 victory. Brian Cullen, Chico Maki and Brian Smith each scored twice while Wayne Hicks and Murray Hall had one apiece for Buffalo. Serges Lecourtsel and Guy Black registered for Quebec, last in the Eastern Division.

The Canadiens ended a working agreement with Buffalo in the mid 1950s, then moved into Rochester and this year became affiliated with the Aces. The Habsons are now working with the Chicago Black Hawks.

SIGN ROBINSON

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers Tuesday announced the signing of speedy British Columbia Lions coach Wayne Robinson as a scout and goodwill ambassador for the remainder of the 1961 season and manager Jim Ausley of the Western Football Conference club said Robinson, a former line coach with Bombers who was fired by B.C. in September after nearly three seasons as head coach, will travel as the club's representative in the shire, where boll foundries were midwestern United States. established in 1840.

Alouettes Drop $100,000

MONTREAL (CP) — Ted Workman, president of Montreal Alouettes, said Tuesday his Eastern Football Conference club lost about $100,000 this year on the basis of a 30,936 drop in attendance for seven scheduled games.

He estimated that the club needs an average paid attendance of 21,500 a game to break even. The total attendance for league games was 128,016, down from 160,052 last year, and for an average of 18,430.

In Calgary, Jim Finks, general manager of the Western Conference Stampeders, said his team drew 104,929 to tie eight regular schedule home games compared with 108,725 fans in 1960.

Finks estimated earlier the club would realize about $35,000 less on this season's operations than the $57,500 earned in 1960 and said the drop in fan attendance would account for about $10,000. The club lost about $10,000 last year.

Bower Still One Of Best

MONTREAL (CP) — Goalie Johnny Bower, who joined Toronto Maple Leafs at an age when most players are thinking of retiring, celebrates his birthday today.

Whether it is his 37th, 38th or 40th is anybody's guess.

"I've been lying about it so long I'm confused," Bower says. "Just say I'm 35 going on 40."

The National Hockey League record book says the circuit's oldest player was less than half a dozen other oldsters, is not simply because they can't play. He is in the NHL because he still is the best and can match or outdo any performer now by a rookie in any given game.

Right winger Gordie Howe, 33, and defenceman Bill Gadsby, 34, of Detroit Red Wings have been around longer than anybody else. Both are in their 16th seasons.

SALTED LONG TIME

One of the amazing things about Bower is that he labored in the minors until the 1958-59 season, except for one full year and fractions of two others with the Maple Leafs.

Leafs paid $15,000 for his services in the draft. Since then it has turned out to be one of the biggest bargains in hockey history.

The still agile goaltender last season won the Vezina Trophy, awarded to the goalie who plays the most games for the team that allows the fewest goals.

The league's second - oldest player is playing coach Doug Harvey of the Rangers, Harvey will be 37 Dec. 19 and is in his 10th season. Considered the best defenceman in the NHL's postwar era, he has played more than 30 minutes a game.

The Maple Leafs are the Toronto centre Red Kelly, in his 16th, is 34.

Defenceman Tom Johnson of Montreal and Jack Evans of Chicago are 32 and no more than 18 other players are 30 or over.

JOCKEYS HONORED

BALTIMORE (AP) — Joe Notter and Linus (Pony) McCauley, veteran jockeys from rode Kentucky Derby winners, were named to the Jockey's Hall of Fame Tuesday.

Notter, 72, of Floral Park, N.Y., rode Burgoo King in 1932, became the only filly ever to win the Derby, Azucar, in 1904 through 1918, Notter had 56 major stakes victories and his purse winning record of $464,323 in 1908 stood until broken by Earle Sande in 1923.

McAtee, 64, now is a successful financial investor at Jamaica, N.Y. His Derby victory came in 1929 aboard Clyde Van Dusen. He rode from 1914 through 1932.

Will Seek Shares In Horse

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Jack Price will seek to sell shares in his 1961 Kentucky Derby-Preakness winner Carry Back next year at a price in excess of $1,000,000.

Price said Tuesday that taxes would take most of the star thoroughbred's 1962 earnings, making it a good time to sell shares in the horse. The trainer-breeder added that he and his wife, who's Carry Back's official owner, will keep at least one-half ownership and split the rest among what he termed "a few congenial sportsmen."

Carry Back cost the Prices only $409 in stud fees and has earned $851,648 — putting him 17th on the all-time money winning list.

'Sloppy Joe' Look Fast Disappearing From High School Rooms in Ottawa

By ED TREPIAK

OTTAWA (CP) — The once-fashionable "sloppy Joe" look is disappearing from high school classrooms here.

Student-sponsored Dress Up Days, together with an official crackdown on dactiloli haircuts, blue jeans and heavy makeup are bringing about the change.

On Dress Up Day, held several times each year, boys don ties and jackets, girls wear business clothes and light make-up, and everyone makes a special effort to look well-groomed.

The special days began in 1956 after J.B. Callan, a city high school principal, sent a letter to parents advising that he was prohibiting students from wearing overly - casual clothes to school.

Ottawa Central Students' Council picked up the idea and began sponsoring the days through its affiliated councils at each school.

BEHAVIOR BETTER

"Dress Up Days have a good over-all effect," Mr. Callan said in an interview.

"We find there is a definite relationship between good grooming and good behavior. Discipline problems are cut down when students dress up."

There is no compulsion to participate, but most of the students do, Mr. Callan said.

"You'll generally catch a few who forget about the day, but they're always plainly embarrassed. Then there's the rebel who says, 'this is not for me,' but the students look after him themselves."

R. T. Greer, another principal, said students "always look forward to the day."

"And it serves a real purpose in improving their appearance. They seem to stay well-groomed long after the day is over."

BOYS WEAR SMOCKS

At Ottawa's technical school, an all-male institution, the project has been "most successful," Principal Leo Hurley said.

The students' council has provided $500 worth of smocks so the boys won't get their good clothes dirty while working in the machine shop.

What do students think of Dress Up Day?

Joan Condie, a grade XI student, said: "After the day everyone comes back in ordinary dress—but I think only because the next one does it. It wouldn't be too bad if we had to wear shirts and ties every day. It certainly makes everyone look sharper."

Judge Grants Injunction To Company

TORONTO (CP) — A permanent injunction restraining two officers of the Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) and their agents from approaching the vessels Northern Venture and Wheat King within Ontario without firearms, explosives or similar weapons was granted Monday by Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson.

The injunction was sought on behalf of Island Shipping Limited against Leonard J. McLaughlin of Montreal, secretary of the SIU, and Paul Cagne of St. Catharines, its local business agent.

The order forbids the defendants to fire upon the vessels, picket them, interfere with company's employees, try to induce breaches of contract, or encourage anyone else to commit the acts of which the company has complained.

Mr. Justice Wilson granted the permanent injunction on grounds that McLaughlin has failed to file an appearance and deliver a statement of defence, and that Cagne had failed to deliver a statement of defence.

LITERARY SLEUTH — RCMP Staff Sergeant R. A. Huber works from 30-inch enlargements of original documents to study Hand D, three pages in a play written nearly 400 years ago. The Canada Council assigned the handwriting expert to try to find out whether Hand D was the work of William Shakespeare. Sergt. Huber said his result doubts in his mind that Shakespeare was the author. (CP Photo).

RCMP Expert Doubts Pages Of Play Written 400 Yrs. Ago Were Work of Shakespeare

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — An RCMP expert has probed the literary mystery shrouding Hand D and come away with some doubt that the scrawl—three pages in a play written nearly 400 years ago—is by William Shakespeare.

Many students of Shakespeare have attributed the work to the bard. Others disagree.

In a bid to solve the mystery the Canada Council last year called in the Mounties, hoping they could get their man and disclose his identity at a seminar on Shakespeare at Stratford, Ont.

The task went to Staff Sergeant R. A. Huber, 39, who for years has been unearthing the identity of forgers and counterfeiters and who once played Little Theatre roles in his native Ottawa.

While his findings raise fresh doubts that Shakespeare wrote the lines, he says the clues are too slim to make a definite conclusion.

SOME SIMILARITIES

After a careful study of the handwriting of Hand D and of Shakespeare's signatures, Sgt. Huber said in an interview:

"It must be said that there are many similarities present which clearly put Shakespeare within the relatively small number of writers of the era who could have written Hand D it is difficult, however, to reconcile several differences and consequently, for me, the case for Shakespeare's identification was accordingly weakened."

The Rt. Hon. Sir Thomas More, chronicles the life of the Roman Catholic statesman beheaded in 1535 for refusing to recognize the king as the head of the English church. It was written by Antony Munday. Sections were later revised by Thomas Dekker, Henry Chettle and an unknown hand, since labelled D.

No handwritten copies of Shakespeare's work are known to exist. This has led to another theory that Shakespeare didn't write any of his great plays or poems.

The three pages of Hand D had been studied for years by students of Shakespeare and noted literary and language scholars. Some decided the style compares with the works attributed to Shakespeare.

NEW APPROACH

Sgt. Huber became the first handwriting expert to go over the ancient pages with the analytical mind of a man who has been dealing with forgeries.

The Mountie began by collecting and reading as much as possible about Shakespeare. He learned that only six samples of the Bard's handwriting exist. All are signatures—three on his will, one on a bill of sale for a house, another on a mortgage and a sixth on a deposition given in connection with a marriage suit.

"These are generally accepted as authentic because they were likely all witnessed," Sgt. Huber said.

He gathered in the RCMP crime laboratories here photographs of the signatures and of the manuscript, housed in the London Museum for more than a century. He studied blowups of the photographs for similarities between the two handwritings.

SIGNATURES VARY

"The signatures are not exactly the same — "but when there are no variations we suspect forgery." No person signs his name exactly the same each time.

Sgt. Huber studied the formation of letters, pen pressure, the proportions of the writing and the size and spacing of the letters. His conclusion, after three months, was that he believed Shakespeare had written the three pages was weakened

He found similarities between the signatures and the writings but there were differences that raised doubts. The letter i was not dotted in the signatures, for example, but dotted throughout the manuscript. This, he said, wouldn't be explained away by carelessness.

Also differences in the writings could not be explained by the 15 years between the time the play was written and when he made the signatures because people don't change their form of writing at that age."

Shakespeare, born in 1564, penned three of the signatures shortly before his death in 1616. The other three were done in 1612 and 1613.

Sgt. Huber said further investigation probably could find much evidence that other writers could have written the three pages.

Writer Fearlessly Attacks Many Controversial Themes

By CYNTHIA LOWEY

NEW YORK (AP)—The fundamental ingredients of the television series are all there in CBS' The Defenders. There's the father-son team of dedicated lawyers, widower and bachelor. There are the weekly courtroom scenes. And there is, of course, the usually fascinating peek into the lives of a different set of troubled people.

But there The Defenders' resemblance to the average TV series stops abruptly. What makes the difference is Reginald Rose, a respected TV writer who fearlessly tackles controversial themes. He serves as the series' producer, and often, as his writer.

Last Saturday, The Defenders with the starlet down a well . . . trodden path: The tipsy, spoiled girl whose car strikes a child at an intersection. The child is taken to hospital and emergency surgery is ordered. You can almost finish the usual plot yourself, including the final scenes, with the smiling child on his way to recovery.

But in The Defenders, the child died. The story itself was primarily concerned with the doctor's parents, whose religious beliefs forbade both blood transfusions and surgery — a touchy TV subject.

TAKE TRICKY PARTS

Other series shun such questions as mongolism and mercy-killing and unwed parents. Future shows will deal with a miscarriage of justice, abortion, a child rapist, and a consideration of bribery of college athletes — who are going to school on scholarships awarded for sports prowess rather than scholastic.

"Many of these shows," said Rose, "are really morality shows. We're attempting to deal with the law realistically because we feel that the courtroom drama are glances told. We're trying to get to the real motives of real people."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

Some pretty fixed annoyances are just back of you and this is a day when you accomplish a very great deal by being very direct and outspoken in stating what you want and then garnering your benefits to you. Then the evening has a sizzler influence that suggests you force no issues, but get your health improved and your plans better organized.

Aries (March 21 to April 19): There is a fine opportunity for you to gain through some powerful individual who takes an interest in you today. Make a fine impression and be efficient. However, it is up to you to get out of that rut and bring this chance within your orbit.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20): Add to benefits and gain prestige by handling all personal and business affairs in a very wise fashion. See that you think along more orderly lines, too. Evening is then fine for being with loved one. Don't be extravagant.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Important you confer with associates in more pleasant surroundings or where conditions are more progressive if you want to reach greater understanding, get greater co-operation. Take care in P.M. that you do not irk a close tie.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21): A day for real accomplishment, provided you won't waste time once you have reached decisions. Act quickly now! Evening requires that you drive or walk carefully since there is an element of fire and danger about. Be alert!

Leo (July 22 to August 21): You will find that if you improve surroundings or meet with associates at some spot that is inspiring, you can come to a real understanding and accomplish far more. Take care that you are not extravagant this evening, however.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): By giving own home and family the benefit of your energies and thought, you can make life far happier for them and yourself. Get surroundings improved, add bits of art, etc. Side-step argumentative outside associate in P.M.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): This is a particular good day to make sales, purchases, have conferences, etc., but equally fine if your time is free for fun and enjoyment. Don't be forceful with anyone in P.M.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Vitally important for you to consider the interests of closest ties now and to operate on a larger scale so that you have a more abundant future. Keep busy this evening and avoid that individual who wastes time gossiping.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Every chance is yours now to bring those fine practical answers and ideas to those who can help you commercialize on them and share in the profits, too. Take care in P.M. to act circumspectly so that you safeguard reputation.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): By quietly getting in touch with the right people, you can get that confidential information you require to get ahead faster. Be with good friends in P.M. rather than drop them for glittering newcomers who are not worthwhile.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Since you are thinking very clearly today, it is the right time to make plans for the future and know which of your friends can best fit into them. Avoid any show of jealousy in P.M. no matter what the provocation may be.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20): Important you do whatever pleases supporters and highest-ups wishes. Remember that Big-wigs hold the strings and your partners must first obey orders and instructions, too.

If your child is born today he, or she, will be one of those delightful people who attract almost everyone and are capable of making and keeping friends easily. And since mentality and spirituality here are outstandings, success in life can be quite phenomenal if you give the benefit of a fine academic education and proper training in ethics. A leader is definitely in this chart.

We're amazed how that Lady found a home in such condition — Just call us anytime and we will send him—they will also be amazed at the way it's got water conditioning, aluminum storms, aluminum doors, exhaust fans, it's over the back fence to school. Would you like to see the rest of what it cost? We could show you today — but you won't want to see the list — you will see that it is good value at $14,900.

OFA Passes Resolutions

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Agriculture has passed a resolution Tuesday asking that full provincial co-operation be given to the study of rehabilitation and resource development programs.

The OFA voted to set up a committee to study the subject. The federation also backed a resolution asking that every effort be made to keep the farm organization represent the agriculture of Ontario.

The OFA in the past has had differences of opinion with the province's Conservation Authorities, the Ontario Farmers' Union said.

Delegates asked that all farm commodity groups work towards representation by one organization.

In other resolutions delegates asked:

1. That tax assessors desist from attempting to assess value of any kind for real estate purposes.

2. That efforts be made to rais money for education and municipal roads out of funds as well as assessment.

3. That all cattle breed associations recognize artificial insemination breeding for registration.

4. To tithe Dominion Bureau of Statistics to publish all grades of light and heavy carcasses of hogs.

5. That taticoing replace ear tags as a mark of vaccination for Bang's disease.

4-H 'Awards Night' Held To End Successful Year

FICTON — More than 250 parents and friends and 4-H Club members attended Prince Edward 4-H awards night held in Queen Elizabeth school here. The value of a good education was stressed by guest speaker Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative for Northumberland county.

Prize money merited in all 4-H clubs was handed out by the club leaders and special awards were presented by the donors. Lyle Vanclief, R.R. 1, Hallowell was the winner of the Canadian Bank of Commerce watch which was presented by Allan Pearce, manager of the Ficton Branch. Lyle has been a 4-H club member for six years and has completed 10 projects. He won first place in the junior dairy calf four, third in three, fourth in two and fifth in one. This year he entered four clubs and was first in each of the four projects undertaken. He is also active in his 4-H work Lyle has been active in the Presbyterian church and other community activities. He is this year's winner of the Governor General's Collegiate. Last summer Lyle attended the Prince Edward County at 4-H Leadership Week at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. He was chosen at that time to attend the Canada 4-H Club week which begins in Toronto on Friday, November 10th.

Other awards included the Warden's Trophy presented by Warden Ross Hepburn and awarded to Lyle Vanclief for high senior in the County Livestock Judging Competition. The Lyle Vanclief Shield won by Gordon Fox, the high junior in the Judging Competition.

Mrs. F. J. Webster presented the Webster Memorial Showmanship Award to Lloyd Spencer. This is the first year that Lloyd has won this award. The runner-up in this 4-H showmanship competition was Janet Parks, who received a calf blanket from the farmers' Co-operative in Picton.

GIVEN CANE

Dr. Robert Clapp presented a blackthorn cane to Lyle Vanclief on behalf of the Quinte Veterinary Association for having the highest score in a dairy stock club not including the Holstein Club. The Victoria Tree and Grey Trust Company cash award was also won by Lyle Vanclief. The Hillsdale Trophy was won by Lloyd Spencer, high in the Holstein Club. In the calf show and the Palmer Brothers special, a leather shoe repair kit, was won by Bruce Huff for exhibiting the best Reserve Calf. The Junior Farmer Award was won by Lloyd Spencer and A Junior Farmers and Junior Farmettes Club obtained the first number of points in the Junior Fair. The County President, Bob Wallace made the presentation to Lloyd Spencer, president of the club.

Prize money in the Hillier and Ameliasburg Calf Club was presented by the leaders Lloyd Spencer and Lewis Wight. The Fred A Junior Farmer Cup trophy was won by Harold Werkhoven and presented by Lloyd Spencer. In the Picton Club first place was won by Lloyd Parks who received the Bank of Nova Scotia silver cream and sugar set and the Bank of Nova Scotia branch, Mr. Len Allen.

The Big 5 Junior Farmer boys, 208 cast their ballots against him, 36 abstained and nine were elected. This meant Adenauer failed to get 51 votes of the 500 involved in the coalition of his own Christian Democratic party and the minority Free Democrats. The latter party holds 242 seats, the Free Democrats 67 and the opposition Social Democrats have 190.

Adenauer's comments were: "I am satisfied."

It was his closest victory since he first became chancellor by a single vote when West Germany was created a nation in 1949. He is the only chancellor West Germany has known.

His small majority reflected the split mood between the Christian Democrats and the conservative Free Democrats and some new gains registered by a gained him.

Of the other Bundestag members personally in both parties.

Victory Margin For Adenauer Is Quite Small

BONN (AP) — Konrad Adenauer, 85, was re-elected chancellor of West Germany Tuesday night by a margin so small that it bodes political trouble ahead.

Adenauer won his fourth four-year term in office when 258 of the 498 Bundestag parliamentary members voted for him in a secret ballot. That meant he had only eight votes to spare, since a simple majority of 250 was required.

'Boodet', 'It Will Be', Most Popular Word in Russia, Achievements Startling

By EUGENE WYATT

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The most popular word in the Soviet Union today is "boodet." It means simply: "it will be."

The future — whether it is 10, 25 or 40 years off—is worshipped with all the fervor that the Communist religion can generate. Women in their 30s, some of them looking so much older than their years that I mistook their children for their grandchildren, speak confidently of the good life for the next generation.

The theme is everywhere. In idyllic little parks, neat red signs announce the number of apartments to be built during the next seven years. Others tell of the coming real-estate society. Many exhort the casual Sunday stroller to push forward to true communism.

The policy of the state is clearly directed toward the future. Educationists, even as grade school level, are a prestige which shames the United States. This extends to salaries. The principal of a grade school I visited earns 200 rubles a month ($224 at the official rate; the managing director of a large factory receives only 170 rubles.

PROGRESS UNEVEN

This does not mean that present-day Soviet accomplishments can be dismissed. A look at daily headlines dispels any such notion. What astonishes the visitor from the West is the incredible unevenness of these accomplishments.

Russian jet and turbo prop planes are obviously superb aircraft by any standard. But if these magnificent machines are sometimes cleaned out by little old ladies using medieval twig brooms.

Soviet engineers apparently have a good grasp of outer space and the interior of the atom, but elementary problems of housing construction have been baffled. Stories of almost new buildings falling apart are not exaggerated.

Whatever the quality, there can be no doubt that Russia is building. In Moscow as in cities throughout the Soviet Union, the condemning crane is used to position prefabricated sections of apartment houses dominate the horizon.

But, if there is any extensive construction of underground air raid and fallout shelters, I did not see it.

FOOD PLENTIFUL

The people are adequately but not stylishly dressed. Not only does there appear to be enough food but in many cases far too much. A trim figure is a rarity even for a young woman.

There is little of the somberness which one somehow expects in a totalitarian state. Good - natured joyplay frequently erupts in public, even during the frustrating and time-consuming business of shopping in an economy which is anything but a buyer's market.

Once, in a Kiev store, I heard a woman complain that too much bone was left in the roast she had just purchased. The butcher told her, in effect, to take it or leave it. An argument followed. There was about 30 people in line and they all joined in the argument, diving about three to one in favor of the customer. Finally, the woman got another piece of meat.

One of the customers who had defended the butcher got the offending roast. He left amid gales of laughter from his fellow-customers.

STATUS SYMBOL

The automobile has taken firm hold as a status symbol. One of the questions inevitably asked an American is: "What kind of a car do you have?" A glowing account follows of the Soviet automobile the questioner will have some day, "Boodet" again.

This does not mean, of course, that promises for the future plus the Sparks present satisfy all Soviet citizens. Particularly in the areas of housing and consumer goods, there is a hunger which is sometimes pitifully obvious.

In Kiev, I saw a queue of perhaps a hundred people in front of a little shop. Some did not even know what they were waiting to buy—they knew only that such a line means that something scarce is available. In this case, it turned out to be cheap two-cell flashlights from Communist China.

In Yerevan, Soviet Armenia, a cab driver offered 80 rubles ($89) for a rain coat which cost 818.95 new in Nashville.

The thunderous propaganda against Americans which the Soviet citizens read daily has generally produced the desired effect. It is strange to sit in a movie house and hear the wrong side (us) booed. In almost every conversation, there is a question about unemployment in the United States.

SOME SUSPICION

But there are those who suspect all propaganda. One man so completely discredited the official position on America that he told me he did not believe that segregation of Negroes ever occurs in the United States.

Sometimes, after becoming acquainted, a few Russians will elect enough to reveal considerable impatience with some features of the Soviet system. I did not meet one who expressed any real doubt about the superiority of communism as an economic theory, but several had unkind things to say about curbs on self - expression and the free flow of information.

The strongest statement I heard came from a Russian living in Yerevan, the capital of Soviet Armenia. I commented on my surprise at the amount of drunkenness in the hotel dining room, as well as in the Soviet Union generally. I asked him why this was so, particularly since liquor is so expensive.

He looked at me for a full minute. Then he replied, very deliberately so I could not fail to understand his Russian:

"They're drinking to forget all their happiness."

Despite Risks Queen On Way To Visit Ghana

Will Also Tour Liberia, Sierra Leone, Gambia

ACCRA (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip arrived here today for an 11-day visit to Ghana.

LONDON (CP) — The Queen today left the gentle mists of England for four weeks of bright African sun.

Accompanied by Prince Philip, she boarded an airliner for the first stage of a trip that will take Ghana, Liberia, Sierra Leone and Gambia.

The departure took place after anxious and possibly unprecedented doubts, resolved on Wednesday when the British cabinet decided that it would be safe for the Queen to go to Ghana, scene of four recent bomb explosions.

Prime Minister Macmillan communicated the cabinet's advice to the Queen and later, in the Commons, said the government considered the risks there to be no greater than in some of her previous tours.

Macmillan showed signs of emotion as he told MPs that the Queen accepted those risks "proudly."

Without revealing anything of the private conversations between Macmillan and the Queen, official sources made it plain they felt there had been no doubt about the Queen's attitude. She has never thought of postponing the trip.

WORLD AWARE OF RISKS

"The Queen feels that her job entails high responsibilities and if these responsible leaders do entail some risks she is willing to face them," one informant said.

"Also, she feels that these is a job to be done for the Commonwealth as a whole."

Macmillan's statement in the House was warmly received.

The only suggestion of criticism came from Robin Turton, leader of what some call the "Suez-Conservative" wing of the Conservative party. He asked whether it was not "specially the other responsible wealth governments had not apparently been asked to express the decision on the visit.

Macmillan replied that the government had been in touch with Commonwealth prime ministers. He thought he could say that no "contrary view" had been expressed by any Commonwealth government.

Despite Macmillan's statement, a cautious attitude appeared and the report by Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys, just back from Ghana. The Daily Telegraph says editorially the public anxiety is not "wholly allayed."

Stories in British newspapers from Accra, capital of Ghana, report new arrests of President Nkrumah's political opponents and portray the country as a "hollow kingdom" on the verge of bankruptcy.

Only small numbers of housewives and shoppers on the long way to work watched the Queen's limousine drive to the airport.

The airliner was piloted by Capt. John Woodroffe, a former pilot of British Overseas Airways Corporation, who was born in Vancouver.

The plane took off at 10:18 a.m. GMT (5:18 a.m. EST) after an hour's delay due to fog.

Wearing a full-length sable coat and mouton velvet hat, the Queen smiled acknowledgement as a clearing, fog waving group of Ghanaian students.

The flight to Accra was scheduled to take six hours, 45 minutes non-stop.

Before the decision to go ahead with the tour, fears had been expressed that a minority of anti-British fanatics in Ghana might jeopardize her life, or that she would be embarrassed by an attack on Nkrumah.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Light snow continued overnight in central and north-eastern sections of Ontario, but ended in northwestern parts of the province. Becoming cloudy and in most sections of Ontario this morning. Partly cloudy conditions is forecast for Friday in most areas.

ACCRA (Reuters) — Anxious security guards today kept a sharp eye out as Africans flocked to downtown Accra to prepare a mammoth welcome for the Queen.

The Queen's security was foremost in the minds of many officials following the recent series of bomb blasts here that have threatened to cancel the 11-day royal visit.

But to the teeming crowds of Africans the elaborate security precautions were just part of the preparations for the most lavish welcome ever accorded to a visitor to this West African state.

The crowds stood by as "talking" drums warmed up with their beat of welcome and dancers and bands jumped to Ghanaian tunes.

On hand for the arrival was chief fetish priest Nai Wulomo with a jug of gin he planned to pour on the ground in a libation of thanksgiving for the safe arrival of the Queen and Prince Philip.

Most Africans appeared unconcerned by the government's warning Wednesday night that the Queen's visit was not commercially, "including death," for any acts of subversion during the royal visit.

Throughout Ghana, the predominant feeling was one of relief that the Queen's visit was not called off because of Ghana's internal political difficulties.

NDP Leader Says Cabinet Disappointing

TORONTO (CP)—New Democratic Party leader Hazen Argue MacDonald described the new cabinet announced Wednesday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker as disappointment.

"For the most part it was a game of musical chairs among the old cabinet members," Mr. MacDonald said in a press release, adding that Mr. Roberts had failed to use the opportunity to "strengthen the team" and replace Premier Leslie Frost had headed.

The NDP leader said the new ministers in his view could only "limited importance" to Canada's future. Gordon Churchill, Roch Pinard, minister without portfolio and one of three farm ministers, and Mr. Hamilton.

Of Labor Minister William Hamilton, Mr. MacDonald said: "Under his administration, the department has not succeeded Charles Daley in the labor portfolio." Mr. Hamilton succeeds Daley in the labor portfolio.

"Under his administration, the department of principal affairs has experienced an endless succession of municipal scandals and refused to deal with their cases vigorously or effectively. The appointment of his kind of administration emerging in the labor movement is a contradiction over the vital issues of labor-management in our growing economy and is a matter of concern."

Men and Machines Mass to Battle Twin Fires in Santa Monica Hills

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Men and machines massed today for another assault on the twin infernos in the Santa Monica mountains that have taken disaster in southern California stride.

Firemen controlled flames in exclusive Bel-Air and environs Wednesday night. But in nearby Topanga Canyon was near consistent today. Authorities reported favorable wind and humidity.

Official damage estimates: 656 homes destroyed, all but nine in the Bel-Air area; 14,150 acres of invaluable watershed ruined; property damage perhaps in excess of $20,000,000.

Insurance officials estimated total insured losses may run as high as $20,000,000.

Miraculously, there have been no deaths reported during the four-day holocaust. At least 150 firemen have been injured, none badly. The fires have destroyed many homes in the $100,000 - and - up class in the movies colony known as the Malibu Beach section, hillside sands of persons fled from homes and schools.

The movie colony, flames destroyed the home of Burt Lancaster, Actor Ronald Colman, E. Brown, Joan Fontaine, producer Jules Stein, Singer and comedienne Lahra Rose.

Flames and smoke from the conflagrations were visible for miles. Associated Press reporter Charles Hillinger surveyed the damage in the Bel-Air section, described the scene as "unbelievable. Like a graveyard of mansions. . . . In many of the areas all that remain were chimneys, standing like smoking tombstones over piles of ashes."

Cause of the outbreak has not been determined. The blazes started Monday near the crest of the Santa Monica range —extending west to the sea from Hollywood — and swept down the heavily populated areas above, meaning south of Sunset Boulevard.

IMMIGRATION RUNNING AT 11-YEAR LOW

Italians Make Up Largest Group

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration to Canada is running at an 11-year low with Italians making up the largest single group of newcomers for the fourth straight year.

An immigration department report issued Wednesday said 56,168 newcomers arrived in the country during the first nine months of 1961, down about one third from the 83,843 admitted in the same period last year. The 12-month total last year was 104,111, lowest since 1950.

This year's January-September arrivals included 11,202 Italians, the largest single ethnic group. Those of British ethnic origin were next at 10,735, in the same period last year 18,496 Britons and 17,468 of British origin were admitted.

Immigration from the United States bucked the downward trend, rising to 8,788 from 8,557 in the first nine months of 1960. Arrivals from the U.S. were the third largest group.

ITALIANS BIGGEST LOT

The Italians made up the biggest group in the 10th month of 1960 annual totals. Prior to 1953 those of British origin were the biggest group, then Italians.

The drop in total immigration has been sharply pronounced since 1957 when 282,164 arrived.

Reasons for the slump is the federal government policy of discouraging entry of unskilled workers, but also in which millions up the bulk of Canada's immigration has played. Changes in the economic opening in Europe.

The immigration department has been concentrating on attracting immigrants with professional and technical skills.

Common Market

U.S. Must Play Leading Part If Canada Joins--Fleming

EDMONTON (CP)—There is no possibility of Canada forging an Atlantic trading area in which the United States would not play a leading part, Finance Minister Donald Fleming told Wednesday.

He said Canada is the leader in "world-wide trade" on a multilateral basis and would have to consider the political and economic implications of entering into a trading bloc.

Mr. Fleming said the "free movement of labor" clause in the European Common Market charter would be a "derogation of sovereignty" about Canada, and that Canada's tariff policy is evolving this union.

Mr. Fleming's press conference that Canada and the other Commonwealth countries hope Great Britain will join the European EEC under agreements would "impair the special relationship in the Commonwealth."

Canada last year exported a $955,000,000 worth of goods to the United Kingdom, and many of the United Kingdom in the Common Market would mean impairment of the sale of Canadian goods in Great Britain through a loss of Canadian preferment.

GIVES A LIFT

Devaluation of the Canadian dollar has given the economy a welcome lift, Mr. Fleming said.

The government's dollar has strengthened the position of Canada exports and industries and well from the very outset of the new administration."

Three men who provided Mr. Roberts with his largest contribution under his leadership.

The meeting comes with less than two weeks remaining before the opening of the legislature, between now and Nov. 22, the ministers must accustom themselves to new posts and prepare legislation for the third session of Ontario's 26th legislature.

Mr. Roberts, 44-year-old lawyer and educator, took the oaths of office Wednesday as 17th premier of the province after Lieutenant - Governor J. Keith Mackay had accepted the resignation of Leslie Frost, premier for the last 12 years, and his administration.

The reorganization of government provides few changes of face in the cabinet, which ranks in the executive council room.

Two members were elevated to cabinet rank for the first time by Mr. Roberts, nine ministers got at least a partial change in portfolio and one minister was dropped. One new department was created by combining two previous portfolios.

Kennedy Says Russians Lead World in Polluting Skies

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy says Russia has made more nuclear tests in the atmosphere than the United States and Britain announced to about 125 megatons, a figure that is two and a half times less than one megaton.

Khrushchev said he would reject any Soviet suggestion for another unpolluted moratorium unless Russia had proof that the United States had broken the last moratorium "within the area of the table negotiating with them."

"If they fooled us once it was their fault. And if they fool us twice, it is our fault."

Khrushchev said he Kennedy's reply to Premier Khrushchev's statement of Kremlin receipt and that Tuesday that Russia would halt tests "when other powers follow."

The U.S. maintains that it Khrushchev's word is no good faith, he should sign a nuclear test ban treaty which calls for inspections and controls to prevent secret tests.

The U.S. packs military power, second to none in the world, but President Kennedy is under its position, he proposed:

To get added annual money for defense next year. He did not say how much.

To get a steady eye on U.S. strength, intelligence and manufacturing, and the military capabilities of its adversaries.

To get ready for nuclear tests in the atmosphere and to conduct them if necessary.

The U.S., he reiterated, would not be the first to explode a bomb in the air merely for political, or psychological reasons. The decision to resume tests will be taken only if an analysis of Soviet preparations makes it clear for new American efforts to maintain world nuclear superiority. It started the full decision when this analysis would be completed.

Atmospheric testing had to be approached with great caution because of the possible radiation harm to future generations, but the United States also had responsibilities to maintain the freedom of hundreds of millions of people of the world, Mr. Kennedy said. The risks involved in atmospheric testing had to be balanced off.

Vandals Cause Heavy Damage In College

HULL, Que. (CP)—Vandals caused so much damage to the Margaret d'Youville Classical College here Wednesday night that the 158 students were given the day off today.

The victims broke into the school during the night and smashed windows, overturned desks, doors and typewriters, tossed ink about the seven-room building and left obscene messages on blackboards.

Damage was estimated at about $5,000, and about $20 was stolen from the office cash box. Police said they found no fingerprints.

Mother Superior Jeanne Le Ber said: "It is disheartening to see one that can be viewed without concern."

Change of Govt. Provides Few New Faces in Cabinet

TORONTO (CP)—John Parmenter Roberts, youthful new premier of Ontario, gathers his cabinet today for first session under his leadership.

The meeting comes with less than two weeks remaining before the opening of the legislature, between now and Nov. 22, the ministers must accustom themselves to new posts and prepare legislation for the third session of Ontario's 26th legislature.

Mr. Roberts, 44-year-old lawyer and educator, took the oaths of office Wednesday as 17th premier of the province after Lieutenant - Governor J. Keith Mackay had accepted the resignation of Leslie Frost, premier for the last 12 years, and his administration.

New Democratic Party leader Hazen Argue MacDonald termed it a "game of musical chairs among the old cabinet members," and said both labor and agriculture "have not fared well from the very outset of the new administration."

Three men who provided Mr. Roberts with his largest contribution for leadership of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party continue to hold key cabinet positions.

Treasurer James Allan, 56-year-old member from Haliburton-Northumberland, gave up the economics portfolio. It will be merged with the commerce and development ministry under new department of economics and development with the former real estate business.

Attorney - General Kelso Roberts, 63-year-old member for Peterborough, retains his post portfolio and takes under his wing the province's Emergency Measures Organization, previously a branch of the commerce department.

CONVENTIONAL WARHEADS WILL NOT BE ORDERED

Not Considered Urgent at Present

OTTAWA (CP)—There is no present intention of ordering conventional warheads for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, reliable sources said Wednesday.

Such warheads would cost an enormous amount to develop and produce, the sources said, taking issue with a spokesman for Boeing Airplane Company, manufacturer of the Bomarc, who said last week high-explosive warheads could be easily installed in the weapon. The spokesman said however, it would require six months for production of conventional warheads.

First deliveries of the missile have been made to the RCAF Bomarc site at North Bay, but the bases is not expected to be in operational readiness until next spring.

The defence department said last month the question of warheads for the Bomarc was not considered urgent at the time because it would take six months before the missiles were installed on their launching pads at North Bay and La Macaza, Que.

The department made this statement shortly after reports that nuclear warheads only were available for the Bomarc. This is the weapon the United States Air Force never intended to use any kind of warhead for the Bomarc except a nuclear one.

DOESN'T CONCEAL

The defence department hardly bothers any more to conceal its restlessness over the government's continuing policy of refraining from making a decision on acquisition of American nuclear warheads for the Bomarc and CF-101 Voodoo jet interceptor.

Defence Minister Harkness left Ottawa Wednesday for Kansas City: "A number of our NATO partners have already received their nuclear weapons and the U.S. concerning the use of these weapons in defence on their own territories without in any way affecting their influence and responsibilities in the United Nations and in other international organizations."

This was an indirect attack on the position of External Affairs Minister Green who has told that Canada cannot press its views on the UN for disarmament and against nuclear testing while at the same time accepting nuclear weapons.

Informants say that negotiation of an agreement between the U.S. on control and storage of

The student council set up a judicial committee to investigate the incident and recommend fines, restrictions or suspensions of any student where it deems necessary."

77 Nearly All Army Recruits, Killed In Crash

Plane Was Attempting Emergency Landing

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Rescuers today began the almost hopeless task of identifying the bodies of 77 persons—nearly all of them young army recruits—who had been killed Wednesday in the night in the flaming crash of an Imperial Airlines Constellation.

Only the pilot and the flight engineer of the big plane, which carried 74 servicemen and a crew of five, survived when it plunged into a marshy mountain ravine while attempting an emergency landing at Richmond's Byrd Field with two of its four engines dead.

Flying through heavy weather, firemen played streams of foam extinguisher on the smoldering skeleton of the plane through the early morning hours.

A Civil Air Patrol officer at the scene, Lt.-Col. Alfred C. Nowlin, said identifications might never be complete.

"All the bodies were consumed by fire except a few feet," he wisely said. "There was nothing anybody could do except contain the fire."

TWO ESCAPE

The pilot of the plane, Capt. Ronald Conway, 39, of West Hollywood, Fla., and a passenger, 30, of Miami, escaped through a hole in the nose of the fuselage, hurt.

Conway told reporters there were 78 recruits aboard the plane with its crew of five. Army sources, however, indicated 74 servicemen were aboard.

The Imperial Constellation, one of three imperial aircraft under contract to the army to haul recruits, had left Newark, N.J., at 6:36 p.m. It stopped at the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton, Pa., airport and at Baltimore, Md., to pick up additional recruits destined for Ft. Jackson, S.C., at Columbia.

The Federal Aviation Administration said the plane developed engine trouble about 20 miles west of Richmond and crashed at 10:30 p.m. just east of the city limits, for an emergency landing.

It came out stab ay a runway but, the FAA said, did not land on the runway. It struck trees during the ground (Conway and Hyphtrea). We were about 50 yards from the plane when someone went up and brought down a tree," Conway said. "The whole fuselage was on fire . I got out and saw people in the plane, but no one came to the door."

So difficult was the terrain at the crash scene that the first piece of fire equipment could not reach the wreckage until 10: p.m., more than an hour after the crash. One pumper truck got stuck.

A clear path through the woods wasn't carved out until armored cars of the Virginia National Guard slugged their way through the underbrush and mud.

Thousands of curiosity seekers added to the confusion, hampering rescue work. Police roped them off from the area and eventually used force police dogs to hold back the throng.

The recently traveled U.S. 60, nearest major highway, hundreds of cars produced a tremendous traffic jam which held up ambulances hurrying to the crash site.

Slowly, the fuselage of the Constellation took on the grim freight of human life burned itself out. By 2 a.m., only the skeleton of the plane was left. Some 50 feet away lay the tail section, torn from the rest of the plane in its descent through the trees.

Kennedy, Nehru Fail to Agree

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru ended on four days of consultations today with differences still existing between them on nuclear testing and other major cold war issues.

Divergence of views may be reflected in the communiques to be issued by the White House after a formal call from the Indian moderate in mid-afternoon.

At a press conference Wednesday Kennedy said:

"We're going to disagree, but I am sure it is possible for us to disagree in the framework of friendship and with other bad faith."

The White embassy spokesman said that if there is a disagreement "it can be only on specific issues and complex principle."

The spokesman added that Nehru felt that his meetings with Kennedy had established a rapport between the two men.

Winter on Way as Light Snow Swept Most of the Province

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario awoke today to the fact that winter is on its way as light snow swept most of the province's southern half and dumped as much as 10 inches around Georgian Bay.

Shortly after 6 a.m. Owen Sound was alone in having enough snow to shovel or plow. Then the snow began to fall in earnest and by 9 a.m. it was general throughout the region.

Snow was general from Windsor to Ottawa and from Lake Huron to Lake Ontario.

Work crews were out with salt on the roads as 28-degree temperature threatened to freeze the slushy mixture. Many motorists headed into Owen Sound from nearby Georgian Bay resorts to clear their cars of the fluffy stuff.

Two cars collided near Port Severn Tuesday night and Provincial Const. Jack Ferrier, 34, of Campbellford, was killed.

Foods and small lakes froze for the first time this season in the resort and hunting districts of Haliburton and Muskoka.

Minimum temperatures in most southern Ontario districts dipped below freezing Wednesday night but climbed back to the high 30s or low 40s during the day.

The temperature dropped to 21 in Sudbury during the night, but only half an inch of snow fell on the city's official reporting centre.

At Toronto and Hamilton, the streets were clear but wet and slippery by mid-morning and there was only a trace of snow, traces of the overnight fall.

The first major snowfall in Ontario, which began in some places Tuesday night, was expected to end the night and a flurry of minor accidents.

Suspend Term For Two Years On Trenton Man

Florina Surina of Trenton was given a two-year suspended sentence when he appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in county magistrate's court this morning on a charge of having possession of a dangerous weapon. He was charged on October 30. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was represented by Thomas Lally.

Evidence was that the accused was seen sitting in a hotel in Trenton with a gun in his lap. The gun was described as being a .22 rifle. Police were informed that he had been talking "crazylike" about getting his young daughter out of the Children's Aid Society. It is understood that he told the police that if they tried to 'stop him' that he would 'stop them'. He was taken to the police station where he told police if they took the gun from him he would go out and buy another. When police found the accused in the hotel, the gun was still wrapped in the paper when he purchased it. They also found four boxes of ammunition in his possession.

Magistrate Wills told the accused that he was in this country now and he would have to accept our laws and ways of living whether he liked it or not. He said that he would include a condition in his bond that he was never to be in possession of a firearm or any other weapon such as a knife. He also suggested to the accused that he get as much help from his church, as he could.

Mr. Bradley has made an intensive study of the topic, using recently discovered 19th century documents made available by County Clerk E. S. Denyes.

Later talks in the series will deal with the Belleville area during the Fenian Raids, 1866-1871; and Belleville and the Northwest Rebellion of 1885.

The public is cordially invited to attend next Monday's meeting and subsequent meetings in the series.

Members Approve Vote On Sunday Sports, Movies At Special Council Meeting

Despite a strong appeal from representatives of the Belleville Ministerial Association who claimed that Sunday sports events were not the "thin edge of the wedge" leading to a wide open Sabbath, Belleville city council at a special meeting on Wednesday afternoon passed by-laws authorizing a referendum on the issue.

Council passed by-laws allowing two questions on Sunday sports and movies to go to the people during the municipal election on December 4th.

Local residents will be asked 1. whether they are in favor of Sunday afternoon performances; concerts and lectures under the 1930 law on Sunday; and 2. whether they are in favor of sports for gain after 1:30 p.m. on Sundays.

Both by-laws were carried by identical 8-2 votes. Approving the by-laws were Controllers Corke, Deacon, Ellis, Ireland, Mayor Hall, Reeves Tindle and Wishart. Opposing were Mayor Arthur Meyer Haig and Alderman H. McDougall.

The recommendation approving the by-laws was passed by council on Monday with yesterday's special session being called to consider the authorizing by-laws.

TWO ALDERMEN ABSENT

Alderman Walter Elliott and Eugene Harrison were absent from yesterday's meeting.

As initial spokesman for the Ministerial Association, Canon A. S. McConnell said ministers were not appearing at council as a delegation but in their personal citizens interested in maintaining present conditions in the city.

He said they would not like to see a wide open Sunday in Belleville.

"We are not here to dictate, but for only what is the best interest of the city", he said.

He questioned whether even a 2 to 1 defeat, only two years ago, it was right to bring the Sunday sports question before the people again so soon.

Also in the resolution would be interesting in knowing whether the petition bearing 2,300 names presented to council on Monday was a bona fide petition of city residents with proper addresses.

300 NAMES TAKEN OFF

Canon McConnell, representing the two local theatres which sponsored the petition, said that everything possible had been done to ensure an honest petition. He said the list had been carefully checked and more than 300 names were discarded as fictitious names.

City Clerk Adam Stalker, replying to a question from Mr. McConnell, said that British subjects over 21 years of age were entitled to vote in the referendum and not property owners only.

Rev. C. W. Coleman said Belleville ministers were striving to retain that something which is threatened to be taken away.

He held that the request for Sunday sports and movies was but the thin edge of the wedge.

"This will not be the last thing asked for," he warned.

Rev. Coleman pointed out the 2,300 names on the petition for Sunday movies alone but covered other performances and sports as well.

Rev. Selkville Palmer said there should be some consistency on the part of council in the matter. He said council appeared prepared to authorize a vote on Sunday movies and at the same time had passed a by-law closing bowling alleys on Sundays.

Mayor A. M. Haig pointed out that the by-law covering bowling alleys was already on the books but had not been considered enforceable.

"As long as the by-law was on the books council felt that it should be air tight," he said.

Rev. Morgan McFarlane also appealed to council to give the matter close consideration. He said his kirk session had discussed the issue and had voted unanimously in disapproval of the matter.

EXPLAINS POSITION

Alderman Tom Corke said the local clergy should understand the position of council on the matter.

Council was not necessarily in favor of Sunday movies or sports he said but noted that if a petition bearing the names of 10% per cent of their eligible to vote was presented, council had no choice but to approve of the vote.

"Council's position is merely a matter of placing the vote," he said.

In allowing the vote to be held at the time of the municipal election council was merely following the set rule of the matter as soon as possible.

Following afternoon passage by-laws authorizing a referendum on the issue.

"I cannot say that I am opposed to the vote, but I am opposed to the hasty manner in which it is being presented", he said.

Both hasie was wrong and did not give the proponents or those in opposition time to prepare their cases be maintained.

ECONOMICAL INTEREST

Alderman Jack Ireland said he had voted for the referendum due to the interest in the municipal election merely in the interest of economy.

He said he was opposed to the haphazard manner in which the Sunday sports question had been handled in the city. He said there was no guarantee that ball games were being held on Sunday and admissions would not be charged.

Alderman Jack Ellis enquired as to the views of ministers who

Two Catholic Schools Hold Exercise, Present Diplomas

TRENTON — The joint annual Commencement Exercises for St. Peter's and St. Mary's schools were held in the latter's auditorium on Friday evening last.

The graduates in caps and gowns marched to the beautiful pipe organ music from where a detailed program was distributed.

James Bonn acting as chairman gave a hearty salutatory to the graduates and spoke of thanks to the clergy present.

Bert Gervel, valedictorian, spoke on behalf of the graduates and stressed in a few meaningful words the appreciation of the class for the splendid teaching they had received throughout their varied years of their education. He spoke emphatically on the importance of this good early training, both religiously and academically and stated that graduates realized now when leaving more than at any other time that the most important factor of sound education lies in the thoughtful and serious early application which the members had instilled into their young minds.

Reverend J. C. Clancy, pastor of the parishes of St. Peter's and Senior Religious Certificates and the Intermediate Diplomas, addressed the graduates. Speaking in his usual inspiring way, he exhorted these young people to choose a goal in life and work seriously toward that goal. He expressed his concern for the future of these graduates, for, he said, "the world of today has much to offer if each one did not set up a standard for oneself". He advised them to decide upon a life work career and work tirelessly and hard to reached their goal. It is most dangerous to go aimlessly along. He referred to the old saying—Success, Latin, and Automatic", and asked, "Which change these three r's to "Real-ity, Responsibility and Reverence if they must face facts, meet the issues with a firm will, and not be carried away by the irreference of the world. They must not be influenced by what they must follow the sound principles instilled into them in the classroom."

WARNED AGAINST VICE

Reverend W. H. Dunphy of Belaven, also spoke to the graduates and urged them so follow their admonitions and counsel received from parents and teachers, and not to consider such as old-fashioned. He warned against the vice of self-esteem.

Principal, Mayor Sherry Gould, also assured the graduates of his pride in their achievement and urged them to go ahead with hope toward the future and wished them God speed. He asked them to be the best of whatever they choose to be.

Small Safe Is Recovered, Money Gone

TRENTON — Inspector R. J. Rutherford of Trenton Police Department said today that a small safe, stolen on October 27th, from C.N.R. express office on Dundas Street East in Trenton, too, had been recovered. The safe was found in bushes at the side of a concession road north of Trenton last evening by children who told their parents who, in turn, notified the police.

The safe had been opened and $30 in cash was missing. Money orders and bank drafts valued at $4,300 were still in the safe.

Let's Put More Men On The Job

A report on Belleville's industrial development by Don Kingdon, manager of the Lake Ontario Development Association, was submitted to City Council Monday. This report stated that successful industrial promotion required definite "know-how" and persistence. It stated that personal contacts had not been maintained with industrial development agencies. It urged ascertaining the costs of servicing municipally-owned industrial lands and recommended obtaining options on privately-owned lands and finding out the costs of servicing them, so that "package prices" could be quoted to the heads of potential new industries.

This set us thinking. Belleville's industrial expansion is said to have proceeded at an above-average rate since the end of the Second Great War. Certainly, though, in the past decade, the most impressive areas of growth have been in the residential and commercial areas. This growth has been achieved without any program of organized municipal participation and encouragement.

Now we are all for the application of persistence and "know-how" to the task of obtaining new industries and the suggestions for municipal action appear to us to be reasonable and of a nature which the municipality could undertake without undue strain on its financial resources.

At the same time, can we not harness that individual initiative which has resulted in such impressive residential and commercial expansion and channel part of it into the promotion of comparable industrial expansion?

We think this could be done. It would not eliminate the need for municipal action, but rather would supplement and complement it.

It ought to be possible to work out a schedule of rewards for real estate agents who bring new industries to the city, basing these rewards not merely on the value of the property sold, whether publicly or privately owned, but also providing for remuneration commensurate with the number of persons given employment or the size of the average weekly payroll over a specified length of time.

What we have in mind would enlarge the city's staff of industrial promotion men many times and would not cost the city a cent unless results were obtained.

We imagine that several of our realtors would be prepared to test their talents in the field of industrial promotion if incentives were high enough to warrant their investment of time and incidental expenses.

It may be argued that there already exist adequate incentives, since no group stands to benefit more financially from the continued growth of the city than do those in the real estate and building trades. No harm could come, however, and much good might result, from formally integrating the private and public promotional forces. It strikes us that in the field of "know-how" the realtors might have a head start. After all, is there any essential difference between convincing a man that Belleville is a good city in which to buy a home and raise a family and convincing a manufacturer that Belleville is a good city in which to build a plant and establish a business?

Missing Thousand

Lost—1,001 citizens.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds told the City Council Monday that Belleville's population, 39,162 according to the assessment roll, is 30,163 according to the Federal census.

Part of the discrepancy, of course, may be the result of the different times at which the tallies were made.

Discrepancies between census and assessment figures, however, are not unusual.

We have noticed some previous reports of such differences from other centres. In some cases, the census figures have been bitterly denounced by municipal authorities, because they show the population to be lower than municipal prides and assessments will—but indicated. In Belleville's case, though, the difference is in the other direction and City Manager Reynolds cheerfully accepted the census figure as the more accurate. This is not an unnatural conclusion. It is easy to understand how people could be missed when counting houses—the informant may forget or deliberately refrain from informing the tally-maker about everybody who lives in the house. But it is more difficult to suggest how the census takers could possibly have counted 1,001 little men, or women, who were not there at all. We'll accept the 30,163 figure—and we'll add that all of them appear to be driving cars in the business district about 5 p.m. every Friday.

Zulus a Proud Tribe

Stratford Beacon-Herald

The first account of the Zulu nation of which we have any written record dates from 1756. Europeans who were shipwrecked on the east coast of Africa, 205 years ago, came in contact with the Zulus, who occupied a territory which is now the north-eastern corner of the Union of South Africa.

They found this black-skinned warrior people to be, "very proud and haughty, careful in the preparation of food, very cleanly in person and keeping strict watch over their women."

The Zulus did not become a great nation, in the Bantu-speaking world, until comparatively recently in history. Beginning in 1813, the year that Canadians were attacking an American army at Detroit, the Zulu chief Chaka was attacking his neighboring tribes, in a series of tribal wars which made the Zulu nation paramount and began a 85-year period of Zulu power.

Sir Garnet Wolsely, who in 1868 was camp commandant at a military training camp at Niagara, attended by militia companies from Stratford, Ont., who in 1879 led a Canadian militia force from Ontario to Manitoba to help put down the first Riel Rebellion, had some experience in fighting Zulus in 1879. He was sent to South Africa in that year to take command in the first Zulu war, in which the British found themselves involved as a result of boundary disputes between Boer farmers, and Cetewayo, king of the Zulu nation. The Zulus fought with spears and shields against professional white troops with rifles and cannon, but the bravery of the Zulu warriors, together with Cetewayo's military skill made the contest almost equal. At the Battle of Isandhlwana, Lt. Dundi, a British force of 4,500, formed in hollow square, withstood the attacks of 20,000 Zulus, until 1,500 Zulus were dead, and many more thousands wounded. Wolseley and his troops had great respect for their Zulu opponents. Cetewayo's power was faltered, and whose discipline, under their tribal leaders, never cracked in battle.

Now a Zulu chieftain is to be the town mayor, not as a war leader but as a man of peace. The Nobel peace prize committee which makes awards of the Nobel peace prize has chosen Albert Lutuli, who was until 1952 chief of the Amakholowu sept of the Zulus, as a peace prize winner. In the eyes of the white-supremacy government of South Africa, he is no longer chief; the government deposed him nine years ago. The Zulu tribesmen, however, have quietly refused to nominate a new chief, and the white government does not recognize him. The tribesmen recognize nobody else.

This is not the first time a colored man has been nominated for the peace prize. It went in 1950 to Ralph J. Bunche, a United States citizen of negro race, who was the first negro to win the Nobel peace prize.

Chief Lutuli is a Christian, a former school teacher, and a farmer. As leader of the African National Congress in South Africa, he has been steadfast on two points: that he will not give up the fight for political equality for the black people of South Africa, and that he will not use violent tactics. He has been jailed and threatened with banishment and convicted of destroying his pass-book; fined; ordered not to speak in public; kept in house arrest on his small farm in Natal.

In defence of manly courage, this must be added: Some males are not personally concerned about being branded unmanly, but they succumb to the exhortations of members of their families who don't want to be embarrassed by seeing pop go forth in public dressed not in keeping with the latest ideas of fashion authorities.

Incidentally, while wide lapel coats can be cut down, its pretty hard to do anything about those big ties.

There must be thousands of them, still in excellent condition, hanging in closets or stilling hereabouts.

Anybody got any good suggestions for salvage.

Strictly Personal

Good Sense Of Superiority Guides Lowly

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices

Antique mythology unconsciously discloses how what is wrong when it coupled the goddess of love with the god of war is for man alone. It perpetually caught between two constant and contrary forces: the desire to populate the world, and the drive to depopulate it.

There is no surer way to fall beneath human dignity than to slide—as all the above bits of history were committed by men who thought they were guided by a superior deity.

Until the majority of adult Americans are able to speak a second language, we cannot consider our educational system adequate. Meanwhile, we are still struggling to instill in the majority of Americans a decent, modern knowledge of the English language.

What we have already learned in the attack on Japan and the reconstruction of Japan and Germany has not yet been learned in Asia, Africa or in the expansion to future conflicts; and that is why Bernard Baruch's comment: "International affairs will be placed on a better footing when it is understood that there is no way of punishing a people for the crimes of its rulers."

When a woman asks a man, "Do you love me?" and he answers "Yes," even that affirmative answer does not satisfy her, for her next question expresses a dissatisfaction that he has not recently volunteered the fact.

The majority of most revolutions is that they take their color (as it has been aptly quoted) from the regime they overthrow: the tyranny of the mob becomes the tyranny of a Stalin; the excesses of a Batista become, in turn, the excesses of a Castro. The American Revolution was a notable example of a "pure" revolution because it sprang directly from the ideals of the best of British idea of free men equal before the law.

Those who do not know the truth about themselves cannot tell it about other people; thus all fruitful analysis of social ills must first begin with a patient and painful self-examination.

Some youths are so stunted and malnourished in their emotional lives, which are human crimes for little more reason than that their parents read print - which is a desperate way of calling for attention when no other way seems any longer possible. And many adolescents would rather be punished than ignored - just as a neglected wife might prefer to be hit by her husband than to be totally disregarded.

If we were invisible, 90 per cent of what we call our "morality" would evaporate.

STRENGTH for the DAY

...DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS.

OUR GREATEST FEAR.

Toynbee, the famous historian, has shown that civilizations decline. Nations have gone over the precipice and always because they allowed certain of their spiritual qualities either to be dispersed or destroyed.

We are existing in a world today filled with more danger than humanity has ever confronted before. When we hear the fire siren we are startled and lest it be heightened out, this announcing a bombing raid. We talk about the destruction of our cities and the cities of our presumed associates as if this calamity were just around the corner. Perhaps it is. Yet it was the great Lord Macauley who once ran a mid-night ride system has within it the seeds of its own dissolution. Lawrence of Arabia recently written:

"I do not believe that the greatest danger to our modern civilization is of material calamities. I don't think our civilization is going to blow itself to pieces. I don't think it will die when we no longer care — when the spiritual fire which drove humanity to be right and noble die in the hearts of men."

Here is Toynbee's theory of history brought down to our everyday lives. Perhaps it will be like the fact that we appear to be in a season of moral decline and the outlook for the future is grim. To be sure, churches are crowded as never before; but crime, embezzlement, personal immorality appear to be making giant and alarming advances.

Our worst enemy may very well be in our midst — in our own hearts.

Buddhism May Help UN

Manchester Guardian

It is now reported that a Buddhist will be appointed temporary secretary-general of the United Nations. One of his most famous predecessors in high secular office, the Emperor Asoka, proclaimed 2,000 years ago:

"If a man extols his own faith and disparages another because of devotion to his own and because he wants to glorify his own, he seriously injures his own faith."

Western religions (up to communism) have tended to regard the world as a battleground between good and evil. Those to whom the truth has been revealed have the holy task of vanquishing error.

Buddhists, on the other hand, ideally seek the middle way. They do not aim at the rout of conflict (even on behalf of absolute good or absolute absolute evil), but of accommodation.

U Thant will have to work with, and try to reconcile, statesmen with widely different and mutually hostile interests and philosophies. The Buddhism in which he has been brought up would seem to be an admirable for this task.

But one can foresee some opposition, of course, from those who hold passionate convictions on one side or the other. That he will be sufficiently valiant for truth, shall be puts right and wrong on the same level, that he judges by a double standard.

These reproaches are often made against Asian statesmen. But another virtue that Buddhism inculcates is tranquility. U Thant, if anybody, should be able to preserve these shafts with unruffled mind.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

My family is thinking of getting rid of our TV set, all on my account. This is not due to my addiction to it, to the neglect of my duties, or the worse is the case. I disregard my TV shamefully, spending my evenings unsociably up in my den until such time as I hear a scream or a pistol shot down in the living room.

Otherwise, I lay my book down and descend to the living room and join my family circle. They are knitting, playing cards, or else just chatting casually while, on the TV, bright angles, then, a thrilling drama is being carried on.

"Who," I interrupt them, "fired the shot? Who is that being dead over there in the corner? Who is that girl doing with the gun in her hand? What's it all about?"

I am termed upon impatient by one and all.

"Be quiet, you twerp — the TV," they declare, "moves it when you talk. Nobody's watching it here."

Then what was it in her?

Nobody knows. Nobody cares.

Regurgitation Is Often Result of Nervousness

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please give some information about the cause of 'regurgitation of the esophagus,' and suggest helpful solutions. — Mrs. P.D."

Just about any disorder of the gullet can cause regurgitation — that is, the return of food in the stomach being forced back up, and into the esophagus. So-called "heartburn" is usually due to this. The contents, while not irritating to the stomach, which is designed by nature to handle the juices, can irritate or sting the lining of the esophagus, which is not intended to come in contact with them.

The first essential in tracking down the cause of regurgitation is to get a good medical history." Of course, this is the primary step in finding out any sort, but it is even more important in this sort of problem.

Why— Because, among other things, the time and frequency of attacks often gives a valuable clue to the cause.

The next step is an X-ray. Regurgitation often is the result of a hiatus hernia, and such a case, the X-ray won't show anything except a normal esophagus and stomach.

On the other hand, there are various physical possibilities. A diverticulum, or bulge in the esophagus; stricture from some previous injury, infection or irritants; growth of some sort, including cancer. Or there may be some disorder at the lower end of the esophagus involving the valve which controls the entrance to the stomach — this is a distinction from sheer nervousness.

This, the only "helpful solution" I can suggest is to start with finding out what is causing the trouble, and then treat it accordingly.

Is that nervous tension proves to be the cause, you can consult a specialist in the field.

Note to Mrs. P. I didn't mention any particular drug except that it is a boon to heart and diabetic cases. I did mention a general class of drugs, and that they are also useful in discharging excess fluid in the system and hence of considerable use in some heart cases and other conditions.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON GIVING UP

No matter what we own, no matter what we do, we must some day, sooner or later, end up by giving it all up.

And if we own a school our days will be numbered sooner or later. Always we will have to leave it all up.

And if we own a school ourselves it is not going to be so bravely, when we would like to keep it. And then we have learned one of the great lessons of life.

For giving up is a world of philosophy in that oft quoted phrase: "It is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all."

And so it is better to have owned a fine, flourishing school lovely thing. Some beautiful work of art to have left completely for your own some splendid association, than not to have had any school at all.

To give up bravely is a rare thing. It is a great virtue.

But in this very act you build a greater appreciation in your heart for great giving. And in the process grow rich in character.

I have a friend who once lived in a lovely house surrounded by many beautiful trees. He now lives in a modest apartment, deprived of much that gives him so much pleasure and happiness.

But I note no bitterness, no lowering of courage, or lack of keen sense fine qualities that made him a friend whom I have learned much. I love him in increasing degree. To me he is greater than when he owned that fine home.

It is important thing is not to give up courage, not to lower any established standard, not to habits is in order. Dependent on judging the individual case, some moderate sedation for a time may be helpful.

And last of all but hardly the least likely aspect is this: Sometimes finding out definitely that the regurgitation is in response to nerves goes a long way to curing the trouble. That is, people in the end to the realize, constant anxiety, Believe me, that's important!

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a cold along with a severe cough. I choked while eating and a piece of celery lodged in my throat. I have not been able to cough it up. Will this cause me to have more trouble with my cough and throat if it is not removed? Or will it eventually disintegrate? — W.H.W."

Anything lodged in the windpipe will cause a continued cough. If you are still coughing you should be checked. If the cough has disappeared, then so has the celery. If the cold and the cough tend to hang on and on, you should have your doctor check you over. If they last long, or recur frequently few days that a cold lasts, I am sure that there is more than just a cold. Plenty of subsequent serious troubles can be avoided by prompt treatment of the "cold" that hangs on too long.

Men Too Bow To Fashion

Richmond Times Dispatch

Men frequently chide women for being slaves to fashion in clothes.

The males say, for example, that if the fashion models decree that hemlines are to be uneven, they come down even if it is against the law of gravity and discard clothing that otherwise is still serviceable.

But the men no longer are properly berate the women folk on this score. For the strongest sex has also demonstrated similar propensities.

Coats with wide lapels are passe, it is decreed.

Men who have them are still wearing them, but others still who have discarded their out-of-fashion garments have scurried to the tailors to get the lapels cut down.

Wide ties are no longer acceptable. Racks full of them are being hauled to attics or donated to charity. Not many men dare to be considered so far out of style as to appear in public in too-wide neckwear.

More Money Needed to Make Parade Success

The fifth meeting of the Santa Claus Parade committee was held Wednesday night at No. 2 Firehall. Fire Chief Gerald Vance opened the with attended meeting after which the minutes of the last meeting were read, followed by the treasurer's report.

Only 36 donations have been received to date, making a total of $340. Much more money is needed if the 1961 parade is to equal or surpass the success and popularity of previous years.

Deputy Chief "Warpy" O'Brien, band committee chairman, reported that nine bands have accepted an invitation to participate in the parade and there are still two to be heard from.

The float committee reported that three floats are now completed and that a total of 18 floats are proposed, not counting the "Elmer the Elephant" float, the horses at the end of the walking personnel that will make up the parade. It is expected that the parade will be one mile long and will take over an hour to pass.

Those attending last night's meeting were advised that Bob Wessels, who has assistance of Boyce's garage, will be supplying clown cars for the parade.

A "beautiful" flower float is under construction and still requires a sponsor, as well as many others.

Chief Vance reported that the 15,000 small chocolate bars for distribution on parade day, had arrived.

A representative from the Humpty Dumpty Potato Chip Co. requested permission to enter a float of Humpty Dumpty on the Wall. He also advised those present that the company would like to donate several dozen bags of potato chips for children along the parade route.

The question of ordering costumes was discussed at length but chairman committee members reported they were unable to make a complete costume list at this time. They also stated that seven teachers had volunteered to help with the make-up and costumes, the morning of the parade.

The weapon marshal reported that the police had asked the committee to consider shortening the parade route by cromng at Hanbest street. The meeting did not consider this a less practical due to the fact of the length of the parade.

The Tag Day Committee reported that they now have the tags and have ready but are still looking for volunteers to assist in tagging. It was decided that at least four taggers be situated at the new shopping centre. Anyone wishing to tag either Friday, November 17 or Saturday, November 18, for an hour or two, can do so by contacting Ken Matthews at WO 3-1368.

A committee was formed to canvass the high schools and teen-town for at least 75 boys and girls to participate as walking personnel. It was noted that several costumes were available, locally, and the possibility will be checked.

Chief Vance reported that the Santa Claus float, much of which has been built by the OSD originally, was in need of some repairs. As this float is the most important in the parade the Float Committee was authorized to do whatever was necessary.

Many men and women put a lot of time and effort into the parade each year to make it the biggest and best parade between Toronto and Montreal, and their only reward is the looks of awe and wonder on the children's faces as the parade passes. Quite a bit of money is needed to ensure its success and you can help either by sponsoring a float or sending a donation to the Treasurer of the Santa Claus Parade Committee, at the No. 2 Fire Hall.

The next meeting of the Santa Claus parade committee will be held on Wednesday, November 22, at 7.30 p.m. at the No. 2 Fire Hall.

swearing-in ceremony. He was in New York on business and is expected to be sworn in at a private ceremony on his return.

Those three men were the last of the seven candidates for the leadership to be beaten by Mr. Roberts at the party convention here two weeks ago.

George Wardrope, another leadership contender, was shifted to the mines portfolio left vacant by the recent death of James Malcolm, Member for Port Arthur, he previously was minister of reform institutions.

GAIN NEW POSTS

Two ministers who gave Mr. Robarts active support for the leadership gained new cabinet positions.

Agriculture Minister William Goodfellow of Northumberland was appointed minister of highways while Municipal Affairs Minister William Warrender of Hamilton Centre becomes labor minister.

Former high says minister Fred Cass of Greenville-Dundas was moved to the municipal affairs department. Charles Daley, member for Lincoln and labor minister for the last 18 years, became minister without portfolio.

Also given a ministry without portfolio was former commerce and development minister Wilfrid Jam Nickle, who plans to resign before the next election and resume his Kingston law practice.

William Stewart of Middlesex-North, formerly a minister without portfolio, is the new agriculture minister.

Added to the cabinet were Irwin Haskett, a patent attorney from Ottawa South who becomes reform institutions minister, and Charles MacNaughton, member for Huron and former speed merchant who was named minister without portfolio.

John Root, former minister without portfolio, was left out of the new cabinet but will remain the Ontario Water Resources Commission. He is member for Wellington-Dufferin.

Mr. Robarts kept his former education portfolio, a step that which he said, there is "plenty of precedent."

Three cabinet ministers remain in former posts: Welfare Minister Louis Cecile of Prescott; Travel and Publicity Minister Stephen Cathcart, Lambton West; Public Works Minister Ray Connell, Hamilton, Wentworth; Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond, Ontario; Lands and Forests Minister Wilfrid Spooner, Cochrane South; Provincial Secretary Irvine Yamemko, Toronto Bellwoods, and Transport Minister H. Leslie Rowntree, York West.

The post of Other commissioner of the Liquor Control Board was given to Allan Grossi, man, member for Toronto Andrew who remains a ministerwithout portfolio.

The formal change of administration came in a series of moves in Queen's Park.

Premier Frost convoked his cabinet last Monday, then joined Mr. Robarts and the cabinet in a crowded side chamber of the legislative buildings to hand his resignation to the Lieutenant-governor and recommend that Mr. Robarts be appointed premier.

With both Mr. Frost and Mrs. Robarts looking in—along with other ministers' families, deputy ministers and party officials—the new premier and his cabinet swore allegiance to the Queen, took an oath of secrecy about cabinet discussions and pledged conscientiously to serve Ports.

Mr. Frost's future is the subject of wide speculation. For the present, he plans to go through his official papers. He is expected to be representing Ontario riding when the new legislature opens.

Mr. Frost, speaking slowly and softly, offered the lieutenant-governor the resignation "of myself as premier of Ontario, which carries with it the resignations of those who have served with me."

"I want to thank those in the cabinet who served faithfully and well in days of very great change and very great development in our province," Mr. Frost said. Smiling slightly, he added:

"I can't say it is a pleasure to hand in my resignation."

Mr. Robarts pledged that it would be the "unswerving aim" of his government to serve the people of Ontario. "It is with a very deep feeling of personal humility that I accept these responsibilities and trusts."

Before resigning, Mr. Frost expressed his "deep appreciation" of his cabinet colleagues and gave each an engraved set of gold cuff-links. He cited Mr. Daley particularly because they had been sworn in on the same day in 1943.

In a statement to the press the new premier said he had placed Mr. Wardrope in the department of mines because of the "awareness of this administration of the conservation and importance of the great north country."

Mr. Robarts said the government will continue to make use of the able services of both Mr. Nickle and Mr. Daley, who are stepping down to ministers without portfolio.

Mr. Daley is to remain as chairman of the Niagara Bridge Commission, and stay as a member of the Ontario Parks Integration Board.

Annual Remembrance Day Parade Held by Legion to Catholic Church

DESERONTO — The annual church parade of the Canadian Legion held each year on the Sunday preceding Remembrance Day, this year proceeded to St. Vincent de Paul Church where Mass was celebrated by Father Lynch.

The unit, under the command of A. E. Hill, presented a smart appearance as they paraded from the Legion hall up St. George Street to Dundas. It was a beautiful morning with the sun shining and leaves falling in their many hues furnished a superb background for the group of Legionnaires and ladies in their bakery and berets. The brilliance of the colors in the van of the units furnished the proper touch of color to make the scene impressive as the parade moved along.

On arrival at the church, the ladies and gentlemen of the two units were ushered to the front pews and Father Pelow placed the colors at the right and left of the altar.

During his sermon, Father Pelow paid tribute to those who paid the supreme sacrifice. He said, "we should also remember the living. Many sad days where lives and returned, maimed or suffering from conflicts. Those men had offered their lives for one purpose — for freedom — and it is necessary for all to pray to protect that freedom.

He said that "mortality must feared God — then man feared other men, but today we fear the most infinite particle of the universe — the atom." He stressed the fact that strife was between those who did not believe in God and Christianity — not any one religion but all religious who believed in God.

VISITED HIROSHIMA

Father Pelow told the congregation that he had visited Hiroshima and that he wished the leaders of the world could understand in the centre of that devastated area and consider the consequences of another atomic bomb.

In closing his remarks, he urged all to pray for peace—particularly those of the younger generation who only know of war through what they have heard or read.

During the Communion, the choir sang "Veni Jesu."

At the close of the service Father Pelow returned the standards to the units who paraded to the Legion hall for dismissal.

KENNEDY

Turning to other issues, Kennedy said he and Prime Minister Nehru of India "are going to disagree" on our approach to many of the world's problems but he hoped it was possible to disagree without embarrassing each other with bad faith."

He rejected any suggestion that Nehru may be working consciously or unconsciously for the Communist movement. The president said he had a high regard for the prime minister and this regard "became higher during our conversations."

THINGS ATHWART

On other subjects, Kennedy had this to say:

Press conferences—asked why he doesn't meet the press more often, Kennedy said the public interest justified his present schedule because most obvious topics of interest to the public are discussed on television.

The Pharmacist stated that 90 per cent of the drugs used today were unknown prior to 1933 at which time the sulfas were produced.

SULFRA DRUGS INTRODUCED

During 1930's the sulfa drugs were introduced, the antibiotic drugs during the 1940's and the tranquilizers in 1950's.

He also gave an interesting resume on the various drugs used today including (1) antibiotics and sulfonamides; (2) hormones, (3) tranquilizers, mentioning their various generic and commercial names, their general usages and side effects.

The speakers were thanked by Mrs. Doris Howie.

There will be 4 education lectures are sponsored by the Community Nursing Registry, every Wednesday during November. Next week the speaker will be Dr. Russell Bateman, Anaesthetist.

Any nurse interested is urged to attend.

Tension Mounts

ELISABETHVILLE (AP) Mounting tension between the UN and Katanga authorities was reported in the Lake Tanganyika port of Albertville today by Belgians arriving from the area.

The Belgians said UN officials were refusing to allow the Katangan army to move about and were preventing civil authorities from carrying out their functions.

President Moise Tshombe made the same charge at a press conference.

Tshombe said the UN idea obviously was to allow a convoy of Congolese a n d U n i t e d n a t i o n s troops, reported heading south towards Albertville from Bukavu in Kivu province, to take the town without opposition.

Physiotherapist, Pharmacist Given 2nd Lecture on Nursing Education

The second of five lectures in the fall series of Nursing Education was held at the Belleville General Hospital Education Hall, last evening. The topic, "The Nurse's Role as Physiotherapy of the Patient" was clearly presented by Mrs. Catherine Brown, Physiotherapist. Mr. Leo Curtin, the Pharmacist at B.G.H., spoke on "Modern Drugs".

Miss Margaret Hicks, president of the Belleville Community Nursing Registry, welcomed all those present. The speakers were introduced by Mrs. Ellen Burr.

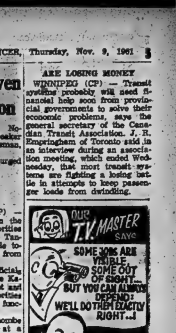
The audience listened with interest as Mrs. Brown enlarged upon the two branches of physiotherapy (1) rehabilitation, (2) habilitation. The physiotherapist stated that rehabilitation is the teaching and assistance given to a physically or mentally handicapped person to help him become as independent as possible, and acceptable to society. Such things as contractures, stretching, tractions, water and electricity are used in this therapy. "Habilitation" refers to teaching normal child-development to the crippled child, such as those with cerebral palsy, mental retardation or polio. This is often done through individual therapy, games and parties.

She explained how the doctor, nurse, and physiotherapist must work together as a team for the benefit of the patient. On the ward, the nurse could re-assure as well as encourage the disabled person to do his best possible.

Mrs. Brown also demonstrated crutch walking, showing the the differences between the four, 3-point and 4-point gait, depending on injury.

NOT MIRACLE DRUGS

Mr. Leo Curtin explained that the modern drugs could not be called "Miracle Drugs" to professional people, who realize the years of research, toil and disappointment involved before a useful drug is produced. Out of every 2,000 compounds investigated, approximately one becomes useful and safe drugs. Each year there are about 400 new preparations including combinations and single compounds, produced for market. Of these drugs, however, bring about numerous reactions with various diseases and conditions.



He also gave an interesting resume on the various drugs used today including (1) antibiotics and sulfonamides; (2) hormones, (3) tranquilizers, mentioning their various generic and commercial names, their general usages and side effects.

The speakers were thanked by Mrs. Doris Howie.

There will be 4 education lectures are sponsored by the Community Nursing Registry,

WINNIPEG (CP) — Transit systems probably will need financial help soon from provincial governments to solve their economic problems, says the general secretary of the Canadian Transit Association. J. R. Empringham of Toronto said in an interview during an association meeting, which ended Wednesday, that most transit systems are fighting a losing battle in attempts to keep passenger loads from dwindling.

Maude T.'s Orange Juice Cake

By Mary Moore

Tested and Approved

One of our readers, Maude T., wrote saying she had a good recipe for an Orange Juice cake and would send it if I would like it. I replied saying I would. Last night I made it for a birthday cake for my sister and it is lovely. Even the raw batter is good as Dinner can attest for he licked the beaters. Afterwards I washed his face from ear to ear.

There are two methods of making this cake: 1) the streamlined one-bowl way (Maude's); and 2) the orthodox way of creaming shortening with sugar and eggs and stirring in flour mixture alternately with wet ingredients, (mine). Try it both ways.

tabl. spoon grated orange rind, 1½ cups sugar, 3 eggs, ½ teaspoon almond extract, 2 1-3 cups sifted cake flour, 2½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder, ½ teaspoon soda, ½ cup milk (use ¾ cup if all shortening used), ¼ cup orange juice.

Maude's Method (fast): Stir shortening with rind to soften. Sift 1½ dry ingredients including sugar. Combine milk, orange juice and extract. Add ¾ cup of liquid mixture and beat 2 minutes at low speed. Add eggs and remaining liquid and beat 1 minute. Bake 25 to 30 minutes in two 9" layers at 375 deg. Fahr.

Mary's Method: Cream the shortening or butter, orange rind and sugar with electric beater (or by hand) until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs one at a time, until mixture is very light indeed. Add almond extract. Sift together the sifted flour, baking powder and soda. Add alternately, 1-3 at a time, with the milk and orange juice. Pour into 2 buttered 9" layer cake tins (first bottoms with round of buttered waxed paper) and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. Turn out and cool on cake racks.

When cool frost with Orange Icing: (I grated some extra orange rind for this when grating it for the cake.) Cream butter or ab butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 3 cups sifted icing sugar, 1 egg yolk (optional), 3 tablespoons orange juice or a little more if yolk is not used). Cream butter or margarine, beat in sugar and remaining ingredients until smooth. Spread between and on top and sides of cooled cakes.

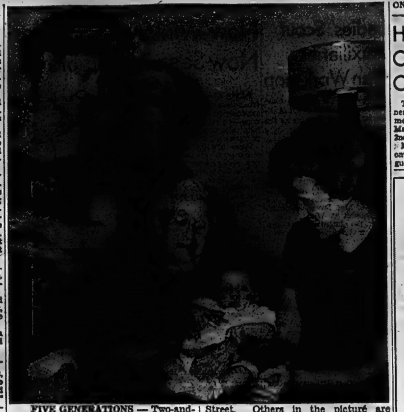
UNITED CHURCH, R. A.

WELLINGTON — The November meeting of the United Church Evening Auxiliary was held in the Centennial Parlor on Tuesday evening. The president, Mrs. Dick, was in the chair.

The meeting was opened with the devotional led by Mrs. Henry Dick. Her theme was "Remembrance Day."

This December meeting will be a joint meeting with all the church organizations. It will be held on the evening of the second Tuesday in December.



Roll call was answered by number of calls made. Reports were given. Mrs. Parks gave the treasurer's report; Mrs. Arnold Foster, correspondent; Mrs. Elliott, Christian Stewardship; Mrs. Cleeve on citizenship and temperance.

Mrs. Elliott also gave a report on the WMS sectional held at Cherry Valley in October.

The program followed. Mrs. Bob McCullough sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Jack McNeill.

Mrs. Campbell introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Fawcett, who spoke on "Religion in the School."

After the meeting closed a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

Hear Talk On B and P Club Benefits

TWEED — The Tweed Business and Professional Club met at the home of Mrs. Mabel Emerson on November 2nd.

Miss Alberta Fullerton of Toronto had been slated to be the guest speaker but, due to family illness, was unable to attend. Mrs. Dorothy Brown, of Belleville, regional adviser for District 11, was the guest speaker in her place, and explained the excellent way the club works to make this a better place to live, to the members.

This meeting was the climax of the membership drive which was started as the Club's effort in Business Women's Week from October 15th to 21st.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

mentioned by Mrs. Maddocks, who attended with the two teachers, Mrs. C. Lynch and Mrs. C. Gibson. A "Zoara" has been set up by the Education Committee for the admission and dismissal of pupils.

The Adult Retarded Group is bowling again at the Bowl-O-Drome.

A party for the adults is being held this Saturday afternoon at the school.

Mrs. L. Johnston of the Home and Community Committee, had been out visiting parents of pre-school children to bring them together for fellowship and to discuss any problems.

Mrs. Chamberg, president of the Peterborough Association for Retarded Children, spoke about the sheltered workshop program being carried on in that city.

WORKSHOP OBTAINED

The Peterborough Association realized that the years of schooling would be wasted unless there was some workshop training for the school graduates. After many years of waiting and saving an old bus barn was bought and renovated for the workshop.

Approximately $1,000 a year is needed for the program which is not self-supporting yet. The trainee is not paid, but it is hoped that small wages may be given soon.

Workshop trainees are graduates from the retarded children's school and from auxiliary classes in public schools. A supervisor trains and teaches the work and handicrafts, checks for correctness of work, ships out the orders, and keeps the books.

ADVANCED CRAFTS

Advanced crafts of weaving, leather work and jewelry mounting are made to sell, as well as contract work for industries and business, such as monthly bulletins, collating advertisement and putting it in envelopes. All business projects are guaranteed perfectly done at a reasonable price.

The Belleville Association was particularly interested in hearing about the workshop because such a program is needed in this city for retarded adults who want to work at simple tasks, receive wages and have the companionship of fellow workers.

The next public meeting of the Belleville Association for Retarded Children is Tuesday evening, December 5, at the School for Retarded Children, 281 John St.

Retarded Children's Assoc. Hears Report of Workshop

Mr. Alvin Parkhurst, president of the Belleville Association for Retarded Children, presided over the public meeting held Tuesday evening at the School for Retarded Children.

Letters and telegrams from the Canadian Association, and the Ontario Association for M.C., expressing sympathy of the loss of Mrs. Dorothy Halloran, corresponding secretary of the Belleville association, were read.

A Cub Pack for seven boys of the association has been formed with Mrs. Molly Box as Cub leader, and Mrs. E. Frid and Mrs. A. Parkhurst as assistants.

Mrs. D. Maddocks, education chairman, reported that the Inspector of Schools for Retarded Children, Mrs. Potter, had visited the school and talked with the teachers. The trip to Ottawa and some details of the Education Conference held last month were

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Otis N. — If she doesn't quit her job, I'll divorce her.

Karen N. — The office is the only place I feel like somebody.

Otis N. — Things have reached a point where my wife is in love with her job instead of me. She has a home and young children to take care of. If she didn't want this kind of life, why did she get married? Now let her do her duty, whether she wants to or not.

I have to stick to my job, no matter how I feel. Why is a wife the only one in a marriage who can do as she darn pleases? Sure, I'd like to run off and be a sea captain or an astronaut. But I'm supposed to keep my nose to the grindstone and bring home the rent money, and I do.

We've been married 11 years. Four years ago I made the terrible mistake of asking her to return to work to help with the 'ills.' Unfortunately the job made her feel like a carefree kid again. Home, husband and children are all labeled "drudgery" in her mind, now.

Karen N. — This isn't what I wanted when I married Otis. I wanted a loving husband, a friend. Instead I found myself bound to a demanding, complaining, unsympathetic jailer.

When he asked me to help out with the finances, I was delighted. Perhaps now I could please him. Nothing else I did managed to. If the baby's white shoes were smudged, I was a "sloppy" mother. If I forgot to turn off a lamp, I was "extravagant." And if my checkbook didn't balance, I was a "dumbbell." So we enlisted my mother, his aunt, his sisters and a part-time maid to keep things running at home, and I got my old job back.

Besides the $60 a week, I get balm for my emotional wounds. Except for the kids, coming home is agony. We have fights because "I won't quit, at why let Otis make me feel like a zero again?

The Council: Any mathematician can tell you, Karen, that it takes a minus-1 and a plus-1 to make a zero. But any marriage counselor can tell you that it takes a plus-1 and a plus-1 to make a marriage. You and Otis can toss as to who inserted the minus-1 in yours. But if he made you feel like a zero, you made him feel like a echnoo.

We agree with Otis that a husband, as well as a wife, ought to find sympathy within marriage for his inner, secret yearnings and ambitions. Come to think of it, we hear a great deal about bored, frustrated wives, and very little about the plodding husbands who carry their "dreams of glory" quietly, often hopelessly. It was Mr. Milty who settled for the "secret life," not Mrs. Milty!

So the big chance for rescue in this marriage depends on each — Karen as well as Otis — standing off from his own self-pity and peevishness about it and seeing marriage afresh as man's greatest chance on earth to make another human being happy. What changes would occur in the N. home if suddenly, say tomorrow, husband and wife said this to each other three times, and meant it?:

"My goal henceforth is to help you blossom, expand, unfold. I appreciate the fact that you are bound and limited, to some extent, by duties which confine you. But I shall always strive to help you soar, too."

One wondrous result of this approach is that, in dedicating oneself to the other's self-realization, one is automatically promoting one's own.

The details may then slip into place. We advise Karen to leave the job and stay at home with her young children. When they are school-age, she can and o/rack his brain to provide those little luxuries that Karen found outside the home — polish-es, gratitude, recognition.

LASTING EFFECTS

An adult's bunion trouble is often the result of having worn ill-fitting shoes in childhood.

Ladies' Scout Auxiliaries Plan Workshop

The Belleville district committee for Ladies' Scout Auxiliaries formerly known as the Belleville and District Boy Scouts' Auxiliary Executive Board, held its first executive meeting with the newly elected officers, and the president, Mrs. P. C. Gelsthorpe presiding. The meeting took place on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Dave McDonald, 233 Dundas St. West.

At the instruction of the Provincial Advisory Committee, the newly named, "The Belleville District Committee for Ladies' Scout Auxiliaries" was approved and accepted.

Reports were given by Mrs. D. McDonald, secretary; Mrs. J. Johnston, supply secretary; Mrs. W. Noakes, contact chairman, and Mrs. J. Nelles, treasurer.

A list of names of each auxiliary executive members will be mailed shortly to all auxiliaries to be used for contact purposes such as exchanging of uniforms, inviting auxiliaries to social events or money-making projects; thus creating good public relations.

The ladies who assisted Mrs. P. Gelsthorpe with the arranging of the lovely flowered decorated table, and the serving of refreshments at the annual meeting of the Boy Scouts of Canada, Belleville Council, held at the Kiwanis Centre on October 30th were: Mrs. J. Johnston, Mrs. J. Nelles, Mrs. A. Taylor, Mrs. G. Reeves, Mrs. L. Reynolds, and Mrs. D. McDonald and Mrs F. Pelling who also took charge of the registration at the door.

On January 23th, a "Work-shop Meeting" for all auxiliary members will be held at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Church. The district committee officers will lecture and lead in round-table discussions explaining duties of officers and the various chairmanships. The members will then re-assemble for a question and answer period.

Mrs. L. Reynolds volunteered to be uniform exchange chairman for the district committee. Any auxiliary wishing to exchange uniforms may contact Mrs. Reynolds at WO 2-2337 or write to 70 Donald St., Belleville.

New Winter Accessories Now Seen in Paris Stores

By PEGGY MASSEN

PARIS (Reuters)—Paris fashion accessories have something curiously in common with medicine—for right they can be wonderfully effective when properly administered.

There are plenty of fashion advantages in the choice of new winter accessories. Throughout the Paris department stores and boutiques.

Revolutionary styles in boots and handbags are especially in the limelight.

Toward the end of last winter, when Christian Dorat took to wearing boots with her classic casual fashions, an exciting new trend was born. The custom boots for wear from morning until midnight evolve as the strongest new influence in footwear.

RUSSIAN INSPIRED

There are boots for street wear ranging from knee - high Russian-inspired affairs to snug-fitting half - calf shoes which curve gracefully up around the ankle bone in a manner reminiscent of grandmother's day.

One of the most ardent advocates of boots is Marc Bohan of Christian Dior. He adapts them in versions of high button shoes with walking heel and spat effects. The spats are usually made in a contrasting media.

One pair has dark green leather top tips and heels, contrasted by leopard fur spats. Various other models are made of fabric matched to the suit tune.

Handbags launch a variety of new ideas in both media and shape. Dominant trends everywhere are toward quality and fine workmanship. French stylists agree that the monetary content of a woman's handbag is small, for it is the more imperative for the styling and quality of that one important handbag to be superb.

In their turn, Frenchwomen, who are notoriously clever about dressing well on little money, adhere more than ever to the rule that a big quantity can never replace quality.

BOLD EFFECTS

Feraet, a Left Bank craftsman who numbers Princess Sanyra and Princess Maria Pia of Italy among his clients, plays up frames and handles in bold dramatic effect on his handbags.

The all-fur handbag is another bit of the Paris season. R. conn...stories is an excellent way of using old skins.

Jacques Griffe shows a giant ...ffle bag made entirely of blue fox. It is shirred on a silk cord drawstring, and easily carries the contents of an overnight suitcase.

Guy Laroche shows no less than 10 different variations of the practical tote bag in his new boutique. They are made of south Sahaiand fine suede as pony skin, leopard, otterncer baby lamb, and slung onto double handles of lacquered bamboo, bone, or metal.

STUFFING TIP

A standard 1½ pound loaf of baker's bread, four days old, will yield about eight cups of fine crumbs for stuffing.

Mother's Helper

CHILDREN'S hospitals were on play to a delight to watch. Try handing them bones at a table with a bunch of assorted dough ingredients, with the suggestion that they make designs. Pizzas, animals, interesting patterns will emerge from paper clips, gummed notebook reinforcements, colored plastic and cellophane tape, scraps of paper, rubber bands, pipe cleaners.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr Stuart E. Rosebush

Have you ever engaged in conversation with people who are so full of arrogance that no one may contradict their erroneous statements?

Every group has at least one Mr. Know-It-All whose self-glory fills the universe, starting even the sun out of his soul. But love is blind, they say; these chaps are most ardent courters of their own pride and passion, they cannot see what is plain to all others.

Here's a story — literally, new to and all stories — of one man who was so sure he knew when he didn't.

He worked as a railway employee and one day, he accidentally locked himself in a moving, refrigerated car. Unable to escape, he could not attract the attention of anyone on the outside. After a long and anxious attempt to get help, he sat down in the car, resigning himself to his fate. Slowly, he felt his body becoming numb, and as he did, he recorded the story of his approaching death in cryptic sentences which he scribbled on the car's walls. "I'm getting colder", he wrote. "Still colder, now. Nothing to do but to wait . . . I am slowly freezing to death. Half asleep now, I can hardly write . . ." And finally, "These may be my last words". And they were!!

When, at last, the car was opened, he was found dead. And yet, the temperature of the car was only 54 degrees; the freezing unit had been out of order. There was no physical reason for his death; he hadn't suffocated, because there was plenty of air in the car. Pity the poor chap; he jumped to the wrong conclusion, based on his own illusion. He was wrong in the end, although all along he was so sure he knew!

The same terrible fate may now await all others who are so sure that they now! But they are likely to destroy their lives and the lives of others in even stranger ways. Here's a group of them; many of whom you have surely met:

The "don't tell - me - anything; I know - it - all" father. He listens to no child of his — after all, he's Lord High Commissioner of the Home. Advice is not given; it is barked out in the form of military orders. When his children grow older, they grow away from him; he just can't understand why they seem to shun him. "Didn't I give them the very best that I had?" he wonders. Yes, he gave them the best — but the best he had wasn't good enough. He was too sure that he knew it all — and he knew precious little, after all.

The "can't - get - a - word-in-edgewise" wife. She's all words and opinions. Her assessment, once made, is the last word — nothing can avail against it. She refuses to be over-ruled! And what's more: if you're smart, you won't try; for backlies on like a bubbling brook, never permits contrary viewpoints a ghost of a chance. Her word is judical even if it is not; judicious — law, if not just. Just try over-ruling her, and you've arrived at your Waterloo. She, of course, in any objective analysis of home-life, is always defensive, misunderstood; clearly, she should always have her way, she says, because she means so well, has everybody's interest at heart. She knew it all along, she maintains — but she knows mighty little, after all.

The "picked-on, maligned, scape-goat" child. Everybody pounces on him, he claims; nobody gives him a chance. If only he could tell them a thing or two, he would prove to everyone how little they know. He, and only he, is well nigh omniscient. Experience, maturity, understanding and insight aren't everything, he claims. Grown-ups believe that they can lead children, just because they imagine that history is a good teacher. Well, says he, I don't need history! I can go it alone! I need little more than myself to make my way through life. I am sure that no one knows that I know. Parents are a bore, teachers parasites and traditions a curse and blight. Give me my way or its very, says he! He's too, knows a little but not much. The pity, he is so sure that he is right!

Maturity comes hard to some people. It can never come to the time, and who can't understand those who claim to be right all along why the rest of the world doesn't follow its lead and bow before its wishes.

The highest form of wisdom is reflected in the man who is honestly able to say: "I don't know, I would like to listen. I want to learn how to undo my mistakes!"

CWL Holds Regional Meet

TWEED—Approximately 175 members of the Catholic Women's League assembled at St. Carthagh's School Tweed on Sunday November 5th, for the annual regional meeting for this district.

Delegates were in attendance from Marmora, Madoc, Flinton, Stoco Stirling, Frankville, Read, Belleville, Point Anne, Trenton and Tweed. Parish Councils as well as the members of the Kingston diocesan executive.

The Very Rev. C. E. Baker of Actonvale, Archbishop of St. Carthagh's Church at 2 p.m., followed by the meeting in St. Carthagh's school. Mrs. Anthony Quinn welcomed the delegates expressing the pleasure of the local council in having the meeting here.

The presidents of the visiting councils presented their reports, highlighting League work in each parish. Through this means many interesting ideas concerning every aspect of League activity both spiritual and material were exchanged.

Mrs. R. A. McManee of Kingston, the diocesan president, congratulated the parishes on the splendid work being done and the presidents on the excellent reports given. She stressed the matter of obscene literature, noting that two million such pamphlets were sold monthly in Canada to the age group from 16 to 25 years. She placed great faith in the home and urged careful supervision of all reading material that comes into the home.

Mrs. Thomas Keilly, Thomasburg, 3rd vice-president of the diocesan executive in her remarks said one's life was richer by association with the League. Members should be proud, she said, to belong to an Organization numbering 5000 in Kingston Diocese alone and 16 million throughout the world.

Mrs. H. B. Brown of Belleville urged members to be public minded, to seek public offices and representation on civic boards such as red cross, senior citizens and social welfare projects. The League provided a wonderful training ground, she said, and she urged members to be a credit to the League.

Mrs. J. A. Cordich of Smith Falls suggested supervised recreational program for children in the summer. She stressed the need for better homes and adopted homes for wards of the Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. J. F. Lemieux of Kingston gave some interesting points on publicity press reports more interesting.

Mrs. Gerald Hain of Brockville said that every member should be a subscriber to the Canadian League magazine. "Buy it, read it, discuss it," she said.

Mrs. A. Fitzgerald of Brockville stressed the importance of the Parish Council, without it she said, there could be no National Council.

Other diocesan conveners, speaking on their various directives were Mrs. Hayden Dawson, Ivy Lea; Mrs. Arnold Mangon, Brewer's Mills; Mrs. James Cooke, Elzie; Mrs. J. B. Fisher, Kingston and Mrs. J. Darlington of Belleville.

The diocesan director, the Rev. Dr. Pickett of Kingston expressed his pride in the Diocesan Council in the devotion to duty of all its members.

Very Rev. Dean Baker paid tribute to the local Council for its wonderful work and said that Tweed was singularly honored to have the meeting here.

Father Briceland of Stoco and Father O'Neill of Stirling brought greetings from their respective parishes.

Mrs. W. G. Pearson of Kingston expressed the thanks of the diocesan executive to the hostess council following which the meeting closed with prayer by the director.

A social hour was enjoyed during which time the Girl Guides of St. Carthagh's assisted in the serving of a delicious lunch.

Slender Silhouette

By TRACY ADRIAN

Cut with the simplicity of a chasuble, this slender sheath features a s[illegible]r-to-hem front panel set off with big black buttons and a casually-slung back belt.

The dress is just a suggestion of sleeves and a bateau neckline. It is of straw color in a tweedy-textured blend of fabrics.

TYPICAL SHOPPER

MONTREAL (CP)—The average family shopper was described by an advertising executive here as "a well-to-do, cultured housewife" in a family of four, with total income of $100 a week. She visits the store three times a week, 27 minutes per trip, and spends an average of $7.74 each time, with items bought on impulse accounting for half the total."

ADVICE TO ADVISERS

There's an art to giving — Miss S.C., New Haven, Conn, advice as well as taking it.

I know more people who abby on strained foods, so you spend more time on other can get a few jars each of people's problems than they fruits, vegetables and meats be- do on their own. And they don't fore your guests arrive. It have to write a column, either, would also be a good idea to Seriously, though, there is a way a box of mixed cereal, as knack in advising others about well. As the jars are used up, how to handle their problems, you can add others to your First and foremost, give advice guise shopping list without sayonly to those who ask for it. Ge- tracting attention.

ting involved in a friend's troubles is strictly a matter of choice, and you shouldn't do the choosing.

IRONING NYLON

Nylon fabric may be ironed by damp or dry, with a moderate iron. Many friendships are lost this way.

By all means, don't profess your advice by telling a friend what she did wrong in the first place. Chances are that she knows where she ran off the track, and doesn't want anyone to rub it in.

Never advise a husband about how to handle his wife, or vice versa. You'll only end up as an "interfering busy-body" once they decide to kiss and make up.

When you do tackle a friend's problem, remember that your personalities may be completely different and that your solution may not be what the doctor would order. So beware.

Remember, too, that your advice may be taken seriously. So be sure that what you say makes sense.

Finally, if you have any doubt about what to advise, then take my advice and don't!

Question: A friend is coming to visit soon and will bring her nine-month-old baby with her. They will stay a week. I'm going to have extra milk delivered, and would like to lay in a supply of baby food, but I don't know what to get. If I asked her, I'm afraid she'd insist on paying for it, which I would. a't want her to do. How can I handle the situation tactfully?

Cannifton-Corbyville WMS Topic Is Korean Church

The Cannifton - Corbyville WMS held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. W. Binns, Belleville. There was a good attendance of members, two visitors also being present. Mrs. C. Bird, vice-president, officiated in the absence of Mrs. H. Putman.

The business session was dealt with, various reports being read and the meeting proceeded on to the worship service, which was conducted by Mrs. A. Holgate. Theme, "The Church and this Day." The Scriptural reading by Mrs. C. Dawson was Romans 8: 14-39 while the solo by Mrs. T. Howard, was the hymn, "Turn your eyes upon Jesus". She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Farnham, organist for Cannifton United Church.

KOREA

Mrs. H. Brenton had charge of the Missionary book and chose Mrs. Elda Ariel's Structures for her talks, highlights of which were as follows: The first difficulty in Korea is that of overpopulation, and crowding everywhere. Unemployment is the greatest curse; in Seoul alone there are over 50,000 cases. The Korea Church World Service has a pilot control program based on clinics connected with Mission or other hospitals and a home visitation program. The young Protestant Christian Church has to grow in a community which is 93 per cent non-Christian.

People still take the old herb medicines and even in well-educated families, the mixing or fortune teller is still consulted as to the best date for a wedding and these fortune-tellers earn much more than the highest paid minister. However, like any thing in the tree, there is the inspiration that comes from working with God, and youth decisions are being made for Christ and new Christians are being born in the evangelistic meetings.

Of course, there are times of frustration and discouragement, but looking at the picture as a whole, one thanks God for the steady growth and hearts are warmed by the symbol of the tree. If it is of God's planting, "by the rivers of waters". it will yield its fruit in due season.

Mrs. Bird, Senior, read a most interesting story from the study book, "Hasten the Day", to an appreciative audience following which Mrs. Clarence Bird gave excerpts from the current study book "Signals for the Sixties".

FAMILY LIFE

Her talk was based on family life "Collapse or Recovery". She said in part: "Is the family a dying institution? Welfare workers and writers claim that family life is on the downgrade. Today's frustrations, tension, and pressures and lack of personal fulfillment are often carried into home life. Today's home life with all the material distractions, emphasis on entertainment, fast-pacing rush from home to work, from work to play, leaves too little time for meditation and spiritual influence.

The Bible is no longer in evidence in every Christian home and religious instruction is left to the schools or the Sunday schools. It is time that the home faced up to its responsibility as the centre of Christian teaching, character building and preparation for life.

CHURCH'S CHALLENGE

The challenge that faces the church is to study, research and find means of helping the family and its members to know and achieve those basic values of family living which all too often are neglected.

Following the study period, the meeting closed and a social half hour followed with a delicious lunch being served by the lunch committee.

Mrs. Bird tendered a vote of thanks to the hostess, Mrs. Williams for her kind hospitality. Mrs. Williams replied with an invitation for the ladies to visit her next year.

Mrs. Farnham was pianist for the service.

40 Attend 'Going Away' Presentation

TWEED — Over 40 friends and neighbors of the Lodge-room and Farnsworth communities, three miles west of Tweed, met at the home of Mrs. George Gordon and Elizabeth, on the evening of November 3rd to spend one more evening with them prior to their departure to take up residence in Tweed.

Mr. Gordon passed away suddenly a short time ago and the farm has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Palmateer, who will be taking possession in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon spent all their married life at the homestead, where Mr. Gordon was a most successful farmer.

Gifts were presented on behalf of the community friends by Mr. and Mrs. Ross Palmateer and by Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Montgomery.

Residents Mark 56th Wedding Anniversary

WELLINGTON — Congratulations are extended to one of Wellington's esteemed couples Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Murphy, who celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary, on October 25th.

Mrs. Frank Greeley, a daughter, entertained a few at a turkey dinner on Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Murphy were completely surprised when invited next door to dinner. They were presented with beautiful flowers, gifts, money and cards from their family and friends. The turkey dinner featured a delicious anniversary cake, suitably inscribed, from their daughter Kathryn.

The guests included: she honored couple, Mrs. Smith (their daughter) Miss Judith Smith of Cobourg; Miss Babs Scott; Mr. Neil Houlding, Toronto; Mrs. W. Callow, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Callow and Mrs. Helen Gamina.

The evening's entertainment concluded with all enjoying a game of cards.

Drapable Silk Crepe

By VERA WINSTON

Silk crepe, so drapable, so figure-flattering, is having quite a season, as well it should! Here it is seen in a casually important dress that has many uses.

The cowl-shaped, draped kerchief is removable, revealing a simple, shallow-scooped neckline. The belled sleeves are in one with the bodice, which blouses slightly.

A contrasting suede belt is in brown on the beige dress and in green on the black.

Mt. Pleasant Rawdon UC Observes 90th Anniversary

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant United Church on the Rawdon circuit observed the 90th anniversary of the erection in June of 1871, on Sunday December 5th. The weather was ideal and the church was filled to capacity, with an overflow of people in the basement.

Many former residents returned for the anniversary as well as visitors from several points.

The edifice was a bower of beauty with the two memorial floral pedestals and several baskets filled with a profusion of variegated chrysanthemums. On the altar was placed a container of white lilies in loving memory of the late Mrs. Ross Hoard, a gift from her husband and family.

Mrs. Mae Sherre officiated at the console of the organ and chose as the prelude "Wilson's Chapel in the Moonlight", for offertory "The Wayside Chapel", and postlude, "Awakening Chorus" by Gabriel.

The Rev. R. A. Milley, B.A., D.D., of Toronto, was in charge of the service. His special message was based on Mathew 5:13 "Ye are the salt of the earth" and his theme was "The Salty Thing". He gave a challenging message to the large audience, and stressed that every Christian and every church member should be missionary minded. No group of men were labeled, and every people should be all wrapped up in their own little centre of church activities or be the salt of life would lose its savor, and thus be good for nothing and ready to be cast out.

The congregational hymns were "O Worship the King", "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee" and "Jesus Calls Us". The full choir rendered "The Mercies of the Lord" by Holton and a trio, vocal ensemble sang, "How Great Thou Art".

The ushers were Messrs. Bert Sharp and Raymond McConnell and the choir director, Mrs. Carleton Potts.

The offering was gathered by Messrs Jim Lockwood, Kenneth Smith, Allan Wrightman and Fred McAdams.

The pastoral prayer paid tribute to the pioneers who built the church and kept alight the flame of regular church worship.

The Rev. W. G. Fletcher pastor of the church presided at the evening session and opened with "Stand Up and Bless the Lord". The guest speaker the Rev. R. A. Milley based his message on the theme, "What Other Alternative" in John 6: 68. Simon Peter answered Jesus and said "We believe and are sure that thou art Christ the Son of the living God". This in todays world those who believe, exemplify their faith through gifts to others.

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver officiated at the console of the organ and rendered as prelude, "The Lord is My Shepherd" and for offertory "Bless This House" and postlude, Now on Land and Sea".

The Misses Judy Cooney and Mary Ellen Davis contributed a duet "The Day Thou Gavest". The full choir rendered as anthem, "Father, Keep Us in Thy Care".

The offering was gathered by Messrs. Bert Sharp, Howard Jeffs, Kelvin Sharp and Kenneth Smith.

Several visitors were in attendance from other church congregations.

Thus closed the 90th anniversary on the theme, "Apart From Thee All Gain is Loss, All Labor Vainly Done".

GAS EXPLODES

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Leaking hydrogen gas exploded Tuesday, destroying a shed housing a nuclear reactor. Five persons were injured, none seriously. The accident forced postponement of a full-power test of the reactor, which used to develop a nuclear-powered rocket. There was no release of radiation.

WILL LET IT BLOW

CHICAGO (AP) — An experimental nuclear reactor will be allowed to run wild until it partly destroys itself so that scientists can study the results in the interest of safety, an Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said Tuesday. The test should answer this question: "What is the worst thing that could happen if a nuclear reactor providing electricity for a nearby city blew itself up?"

RAPISTS GET LIFE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Three Negro teen-agers have been convicted of raping a 16-year-old white girl and the jury has set punishment at life in prison. The jury, which included two Negro men, deliberated 3½ hours Tuesday before returning a guilty verdict against Ralph Williams, 17; Troy Alexander, 16; and Marvin Arce Hammond, 16. The state had asked the death penalty.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Marriage Saved

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—This message is for the many young couples who are having marriage difficulties, just as we had a year ago: Go see a marriage counsellor.

You probably think it would be embarrassing, costly, and of no help, as I did—but it's not, and it saved our marriage. There is no fee if you are low on finances.

So, even if you have to drag your partner there, as I did—do yourselves a favor and go. We couldn't be happier than we are today, thanks to our "friend." —A HAPPY WIFE.

DEAR HAPPY WIFE—Score for the social workers!

It may take ten years to make a happy marriage. Where two partners have stopped talking to each other about things that matter I mean, there's an impasse. They may never reach understanding.

A counsellor who has studied human nature and knows what makes people tick can open up communications. Can listen while the story spills out. Can release tension.

Can help each partner to see the other's point of view and to respect his own. Can then achieve seeming magic.

Thanks for your report—and congratulations on happy-ever-after-ing!

DEAR DORIS:—We are renting rooms to two old men, uncles of my husband. Until they got the pension, and when they were out of work, we did not charge anything. But now I have asked for $30. (They get $65.)

Since they have been paying this they come home for all their meals, and then go begging to others for clothes. I have heard they give money to charity.

Do you think I am wrong in wanting them to give me all their pension? I would get what they need and they spend it very unwisely themselves.—MARY.

DEAR MARY:—Charity begins at home. Government pensions were set up so that Canadians would not be in want. If you are supplying the food the uncles need and the rooms they live in, you are entitled to rent and board.

Not all their pension, but most of it, belongs to you. What are they saving it for? Their old age?

DEAR DORIS:—I am English, my husband Canadian. I have been six months in this country and, on the night of September 30th, I saw the Aurora Borealis.

I mentioned to my husband that I had also seen it at one time in England and also on one occasion in Ireland. My husband insists that the Aurora Borealis was never seen by anyone in England, or Ireland for that matter; that it is impossible to see it there.

Will you please settle the argument?—A. B.

DEAR DORIS:—During the summer I visited a friend who lives in an eastern city and met a man 40 who seemed younger than his years. He is Swedish, a widower with three children. I am 35, single, Latvian and a practical nurse.

We sent fourcorns one evening to a dance. Had a nice time, we got along fine. But just before I met him I had quit my job and was planning on going west to visit my family and work out there. His voice sounded anxious when he asked me whether I was coming back and suggested I get work in his home city. I told him I was undecided.

I like him a lot and it is bothering me. When he took me home from the dance I was very happy, then before he left I was annoyed with him. When I got to my room I cried. I wish I could have known him for a longer time.

Do you think I should go back for the winter anyway and find out for sure?—DEPRESSED.

DEAR DEPRESSED—Go by all means—with the idea of finding out. Once there was a girl whose fiance went to China on business. Letters became less ardent and scarcer. She thought: "If I could just get to China long enough to have lunch with him I'd know what to do next."

Her family pooled their funds and she got a return ticket. She did find out. But here's the surprise ending: she met a man on the ship on the way, and the attraction was mutual. In China the meeting was in the nature of a sign-off—and her Shipboard Romance accompanied her back—married to her!

There are two questions to settle, if you come to care for each other: Do you really want to take on a ready-made family of three? And is there any great cultural difference in your racial background?

Face both squarely. A strong love, between two mature people, can find the way.

(Talk it over with Doris. She can advise you or tell you about a Canadian resource which can help.

Govt.-Supported Medical, Dental Programs Asked

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Proposals for government-supported medical and dental insurance programs applicable to all the citizens of Prince Edward Island regardless of means were outlined Tuesday before the royal commission on health services.

They were advanced by the Medical Society of P.E.I. and the P.E.I. Dental Association in briefs at a public hearing.

The societies called for prepaid insurance programs for medicine and dentistry, with government footing the bill for those unable to pay the premiums.

The dental-care program would be administered by the profession. Medical care would be administered by voluntary carriers, commercial or otherwise, accountable to the profession and the government.

The medical society assisted in its brief by the provincial government, claimed the profession has the obligation to defend the patient's right to necessary medical services against "unwarranted interference" from government or other parties.

Questioned, Dr. J. A. Macmillan of Charlottetown said the general public is not competent to determine questions of medical standards. Only the medical professional was qualified.

"Is there any other class that is also infallible?" asked the commission chairman, Chief Justice Emmett Hall of Saskatchewan.

Dr. MacMillan was silent for a moment, then replied: "I did not say that we are infallible. But medical competence must be a matter for professional self-judgment."

Water to Be Fluoridated Next July

PICTON — Unless a vote is requested by ten percent of the ratepayers, Picton's water will be fluoridated July 31, 1962.

At its monthly meeting Monday night, town council passed a by-law to establish, operate and maintain a fluoridation system.

Chairman of the committee, Hobart Walmsley, branded as anarchy the idea that anything which hampers the freedom of the individual is not to the public good. While 1,602 youngsters in Picton would benefit immediately, he felt the whole community would benefit over the years. Only Councillor Andrew Jarvis questioned the wisdom of water fluoridation.

Almost Every Delegation From Asiatic Countries Routed Toward Uzbekistan

By EUGENE WYATT

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Uzbeks are a proud people. They rarely speak of their dusky capital without saying it "beautiful-Tashkent" as if it were one word.

There is still national pride for the great conqueror Tamarlane, whose tomb in nearby Samarkand has probably the greatest piece of posthumous arrogance ever recorded. Near his coffin is the one-sentence inscription: "If I were alive, you would tremble."

The Communists are proud of Tashkent, too. Almost every delegation from Asiatic countries manages to be routed to Uzbekistan, deep in central Asia. The reason is obvious: Scarcely more than a decade ago, here was a vast area of illiteracy, disease, superstition, practically no industry.

ILLITERACY ALMOST GONE

The Soviet accomplishment is undeniable. In Tashkent alone are 17 institutions of higher learning, including a university with 8,000 students. Before the revolution, there were none. The central public library has more than a million and a half volumes. Illiteracy is almost eliminated.

And Uzbekistan, where women once were in complete bondage to their husbands, now has a woman president.

Cotton production has increased many times. Once only a textile mill employs more than 8,000 workers.

All this does not mean that the American arriving in Tashkent is impressed. As elsewhere in the Soviet Union, the housing is miserably crowded. There is still a large criminal quarter in which filth and filse hold forth. Meat hanging in butcher shops still swarms with insects. Even the best hotel in town has shockingly standards of sanitation.

But the Soviet government never lets the visitor with these Americans or other Westerners in Tashkent is a show window for the new nations of Asia and Africa, where the living standards are about where Tashkent was 50 years ago.

VARIOUS VISITORS

Touring my two-day stay in Tashkent, I saw visitors from Cuba, Indonesia, India, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Iraq, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Ceylon and Burma.

One of the visitors, from India, had studied at Columbia University in New York. He was strongly pro - U.S. But Uzbekistan left him bubbling with excitement.

"Of course, it's no America," he told me. "No place else in the world is. But this is different. Their soil and climate is the same there. Their illiteracy rate used to be higher. And for the people and that sort of thing, but have you been to India lately? The Uzbeks are."

The Kremlin could hardly have hoped for a better reaction.

Defence Counsel Asks Court To Accept Word of Priest

ST. JOSEPH, Que. (CP)—The Crown witnesses one after another in the trial of Jean - Marie Bériault, celebrated Montreal lawyer and Union Nationale party organizer charged with fabricating evidence, is expected to end today with the summing up of the prosecution's case by Crown prosecutor Desjardins.

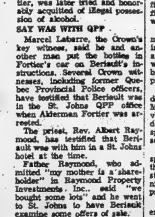
Defence lawyer Jean - Paul Ste. Marie summed up the case for the defence in a four - hour speech Wednesday, asking the 12-man jury to weigh the word of a Roman Catholic priest against that of the Crown's key witness, described as an unemployed laborer.

"The choice is yours," Mr. Ste. Marie told the jury. "It is to barre the perjurer or is the priest who told us Bériault was with him at the time?"

Bériault is accused of having two bottles of alcohol planted in the car of a St. John's Anglican man and political opponent last provincial election day, June 28, 1960.

The alderman, Edouard Fortier, was tried and found acquitted recently of illegal possession of alcohol.

SAY WAS WITH QPP



Marcel Labarre, the Crown's key witness, said he and another man took the bottles to Fortier's car on Bériault's instructions. Several Crown witnesses, including former Quebec Provincial Police officers, have testified that Bériault was in the St. Johns QPP office when Alderman Fortier was arrested.

The priest, Rev. Albert Raymond, has testified that Bériault was with him in a St. Johns hotel at the time.

Father Raymond, who admitted "my mother-in-law is a householder" in Raymond Property Investments, Inc., said "we bought some beer" and he went to St. Johns to have Bériault examine some offers of sale.

Says Canada Should Join Common Market

WATERLO O(CP) — National Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson said Wednesday night Canada should seek entry into the European Common Market instead of trying to dissuade Britain from joining the European trading arrangement.

He told a political meeting here that Canada must stop crying to "momma" about the possible damage to the Canadian economy if should Britain enter the Common Market.

"We should ourselves be trying to join the Common Market," he said. "We have to face up to the fact that more trade is the answer."

He warned that Canada is gripped in "economic paralysis" and the "wasting sickness of unemployment" which may play into the hands of communism.

"It's not bombs we stand in danger of," he said, "but the Communist economic offensive."

He called for greater productivity at home and development of the North. Canada's present rate of economic growth lagged far behind that of some European countries.

Mr. Thompson is currently member of Social Credit organizers in various Ontario communities.

He told about 50 persons attending a banquet sponsored by the Waterloo North Social Credit Association that it would be a catastrophe if the federal government assumed responsibility for all Canadian health policy.

"It's the responsibility of the provincial government along with the municipalities to provide the health services of the nation," he said.

Outlines Needs Of Universities For Financial Aid

OTTAWA (CP)—Much will be expected from the federal government as Canadian university and college representatives meet next week to assess the needs of the future and how to meet them.

This was made plain at a luncheon Wednesday at which Very Rev. Henri F. Legare, president of the National Conference of Canadian Universities and Colleges, and A. D. Ross, director of the Carnegie Corporation, set the stage for the conference opening on the theme Canadian Universities in a New Age.

Mr. Dunton, program committee chairman, outlined a need show strength.

for Canada's all-round higher education system, saying that of the present 11 universities are to meet their responsibilities by 1970 the capital expenditure of knowledge."

Mr. Dunton touched on the November, 1960, brief to the Bladen Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects, which urged a "substantial increase" in federal financial assistance.

Father Legare, rector of Ottawa University, briefly remarked pointedly that this brief has been overlooked by the federal government.

Another copy, he said, had been sent to Prime Minister Diefenbaker. Perhaps the first had been lost and the additional copy was a "delicate" reminder of the year-old requests.

UNIQUE HOBBY — Dave MacPhail of Peterborough, Ont. has perfected the art of transferring photographs onto china plates. He got the idea first in 1923 but it was recently that he developed a baking operation that can be done in the kitchen oven. (CP Photo).

Transferring Photographs To China Plates Now Hobby Of Peterborough Resident

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) A onetime seaman who used to spend his spare time hunting the art galleries of Europe has developed a method of transferring photographs to china plates.

Dave MacPhail says he began experimenting with the idea three years ago although his interest in chinaware set goes back more than a quarter of a century.

"One night while we were anchored there a Japanese ship came aboard and displayed a pencil drawing that greatly intrigued me. First he black-ened the surface of a white plate with candle smoke. Then with a pen and brushes, he would draw on the plate, removing the black smoke and allowing the white of the plate to

In the 1930s Mr. MacPhail set up shop in Montreal and tried his hand at candlesmoke drawings. He would make sketches of a ship, then go aboard and sell the plates to the crew.

"Three years ago I began experimenting in combining photographic and candlesmoke techniques. Recently I perfected it through a baking process performed as the last operation."

The portraits on dozen plates that Mr. MacPhail has so far finished appear to emerge from the china itself and are remarkably clear.

They are there for the life of the plate," he said, although one in a sinkful of hot water

Private, Public Schools in U.S. May Get Help

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Governor Nelson Rockefeller will submit to the New York state legislature today a $100,000,000 program under which the state would pay up to half the cost of fallout shelters constructed by private and public schools.

The Republican governor will ask a special session of the Republican-controlled legislature to provide for fallout protection "in the light of the present danger of nuclear attack."

The legislature is expected to approve the plan.

There are a total of 4,100,000 students and teachers in state elementary schools, high schools, colleges and universities, both public and private.

Public school districts or private schools would have to decide whether to construct the shelters and initiate construction.

The state then would reimburse them at the rate of $20 for each person for whom the shelter was intended, to a maximum of 50 per cent of the cost.

Air Force Jets Prevent Army Coup in Ecuador

By THOMAS J. STONE

QUITO (AP) — Carlos Julio Arosemena was sworn in Wednesday as the 36th president of Ecuador's 140 years of independence. He succeeds President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra, who cleared the way for the succession by declaring himself the vice-president elected with Velasco Ibarra in June, 1960. Congress already had proclaimed him president Tuesday night.

With major resistance broken, Arosemena went to work with the formation of a middle-of-the-road government. He had been brought to power by anti-government student riots that killed at least 21 persons and injured more than 100 in the last two days.

JET PROPELLED

Gallegos, a political centrist, was ousted by the military after the jets fired rockets and brief machine-gun bursts in swoops over the presidential palace as tank - supported soldiers held Gallegos and his staff prisoner at the legislative palace.

Though the barracks seemed to be the target, the shot was fired by two blasts from the jets' sonic boom. Troops' unit swarmed into the streets as the jets roared overhead in the surrounding mountains. Despite all the noise, no damage or casualties were reported.

Gallegos's resignation was received in the palace with cheers and applause. The troops and tanks withdrew. Arosemena took the oath of office accepted Arosemena as president in response to popular demand.

The army command had delegated the executive power to Gallegos Tuesday night, before Arosemena was released from house arrest in Velasco Ibarra had put him under earlier in the day. However the army leaders refused to recognize the congressional proclamation elevating the vice-president and claimed it had the backing of the national police force for Gallegos.

But Arosemena's supporters said the vice-president had won the backing of Ecuador's little navy and a mechanized army unit near Guayaquil, his home district, as well as the air force.

Use of Decoy Deer by Govt. Not Repeated

WINNIPEG (CP) — Mines and Resources Minister C. H. Stanfield announced Wednesday that the use of decoy deer to trap night hunters will not be repeated.

He said guns and cars confiscated from hunters who fired at a decoy deer during the weekend will be returned.

"I can well understand his exasperation and sympathize with his efforts to stamp out nightlighting," the minister said, "but as much as I would to see a nightlighter brought to court, it is my opinion that we must exercise proper precautions to do so."

The conservation officer borrowed the stuffed deer and set it up just off a road. Hunting groups from three widely-separated parts of Manitoba stopped their cars, fired at the decoy and were caught by the conservation officer.

Red-Carpet Welcome Being Prepared at Ottawa for Visit of Argentine President

By JACK BEST

OTTAWA (CP) — Argentina President Arturo Frondizi later this month will make the first official visit of a South American head of state to Ottawa.

A red-carpet welcome is being prepared for the 53 - year - old president who arrives Monday, Nov. 27, for a four-day stay in Canada. After two days here he will go to Toronto and then Montreal.

The trip is being made against the background of increasingly close ties between Canada and Latin America. It will inevitably touch off renewed discussion of the question of Canada joining the Organization of American States.

Diplomatic sources say this is almost certain to be a topic of discussion between President Frondizi and Prime Minister Diefenbaker, especially since Argentina has been a strong advocate of Canadian membership in the association.

Mr. Frondizi will be only the second head of state from Latin America to make an official call at Ottawa. The first was President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico who came here in 1959. Mr. Diefenbaker subsequently paid a return visit to Mexico City.

VISITS CANADA

Arturo Frondizi, president of Argentina, will visit Ottawa November 27-28, first official visit to Canada by a South American head of state. The 53-year-old president will also make trips to Toronto and Montreal. (CP from AP).

FIGHTS INFLATION

Appropriately, Argentina is one of the three Latin American nations with which Canada first established diplomatic relations. It was just 20 years ago that envoys were exchanged with Argentina, Brazil and Chile.

Now Canada has diplomatic ties with 19 Latin American republics, all except El Salvador, and relations with that small country are expected to be established before long.

Mr. Frondizi, a lawyer who was first elected to the Argentine chamber of deputies in 1946, has been president since 1958, a little less than three years after the overthrow of dictator Juan Peron.

As president he has concentrated on curbing inflation and stabilizing Argentina's currency. He has also promoted foreign investment, the development of the nation's petroleum industry, heavy industry and economic co-operation in Latin America.

He has been a central figure in the establishment of a common market embracing eight Latin American countries and it's considered significant that he's coming at a time when the trade association is just getting into business.

LOWERED TRADE

Far from being apprehensive about the development of the common market, economic observers have seen in it an opportunity for increased Canadian exports to South America.

Economic relations are expected to be an important topic of talks between Mr. Frondizi and Mr. Diefenbaker. Argentina would like to narrow the gap between her imports from Canada—$29,480,000 worth last year—and exports to Canada—worth $5,600,000.

A few hours after he arrives here, Mr. Frondizi will be guest of honor at a state dinner and reception given by Governor-General Vanier. Next day he will confer with Mr. Diefenbaker and cabinet ministers, visit Parliament Hill and Ottawa city hall, place a wreath at the national war memorial and hold a press conference.

He will visit Toronto Nov. 29, Montreal Nov. 30 and will leave Canada Dec. 1.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Babe Ruth Boom Goeffrion knows just exactly how Roger Maris felt when the New York Yankee slugger was driving for a 60th season home-run record. The 29-year-old Montreal Canadiens' right-winger had a lot in common with Maris.

"With the pressure and everything, that guy went through plenty," Geoffrion told Dick Dolan, Associated Press sports writer, the other day. "I went through the same thing," added Geoffrion, who last season scored 30 goals to equal the National Hockey League record set by Maurice (Rocket) Richard in 1944-45.

Geoffrion was one of Maris' staunchest supporters. He wanted the Yankee outfielder to break Babe Ruth's mark within the 154-game limit set by baseball Commission Ford Frick. Maris fell one short with 59 homers in 154 games and finished with 61 for the 162-game season.

That will go in the baseball record books with an asterisk in front of it. There's no asterisk in front of Boom Boom's record-equaling notation.

SEASON THAT COUNTS

Geoffrion doesn't agree with Frick.

"Every time that guy (Maris) went into a slump I felt bad," Geoffrion told Glan. "I know what it was. I tell you another thing. That guy, he beat Ruth's record. What does it matter if he play more games? It's the whole season that counts.

"Even with me they say last year that the Rocket got 50 goals in a 50-game season and I get 30 in 70 games. But they forget, I only play 64 games because of my bad leg. If I play over 70 or 80 games on the NHL schedule and somebody scores 82 goals, then he beat me."

Maris was bugged by baseball writers, radio and television men after every game in the home stretch. It was the same with the Boomer.

"All the time with me the writers came into the dressing room after the game and asked me 'Boom, you think you going to break the record?'"

"It got very bad after I had 45 goals. The night before a game I couldn't sleep. I was getting very nervous. When I finally got the 50th, it was like a tremendous load was lifted off my back. It was tough I can tell you, but I'd go through it again."

Geoffrie got his 50th with two games remaining in the schedule and during a torrid late-season drive also missed six games because of a knee injury. He trailed Toronto Maple Leafs' Frank Mahovlich at one stage of the schedule, but caught up with the Leaf star during the campaign two up on the Leaf winger.

On his return to the game after his injury he scored 23 goals in 30 games while he also came perilously close to getting into a slump with only seven goals. And Boom Boom got his 50th against Leafs.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Hidden Treasure will make his final start of the season when he meets Saturday's $52,000 Thanksgivie Stakes at Old Woodbine. The four - year - old colt owned by W. H. Beasley of Toronto, is the leading contender for Canada's "horse of the year" award.

Hidden Treasure has finished out of the money only once in 11 starts this season.

Among those which are expected to contest Saturday's race of 1¼ miles are Galileb, Mystery Guest, Major Turkey, Chopsvane, Golden Turkey, Wellesley Canal, Winston, Castleberry, Reluctant Deb, Windy Ship and Song of Even.

Jimmy Parnell, 19 - year - old apprentice jockey from Toronto, rode four winners on Wednesday's program, including Cyprian Cat, which was ridden by Talbot purse.

Cyprian Cat bumbled Fair Junior, the horse which set a world record of 1:14 3-5 for 6½ furlongs in a recent race at New Woodbine, and paid $10.60 to win as he ran seven furlongs in 1:25 4-5.

Parnell won both ends of the day double on Cyprian Cat and Formal Trust and captured the fourth race on Absent Son.

VETERAN BACK QUITS

BUFFALO (AP)—Richie McCabe, five-year pro football veteran and an all-star defensive halfback in the American League last year, announced his retirement from Buffalo Bills. McCabe, greatly slowed by a bad knee this year, said he intends to enter the coaching field.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nothing succeeds like success, runs the old adage. Portland Buckaroos and Edmonton Flyers seem to prove it almost every time they take the ice in Western Hockey League competition.

The Flyers, leading the Southern Division, added to their margin with a 3-0 win over San Francisco Saturday night. The Flyers, tops in the Northern Division, turned back the second-place Seattle Totems 2-1.

It was the 10th win of the season for Portland's defending champions in 13 games and gave them 20 points, seven ahead of Spokane Comets. It was the first shutout of the season for goaltender Bruce Gamble, who stopped 26 shots. His teammates scored a goal apiece on shots by Tom Moore, Don Mcmurray and Dale Rolfe.

The Flyers picked up their eighth victory in nine games. Ed Joyal's first-period goal and Chuck Adams' third-period effort were enough for the Flyers. Their defense held except for a moment in the second period when Don Chlupsa slipped through for Seattle's lone score.

Cross-Canada Survey

Waterfowl Starting to Wing South in Small Numbers, Snow Geese in Short Supply

By FRED CRAVE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Waterfowl are winging their way south this fall in reduced numbers but hunters with reasonable goods of energy and patience are managing to bag their share of ducks and geese.

Even on the drought - stricken Prairies there are some local bright spots.

The Canadian Press survey of wildlife officials across the country produced this general picture:

Poor spring breeding conditions across the Prairies that prompted federal officials to cut daily bag limits to a half-dozen for most species appeared to be justified by the scarcity of ducks and geese.

Even on the drought - stricken Prairies there are some local bright spots.

Snow Geese Light

Reasons for the slight have had their effect on hunting in Ontario and Quebec, which get most of their migrants from the Prairies, but have been counterbalanced by the presence of good northern and local water levels that resulted in average or better-than-average nesting production.

SNOW GEESE

Snow geese, for reasons that aren't known definitely, failed to raise families this year and the fall shoot in the famed lower St. Lawrence resting grounds has been a virtual flop.

Canada geese, by contrast, had a good year.

The coastal provinces, with stable water levels, are faring at least as well as last year although New Brunswick had local troubles—too much water in some spots.

Aside from local efforts by conservation groups to improve nesting habitat, there have been large water programs in Canada this year to increase wetlands, areas or provide additional public shooting grounds for hunters.

Art Benson, federal wildlife biologist in British Columbia, voiced this warning:

"Real estate speculators are cutting into some of the shooting areas and we could lose the whole wintering waterfowl population on the lower mainland, involving anywhere from 150,000 to two or three million birds that winter there."

Ontario, however, opened a fourth provincial park to shoot-ing this year, at Rice Lake, Erie, adjacent to some famous duck-hunting clubs. Hunting is limited to government guide blinds on a first-come, first-served basis and shooting pressure is limited by closing the parks to gunners two or three days a week.

The Nova Scotia government has acquired 6,000 acres in the biggest marsh in the Maritimes, near the New Brunswick border in the Amherst area, with a view to development for preservation of migratory birds.

Quebec's big attraction is the St. Lawrence resting grounds along the St. Lawrence River where Quebec reach fall on the way from the Arctic nesting grounds to the southeastern United States. Bill Gartieve Beaver of the provincial fish and game department said this year's hunt "a fiasco."

The flock is estimated at 80,000 birds, a drop from last year's record of between 80,000 and 90,000, and few young birds were spotted.

"Something must have happened in the breeding grounds up north," said Bedard. "We don't know what yet."

FROST ON FOXES

Some believe late frosts killed young birds in the egg. Bob Smith, Alberta wildlife biologist, said an increase in foxes in central northern areas may have made inroads on the fledglings.

By regions, here's what field reports indicate:

British Columbia—Production of bufflehead and whistler, the main coastal species, has been stable and hunters' success good. However they got all the birds before they fled to the comparative safety of the coastal seas.

Prairies—Except in northern Alberta, production was down significantly—as much as 75 per cent among the pothole-breeding canvasbacks and redheads in Manitoba. While overall shooting success has been proportionately lower, there's no talk this winter of "watered areas because ducks

Minor Hockey

Bruins whipped the Canadiens 11-0, Rangers downed the Maple 8-3 and Quints defeated the Black Hawks 6-3 in Eastern hockey league games played at Memorial Arena last night.

Lt. Emerson paced the Bruins to their lopsided win, scoring two goals and assisting on two others. S. White had two goals and an assist, R. Cornwell one.

J. McKenzie two goals apiece, R. McDougall one goal and two assists and H. Bowman one and one. P. Noble added the other goal. Pringle, Young, Hodgkinson and Holmes each picked up one helper.

D. Olson led the Rangers to victory with a three-goal effort. H. Wishart scored two goals with one each for M. Dalnard, M. Hulme and B. Bateman. R. Fullerton earned two assists with one each for B. Hibbard, D. Hall and B. McBride. A. Lee, R. Carter and Wardhaugh each scored one goal in the winning cause.

Dickey, Moore and Gilmour were the marksmen, in the Quinte victory. D. Beresford, Dickey and C. Mallory drove assists. The Quints defeated the Lone Hawk goal, unassisted.

concentrated there. Geese, nesting north of the drought areas, arrived early and in good numbers. Blue-bills, preserving teal and mallards were slow to move out of southern Manitoba because of warm weather early in the season.

Ontario and Quebec—Ontario aircraft normally used in duck counts were busy during the northwestern forest fire crisis but officials say there is no reason to believe duck production will below average. Water level were good in both provinces and early - season shooting success was high. Quebec conservation report the gunning has been improved by the strictest law-enforcement program in years.

Atlantic — Spring flooding washed out some black duck nests in New Brunswick and some hunters' kills have been down in the Sackville - Tantramar marsh area. Otherwise production and hunting success appears to be normal in the Atlantic provinces where the big black duck is king.

Barrie Grid Player

Commutes 2,000 Miles

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — The spirit that induces linebacker Mack Turner to commute 2,000 miles for each game with Barrie Golden Hearts is one of the reasons the club is leading the Intercity Football Conference, with the Hearts, the only Canadian entry in a league scattered through Michigan and Ohio.

This year he arrived here with wife and family before the season began, then returned to Grand Prairie here Wynne, Ark., to help in the fall harvesting. He left for home again after a game in Toledo, Ohio, volunteering to commute for future contests.

He drives 80 miles from his farm to Memphis, Tenn., flies to Detroit and joins quarterback Jim Lambert of Ann Arbor, Mich., for the 90-mile drive to Barrie in time for Friday night's practice and the weekend game.

Turner first came to the Hearts from Memphis State University as both guard and linebacker. He has played mostly at 8 linebacker this season.

Hillbacks Ray Sims, Tom Hanahan and Jerry O'Neil, and Tom Teber and Lambert commute from homes in southeastern Michigan.

There are Ontario commuters as well. Greg Anderson and Bob Rusbridge travel from London each weekend guard Wayne Horner and linebacker Al Breckenvelt have their teaching jobs in Goderich and Hamilton respectively for the games. The undefeated Bears are rated the strongest team ever put together in this football-keen city. With one game remaining in their 10-game schedule they had scored 377 points against the opposition and only had 80 scored against them.

End Lemar Lee paces the league in scoring, as he did the new defunct Atlantic Rugby Football Union last season when he played for London Lords.

Unitas Had Sore Digit

NEW YORK (AP)—The question of what's wrong with Johnny Unitas of Baltimore Colts has been answered.

The answer is nothing that a healthy middle finger on his passing hand won't cure. Unitas proved as much Sunday.

Johnny tossed four touchdown passes for the seventh time in his six-year National Football League career, completed 22 of 35 tosses and had only one interception in Baltimore's 45-21 triumph over the Western Conference - leading Green Bay Packers.

Unitas had struggled through the first half of the season with a bruised middle finger on his passing hand.

Unitas' performance Sunday lifted him from sixth to fourth among the league's passers, according to figures released Wednesday by NFL headquarters. He now trails Sonny Jurgensen of Philadelphia's Eastern Conference pacesetters; Boart Starr of Green Bay and Milt Plum of Cleveland Browns.

Cleveland's Jimmy Brown moved ahead of Green Bay's Jim Taylor as No. 1 ground gainer in rushing. Brown, the league rushing champion for the last four years, has picked up 720 yards on 171 carries.

Paul Hornung of Green Bay, scheduled for army induction after Sunday's game with Chicago Bears, added nine points to his total in the scoring battle with the Colts and now has 111 —39 more than Baltimore's Lenny Moore.

End Jim Phillips of Los Angeles Rams continued to lead the pass receivers with 40 for 677 yards. Pitts burgh Steelers' Johnny Sample, although failing to swipe an enemy pass last weekend, continued to lead the interception leaders with eight.

Kicker May Be Difference

NEW YORK (AP)—Pat Summerall, New York Giants' ace place-kicker, may wind up being the difference Sunday when Philadelphia Eagles invade New York for a National Football League game against the Giants.

Summerall, 30-year NFL veteran, holds the consecutive convert string, 107 without a miss, for active league players. Since joining the Giants from St. Louis Cardinals in 1958, he has missed only two—his first effort and attempts as a Giant.

"Oh sure, I'm conscious of the streak," he said Wednesday. "I don't know how many I have to go to break the record (60 by Lou Groza of Chicago Bears), but it doesn't bother me too much."

Summerall, who has booted 84 converts, this year, also takes care of field goals. It is in this department, particularly, that he may mean the difference against a tough defensive team like the Eagles. He has made nine of 24 attempts this season. His longest were two 44 - yard drives.

Won Every Amateur Title

Nicklaus Joins Pros

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Amateur golfers may give a slight case of relief but professionals of the game are casting a wary eye at a newcomer to their ranks—Jack Nicklaus, the most talked about amateur since Bobby Jones.

The 21-year - old Ohio State University senior, who has won just about every amateur title around, including the U.S. Amateur in 1959—and 1961, announced Wednesday he is becoming a professional.

"I just decided I wanted to play golf," the stocky blonde said. "And I owe it to my family to give them the best possible living I can."

Nicklaus, who started swinging golf clubs when he was only 10, plans to drop out of school at the end of the autumn quarter—in mid-December.

"I hope to start my professional career in the Bing Crosby Invitational at Pebble Beach (Jan. 18-21)," Nicklaus said, "and finished my amateur career on that course and I'd like to start my professional one there."

The finish was his second triumph in the U.S. Amateur.

Nicklaus plans to return to Ohio State for the fall quarter each year until he gets his degree in business administration.

Indians Trounce Hornets 5-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Springfield's streaking Indians, led by Floyd Smith's three goals, added to their Eastern Division lead in the American Hockey League Wednesday night by whipping Pittsburgh Hornets 5-1.

In the only other game played, Cleveland Barons blanked Hershey Bears 3-0 as Les Binkley registered his first shutout as a professional goaltender.

Smith scored two quick goals in the first period and got another in the third for the Indians, who won their seventh straight engagement at home and stretched their unbeaten string to seven games. Jimmy Anderson and Bob Kabel scored the other Spring field goals. Ching Johnson scored for Pittsburgh.

Binkley, a spare netminder said trainer for Cleveland last season, turned away 33 shots. Dick Van Impe and Fred Glover scored for the Barons within a three-minute span in the first period and Billy Sutherland slipped in the final goal in the second.

Cleveland took over sole possession of second place in the Western Division, four points back of Buffalo Bisons.

READS GOLF CHAMP

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam Snead, top pro golf money-winner, said today he has been named president of a proposed weekend chain of par 3 golf courses that would span the United States.

A par 3 layout can be placed on a 40-acre plot compared with the 125 acres required for a that in 1959 and 1960 he averaged $3,400.

Curlers Win at Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Four Canadian rinks won first - round matches today and nine Canadian rinks were losers at the opening of the international and northern mixed bonspiel at the Saddle and Cycle Club here.

A Toronto rink skipped by Don Mowbray won its match from a Chicago rink 13-8. Another Toronto entry skipped by Ute Blok-Anderson won over a Madison, Wis., rink 11-7.

A London, Ont., foursome led by skip Hugh F. Corrie defeated a Chicago entry 13-11.

A rink from Burlington skipped by George Bell downed a Detroit rink 9-6.

The losing Canadian entries included a Sarnia, Ont., rink skipped by Col. L. C. Phippen, which was trounced 18-8 by a Wauwatosa, Wis., team.

Bearcats Nearly Ready

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Coach Lee Fogolin says the roster of Port Arthur Bearcats, scheduled to leave in a month on a 15-game exhibition tour of Europe, is nearly complete.

With more than 30 players trying for the club, Fogolin now has whittled the number down to 22 and is undecided on only one or two positions.

Still up in the air in the status of Rusty Miggs, former National Hockey League performer, whose contract rests as an amateur, Fogolin says, is being held up by a couple of Western League clubs.

The Port Arthur club, however, is clear and its rink was considered a few years ago, has been sharing practice time in the Fort William arena with two other senior and three junior clubs.

The team starts a series of exhibition games Friday night to get in shape for the European tour.

HOMER KING BROKE

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jimmy Foxx, 54, one of baseball's former great sluggers who at one time in his career made $34,000 a year, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy.

Foxx, who hit 534 home runs in his career and was one of four men ever to hit 58 in a season in 1932 while with Philadelphia Athletics—said his debts amount to $4,260. He listed his assets as clothing and household goods.

A $4,000-a-year contract man for the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, Foxx said

Juniors Play for East Title

By ARNEY SHARPE

TORONTO (CP)—In two years, Scarborough Rams had won only two football games.

This season, Dy Curtis, former Big Four star with Toronto Argonauts, took over as coach, led the Rams to eight victories and the Ontario junior championship. Today they face Beaumont Bombers for the Eastern Canadian title, the winner heading west to seek the national crown in Calgary.

Curtis is optimistic about his boys' chances.

"This is the finest team I've ever had," says Curtis of his Rams. They won eight and lost two during the schedule, knocked off Lakeshore Bears in a sudden-death match and were 1-1 against University of Toronto Baby Blues, taking the series on total points.

Curtis, with his assistant, Stanley McKenzie, a former Argo teammate, has a well-balanced unit that combines a good passing attack with a hard-running backfield.

"We're mainly a running team," says Curtis. "Our quarterback, Bill Turnbull, passes and runs well and is a great ball-handler."

BACKS DANGEROUS

Halfback Gerry Burrows and fullback Jeff Atkeson have been the Rams' big scorers. Burrows is especially dangerous.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Jean Paul Lamirande's Belleville "Unmentionables" entry in the Lakeshore Intermediate Hockey League had their first workout the other midnighting and "Lammy" appears to have quite a squad, on paper at least.

Determined the squad appears to be well stacked. According to Jean Paul he has himself, Fleet Coogan, Lionel Bedard and Barry Tillerson holding down rearguard positions. Between the pipes there is Billy Mason and the "Turk," Barclay.

Other players among the dozen or so who converged in the opening workout were "Wiener" Brown, Gary Geyer, a player named Trendall, and others. Rumor has it Floyd Crawford and Kenny Hall, new in Tagarelli, may join the Lamirande fold.

The team which hasn't been named as yet will play its home games on Wednesday nights. This was made possible by the Belleville Minor Hockey Association switching some of its playing time from Wednesday to Saturday.

The league which consists of Belleville, Napanee, Uxbridge, Trenton NCAF, Bowmanville and Port Hope, opens a 32-game schedule on November 15th. Belleville does not open until November 20 when it plays Uxbridge on the latter's ice. It is understood Napanee will open here on Wednesday, November 22.

According to the grapevine Belleville and Napanee should have the strongest teams on paper. These teams will go into the OHA Intermediate "A" playdowns while the rest of the loop squads will play down in lesser brackets.

However, don't sell this Uxbridge team short. Nole Where Freddy Eicher, former Whitby Dunlop star, who played for Belleville for a brief time, has been named playing coach of the Uxbridge squad. This could mean some of Freddy's former buddies from Whitby like O'Connor, Samalanka, etc., might be sporting Uxbridge uniforms this winter.

The Trenton NCAF team doesn't carry too many names familiar to this department. Flyers did, however, trim the Bowmanville Shamrocks, another league entry in an exhibition till the other night. The Flyers are a lay-coached by Orval Gravelle who has plenty of hockey experience and know-how.

While the actual set-up, financial and otherwise, is yet unknown to this department, I believe with the proper administration of the club and its finances, the Napanee local league could be a success.

I do not know the arrangements made with arena officials and Manager Lamirande, but I believe that whoever sets admission prices should set them within reach of all, especially "the guy on the street."

Loose change is not too plentiful in the working man's pocket and a hour office tab that is over and beyond his reach would not do the club much good. It is better to have 500 at 75c or $1.00 than 200 at $1.25 or $1.50. I do not believe the average fan would complain too much at one dollar admission with no reserved seats.

While Jean Paul Lamirande has been "moving in a mysterious way his labors to perform," it must be said he has been successful and in spite of road blocks tossed his way, has eventually brought hockey back to the city.

With the co-operation of Manager Jack Dickens of the arena and officials of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, Lamirande secured ice time for his club albeit is every Wednesday night. He has, or is rounding up a team that looks fairly strong on paper. I understand he has the necessary equipment and is all ready to go.

We may not see world championship hockey or even good senior "A" calibre of skinny, but we're back to the good old days where everybody had a lot of fun and players, managers and league were not prying themselves out of existence. So let's get behind Lammy and his club.

Aussie Tennis

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., United States women's tennis champion, and Yola Ramirez of Mexico played a powerful doubles game Wednesday to defeat Mary Bertram and Mary Hawton, third-seeded Australian pair, 6-2, 6-2 in the women's doubles quarter - finals of the Queensland championships.

Yola also won easily in the women's singles quarter-finals, beating Mrs. Bertram 6-4, 6-4.

Robyn Ebbern, Australian junior champion who upset Miss Hard Tuesday, won a 6-0, 6-0 victim of Australia's Jan Lehane.

Bruins Snatch 4-4 Tie With Blues

McKenney The Hero

By LAURENT CHABSON
Canadian Press Staff-Writer

Don McKenney is one fellow who figures prosperity in Boston Bruins rebuilding plans — a so-called untouchable.

He is probably not the most colorful player around, but one that gets the job done, and that's what counts.

His sixth goal of the current National Hockey League season Wednesday night brought the Bruins a 4-4 tie with the Rangers at New York, preventing the Blueshirts from taking over sole possession of first place in the league standings.

McKenney, a smooth centre who knows how to pace himself, got the goal with only 14 seconds left in the game. It came on a 20 - foot shot through a maze of players and it barely caught the right hand corner of the net.

But while McKenney was the hero, there were other outstanding individ u a l performances in the game.

DRAWS 3 ASSISTS

Doug Mohns, a nine - year veteran with the Bruins, was in on all four of his team's goals. He scored once and drew three assists.

Bob Beckett, called up from the Providence Reds of the American Hockey League only two weeks ago, scored Boston's other two goals — his third and fourth in five games.

For the Rangers, Andy Bathgate scored once and picked up two assists.

Bathgate, whose three points equalled his output for six previous games and put him back atop the NHL scoring race, almost was the hero.

His goal, on a 20 - foot shot at 19:38 of the third period, gave the Rangers a 4-3 lead. This was the only time the Rangers led during the game. They trailed 2-0 after the first period and 3-1 after the second.

Ken Shinkel, Camille Henry and Dean Prentice produced New York's other goals.

The game did put the Rangers into a first - place tie with Montreal Canadiens. Each team now has 15 points, but the Habs have four games in hand.

RANGER GOAL TOTAL

Bathgate's three points raised his season total to 21 — one more than Montreal's Claude Provost. The goal was his 190th of his career, leaving him only one short of a charmed circle attained by only 33 other players in NHL history.

Rookie goalie Don Head baffled the Rangers by his poke-check, smothering, blocking and deflecting many tough shots. During the game, he made 38 saves.

Lorne Worsley, in the New York nets, only had 18 shots to handle, stopped 15.

Beckett gave the Bruins a 1-0 lead at 2:13 of the first period, beating Worsley on a 15 - foot angle shot. Mohns made it 2-0 at 11:14 on a screened 35-footer that Worsley didn't have a chance to stop.

Schinkel got the first New York goal at 1:35 of the second period but Beckett got the goal back for the Bruins less than eight minutes later on a close-in shot after picking up a neat pass from defenceman Pat Stapleton.

BATS IN PAIR

Henry started the Rangers comeback at 1:13 of the third, batting in a pass from Bathgate, six and a half minutes later, Prentice drilled a 25-footer behind Head that evened the score at 3-3.

Two games are scheduled tonight with the big one being at Montreal where the Canadiens meet Toronto Maple Leafs. The Bruins are at Detroit for a date with the Red Wings in the other game.

Canadiens expect to have left winger Dickie Moore back in action tonight. Moore injured a knee in training camp and hasn't played yet this season.

Montreal coach Toe Blake isn't sure where Moore will play.

"I don't intend to break up my present lines," Blake said Wednesday. "I may use Dickie only on the power play where his shot and experience should help. Then, again, you never can tell about a hockey game.

"If he's on the bench, it will be because he's there to play and he may see a lot of action."

Blake doesn't plan any other lineup changes, although Jean Gaudelins are winless in three starts after winning seven and tying one in their first eight games.

The Leafs arrived in Montreal Wednesday night without defenceman Al Arbour. He suffered a charleyhorse in his right leg during a game in Chicago Monday night. Toronto already has two defencemen — Allan Stanley and Larry Hillman — on the injured list.

Juniors, Ints Exhibition Friday Night

Belleville hockey fans will have the opportunity to see the city's two OHA clubs in action (scene of course Friday) night when Gordie Bell's McFarland Juniors tackle J. P. Lamirande's Intermediates in an exhibition game.

Memorial Arena will be the battle field and the game will get under way at nine o'clock.

Both clubs will open their schedules shortly, the Maple Leafs to Kingston on Monday and playing host to Peterborough next Friday night while the Intermediates are slated to play in Uxbridge on Monday, November 20. They will play at home against Napanee on the 22.

Both Bell and Lamirande will use tomorrow night's game as a test of their club's strength.

While neither Hoarup has been announced, the Juniors will likely include Ron Dulmage, Gordie Parker, Larry Mitchell, Ron Mercer, Ted Rowland, Paul Zakos, Bobby Boyle, Garry Reid, Pete Wooten, Moe Hunter, Dave Smith, Paul Kellar, Gary Duvall, Graydon Scott, Barry Ethier, Billy McGuire and Gary "Wilbur" Bell.

Among the Intermediates expected to see action will be Lamirande, Don Head, Bill Mercer, Lionel Bellz, Fleet Coogan, Floyd Crawford, Barry Tillerson, Gary Geyer, Dave Jones, "Wiener" Brown, Jerry Jones, Norman MacDonald and Ken Hall.

Jean Paul Lamirande who have been wondering runs what club will be his, this is their chance to find out first hand.

LAINE NEARLY FIT

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bobby Layne worked out with Pittsburgh Steelers Wednesday, a team spokesman said the veteran National Football League quarterback passed well and Layne said his injured side felt pretty good. He was placed on the inactive list about a month ago.

Sun Plays Tricks At Lansdowne

OTTAWA (CP) — Coach Lou Agase plans to take his Toronto Argonauts to Lansdowne Park 24 hours before their scheduled Eastern Conference semi - final appearance for a long, suspicion look at the sun.

The game begins at 2 p.m. EST, Saturday, an hour later than starting times used to be at this time of fall, because Ottawa Rough Riders, now have floodlights in their park and there's no danger that the ball might become invisible in the final quarter as dusk descends.

The trouble is that the sun's standing rays on the east - west Lansdowne field make the ball invisible for passers and receivers right from the opening kickoff.

Both sides found this out the hard way last Saturday, when Argonauts beat the Argos 35-28 to nail down second place. Each side in turn had a man in the open, looking for a touchdown pass he couldn't see until it landed past him.

Even if the receiver has the sun behind him when he looks back for his pass, his side is still in trouble. That means the quarterback has to squint into it while he's trying to locate his target.

Argo quarterback Tobin Rote summed up the problem after last week's game:

"You've got to call your game by where the sun is, not where the ball is."

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Andy Bathgate of New York regained the National Hockey League's individual scoring leadership Wednesday night with one goal and two assists in the Rangers' 4-4 tie with Boston Bruins.

Bathgate now has six goals and a league-leading 15 assists for 21 points—one more than Claude Provost of Montreal Canadiens, who has a league-leading 10 goals and 10 assists.

Rookie Don McKenney scored one goal and two assists for a three-way tie with Eddie Litzenberger of Detroit Red Wings and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal for third place with 16 points.

Henri Richard of Montreal is alone in sixth place with 15 point while Boston's Doug Mohns and Johnny Bucyk share seventh position with 14 points.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
Bathgate, New York	6	15	21
Provost, Montreal	10	10	20
Litzenberger, Detroit	7	9	16
Geoffrion, Montreal	6	10	16
McKenney, Boston	6	10	16
Richard, Montreal	7	8	15
Mohns, Boston	6	8	14
Bucyk, Boston	4	10	14

COMETS GET WINGER

SPOKANE (AP) — Spokane Comets obtained Yves Locas from the Victoria Maple Leafs in a Western Hockey League transaction completed Tuesday night. The right winger was assigned to the Comets by Montreal Canadiens. He played last season with Hull-Ottawa in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Indians Nip Maroons

Rockets Drub Royals 13-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If St. Thomas-Belmont Royals don't improve in a hurry, scoring figures in the Ontario Hockey Association senior series this year may reach astronomical proportions.

The newcomers to the league lost their third straight game Wednesday night, a 13-2 whipping at the hands of Sweetbury Rockets. Willie Hass scored five goals in the game which sent the Rockets into a first-place tie with Windsor Bulldogs.

Stratford Indians moved into a four-way tie for fourth place by edging the Maroons 7-6 at Chatham in the night's other game.

The Royals, playing at Aylmer while their home arena is being readied, now have been outscored 26-4, in their three starts. An eight-goal outburst in the second period Wednesday night fattened the count.

Art Saltzman scored twice for Strathroy. The other goals were tallied by Paul Quyer, Don Mayes, Andy Gaudaur, Don Evans, Ray Moffat and Jack McCr e l g h t. Dan MacPherson and Brian Beals scored for the Royals.

The Indians built their victory by shooting four second-period goals before 564 fans, smallest crowd of the season in Chatham. The Maroons share fourth place with Sarnia, Stratford and Woodstock, two points back of Gt Terriers who trail Strathroy and Windsor by three points.

Butch Graham and Gary Luypen paced the Indian attack with two goals each. Barry Hearn, Neil Cockburn and Marv Shantz got the others. For the Maroons it was Joe Maki with a pair, Jim Connelly, Dave Luckuk and Ron Ellis.

The Bulldogs, with a game in hand over Strathroy, meet the eighth-place Waterloo Tigers tonight at Windsor.

WHEELCHAIR CURLER—Stuart Kirkup, stricken with polio eight years ago, doesn't let the handicap keep him from participating in his favorite sport. The 25-year-old Toronto native uses a wheelchair to bowl and plays lead on a curling rink in the Civil Service League. - (CP Photo).

Polio Victim Is Curler

TORONTO (CP) — Stuart Kirkup is a plucky 25-year-old civil servant who refused to abandon sports after a polio attack eight years ago forced him to use crutches to get around.

Using a wheelchair, he is a regular participant in the civil service curling league here.

"I had curled as a boy in Fort William," he says. "After I had polio, I tried bowling and that's where I got the idea I might be able to curl using a wheelchair."

Kirkup follows a regular procedure on curling night. He arrives at the rink early and must get someone to carry his wheelchair out.

"I have to let it get cool before the guard-parts on the wheels don't mark the ice and I can get better traction."

He uses his crutches to get out onto the ice, sits in his wheelchair, pulls on his rubber soles and is ready for action. His plays lead and puts one wheel of the chair into the back and locks it.

Using a broom with all but foot of the handle cut off, he cleans his rock, lines up the chair with his skip's broom and, with a short bowstring, delivers the rock.

He's unable to join in the sweeping after throwing his rocks but because of his experience he serves as adviser to the skip, helping him decide what shots to call for.

"I would say the hardest part of curling for me is the delivery because I can't slide. It's strictly a matter of getting timed up properly. After that it's just a question of weight."

Red Nags Run Well In Tryout

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — The Russian team of Zabeg and Irish in the $100,000 Washington, D.C., International horse race Saturday ran satisfactory miles in workouts Wednesday.

"Our purpose, of course, is to win the International on Saturday," said Yevgeni Dolmatsov, Russia's director of racing, who is supervising workouts of the two four-year-olds.

Zabeg, which finished third in last year's International, was clocked in 1:41 and Irish in 1:43 3-5.

Their last major tuneup for Russia's fourth appearance in the International was staged on the dirt track. The 1961 International will be on the grass at 1½ miles.

Last Sunday, Mrs. Richard du Pont's Kelso whizzed around the grass course for a mile in 1:37 3-5.

Mr. and Mrs. Preben Harbert's Wonderboy from Denmark was the only other International entry out of eight to do more than gallop Wednesday morning. Wonderboy ran three quarters of a mile on the grass course in 1:12 3-5.

'Best Team in World?'

Bruins Please Watson

NEW YORK (AP)—Phil Watson was in a smiling, optimistic mood. He calmly radiated as he talked of his young Boston Bruins, their rapid improvement in the National Hockey League and their promise for the future.

To hear the Boston coach, you'd have thought his last-place Bruins had won a big game Wednesday night. They barely managed a 4-4 tie with New York Rangers on a goal by Don McKenney with 16 seconds left to play.

"I've got a rookie team and it's going to be the best team in the world," Watson said. "I don't know which clubs we're going to beat out, but we're going to make the playoffs. We're coming, getting better fast — way ahead of schedule."

There's no doubt the Bruins have improved. They could hardly have done anything else. In their first eight games, they won one and tied once. In five starts since, they have won two, tied two and lost one.

Watson was named Bruins coach last May and convinced his bosses of the value of bolstering with youth, of bringing up and developing minor leaguers who were hungry to play in the NHL.

"There are plenty of good hockey players in the minors who could play good hockey up here if they got the break," he said. "Those were the kind I wanted players who would work hard, who wouldn't take it easy because they thought they had it made. And the Bruins are working hard. They're high spirited and they're enjoying the season, but they're working hard and learning."

Ford received nine votes from a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Warren Spahn of Milwaukee Braves, who brought his lifetime victories to 329 last season, received six votes in second place. Detroit's Frank Lary was third with two votes, Lary had 25 wins and nine losses for the Tigers.

They Do Not See Anything They Are Just Killing Time

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The average office worker knows at least 101 different ways of killing time on the job.

Experts, of course, know a lot more.

Here are some types of window starers you may be familiar with in your own firm:

Sneaky Sid—The middle-aged bookkeeper pretends he is cleaning his glasses. But actually he is looking through the lenses at a shapely ass crossing the street a block and a half away.

Philosophic Pete — Tugging broodingly at his lower lip, he gazes fixedly at the crowds scurrying by on the sidewalk below. "Ants," he mutters to himself. "That's what we all are—just ants."

PLAYS PEEK-A-BOO

Tricky Tessie — The boss's pretty secretary gives every impression she is paying full attention to his dictation. But every time his eyes turn to the ceiling for a helpful phrase, she looks out the window and tries to play peek-a-boo with the handsome young lawyer in the office across the way.

Teddy, the boy process—A visiting buyer has given the junior executive a cheap cigar. Puffing incessantly at it, he glances expansively out over the city and chortles: "Some one of these days I'll be the big wheel around here . . . some one of these days."

Hungover Harry — Suffering from the morning after the night before, he isn't really looking out the window at all. He is dozing, hoping against hope if I opened it and jumped out the pain would go with me.

Fly-spacking Phil — Going to each of the 37 office windows in turn, the third view a prudent rub a bit of dust off each with his fingers. He mumbles aloud loudly: "It's about time someone told the building management that the windows need cleaning again." He has killed half a day once a week with this pet routine for the last 28 years.

BEAVER BEAVER

Amateur Albert — An eager beaver in the personnel department, he actually does find company in a crowding subway into his mind whenever he looks out the window. A pitiful case, doomed to early ulcers.

Hard-up Herbert — Frowning, stabbing his head and fingers at a few coins in his pocket, he strides back and forth by his window. He gives the air of taking deep in thought over a way to speed up production. Here's what's really on his mind: "How can I hit up for lunch money today?"

Wistful Wilma — This is the boss himself. When he looks out the window he has a vague impulse to raise it and cry "Help!". He knows that somewhere in the crowds below must be a few people he could hire and really get some work done around the office. But which? Where?

There they are—the window starers, the elite of the office time-wasters.

Sunday Sports Referendum Will Be Taken

DESERONTO — The regular session of the town council on Monday night was a brief one with council adjourning shortly after nine o'clock.

Council decided to submit to the voters at the municipal elections the question of Sunday sports and entertainment. The question will be "Are you in favor of Public games and sports on the Lord's Day?" and "Are you in favor of motion pictures, theatrical performances, concerts and lectures on the Lord's Day?" If the voters decide in the affirmative municipality can be granted by-law for such activities from 1.30 p.m. until midnight on Sundays.

Council also decided to equip the town truck with a snow plow this winter. The cost of equipping the town vehicle with a plow will be considerable less than having the work done by contract. The plow is to be purchased from the local firm concerned, and the electric hoist from the Finkle Machine Co. of Belleville.

The Fire and Police Committee reported that the new firemen had been ordered for the fire hall and pull suit had not arrived as yet.

Two by-laws were passed. One was to issue a lease to F. H. Bender and the other to authorize the signing of the by-law to control traffic in the Town Park. Both had been passed twice but the final reading was subject to approval by the Ministry.

The Mayor reported that samples of water had been taken in the municipal wells in front of the Island and from other wells in the town and samples from the chanmel tested better than even the water from the Island. No further tests for comparison will be taken from the Island channel and from the vicinity of the intake at the pump house.

Masterminds Hard at Work Dreaming Up New TV Menus

By CYNTHIA LOWEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Most television viewers have not yet had time to establish new habits—whether to dial in Sing Along With Mitch or stick with Mr. Untouchables; whether to settle down with Garry Moore or see what Fred Astaire's show is up to.

But the programming masterminds on the three major TV networks are working hard at work dreaming up TV menus for next season's viewing, which is 10 months hence. And they already have come to some conclusions about current viewing tastes.

For instance, they are certain that the so-called "adult cartoon," which was supposed to be one of the big items of the current season, has turned out to be a big bust.

They also are convinced that viewers are finally getting tired of the private eye crime-buster and man-with-the-badge shows which sprouted all over this season's schedules.

BECOMING BOREDT

They are beginning to be wary of violence - for - violence's sake too, not necessarily because it is so loudly criticized; they think that viewers are becoming more sophisticated, turned with the same old battles, and not watching the shows.

And, of course, the western is still in the TV doghouse.

Next season, it appears likely we'll begin to see the return of the good old halfhour show largely because an hour - long programming mistake is a lot more expensive than a halfhour good.

The emphasis will be on a genre called a "semi-unitology," which means a dramatic show built around a continuing set of characters, as demonstrated by Dr. Kildare, Ben Casey and The Defenders, three successful new entries.

Power of Power Changes Life of Neil Hamilton

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The face would be familiar to every film fan over 30.

He was Neil Hamilton, still a slimly handsome, still with the same hairline as when he acted the suave leading man in silent films and talkies.

He was playing a minor role in a TV show, Follow the Sun. The actor observers he was a once-famous figure still making a living at his profession.

He also had a story. And during a lull in the filming he told it:

"I've written my tale of rags to-riches and back to rags and some day I may get it published. It's quite a story.

"I had it very good in this town. Actually I started in 1918 at Fort Lee, N.J., when it was the centre of the film industry. I worked extra four years until D.W. Griffith, God rest his soul gave me a break."

There followed 15 years of top success Hamilton made 72 pictures in six years and his films included Beau Geste, One Sunday Afternoon, When Strangers Meet Kiss (opposite Norma Shearer), What Price Hollywood? (opposite Constance Bennett), and the first two big Tarzan films.

But in the mid-30s his career started the slide. He had lost a bundle in the stock market and bad investments in the New York World Fair.

In 1941 he found no jobs as an actor so he became an agent's assistant at $50 a week.

"I had made a million in the film business," he recalled. "We also owned a home in Brentwood with five servants and now we were living in a $60-a-month apartment.

DIDN'T WANT TO LIVE

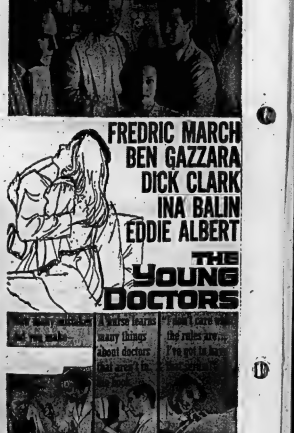
"I was drinking and I was at my lowest ebb. One night I was driving toward the hills and I was determined to kill myself. I had a gun, but I had decide to drive off a mountain to a place where I wouldn't be found . . . the years and the insurance would help my wife and daughter."

But he next found himself on the steps of a club for Catholic converts. Hamilton recited his woes to a priest, who urged him to try the power of prayer.

The actor agreed to try. Within nine days he had an offer for six weeks of film work at $625 a week.

Since that time he has worked fairly steadily on stage plays and live TV, and lately has played most of the filmed TV shows.

Hamilton hasn't appeared in a major film since 1944—"and I'd do one even if they didn't pay me."



But, at 62, he has no illusions, no regrets.

Astrological Forecast

General Tendencies: A day when startling and dramatic events can occur to give you the chance to do something of magnitude and importance in the ways suggested for your own sign following. Be sure to be inventive and ingenious in ideas and performances now if you are to make the finest use of this interesting day — and ever more so, the evening.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Endeavor to get together with associates at some place where there is also entertainment and come to a real meeting of minds casually. Be appreciative of past favors and they will cooperate more fully in the future.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — An ideal day and night to contact influential persons for the backing you need and experts for specialized information. Then see that everything is harmonious at place of business and equally so at home in p.m. Better yourself.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Here is one of those satisfying days when associates are very co-operative and you know exactly where you stand in the schemes of things. Then step out in the evening and put dull cares behind you. Have a good time. Be happy.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — Devote time and energy to ameliorating conditions at home with family. Buy those new gadgets that are time and labor savers. Take it easy in p.m. and show you have a sense of humor with kin. This relieves tensions wonderfully.

Leo (July 24 to Aug. 23) — A trusted partner will carry through with your ideas and be very co-operative, provided you give proof that you are devoted and trustworthy, are working for his, or her interests as well. Then get fine results. P.M. have fun.

Virgo (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) — The perfect day to buy those practical devices and items that make your business or home more efficiently operative and for which your allies will be eternally grateful. Shop around and buy carefully, only what is practical.

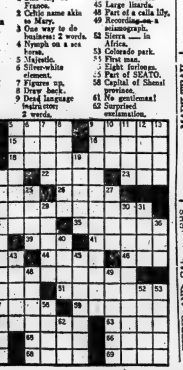
Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — You have got right on the beam in order to round up associates and allies so that you can talk over better plans and methods for succeeding in the future. P.M. fine for relaxation, fun.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — While you may feel tempted to get off somewhere by yourself and do only what you want to do, this would not be wise since it would make the loss of big benefits. It is best to co-operate with allies and kin and make bigger plans.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Seeing full of enthusiastic plans, you want associates to work along with you immediately, but you must first slow down and explain important details to them — they are not mind readers. Get blueprints ready for best results.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — It will not be difficult to get influential persons and higher-ups to co-operate with your plans, provided you first sit down quietly with them and explain everything intelligently, specifically. Have fun tonight.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — You have much co-operation and support from new contacts as well as friends and higher-ups you have known for some time. If you make it a point to understand their ideas, follow through on them. Get out socially in p.m.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Have no fear in drawing up new contracts with whomever you desire to have associated with you in the future. Follow your intuition, which will lead you into most successful channels and outlets. Evening is fine for romance.

If your child is born today— the greatest success in life comes from a most unusual ability to formulate constructive ideas and then place them before the right people. Hence, don't try to curb that originality in the nature so early apparent which is a gift directly from God, and see to it that your progeny does not develop an inferiority complex because of others. Give a fine academic education.

Top Soviet Marshal Gives Glimpse of Personal Life Of Number of Russian Elite

By JOHN MILLER

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A top Soviet marshal who smashed the German army at Stalingrad has given Western newspaper correspondents here a rare glimpse of the personal life and opinions of a member of the Soviet ruling elite.

With the exception of Premier Khrushchev, government and military figures in the Soviet Union are known for their reticence when mixing with newspaper reporters, particularly those from the West.

But for nearly four hours recently, 65-year-old Marshal Andrei Ivanovich Yeremenko, a former battle driver who became a soldier nearly 50 years ago, talked about himself.

In the style of some Western military leaders, he likes to call the battles he had won, of what he considered were the qualifications needed for commanding men, and of his children and his wife.

One milker lid was thrown through a window in the Heath home. The gate of the cemetery at Rylstone United Church was taken off and thrown in a pond on a nearby farm. It is hoped the police are successful in running down the culprits.

Mohawk Band Council Host To Sask. Heads

DESERONTO — The Mohawk Band Council of Tyendinaga Reserve met recently to David Knight, president, and Walt Bellegarde, 2nd vice-president, of the Federation of Saskatchewan Indians.

Mr. Knight and Mr. Bellegarde had been to Ottawa to present a brief to the Indian Affairs Branch regarding the Indian Act and the Welfare of Indians of Saskatchewan.

As they wished to visit a Reserve that handles its own revenue, they were advised to visit Tyendinaga which was the first Reserve in Canada authorized to handle its own funds under Section 68 of the Indian Act.

Section 68 states that the Governor in Council may, by order, permit a band to control, manage or expend in whole or in part its revenue money and may amend or revoke any such order.

The two visitors met the full Council of Tyendinaga Reserve under Chief R. M. Hill who furnished them with answers to their many questions concerning section 68. Following the discussion, the Council of Reserve and advised the Council that they had been told that Tyendinaga was about 100 years ahead of some of the Reserves in Canada. DESERONTO

New Rector Inducted by Bishop Evans

DESERONTO—The Induction service of the Rev. James M. G. Soutter as Rector of St. Mark's Church, Deseronto, and Christ Church, Belleville, Archdeacon of the Diocese of Ontario.

The Institution and Induction was conducted by Bishop Evans and the keys of the church were presented by the Church Wardens Delbert Harvey and Charles Gray.

The Rev. William Simmonds, Rector of St. Mary Magdalene, Napanee, and Rural Dean of Quinte and Archdeacon, recorded the Rev. J. M. Soutter to the Front, the place where prayers are said, the place where the lessons are read, to the pulpit and to the Lord's Table.

A NEW BEGINNING

The sermon was given by the Rev. Dennison Hart, Rector of St. James, Kingston, and Archdeacon of Kingston. He spoke of the significance of the occasion, a new beginning, on the turning over of a new leaf for the Church. "The people of the Front, the place where they have separated from evaluating each other and look to God. Only then would they be able to work together in harmony for God's cause. We must show the doubters of today that the Church is a new part of today's life as it was generations ago, that God is a necessary today as ever." The text that it was All Saints' Day must be borne in mind. He said that Saints are people like us who have their period of trial as did we.

After the service a buffet style luncheon was served in the parish hall convened by the Ladies' Evening Guild under Mrs. Walter Jones, president.

Special guests included the Rev. Floyd Green, of Brockville, the Rev. E. D. Fleming of Merrickville and Mr. William Johnston of Kingston, Lay Reader.

TWEED

Kiwanis Club Starts New Fund Project

TWEED — The Tweed Kiwanis Club has started a new fund-raising campaign, so stated E. E. Way, one of the active members of the local club. The new project is the selling of good reliable ball-point pens in order to raise funds to fit blind Ontario persons in this area with hearing aid glasses.

These pens will be stamped with the following inscription: "I gave a dollar to the Kiwanis club of Tweed to help a needy child" and will bear the letter "K" and the Kiwanis crest.

These are selling quite rapidly and it is hoped that the sponsorship will be rewarding for this worthy cause.

RECLUSE FOUND DEAD

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)— George G. Bowman, author and song writer, was found dead in his mansion and apparent poverty was found dead in his one-room home Tuesday. Saving deposit books scattered through the room indicated he was worth about $40,000, but the 82-year-old blind man had no food other than two boxes of cereal in his shabby quarters. Police found $407 in his clothing.

Russians Shift Berlin Policy, Brings New Twist

Freedom of West Berlin To Be Red Guarantee

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Western officials today sifted through a new version of a Soviet plan on Germany that has brought a dramatic twist to the crisis over Berlin.

The four - point plan, disclosed Thursday night by authoritative sources here, offered Russian guarantees for the free, dom of West Berlin—the central issue of the drawn-out crisis.

The guarantees and other Soviet concessions in the plan were considered a sharp reversal of Russia's tough stand on the German issue.

Today, diplomatic sources said ambassadors of the West's Big Four—United States, Britain, France and West Germany —met here to discuss the new Russian plan at the West German embassy.

The four points of the plan which Russia has called for:

1. An agreement between Berlin's four occupying powers —the United States, Britain, France and Russia — and the two states for West Berlin which would guarantee rights of its inhabitants and the freedom of communications with the West.

2. A peace treaty to be signed between Communist East Germany and the Warsaw Pact which East Germany undertakes to respect the new status of West Berlin.

3. Acceptance of the agreement by the United States, Western powers and West Germany along with respect for the provisions of the peace treaty.

4. Conclusion of a German peace treaty.

BERLIN COMES FIRST

The first point provides for an agreement on Berlin before the four Russia signs a German peace treaty.

DOUBTFUL

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's press chief, Felix Von Eckardt, told reporters in Bonn that the Russian terms have not changed the substance of their previous proposals in Berlin but "are now presented in a more agreeable fashion."

However, Eckardt said no Soviet proposals of the type reported were brought out in a meeting between Adenauer and the Soviet Ambassador to Bonn, Andrei Smirnov.

In London, word of the plan were received guardedly by qualified sources.

The Soviet Berlin plan for Berlin was understood to have been drawn up by the Russian government in the last few days, unless some communications was sent to the West from the British embassy in Moscow.

In Paris, the French foreign ministry declined any official comment.

Diplomatic sources said it remained to be seen whether this Soviet plan — scheduled for official shape, but added that it appeared to contain "favorable innovations".

Up to now the Soviet position has been based on the draft peace treaty with East Germany and the proposal that West Berlin problem on that basis.

The new Soviet plan is understood to have been submitted to the West in an informal way, and so far nothing has been published officially.

Pearson Ends Three-Day Tour In Maritimes

AMHERST, N.S. (CP) — Liberal Leader Pearson ended a three-day 340-mile tour of Cape Breton and northeastern Nova Scotia Thursday with a ringing appeal for the support of liberalism.

Showing the best of his platform style before an audience of 800 in a high school gymnasium here, the Liberal leader pledged that any government headed by him would act as a team.

He heaped ridicule on the present government for failure to perform as it should, for demagoguery in leadership, and for letting the country slip economically.

It was the wind-up performance of a tour which started Tuesday in Sydney and took in before every kind of audience—miners and fishermen, farmers and merchants, students and professors, party workers and school children.

"Our development policies will mean action," he told the Amherst crowd, which was heavily interested in the offstream — up — again $140,000,000 Chignecto canal project linking the Bay of Fundy with Northumberland Strait.

MEN AT DELAY

He said the Conservative government delays action by considering. It has been studying a Prince Edward Island causeway for four years, he said, and he promised that a Liberal government would at least build another ferry.

On the Chignecto Canal, Mr. Pearson said that on the day before Works Minister Walker declared the project uneconomical, Prime Minister Diefenbaker was in Fredericton and said the government hadn't made up its mind. Then, Mr. Pearson said, Mr. Diefenbaker said the whole thing was regrettable and the government would look at the project again.

At a prayer conference earlier, he said he doubts whether Canada will need the Bomarc bases now built against view of Russia's reported development of anti-missile missiles.

Accused Freed Of Two Charges, Guilty of One

TORONTO (CP) — An assize court jury Thursday acquitted Robert Cecil Graham, 40, of two of three charges of perjury arising from the death of Toronto stenographer Dianne Lamb bomber, 18.

The former Sudbury jail guard was acquitted of murder, slaughter and performing an abortion, but jury convicted Graham of conspiring to perform an abortion.

Mr. Justice D. C. Wells remanded Graham in custody until Nov. 17.

Graham was charged after the body of the young woman was found in the apartment of her sister Marilyn, 25, March 1. He admitted taking a kit of instruments to Marilyn's apartment but denied performing an operation on Dianne.

Medical evidence showed that the clean-cipher died of poisoning following an attempted abortion.

PRIME MINISTER SAYS ATOM WAR NOT IMPROBABLE

Says Canada Would Be Battleground

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday night "war is not as improbable as we hope" — and if it comes Canada will be a battleground.

Calling on Canadians to take "every step necessary, including the preparation of fallout shelters, he said:

"Just as insurance on homes and automobiles is taken out, hoping that the event against which we insure will not take place, so too in view of the world situation it is only prudent for us all to develop necessary plans and make the required preparations."

The Prime Minister made his remarks in a national television address dealing with Exercise Tocsin 1961-B, the test of emergency measures scheduled for next Monday and Tuesday.

He asked that after the siren, sounding in the centre of each Monday citizens turn on their radio to receive information and instruction about civil defence.

SURRENDER ON SAFETY

"As there will be no exercise in dispersal or evacuation and no test alert, I asked no motorists, your personal and family plans for the greatest measure of protection against radioactive fallout by means of shelter.

If war came, many lives could be saved by having prepared shelters for survival.

Most Canadians, in fact, had a chance for survival if they had made advance plans. Mr. Diefenbaker urged parents to explain the situation to their children.

"I regret that this exercise has become necessary," he added. Canada was working in the cause of peace but in the meantime had to safeguard it. "Peace would be impossible should our effort for peace not succeed."

'Big Daddy' Given Farewell And Small Car

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto said its "Big Daddy" a formal farewell Thursday with a parade through downtown streets accompanied by four drummers.

Thousands of citizens lined the parade route as Frederick G. Gardiner's chief source of money in Metropolitan Toronto since its inception in 1953, rode to the city hall for ceremonies marking his retirement as boss of the 13 Toronto-area municipalities at the end of this year.

Four bands which had been scheduled to accompany the parade failed to appear. There was a shortage of bands in the city. Save the Queen at the end of the city hall speeches.

But Mayor Nathan Phillips led the crowd of some 2,000 in singing the chorus: "When you and G are together, you don't need an orchestra," he said.

A feature of the parade was presentation of a small-size car to Mr. Gardiner by his chairman. He promptly turned it over to the Children's Aid Society.

The Society of the Broken Dish Meets for Third Time Since War

SWEENEYVILLE, N.B. (CP)

The Society of the Broken Dish, a unique organization formed by a small band of comrades during the Second World War, holds its first reunion in 11 years this Remembrance Day.

Membership is limited to eight men, seven of whom served together in the 36th Canadian Infantry Field Hospital Unit in Europe. Each owns a jagged piece of a plain pottery bowl as a gift to L. J. LeBlanc by an elderly woman in Delle'e a village in France.

The group has met twice — in Dartmouth, N.S., in 1947 and in Charlottetown two years later.

Tonight they gather at Mr. LeBlanc's country home here for breakfast and Saturday morning participate in a memorial service in Moncton, N.B. In the afternoon they return to Sweeneyville for a private service for lost members of their own unit.

Nehru's Peace Hopes Raised By K. Downgrading Stalin

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Nehru of India have narrowed their differences of view in four days of talks, but a great gulf still remains in their approach to the cold war and the Communist threat.

Kennedy sees Soviet Premier Khrushchev as a man who initiated Soviet butchery in Hungary in 1956 and attempted to intimidate the world in 1961 by huge nuclear explosion tests—frustrating the aides with radioactive debris, Nehru sees Khrushchev as a man to be wooed.

Kennedy believes the Soviet nuclear explosions and communist pressures in Berlin require a still greater building of American defences, Nehru sees Khrushchev's drive to destroy the line of bombs that should be paving the way for a reduction in the pressures of war.

Kennedy feels India should make some effort to restore Portuguese sovereignty over Goa and border turmoil over the disputed Kashmir territory. Nehru says that he is in no hurry to hold a plebiscite in the territory as Pakistan and the United Nations have urged.

The UN also wants Pakistani troops, which occupy the mountainous part of Kashmir, to withdraw, but Pakistan hasn't made such a move, Nehru observed Thursday.

Discussed at a luncheon how he felt about Communist China's ambitions after it violated the Indian border, killed some Indian troops and took possession of some northern territory which India claims, Nehru merely replied that China's policy "is not acceptable."

Only on the issue of nuclear testing did Nehru take a strong outspoken stand against the Communists. At his major public appearance at the National Press Club, he said the Soviet tests were very harmful, dangerous things." They tended to promote a "war psychosis."

Nehru's personal belief that Russia and especially Khrushchev want peace, he also added, the downgrading of Stalin "raises my hopes for world peace."

Canada's Import Purchases Up 9.4 PC Over Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's import buying in September jumped 9.4 per cent from the same month a year earlier, figures from the United States continue their upswing.

Total imports in the month rose to an estimated $467,000,000 from $427,000,000 in September, 1960, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Most of the increase gain reflects the lower exchange value of the Canadian dollar. Over 12 months, the dollar dropped from a three-per-cent premium over the United States dollar to a discount of around three per cent.

Import purchases in the first nine months of the year were an estimated $4,136,400,000, up 3.4 per cent from $4,101,400,000 a year earlier.

Imports from the United States in September were $306,100,000, up 7.6 per cent from $284,400,000 a year earlier. This followed a 16.3 per cent rise, an 18.3 per cent in August imports from the U.S.

Imports from all other areas also were higher. September purchases from the United Kingdom rose slightly to $36,800,000 from $36,300,000. Imports from the rest of the Commonwealth were up 22 per cent higher at $30,900,000 as against $25,300,000, and purchases from all other countries totalled 12.8 per cent to $91,800,000 from $81,400,000.

Rotarians Hear Talk on Preparedness

CAMPBELLFORD — Mr. Harry Bradley, Campbellford High School teacher spoke to the Rotary Club on Monday at their regular noon luncheon meeting. He stated that in his opinion, the democracies must match zeal for communism with equal zeal for democracy and match arms for arms with the aggressor, or would-be aggressors.

Turning to history and its lessons, the speaker recalled the moral and political decay of the world's great empires which inevitably led to their fall. None, whose greatness has never been equalled as a world power, fell through internal weakness and decay. Egypt fell because of, the desire for the easy life and the laying down their arms. France, the strongest power in Europe, fell before Bismarck in 1870, because of unpreparedness and the belief in the sufficiency of a large, but unprepared army, he said. Germany was also defeated with a world of strife and confusion. Every continent except our own is faced with the prospect of war. The Far East in the Near East, Africa, Europe, South America, each has its powderpost which could blow up at any time. The U.N. is facing crisis upon crisis, the nuclear test ban is the foremost topic of the day.

Mr. Bradley cast a clear ray of hope in his answer to this query. He said that the democratic powers, cannot afford despair. He pointed out a number of comforting signs. He said history is unpredictable, "Who would have bet on the British navy against the mighty Spanish Armada?" he asked, or "Who would have predicted the downfall of Napoleon?" These great forces were contemporaries more powerful in their era than the great bombs of today. Even seemingly invincible have come and gone in the course of history.

The western democracies have seemingly overwhelming resources. Surely is going to war unless it expects to win. Since the choice to go to war belongs to the other side, our forces must be martialled both morally and physically as a deterrent. Unpreparedness invites disaster.

We must therefore pray for peace but prepare for self-defence, take an interest in good government and continue to work in every conceivable way to promote peace through international understanding. This is what is meant by the lines "To you from falling hands we throw the torch."

The speaker was introduced by Cliff Hubbard and thanked by William McComb.

Hasty Pees Will Stage National Survival Exercise

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will stage its first "National Survival" exercise under the new reorganizational scheme on Sunday.

The exercise, known as "Rescue One," will take place eight miles west of the city off Highway 401 on the training site generously loaned to the regiment by Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton.

The exercise will start at 10 a.m. and continue through 4 p.m. Lieut.Col. Angus B. Dafoe, CD, commanding officer of the regiment, said the general public is cordially invited to attend the exercise starting at 2 p.m.

Direction signs posted along the highway will guide the public to the training site.

"Rescue One" is a practical exercise in "search and rescue" and will be demonstrated by the two survival columns the regiment has to provide for rescue purposes should the city of Toronto be hit.

One column consists of personnel from Belleville and Picton; the other of personnel from Madoc, Norwood, Millbrook and Port Hope.

The director of the exercise is Major K. Willcocks, Major J. Black will command the Belleville-Picton columns with Major P. Campbell commanding the other.

Upwards of 100 all ranks of the regiment will take part in the exercise.

The troops will be given hot meals served from the new field cookers recently acquired by the regiment.

Through the permission of Fire Chief Gerald Fraser, the Belleville Fire Department will have equipment at the site of the exercise.

50 Picnic Tables, Cattle Sheds Destroyed by Fire

Approximately 50 picnic tables owned by the Belleville Parks' Board and Recreation Commission, along with a 45-foot section of the double open cattle barns on the Belleville Fairgrounds, were destroyed by fire last night.

An unidentified man on his way to work spotted the fire shortly before nine o'clock and turned in the fire alarm.

Firemen quickly brought the fire under control but a few minutes later the alarm sounding in the alarm could have resulted in a much heavier loss.

The open cattle sheds, immediately south of the Hockfield-Hurst Building, built about eight or nine years ago, were used to store the parks and recreations commission picnic tables. Almost every one of the total number of tables were lost in the fire. Three ticket booths used at the gates during the Belleville fair as well as two other "Johnnies" were also lost in the fire.

Albania Fears Russian Coup

PARIS (Reuters) — French press reports said today that the pro-Communist regime of Premier Enver Hoxha proclaimed a state of emergency, apparently in anticipation of a Russian-backed coup.

Radio was reported as French diplomatic sources spoke of tension in the Albanian capital of TIRANE. The sources had no details of the situation there.

Albania, staunch ally of Red Chinese in the Communist bloc, was severely criticized at the recent Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow for persistently refusing to follow the Soviet "peaceful line and perpetuating the "hard" policies of late Russian dictator Josef Stalin.

The press reports, quoting information from Greek sources, said Albanian police and troops had surrounded the Soviet Embassy, that a severe rationing system had been put into effect and that police had ordered women, children and the old and disabled to the surrounding mountains would be spoiled in case of serious trouble.

A recent government decree said that all able-bodied men and women would be considered as immediately under arms in case of conflict.

Cambodia, Indochinese Nation, Assiduously Courted By Leftists and Rightists

By PETER SMARK

PNOM PENH (Reuters)—Cambodia, the ancient wall-flower of Indochina is walking gracefully along the road of neutrality, now days with the right elbow supported by the left. And her shoe shine supported by the East.

The little Indochinese nation is being assiduously courted and showered with gifts from both sides.

For this she can thank her former king, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, now a free man premier and whose voice in international councils is out of all proportion with the size of his country.

Intelligent and astute, Sihanouk has learned well that small neutral countries can yield political force that bears no relation to their size. He has also learned how, for a country with able leadership, neutralism pays dividends.

EXPERT POLITICIAN

To the people of Cambodia he is a veteran politician of many years standing, known to Communist states, Sihanouk is the man who combines the aura of a former king, the intelligence and political skill of a statesman and the emotional appeal of a grass-roots politician to make of the most formidable political personages in the East.

Sihanouk, 39, has been Cambodia's leader in a king and premier, for 10 years.

In former years, he had a reputation for being something of a playboy. But these days, he and his Bette Davis type wife cut a mas ive diplomatic in Pnom Penh with his vitality and charismatic for hard work.

The volatile and complex Sihanouk was recently crowned in southeast Asia where few national leaders are simple.

In Cambodia he told a gathering of his people: "I can say without fear of contradiction that most diplomats here hate me. Their wishes, when they smile at me, are not what they smile. And they seem to lose their composure when they are at table with me."

DIFFICULT MAN

The United States official in Pnom Penh commented after the speech: "I think prince Sihanouk is a difficult man to do strongly, but it is true that he makes difficult men to understand whom I have ever met."

The Cambodian capital of Pnom Penh, there are now buildings everywhere. Throughout the country, new factories are going up, productive techniques are being improved, living standards are being raised —all as a result of industrial or technical aid Sihanouk has obtained from foreign countries.

Western criticism of Sihanouk is based on his friendship with Communist countries, particularly with Communist China.

Many observers have believed the Cambodian leader cultivates the friendship because he believes that, sooner or later, China probably sooner — the Communist bloc will control all over southeast Asia and the whole region will fall under their control.

Western observers say the prince is wrong to put his faith in his country and believes it is better to come to terms with Peking which has the ability to be the "inevitable" Chinese colonization of southeast Asia.

The egg market was firm on large and unsettled on small grades with offerings inadequate for large and adequate for other grades for a fair demand.

Mr. Goodfellow, who plans to take over his new highway responsibilities Monday, was replaced as agriculture minister by former minister without portfolio William Stewart in Wednesday's cabinet shuffle.

Mr. Goodfellow said the four-man committee exceeded its jurisdiction in recommending reorganization of the agriculture department, a subject already under separate study.

"However, I'm not unhappy with it. Many of the things they recommended have already been implemented and others are under consideration in the department."

The committee urged a review of restrictions on margarine coloring within four or five years, and implementation of federal standards as an Ontario minimum for grading and plant inspection of livestock, meat, poultry, eggs, and slaughtering and processing facilities.

Fairy-Tales Approved by Red China

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China has given its official stamp of approval to the fairy-tale. It turns out that—it was, after all, a revolutionary weapon against feudal oppression.

The Communist edition of this gossamer subject was hailed by School Days, in an editorial entitled:

The fairy - tale's fitness for youthful consciousness formation came up when some readers of the China Youth magazine wrote they felt that "their stories about love between man and fox, marriage between man and goddess, the yawning of graves and the transformation of human being, into butterflies—things which cannot occur in real life, are unscientific and will spread superstition."

The magazine turned to Su supply the answer. As he 'explained it:

"There is a difference between fairy - tales and superstition. The feudal class produced superstition, in the form of legends, to prevent revolt.

Fairy-tales, on the other hand, tended to encourage rebellion. They were created in the shadows of real life. Their language, plot, style and characters usually could be identified with real heroes and villains.

Feudal authors, forbidden on pain of death to publish anything but the unequal distribution of wealth, the pomp and circumstance in the imperial court, the grinding poverty of the masses, could only write fairy-tales.

Wu cited the Chinese fable of Sun Wu - kung the monkey who grappled with the supernatural deity, hunted down the dragon king and stole the magic rod of hell.

"Apparently," said Wu, "these are struggles between a monkey and the gods. Actually, they reflect the struggles of the people and resist and struggle against the ruling class."

In the same way, he said, tales of love between men and women, and of love between man and a fish or man and a spirit—"convey the unhappiness of young people who cannot under feudal rule over the question of love and express their wishes, their dauntlessness in struggle and their determination to change their own destinies."

down on paper, the sources have said.

An early assessment of the plan indicates it has removed many of the main points of contention to the previous Russian plan stated on the German issue.

One such provision has been Russia's insistence on giving East Germany control over the Communist East Germany in any German settlement.

At the start of the Berlin crisis earlier this year, Khrushchev threatened to sign the peace treaty by Dec. 31, but he dropped the deadline last month.

Raymond Gagne Tells Kiwanians About Eskimos

TRENTON — Last summer, Raymond Gagne, head of the French department at Trenton High School, spent several weeks in Fort Churchill in Canada's northland, studying with a group of Eskimos in an effort, sponsored by the federal government to develop a standardized written language for this country's 10,000 Eskimo population.

At last night's meeting of the Trenton Kiwanis Club, Mr. Gagne explained that he had been interested in this type of study since 1954. He said that there are many different dialects in the Eskimo tongue and that, up to now, written Eskimo had consisted of a series of symbols. Missionaries station- ed in the north had attempted to standardize the language but had superimposed their own language on the native tongue. Mr. Gagne said that he felt that there was room for deavoring to develop a practical and economical system of writing the Eskimo language which could be used by the Eskimos themselves and eventually adopted by the Icelandic population will have a great deal in common with the Eskimo tongue and

Robarts' New Team

An axiom familiar to every tennis player is: "Never change a winning game; always change a losing one."

Premier Leslie Frost had been playing a winning game in provincial politics for a dozen years. Thus it was not to be expected that his successor, Premier John P. Robarts, would start his regime by making sweeping alterations and this has been confirmed by the announcement of the new cabinet. There has been a shuffle, but little else.

Nevertheless, there will certainly be an effort in many quarters to read some significance into the changes which have been made and it is probable that these have some real meaning for the future.

One man, John Root of Wellington-Dufferin, has been dropped from the cabinet, but is to be named to the Ontario Water Resources Commission. Two others, veterans Charles Daley and William Nickle of Kingston, remain in the cabinet, but without portfolios. Two men, Irwin Haskett of Ottawa South and Charles McNaughton of Huron, have been added to the cabinet. Five ministers have had their portfolios changed, George Wardrope returns reform institutions to mines, vacant since the death of James Maloney of Renfrew; William A. Stewart of Middlesex North, in the new premier's home district, from no portfolio to agriculture, a definite promotion; William Goodfellow of Northumberland from agriculture to highways, Charles Case of Grenville-Dundas from highways to municipal affairs and William Warrender of Hamilton Centre from municipal affairs to labor, a portfolio vacated by Charles Daley, who remains in the cabinet without portfolio.

Most interesting, perhaps, is how Mr. Robarts' rivals for the leadership have fared. Rev. A. W. Downer, former speaker, remains outside the cabinet. Three other contenders, Kelso Roberts, James Allan and Dr. Matthew Dymond, retain their old posts as attorney-general, provincial treasurer and minister of health respectively. George Wardrope went from reform institutions to mines, which should probably be construed as a promotion. There remains the seventh aspirant, Robert Macaulay, who not only retains his old duties as energy resources minister but has added to them the duties of the department of commerce and development, formerly under the wing of William Nickle of Kingston, in a new department to be known as that of economics and development.

Macaulay, who knows his support to Roberts on the final ballot for the leadership, thus appears to emerge as the right-hand man of the new premier. This makes it definitely a young man's government. One would expect this to be emphasized by future changes, which will probably be forthcoming once the new team has settled down and pulled in harness for a period lengthy enough to test it.

In His Cups

Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, one of the "Old Bolsheviks," is in disgrace.

The former president of the Soviet Union was turned away from the Lenin mausoleum reviewing stand, as the customary parade was held to mark the anniversary of the revolution.

Later, according to a report from Moscow he "broke away from a security guard." He "brushed aside an aide de camp who had apparently been appointed to keep an eye on him." Reaching the head table, he grabbed a glass from a passing waiter and clinked glasses with Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan and the ambassador for communist China. Finally the aide de camp "took Voroshilov firmly by the elbow and steered him out past the guards."

To the train for Siberia? Perhaps. The wording of the story has sinister overtones. But Voroshilov has a reputation as a hard drinker. Remembering this simple fact not only puts the story in a different light but also serves to explain how he could "argue his way past security men barring the entrance to the head tables," an accomplishment which, under other circumstances, could have been the preliminary to an assassination attempt—with unfortunate consequences to the security guards.

You do not need to leave your room. Remain sitting at your table and listen. Do not even listen, simply wait. Do not even wait, be quite still and solitary. The world will freely offer itself to you to be unmasked. It has no choice, it will roll in ecstacy at your feet.—Franz Kafka.

It's simply a question of an old man coming home to roost.—British author Somerset Maugham, 87, planning to end 33 years of self-exile on the French Riviera.

Case Against Shelters

By Norman Cousins in Saturday Review

No one can quarrel against a decision by a citizen to prepare today against possible dangers tomorrow. But at least he is entitled to full and factual information before making up his mind about fall-out shelters.

Indeed, he has the right to be protected against dishonest assurances of complete protection when no such assurances are possible or morally justifiable.

All the inventiveness that has found a way to kill a city with a single explosive and that has devised a vehicle to carry a charge of death from one continent to another, in fifteen minutes will not retire because people are going to burrow into the earth.

Modern war intends to hunt down the civilian wherever he is, suffocating him or paralyzing him or driving him into the open.

No ventilating system has yet been made available that can guard against gases that produce heart sickness, or disease germs that spread cancer, leukemia, plague, diphtheria, tularemia, brucellosis, typhoid fever, tuberculosis, typhoid fever, tetanus, dengue fever, yaws, smallpox, pneumonia, amoebic dysentry, malaria, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, Q fever, undulant fever, typhus — all of which are now in the arsenals of the major powers and primed for instant use.

When a hydrogen bomb goes off, it produces firestorms over a vast area.

A ten-megaton thermonuclear explosion will set loose firestorms over an area of 9,000 square miles.

Oxygen is consumed by firestorms. Shelters may be equipped to cool off the air but they can't bring it in if none exists.

Unless manufactured oxygen is made available, shelters in the areas affected by firestorms will become suffocation chambers.

The difficulties of providing it on a mass scale are regarded as insuperable. Moreover, its volatility under certain circumstances makes it a serious risk in its own terms.

The biggest problem in the city will be getting into a shelter in the first place and getting out of it in the second place.

And, even if warning should precede rather than follow an attack, it would be in the order of minutes.

Evacuating a city is beyond possibility. Even getting people into cellars is an unthinkable enterprise.

The idea that people in office buildings could take cover by clustering together in the hallways or basements of them has no validity in a situation involving multiple use of megaton nuclear bombs.

The purpose of a thermonuclear bomb is to destroy a city and all the people in it; as many such bombs as are available will be aimed at the people will be used.

For those city dwellers who are able, despite the limited warning time, to take refuge in deep city shelters, the principal problem will be getting them out of them—because of the tops of applied fire, the air will be overhead.

Testimony before Congressional committees has made it abundantly clear that thermonuclear attacks on cities would leave few survivors.

The danger in the suburban areas will be represented not so much by heat as by fire-storms and radiation.

It is undoubtedly true that some lives can be saved in suburban shelters, assuming ventilation and disease germs will not be critical factors.

But it is most certainly untrue that the restricted radiation after a few days would make safe episodic to safety levels.

Most of the radioactive materials released by a thermonuclear explosion are short-lived, but a few, particularly strontium and radioactive cesium, retain their killing power over many months.

Some bombs, however, are packed with long-lived radioactive bullets that are designed to clay close to the surface of the earth for a long time.

The main danger in country areas is that overwhelming dependence on the number of and nature of the bombs used in general attack.

If upwards of 25,000 megatons of nuclear explosives are used in a major war — and the United States and the Russians possess far more than this amount, according to Congressional testimony— the fall-out danger to all life in the northern latitudes will be a critical one.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has said that far more nuclear power is available for use than there human race could sustain. However, no one knows exactly how much nuclear tonnage will be exploded in a major war — and the United States and the Russians possess far more than this amount, according to Congressional testimony— the fall-out danger to all life in the northern latitudes will be a critical one.

Pen Pals for Peace Plan Eases Cold War

By JACK RUTTON

Canadian teen-agers have recently found a new weapon with which they can help ease the Cold War situation—their family stationery.

The result: officials have reported an upsurge in the number of teen-agers looking for pen pals overseas.

Letters from young people all over Canada seep out each week to Europe, Sierra Leone, Ghana, Latin America, in fact to every part of the globe.

Several Vancouver teen-agers have even struck up a correspondence with several young people in Moscow. But they also quietly report that the mail is obviously opened and read somewhere along the way.

Probably the most striking example of what a few letters can do has happened in Montreal where two brothers—Glenn and Keith Martin—decided to see what they could accomplish two years ago.

The two heard a song called "Let There Be Peace on Earth, Let It Begin With You," and were so impressed that they wanted as many young people as possible to hear it—not just in North America but overseas as well.

They launched a network of pen pals over the world and sent each of them a recording of the song. By now the song has been heard in more than 60 countries and has been translated into almost every language.

The languages include Zulu, Maori—even the African drum language. The record has even found its way behind the Iron Curtain, judging by several letters from Polish young people.

The latest triumph for the Martin brothers came recently with establishment of a similar group in Lagos, Nigeria. This group has already launched a strong radio and TV campaign.

Merle McSherree, a 19-year-old stenographer for TCA, has been corresponding with a Nigerian pen pal long before she heard of the Martin brothers' project. But she became enthusiastic and passed on their idea.

The seed apparently fell on fertile ground.

Dominic Agienoji, her correspondent, wrote back to say that he had formed a chapter in Lagos. His group has an ambitious manifesto which proposes to spread the message through debates, lectures, radio and TV programs.

The latest report we have is that correspondents in several other countries are also interested in forming similar groups—even if the group in Nigeria was first.

Glenn and Keith, who describe themselves simply as two young people who became enthusiastic about an idea, don't believe that the idea of pen pals will change the world.

But they do hope that even the simple act of writing to someone will help to stamp out prejudices, suspicion and misunderstandings rooted in ignorance. It's very difficult, they say, to misunderstand someone you call a friend.

JIVE TALK

Well, since attempting a brief glossary of teen-age jive terms last week, we've been receiving a steady stream of new suggestions. Here are a few of them:

An Ax—Any musical instrument.

The Attic—The back seat of his car.

Beard—A beatnik.

Burn—Borrow.

Cooled It—They aren't going steady any longer.

Ig—Ignore. I gather that the opposite or "she digs me" is "she ign me."

A Knife—A crew cut.

Vault—A car. This is also known in some quarters as "the bread box."

I might as well admit all over again that I hadn't heard one of these terms either. It's a horrible fate to be growing old.

NEW TEEN GROUP

The fastest growing teen organization in Canada seems to be the International Spade Association which is spreading up the Pacific Northwest coast.

Our correspondents tell me that the group began in Seattle about 10 years ago and has multiplied ever since. They've carved out a reputation for going out and finding worthy projects in each community.

My advice for anyone in a Spade club—keep digging!

Thousands of Canadian teen-agers have discovered that the pen is mightier than the sword in understanding each other. They are helping world understanding through pen pals, and their informal letters show a glimpse of the way Canadian youth think.

SEEKS TREASURE — Robert Restall, 55-year-old former Hamilton steelworker, emerges from one of the many shafts on Oak Island in a search for the legendary multi-million-dollar treasure of Captain Kidd. Restall has spent two years and about $25,000 in his hunt on the island, off the Nova Scotia coast 35 miles southwest of Halifax. (CP Photo).

Deserted Isle in Mahone Bay Has Attracted Adventurers Seeking Treasure for Years

OAK ISLAND, N.S. (CP)—Has Robert Restall spent two years and about $25,000 for nothing?

Many people around here will quickly reply that he has—that he'll never find "it" because "it" isn't there.

"It" is the legendary treasure of Oak Island, which has been attracting adventurers for years to the deserted isle in Mahone Bay on the Atlantic shore of Nova Scotia, 45 miles southwest of Halifax.

Since the first treasure hunt about 1795, hundreds of thousands of dollars have been sunk in the island in vain.

Mr. Restall, a native of Hamilton, apparently doesn't mind what people say. He seems to enjoy their scepticism. He is so confident in his project that he plans to spend another year on the island with his family.

For what? For a treasure worth perhaps $30,000,000, replies Mr. Restall, not the $200,000,000 popularly believed to have been deeply buried in Mr. Restall is looking for treasure buried by privateers three years after the notorious pirate, Captain Kidd, was hanged at Execution Dock in London in 1701.

DATE ON ROCK

Mr. Restall won't say much about his venture. He has unearthed "findings," but they are not gold, nor parchment, maps. They include a stone bearing the date 1704, a large boulder along the shore into which was cut a picture of a small ship whose spar points directly to an apex of rocks, and two marker stones bearing identical drill holes.

The treasure is supposed to have been divided into parts, but none of it lies at the bottom of the famous "money pit," often probed at great expense. Half of it, says Mr. Restall, lies in a side tunnel of the pit, the remainder in another tunnel where it was dug by the surging Atlantic.

Thalje as much as Mr. Restall will say about his opinions of the treasure's location.

In his 53 years Bob Restall has been many things: steelworker, home builder, motorcycle stunt rider. He leaps at an opportunity to do something different.

His wife Mildred was his partner in the former "globe of death" motorcycle act. She says she won't be disappointed if he fails, but neither will she be surprised if he succeeds.

NOWS HELP

What do their two sons think? They're young, and they're looking for treasure, seriously. Robert Jr., 20 helps his father with the back breaking digging, spends his spare time with his collection of books on car racing and hotrods. Rickey, 16, is taking a correspondence course with his mother's help.

It's a closely - knit family. If Mr. Restall says they'll be successful next year, then the family looks for success.

Mr. Restall, blocky and bushy-haired, first heard about Oak Island when he was a youngster in Hamilton. It planted then the idea that if I ever was well-heeled I was going to go to Oak Island and look for the treasure," he said. He never became "well-heeled," but nevertheless two years ago decided it was now or never.

LONELY LIFE

So he and his family with their dog left on Oct. 10, 1959, set up year-round residence on the island. They have no car, electricity, and make one trip a week to the mainland for groceries. It's a lonely life.

Mr. Restall has floated tons of equipment to the island, including a compressor and an old model car. A huge pump stands atop the pit, with hose scattered around it.

Since his arrival he has derived his own annual map of the treasure site. He has been plotting the fan-fingered system of tunnels through which the Atlantic rears in to flood the pit.

He claims to have found the starting place of this fan-shaped tunnel system, and plans to block it off, something that has defied previous searchers. When he has been done he will go in after the treasure, safe from the sea.

Since 1720, when three boys discovered a depression in the ground under the limb of an oak tree and dug down 10 feet to an oaken platform, subsequent searchers have found similar platforms at depth of 90 feet. On each platform were quantities of charcoal, putty and coconut fibre.

Augers have been driven to a depth of 176 feet. They are reported to have passed through oak chests, cement, metal, gold and pieces of parchment.

And at that depth the sea poured in, as it always does.

But not, Mr. Restall hopes, when he goes down.

Dept. Readies Equipment for Winter Season

The public works department has been quite busy over the past few weeks readying their equipment for the anticipated rigors of the winter season. This activity was climaxed on Wednesday evening by the inspection of the department's equipment. Attended by guests by a large number of members of city council.

Much construction work has been carried out also. The addition to the police station is well underway and work on the new facilities and alterations in the city hall are almost completed on the downstairs level. It is anticipated that work on the second floor alterations will commence in about two weeks' time, assistant city engineer Richard Kraft said yesterday.

The sidewalk construction, which was approved under the winter works program, has been proceeding well and will soon be reaching completion.

Besides readying the winter gear for action the department has been building up its sand-salt mixture stockpile to the point where a supply adequate to meet this winter's needs has been achieved.

Duplessis Organizer Faces Additional Perjury Charge

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—A 46-year-old Montreal lawyer faced a new charge of perjury today after he was found guilty of fabricating evidence against a political opponent.

Jean-Jacide Bertault, a Union Nationale party organizer, was convicted Thursday by jury of sending liquor planted in the car of Edouard Fortier.

Mr. Fortier, St. Johns sidesman and school teacher, was honorably acquitted of the liquor-possession charges resulting from the provincial general election June 22, 1960.

No sooner had the jury convicted Bertault, than the Crown charged him with perjuring himself during his testimony in his own defence. He was promptly re-attached.

Bertault, ordered held in jail, faces a maximum of five years in prison when he appears Nov. 13 for sentencing on the charge of fabricating evidence. The perjury charge will be heard the same day.

The jury deliberated one hour and 10 minutes before convicting Bertault, suspended earlier by the Montreal bar for running a liquor-licenced cafe while a lawyer.

The jury had to decide between the testimony of Marcel LaBarre, who said he and another man planted the liquor in Fortier's car, and Rev. Albert Raymond, Roman Catholic priest who testified he had talked to Bertault in a St. Johns hotel about the time LaBarre said Bertault was elsewhere.

The perjury charge was laid because of Bertault's own testimony that he had never worn glasses, although three Crown witnesses claimed to have seen him wearing dark horn-rimmed glasses during a previous trial.

Mrs. O'Neill is the former Blanche Ferguson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley of Canniffon, and Mr. O'Neill is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George O'Neill of Kingston.

Shortly after their marriage in 1911 they moved from Belleville to Deseronto where Mr. O'Neill was employed for 40 years by the Rathbun Seeding and Refining Company as their railway engineer. He retired from this work six years ago and since that time they have been living at 289 North Front Street in Belleville.

'Insurance' Topic at Parkdale MF

The Ladies' Missionary Fellowship of Parkdale Baptist Church met recently at the home of Mrs. Stewart Blake with ten members and two guests present. The president, Mrs. Robert Snyder, presided.

Following the Scripture reading and the business session, Mrs. B. Foster conducted the devotional, and gave an impressive talk on "Insurance," contrasting 'temporal' insurance with 'eternal' insurance, bringing out some startling facts. A good tempora insurance covers many emergencies in life, property, fire, theft, accident, with moderate premiums and pays good dividends. Whereas the 'eternal' insurance has all the premiums fully paid through Christ's death on Calvary's cross, and is free, God-given, and 'its dividends are joy and peace in the Holy Ghost, and in free to "whosoever" will accept this gift of grace.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. McKenzie. A time of fellowship was enjoyed after the close of the meeting.

Nigerian Missionary Tells of Work

The Women's Missionary Fellowship of the Alliance Church met on Wednesday night in the lower auditorium of the church for a special missionary service.

The special speaker for the evening was Mrs. Blythe Lehman, returned missionary from Nigeria. Mrs. Lehman showed pictures of Africa and told of the conditions in the country along with many personal experiences. Mrs. Lehman is a registered nurse and works in the dispensary at Jos. She spoke of the great need for nurses and doctors as there are so many calls for medical help, and told of the blessing the Gospel had brought both by the printed page and the spoken word. She closed her message by quoting Romans 10: 13 "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved."

The Scripture, Romans 10, was read by Mrs Elaine Landry. Mrs. E. Pickard and Mrs. R. Alyea favored with a vocal duet, "Will There be Some Star in Glory Land."

Mrs. Sackville Palmer, president of the group, thanked Mrs. Lehman for her challenging message and assured her of the prayers of the group for her and her work. Mrs. Doris Hawley closed the devotional part of the meeting in prayer. Refreshments were served and a time of fellowship was enjoyed. The conveners of the lunch were: Mrs. W. Simmons and Mrs. D. Benn with Mrs. H. Ward and Mrs. B. Masse assisting in the serving.

The Canniton - Corbyville Ladies' Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting on November 8th. Business and pleasure was combined when, prior to the business meeting, a Hallowe'en masquerade was held which resulted in much fun and guessing on the part of the members. The prize for the best costume was won by Mrs. Polish, the judges being Akela Kay Putman and Scoutmaster Stan Kerr.

Mrs. Turnidge, chairman of the Auxiliary, asked that the minutes of the previous meeting be read. The secretary, Mrs. Bronson, read letters of appreciation from several members for cards and flowers received. In giving her report the treasurer, Mrs. Hanna, showed that the Auxiliary was in a fairly healthy financial position. It was voted that Akela Kay Putman and Scoutmaster Stan Kerr each be given $5 to help with the troop and pack expenses. The Scout and Cub church service will be held on December 3.

A cleverly decorated "Owl" cake made by Mrs. Stewart was called for many complimentary remarks and was much enjoyed with coffee.

The next regular meeting on December 4th will be in keeping with the Christmas season.

GETS BIG GRANT — Dr. Irene Uchida, Vancouver-born Japanese-Canadian, is being winning international recognition for her work in genetics, the study of heredity. The U.S. health department has granted her $373,000 for her work in the next five years. Here Dr. Uchida holds a chart of genetic symbols in her one-room laboratory at Winnipeg Children's Hospital where she heads the medical genetics department. (CP Photo).

Dr. Irene Uchida, Native Of Vancouver, Heads Medical Genetic Dept. in Hospital

By TOM WILLIAMS

WINNIPEG (CP) — A slight, friendly Japanese - Canadian girl who laughingly recalls being considered a risk to Canada's wartime security is directing research here aimed at solving the mystery of deformity in newborn babies.

Dr. Irene Uchida, a native of Vancouver who heads the medical genetics department Winnipeg Children's Hospital, has received a $373,100 U.S. health department grant to help with her work during the next five years.

The grant, for "fundamental and clinical studies in human genetics," recognizes her outstanding work in the field since she graduated from the University of Toronto with a PhD in 1951.

With three assistants, she works long hours in a small one-room laboratory crammed with research equipment and reference material. The main objective is to find the hereditary causes of abnormalities in babies, with the ultimate hope of eliminating them.

AGE IS FACTOR

Among her early findings are indications that mental and physical deformities, such as mongolism, tend to occur more often in babies born to women in their late 30s or older and to women who undergo radiation, such as x - ray examination, during early conception.

She emphasized in an interview, however, that much more research is needed before these findings can be accepted as scientific fact.

Dr. Uchida moved from British Columbia to Toronto with her family in 1944. They were among thousands of Japanese residents of the Pacific coast moved inland by the government as a security measure during the Second World War.

"Ahead for Hubert. This would provide a visible demarcation between the work-self and his family-self. Chances are Arlene and the children would see more of him (in their spare-able hours) than if he followed our next proposal — a rented studio, be it ever so humble. However, he could have his meals there, and bring his pleasant face home.

Finally, he and Arlene can agree on one area at home, and only one, which is his — all his — where he is free to rest and less he drags them in. The rest of the house is free, at all times, to the family.

If Hubert wants the best of two possible worlds, he must learn to straddle gracefully. At present, he's destroying one for the other.

No Bills Should Be in Sight If Woman Pays

MONTREAL (CP)—If you're a business woman on an expense account, how do you go about paying in a restaurant when you take a male client to lunch?

"All arrangements for paying for a meal or other entertainment should be made in advance so that no bills are in evidence," says Mrs. Ian Munro of Toronto, first woman president of a Canadian chapter of the Hotel Sales Management Association.

"On no account should the business woman reach for the check. There are few things that make a man feel smaller."

Mrs. Munro, who was active in forming the Ontario chapter of the association and has been its president since 1956, talked about the problems of women in business while here for a symposium on hotel sales management.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Bragging is an unconscious habit that many people develop to get attention — much to the chagrin, unfavorable. Do you try to impress? Answer Yes or No to the following:

1. When discussing clothes, you "casually" mention what you have by this or that "name" designer?

2. Among stay-at-homers, do you like to reminisce about the last time I saw Paris — or Rome — or Timbuktu?"

3. When someone gets a new car, do your top his enthusiasm by mentioning the new phone you just put in your newer car?

4. Are your husband's fabulous business deals part of your regular over-coffee conversation?

5. Do you sound off to your mundane neighbors about the "greats" you bob-sob with when you go to town?

6. When children are discussed, do you insist that yours are the prettiest, smartest and most cultured in the neighborhood?

7. Do you often remind others what a true-blue friend you are?

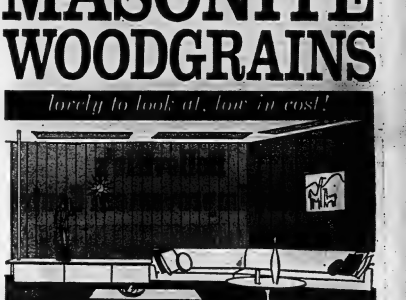
8. Do you "plushingle" adjust how popular you are and how generous loves you, including babies?

9. Do you often boast about your outstanding successes, both culinary and as a hostess?

10. Do you like to brag about your knowledge of human nature and how well you understand people?

Scoring:

All "Yes!" — Down, Fido! You're putting on the dog!



All "No!" — Someone should give you a pat on the back since you obviously don't do it yourself.

Half and Half — You're a shrinking violet with illusions of grandeur.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Arlene T. — I don't stand the noise and noise of his work, and you more day.

Hubert T. — We can't subject the rest for a studio, and I can't afford the travel time to and fro.

Arlene T. — Huey makes home flexible as his drafting office and the result is a three-ring circus. Only it's not as funny or entertaining. It's gruesome!

He's a commercial artist and he could work on the premises of his employers. But he'd rather not battle himself. And he just won't bother with regular hours. So our home is a mess; it's all lit up at 3 and 4 in the morning if that's when Huey feels in the mood for work; and worst of all, he tears his hair if the children or I break in on him while he's "creating."

And, oh yes! He needs the kind going at full blast to quiet his nerves. Well, what about ours? We're entitled to a home, too.

Hubert T. — Arlene knew the type I worked before she married me. In fact the first years of our marriage we lived in my studio loft and she loved it. . .

What bothers her now is that she can't burst in on me any old time, the way she used to. Before, I was just a student, big now as a serious breadwinner. I've contracted for regular tough and exacting assignments. I can't have the kids interrupting me to look at their new puppies, or Arlene stuffing my mouth with the cookies down once she's just baked! They must wait for when I'm between jobs.

Why do I work at home? Because I'm a free lance and I work for several different firms. It would be silly to keep moving my equipment.

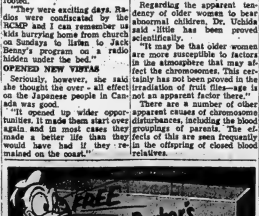
The Council: Pity the poor family — especially the children — for when Daddy is there but not there. That is he's on the premises, big as life, but as unapproachable as though surrounded by barbed wire! Instead of barbed wire, the repellent is called "making a living". It's a familiar setup with doctors, dentists, writers and others who, like Robert, attempt to play two roles under one roof.



When these dual-purpose messages succeed, it's because both parties are willing to work out some clear - cut ground rules so that home and family life get a fair chance. Failure to do so leads to the sort of frantic rebellion we see here from Arlene and the undisciplined indulgence in temperamental behavior by Hubert.

Here's a man who wants the South Seas freedom of a Gauguin, but also the comfort and steadying influence of a wife and children. And here's his wife who, married to a sensitive and talented artist, knows she must be a special sort of artist, but balks at the self-abnegation Hubert demands.

Don't they know they can't have the roses without the thorns? But here are a few suggestions for blighting the thorns considerably: first of all, we believe, would be a separate "studio" for Hubert. This would provide a visible demarcation between the work-self and his family-self. Chances are Arlene and the children would see more of him (in their spare-able hours) than if he followed our next proposal — a rented studio, be it ever so humble. However, he could have his meals there, and bring his pleasant face home.

Or finally, he and Arlene can agree on one area at home, and only one, which is his — all his — where he is free to rest and less he drags them in. The rest of the house is free, at all times, to the family.

If Hubert wants the best of two possible worlds, he must learn to straddle gracefully. At present, he's destroying one for the other.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

[A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems]

Adopted Baby

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I was interested in the answer to Mr. J. S. contained in your column of October 3rd. Although I usually applaud good sense approach in answering the problems of your correspondents, in this case I don't think you have made it nearly strong enough when you say "but be very sure you do not make any of your daughter's decisions for her. If there is a strong affection between these two people . . ."

I realize now that a young girl caught in these unfortunate circumstances is so filled with guilt and confusion that she is vulnerable to any line of reasoning that an over-zealous social worker or clergyman hands her. This happened to us! We only knew about the baby twelve days before it was born.

The easiest way out does seem to be adoption, but after three years of living with remorse, I have now come to the realization that any kind of marriage is better than giving the baby away. "In our case there was nothing more vicious about the man involved than that he was a coward and weak.

My girl still cries almost every day for her baby. She goes from one job to another and from place to place hoping to find happiness. She has not yet come to the realization that the basis for happiness comes from our spiritual beings within ourselves.—A HEARTBROKEN MOTHER.

DEAR HEARTBROKEN:—Either decision could bring remorse. Your daughter is thinking of an attractive little baby in a bassinet—not of the person he would grow up to be or the world he would face. Marriage might have brought a worse happiness for that well-loved baby.

Your girl's grief is the reason social workers stress the importance of having an unmarried mother think through her own decision, realizing it is one she will have to live with. Because of her panic—and yours—efforts are made to consider all angles. The very brief period you had to handle the problem moves me to urge others in such situations to consult the local child caring agency much sooner—just as soon as they know their condition.

Where it seems the marriage has a chance of success, help toward this end is available. But we don't want one more statistic, one more broken marriage, one more disturbed child, so we tread carefully.

TO HOPEFUL:—I cannot prescribe for skin conditions. This is up to your doctor. Ask him whether you could just put the lotion on at night, and whether he could suggest something that won't show for daytime use.

(Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of McGill, Toronto and McMaster Universities, and has had broad experience in social work. If you would like help with your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: The remarkable adventures of a tuna fish, the almost human behavior of the whale, and a new estimate of the distance from earth to the sun.

HOW FAST THE TUNA

The tuna fish ranges far and wide and apparently wastes little time en route. A giant bluefin tuna was tagged by scientists off Cat Cay in the Bahamas last June 10. It was caught off Bergen, Norway, just 122 days later—some 3,300 direct miles away.

That means it covered some 32 miles a day, if it started the day it was tagged, swam the distance in a straight line without any sidetrips, and was caught the day it arrived.

HOW HUMAN THE WHALE

Many whales and dolphins, besides being mammals like men, are also unusually intelligent animals—and scientists have long been wanted to study them in their natural roaming area.

Although the size of the ocean and the unco-operative nature of the subjects make this difficult, scientists have been able to get some strange, homey views of some, such as the Pacific pilot whale. These some whales travel in hunting formations, feeding school, and as a loafing groups. They have been seen to assist injured schoolmates. Mothers have been known to support the bodies of their dead young. And, like the human, the pilot whale tries to protect its young from capture.

HOW HIGH THE SUN

Giant radar ears that keep on the lookout for ballistic missile attack have been used to get a new idea of how far the earth is from the sun.

That critical distance is the one that astronomers use to judge the size and distances of the solar system. But an accurate figure is hard to come by and new measurements are constantly being made.

This time Radio Corporation of America scientists used the ballistic warning radar to measure the distance for the planet Venus and translated this distance into the distance to the sun. Their figure: 93,407,500 miles, give or take perhaps 300 miles.

It agrees closely with other recent measurements but it is some 40,000 miles greater than a 1950 figure generally considered most authoritative until now.

SCOTTISH PALACE

The white granite Balmoral Castle, royal residence in Scotland, was built by Queen Victoria in 1854.

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP)—A pugnacious white fox has been donned up at the University of Ottawa to help a federal biologist in his two-year study of the Arctic breed.

The fox, titled its mate a few days after arriving but has since settled down under the care and scrutiny of Andrew MacPherson, 29-year-old biologist with the Canadian Wildlife Service.

Mr. MacPherson wants to watch the animal grow as he continues at first hand studies he has made in the Northwest Territories of the white fox, a big dollar earner for Eskimo and Indian trappers.

A native of England who grew up in St. John's, Nfld., Ottawa and Montreal, he has been studying the fox in the Arctic since he joined the wildlife service in 1958 after graduating from McGill University.

"Sometimes they're not the most pleasant companions," he said in an interview "When he does get up—usually about 1 p.m.—it's to eat. He's a finicky feeder, made like that by the feeding habits of the tiny animal and watched it grow in its natural habitat.

CMON NOW—Andrew MacPherson, 29, Canadian Wildlife Service biologist, tries to coax a white Arctic fox out of a corner of its den at the University of Ottawa. Mr. MacPherson is making a two-year study of the fox, which killed its mate a few days after arrival at the university. Main object of the study is to learn about the reproduction cycle of the fox, often abundant one year and scarce the following year.—CP Photo

The work is expected to continue for several years. So far he has found that the fox population depends a great deal on food supply. Foxes thrive on lemming and when Red Arctic rodent is in short supply the number of foxes drops.

Predators such as arctic and grizzly bears also take their toll of the young.

Mr. MacPherson works summers from a but set up on the site of Aberdeen Pavilion in the Mackenzie District and winters in a laboratory at the university here.

Russian's Status Can Be Measured by Size of Apt., All Educationists Live High

NASHVILLE, Tenn. AP) — Grigori Grigorovitch Tovmasian lives well.

He is the principal of the Pierce Pyaschkin School in Yerevan, Armenia. Like all educationists in the Soviet Union, he enjoys a status in the community far above that accorded his fellows in the United States.

Although he has only three children, he has a two-bedroom apartment.

With the warmth which characterizes Armenians everywhere, he invited me to his home for dinner after an interview at the school.

The Tovmasian apartment is on the third floor. The stairway, although spartan, is clean. On the second landing, there was a child's pedal model automobile. The fragrant odors of borsch and Middle Eastern dishes filled the stairwell.

Mrs. Tovmasian is a pleasant woman, perhaps 10 years younger than her 46 - year - old husband.

The front door of the apartment opens into a little hall. On the right is the kitchen. There is a gas ring, a table, a sink. Various items are hung on the spokes around the wall. Again, everything is spotlessly clean.

The hall ends in the living room, which is about 16 by 12 feet. A dining table is in the middle of the room, covered with a white linen cloth. There is a glass flower vase on the table with something resembling asters. A bowl is overflowing with grapes and pears. There is, also, a cabinet, straight chairs and a modern couch — the living suite.

Both bedrooms open off the living room. In the larger, at the front of the house, were the Tovmasian's two beds and a rather ornate baby bed for their four-year-old son. In all of the Soviet Union, I did not see a double bed.

Surprisingly, there is a small electric refrigerator in the main a lot by implication.

bedroom.

The smaller bedroom has single beds for the two older boys and a desk.

Tovmasian pays $6 a month rent plus utilities. The total rarely exceeds $11. He must also maintain the apartment. Other tenants have gleaned — in their balconies at their own expense to form another room. Tovmasian's salary is $230 a month.

Another tiny room, about the size of a butler's pantry, opens off the living room. Three of the walls are covered to the ceiling with books. Many are professional volumes and editions of Russian and American classics.

Dinner at the Tovmasians began with a toast in English which a member of Tovmasian's faculty had written out for him in American characters, pressing a hope for a better international climate, and ended with the inevitable Russian "za vashe zdorovie" — to your health and friendship.

Other toasts and several more exhortations "za mir ee druzhbu" — to peace, Tovmasian accompanied me to the car. He said he had just made up his mind that his four - year - old son would soon teach him a few words.

The Tovmasians' situation is far from typical.

But in the Hills section of Moscow, where the most attractive new residential buildings are located, I visited another apartment briefly.

It had three rooms, including a bath and kitchen.

Moscow veterans told me that this is the usual situation.

The Soviet government admits a housing problem exists, but, it promises now that every family will have an apartment by a pledge which tells

Time to Stop Talking Says Labor Priest

TORONTO (CP) — A labor priest Thursday night urged the Royal York Hotel and the Rotary and Club Employees Union (CLC) to forget personal or organizational differences and speed a quick settlement of the 26-week-old strike at the CPR hotel.

Rev. Charles McGuire, director of the Catholic Labor School, told a meeting of the strikers they had gained a good deal of public support by their conduct of the strike.

But it was time to stop talking of winning or losing strikers; there was a problem rather than a strike to be resolved.

Earlier, C. H. Johnston, Canadian vice - president of the striking union, sent a telegram to Ontario's new labor minister offering to brief him on the union's position in the strike.

The telegram was sent in response to a statement by the minister, W. K. Warrender, that he will not seek to settle the strike that began April 24.

REJECTS OFFER

Royal York manager Angus MacDonald's only comment was that the hotel had already used all the George department's facilities. "Mr. Johnstone knows our position," he said, "and it is willing to sit down and discuss it, we are always available."

But Mr. Johnstone presented a board of referees rejected a strikers' appeal against a decision barring them from unemployment insurance, and two carpenters' Union (CLC) officials dissociated the union from a statement by one of its members defending present employees of the hotel.

The board of referees set up under the Unemployment Insurance Act decided by a 2-to-1 vote that the hotel was operating at less than 85-per-cent efficiency because of the strike.

Under terms of the act a work stoppage is considered to have ended once the struck firm is operating at 85 per cent of normal.

The two Carpenters' Union officials spoke against a statement by John Dyke, a member of the union's Local 27, who had objected to the present Royal York employees being referred to as "vita, scabs and strike breakers."

Mr. Dyke told the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Labor in Windsor the present workers were entitled to the same rights as anyone else.

Said Angus Smith, secretary of the union's Toronto area district council: "Our union is supporting the Royal York strikers, financially, morally and in every other way possible.

"As far as unions are concerned, strikebreakers are a scourge."

X-15 Rocket Plane Streaks At Speed of 4,070 MPH

EDWARDS AIR BASE, Calif. (AP)—A United States Air Force pilot flew the X-15 a record 4,070 miles an hour Thursday in an all-out test of the rocket plane's top speed. Then he made a perfect landing with a shattered windshield.

Maj. Bob White, 37, who has maneuvered his way out of many a tight spot in the edge-of-space research craft, said coolly afterward: "I was never in danger at any time."

While pushed the X-15 70 miles an hour beyond its designed top speed of 4,000 m.p.h. the previous record was 3,620 m.p.h.

His roaring flight—the craft's skin temperatures rose to 1,100 degrees Fahrenheit — climaxed the speed half of the X-15's dual speed - altitude research mission.

There are no plans to try to fly it faster. Next step, possibly next week, will be a try at hitting the designed maximum speed of 2,500 miles an hour, 3,600 miles. But the X-15 may eventually soar to 100 miles or more.

White and the stub - winged X-15 were dropped from a B-52 mother ship over the California desert. He rocketed to 90,000 feet, leveled off and hit his 4,070 m.p.h. mark just as the mighty rocket engine exhausted its fuel after 86 seconds' burning time.

He coasted to 100,000 feet, maneuvering to test high-speed handling and also the X-15's electric autopilot, then began gliding back for his landing.

At 70,000 feet, moving at 1,500 m.p.h., the outer panel on the right side of the windshield shattered. The inner panel didn't crack.

"The shattering," White said, "was probably due to thermal (heat) expansion and contraction of the windshield frame." "Suspension period had expired."

Youth Fined $1,500 in B.C. Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 20-year-old "product of parental pampering and over-indulgence" was fined $1,500 in suburban North Vancouver Thursday for breaking and entering and theft.

Magistrate A. D. Pool imposed the fine and the description on Michael John Hilker. He also sentenced him to one day in jail.

The fine was paid immediately by Hilker's father Gordon, director of promotion and publicity for the Vancouver International Festival.

The youth pleaded guilty to breaking into a cafe with a younger accomplice and stealing bottled beer and cigarettes worth $18.45.

"I realize $1,500 is a terrific fine but there is no reason in this world why you shouldn't go to jail for six months," said the magistrate.

He cited Hilker's record of three convictions for being in possession of liquor as a minor and three traffic convictions.

"I gave you warning after warning in this court. You failed to heed them and your family failed to drive them home."

The magistrate said he had suspended the youth's driving licence on one occasion "and his father turned up in court before begging for its return before the suspension period had expired."

Separatists Called Angry Young Men

MONTREAL (CP)—The separatists, described by former prime minister Louis St. Laurent as new versions of angry young men, had cause to vote today over sharp verbal sparring from three party whose concept.

Separatism, which commands a large vocal minority that seeks to create a nation of Quebec apart from the rest of Canada, was attacked in three major speeches Thursday.

"An appeal to disaster," cried Associate Defence Minister Pierre Sevigny, "almost a betrayal of the memory of those men who founded and gradually built Canada." He spoke to a Canada Club meeting.

General Manager Marcel Ouimet of the publicly - owned CBC's French - language radio and television networks, said separatism, if successful, would mean the end of the corporation in Canada.

Thorough radio and television "we have been able to awaken the interest, sympathy and understanding of our English-speaking countrymen concerning the French and their culture is the same as that of other French-speaking people," Mr. Ouimet said in a speech to the Montreal Rotary Club luncheon's Association.

Mr. St. Laurent, in a lecture at St. Joseph's University yesterday here, while rapping the separatists, also had some sharp words to say about English-speaking Canadians who he hoped someday will feel "it is not condescension on their part to learn French and live as well as English in intercourse with fellow Canadians."

In another speech, at the convention of the Professional Association of French - Language Industrialists, Prof. Rosario Courteau left some of the sharpest on French businessmen.

Prof. Courteau, vice-dean of economics at the University of Sherbrooke, said French-speaking businessmen are "content to fulfil advantage of the opportunities universities are offering them."

State Secretary Dorion sold a meeting of the Quebec Progressive - Conservative Association of Montreal secession by October 1 was "a lie and doesn't take into account "historic and geographic realities."

Fleming Asks U.S. for Broader Trade Policies

WINDSOR (CP)—An appeal to the United States for "broader, bolder" trade policies to help Canada overcome difficulties from development of the European Common Market was made on Thursday night by Finance Minister Fleming.

Speaking to Anglo Britain and the Common Market, in their own interests, to unite themselves with the prosperity of the rest of the world in working out a "new world trade pattern."

"In terms of sustained economic growth, I am confident there is no such thing as self-sufficiency," Mr. Fleming said in a speech at Assumption University's annual seminar on Canadian-American affairs.

Fundamental problems faced not only Canada but the entire free world from the creation of the six-nation Common Market into a "powerful trade bloc" the Six may be joined by Britain, plus many seeking associate, importing nation.

URGES U.S. TO ACT

The U.S., he said, not be indifferent to the repercussions European integration of such magnitude would have, through out the world.

"More is required than an attitude of neutrality, however benevolent, regarding developments overseas. . . .

"The United States could take the lead, and I trust that it will, in international co-operative efforts aimed at flexible, realistic and effective solutions to these problems."

Mr. Fleming painted a dark picture of Canada's trade negotiations with the Common Market, which is moving to lift all barriers on the amongst its members and create a common tariff against goods from other countries.

In sessions of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which began more than a year ago, Canada has had difficulties in seeking to ensure that its trading rights in the six Common Market countries were preserved.

The Common Market's policies on agricultural products "appear to be highly restrictive. About 15 per cent of Canada's exports to the Common Market last year were agricultural products.

Protraits of First Fourteen Breeders Named to Fame To Be Unveiled at Fair

TORONTO (CP)—The first 14 members of the new Canadian Agriculture Hall of Fame were named Thursday.

The Royal Agricultural Winter Fair announced the names of the farmers and breeders whose "vision, skill and enthusiasm" made outstanding contributions to agriculture. Portraits of the 14 will be unveiled Sunday at the fair.

The first 14 are:

Joseph E. Brethour (1886-1941), a pioneer breeder of Yorkshire hogs at his Burford, Ont., farm. By crossing Yorkshires imported from England in 1890 with Canadian breeds he produced a distinctive strain that gave Canada a thriving industry in the bacon trade with Britain.

Duncan O. Bell (1875-1950), renowned breeder of Jersey cattle whose contribution brought the Canadian Jersey breed fame in general and his own Brampton, Ont., farm in particular.

William H. Gerrie (1870-1924), a pioneer Guernsey breeder at his Gerrie farm in Yarmouth County, N.S.

BRED SHORTHORNS

John Duthie (1866-1909), a shorthorn cattle importer and breeder who was largely agriculture minister between 1900 and 1905. He played a leading role in Northern Ontario development and gave his name to Duthie Bay.

Alexander Mercer (1878-1961), a Fraser Valley dairy farmer who was president of the Milk Producers' association and was first president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada.

Peter McCarthur (1882-1954), a Dundas county farmer and writer of Ayrshire cattle, who created the famous Cherry Bank Ayrshire herd at Port Hope, Ont., in 1907 and worked to improve conditions for the dairy farmer as president of both the United Milk Producers of Quebec and the Dairy Farmers of Canada.

Maximum Term Of Thirty Years Given Spy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense and spying pleas for mercy by his lawyer, Irwin C. Scarbeck Thursday as were three 10-year sentences—the maximum permitted—and 30 years' imprisonment for every count the United States Army Polish Communist agent.

Federal Judge Leonard Walsh meted out 10 - year terms to each of three guilty counts returned by a jury against the 34-year-old former U.S embassy aide in Warsaw.

The judge, who said that making an example in this case was a factor he had to keep in mind, specified that the terms were to be served consecutively for a total of 30 years.

If the conviction and sentence are upheld on appeal, Justice department lawyers said Scarbeck would not be eligible for a parole until he had served 10 years.

Scarbeck was convicted Oct. 27 after a 3½-week trial. He was charged with passing secret documents to Polish agents who surprised him in bed with a 20-year-old Warsaw girl.

A married man with three children by his second wife, Scarbeck contended during his trial that he submitted to demands of the agents to spare his family and to protect the girl.

His wife, Karen, 37, stood by him throughout.

In pleading for leniency, defence lawyer Samuel Klein said Scarbeck had turned over material that was classified but did not involve U.S. security.

Kennedy Again Rejects Unpoliced Test Moratorium

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Soviet Premier Khrushchev's informal offer to resume an unpoliced moratorium on nuclear tests is angrily rejected by President Kennedy with a biting comment that the United States and Britain may have pooled more and more and is not likely to be fooled again.

Kennedy's reference to the 1958 - 61 moratorium during which the United States alleges Russia secretly prepared for the precedented atmospheric tests while seeking a treaty and negotiating a nuclear test ban treaty.

Now Khrushchev comes along, after exploding almost three dozen megaton-size bombs in about two months — including one of about 58 megatons and another estimated at more than 30 megatons—and says he is willing to stop "without any delays."

The Khrushchev regime, faced with mounting world criticism, attempts to equate its explosions with the argument that failure of the moratorium the Western powers extended for three years tonnage than the Russians and therefore the Russians have every right to catch up.

Now Kennedy responds by saying that in all the testing over the years, the total exploded in the air by the Western powers, including one megaton by France, came to 126 megatons, compared with 170 megatons for the Russians.

What's more, Kennedy has ordered preparations for resumption of atmospheric shots in case further study of the Soviet detonations reveals a need by the United States to set off such explosions in order to maintain its world nuclear superiority.

And Kennedy's aides add that the Soviet proposal is a step about ending the nuclear race all he has to do is sign the draft of the nuclear test ban treaty gathering dust at Geneva. The United States and Britain signed and sign the treaty, which includes inspection and controls, some months ago. Russians have rejected.

BLAME U.S.

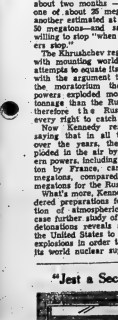
Meanwhile world "opinion" against nuclear tests increases and Russia blames the United States that be seems to have accomplished what he wanted in air tests—a pledge which attempt to climb aboard the bandwagon as stubbornly ignoring work pleas and refusing a new moratorium.

Kennedy's own guest, Prime Minister Nehru of India, is among those pleading with Kennedy to accept a new moratorium and resume the negotiations.

At the same time Kennedy appears prepared to advise a new generation of nuclear weapons which would be described as a fast-sifting neutron bomb for use against massed armored forces.

Amid all these pressures and counter-pressures Kennedy may have to wait a long time before he can set off any big new weapons to the air.

Comet Rushing Past Earth Can Be Seen



NEW YORK (AP)—A comet, moving through space at 26 miles a second, is rushing past the earth. For the next four days it will be visible from most of the northern hemisphere.

The comet will appear as a faint patch of light in the sky. It will be bigger, but not more brighter, than the weakest stars in the Little Dipper, say astronomers at Hayden Planetarium, New York City.

It is called Comet Seki, after the Japanese astronomer who discovered it last month.

L. E. Cunningham of the University of California and S. G. Marsden of Yale University, estimate it will pass within 10,000,000 miles of earth on Dec. 15. By then it will be below the southern horizon for most of North America.

'The Hermit of the Barrens'

The following article received from Mr. Harry M. Moore, of Pembroke, Ont., was sparked by the story on an old Hudson Bay Post and church, at Fort St. John site, which appeared in the press recently.

Mr. Moore is no stranger to these parts. He is a retired newspaper-man, author and sportsman, who at one time owned the now defunct Pembroke Courier Advocate. He has many friends in this district.

By HARRY M. MOORE

The death of Phillip H. Godsell, PEGS, in Calgary recently recalls a letter he wrote to me, a letter which, because of its contents, is worth publishing here.

Mr. Godsell began his letter by saying that "I was in charge of the Revelon Freres trading post at Fort St. John as long ago as 1912, and the only other white man there was Brian Beaton, the Hudson's Bay factor (and after whom a river among other things was named). In 1923-27, back with the Hudson's Bay Company again now as inspecting officer to drive out a bunch of 'free traders'. I opened up an overland fur trade route from Fort St. John to Fort Nelson, which later became the first 300 mile link in the Alaska highway".

Then he tells the story of the mysterious "Jack" (John) Hornby. As he wrote: "I interned him the 'Hermit of the Barrens' — a name that has stuck. I was not a friend of his for I considered him too big a risk to advance credit to on account of his mode of life, but I did know him very well and prophesied exactly what would happen to him. That he would leave his bones for the wolves in the barrens to gnaw. He did, along with those of his two mixed companions. He had trained for the British Diplomatic Service, then came to Canada and married himself in the barren lands."

He would go in with the slenderest equipment: a battered canoe, a sleigh dog, a little grub, a rifle and lots of ammunition. A year or two later he would come out to some fort, hundreds of miles away, emaciated and starving, with a black beard flowing to his waist, spend a few weeks consorting with Indians, then hit for the barren lands again. One spring a bunch of Fort Rae Indians saw what they thought was a wolf dragging itself over the snowfields and stalked it for the $50 bounty. The wolf turned out to be Hornby, starving as usual, and too weak to walk. They had to quit their spring muskrat hunting to nurse Hornby around until they finally got him safely to Fort Resolution. And the RSC lost the debts of the Indians.

"Then he took Capt. Critchell Bullock with him into the barrens to hunt the musk-oxen. They spent the winter in the treeless barrens in a wolf den. In January an Indian brought two strange stained letters to Sgt. Clifford at Fort Resolution. One was from Critchell Bullock saying that Hornby was going crazy, the other from Jack Hornby saying that Bullock was going crazy. Clifford had to send a two-man patrol into the barrens, some 800 miles return journey by dog team. Since neither was quite crazy they had to return without taking any action.

About 1934 Hornby returned to the barrens from England with young Christian (16) and Adelard (about 30), totally inexperienced who he was taking into the Thelon country in the tundras. As usual he carried only a modicum of food, intending to live off the country with rifles and ammunition. From the time they left Pike's Portage on Great Slave Lake by dog team inspecting the HBC posts, and always made inquiries at all the Indian camps in case there was some word of Hornby.

In July, 1928, Harry S. Wilson, leading a party of explorers along the Thelon River sighted a deserted cabin in a small oasis of spruce trees. Going ashore they found the bodies of three dead men outside the cabin. Within they found the body of young Christian who had survived the others by some six weeks. The always uncertain caribou had failed to follow their usual paths of migration and the three had starved to death. For months they had survived on rotten skins and scraps of food thrown out in the fall and which had become frozen, then one by one they had perished of starvation. Christian in his journal left with the Mounted Police escort in the summer, buried the bodies and brought out their diaries and effects. It wrote the whole story in my book "The Vanishing Frontier" and some time later I received a nice letter from young Christian's school in England thanking me for filling in spots in this dramatic tragedy which were missing in Christian's diary.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

There should be a nostalgic touch for a lot of hockey fans tonight when Coach Jean Paul Lemirande trots out his Belleville "Thamelondake" for their first screening and action.

Lemmy is giving his city intermediate "A" squad its first organized workout against Coach Gordie Bell's strong junior "B" powerhouse in an exhibition tilt. The fun starts at nine o'clock.

Not a few of the former McFarland's world champions will be out, like Lemmy, Fleet Coogan, "Weiner" Brown, Davy Jones, Turk Rearing, Keith MacDonald, Floyd Crawford, Les Burke, Lionel Bethay, and others, not to mention some ever-age juniors who won't weakon the club.

However, word has it that reputations are not scaring Bell's Beardless Beakerees, and the youngsters will go all out to back a debut on the guys who made history for the city more years than one.

It is hoped a large number of fans will be on hand to see the city's hockey squads in action.

Reports from Napanee indicate the Comets who will enter the Intermediate "B" playdowns with Belleville, won't be any pushovers for any team in the loop.

Coach Jack Douglas has been working the squad hard and has such players as former Comets as, George Jeakins, Gabby White, Johnny Green, Pat Gilmour, Tom Goodfellow and Ted Toppenmal under his wing. From Kingston he has the Hamilton brothers, Dewy, Don and Bob, although Dewy is on the doubtful list. Bud Aylesworth of junior baseball fame, is also trying out with the team. Sid Faulkner, last year with the Picton Juniors, has been working out, as has Don Bellringer.

Howe Sparks Wings Win

By LAURENT CHARBON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Claude Provost has chopped five inches off the handle of his hockey stick and has lashed him bloom into a big scorer for Montreal Canadiens.

During the National Hockey League's all - star game at Chicago in October, Provost observed that Gordie Howe, a 26 - goal man in 14-plus seasons with Detroit Red Wings, was topping the handle of his stick.

He tried the idea and it worked.

Provost got three more goals the 11th, 13th and 19th in his 13 games — Thursday night to power the Canadiens to a 5-2 rout of Toronto Maple Leafs at Montreal.

While Provost was turning in the first three - goal performance of his seven - season NHL career, Howe was having another of his big nights for the Red Wings, setting up goals for Alex Delvecchio and Norm Ullman as the Wings rallied for a 2-1 decision over Boston Bruins.

The Canadiens' win — their first in four starts—gave them sole possession of first place with 18 points, two more than the idle New York Rangers. Toronto is third, three points behind Montreal.

WINGS MOVE UP

The Wings pulled into a tie for fourth place with Chicago Black Hawks, three points ahead of Boston.

Provost had scored at least once in each of Canadiens' last five games and has had at least one point in all big team's starts this season.

The three goals permitted him to regain the league's individual scoring leadership from New York's Andy Bathgate with 23 points to Bathgate's 21.

Montreal got its other goals from Claude Ruel, Bobby and Billy Hoyda. Red Kelly and Frank Mahovlich tallied for the Leafs.

The Canadiens might have run up a higher score if it hadn't been for goalie Johnny Bower's outstanding work. The Leaf veteran turned aside 40 of 45 Montreal shots, 19 of them in the second period.

At Detroit, the Bruins jumped into a 1-0 lead at 14:11 of the second period — Johnny Bucyk scoring off a power play. Dickie Moore tied the score 14 89 seconds later on a long pass from Howe.

HOWE FEUDS WITH HEAD

Ullman got the winner with just 9 seconds remaining. He took Howe's pass and lifted the puck over Bruins goalie Don Head of the Bruins.

The game was enlivened by a feud between Howe and Head, probably the most pugnacious goalie ever to play in the NHL. Head, who already has had two majors for fighting this season, knocked his stick over Howe's leg in the first period during a scramble near the Bruins' net. In the third period, Howe rocks Head into a corner and belted him away.

Both times Head played for several seconds without a stick in his hands. He already has two assists to get a shot at him.

Then at 12:07 of the third period, Head drew a minor penalty for tripping the Detroit right winger.

There are no games scheduled tonight. On Saturday night, Chicago will be at Montreal and Detroit at Toronto.

Sunday, it's Montreal at Detroit, Toronto at Boston and Chicago at New York.

Moore Gives Cleroux Brush-Off

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — A boxer who gets to Archie Moore's age — whether it is — has to have a lot more going for him than just boxing guy.

So the ring Archie is a master at squeezing an advantage >ry. He lays groundwork well in advance with subtle psychology.

Take the press conference called by promoter Eddie Quinn to announce Moore's Dec. 9 bout here with Bob Cleroux, Canada's eager rough - hewn light-heavyweight champ.

Young Cleroux was there in full hour, a trace of impatience discernible, before Moore made a grand entrance, outfitted in a tuxedo and swinging a walking stick.

Archie, suave and smiling, paused for a brief round of handshaking while flashbulbs popped. Then one of Quinn's hirelings hooked him under the arm.

"Come meet Bob," the man said.

Cleroux stood a few paces away, directly opposite Moore. He straightened himself and moved toward the two.

Archie's gaze swung around the room. He looked blankly at Cleroux for a fleeting instant. But his eyes moved away in an obvious gesture of non-recognition.

Then he allowed himself to be led toward Bob.

You could see the hurt look in the kid's eyes.

Later, someone asked Moore what he had ever seen Cleroux fight.

The Old Mongoose — as he sometimes calls himself — said he thought he had. Then he added slowly:

"But it doesn't matter anyway. I can tell all I need to know about a boy 60 seconds after I climb into the ring with him."

Wolves Tie Soo Birds

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sudbury Wolves edged into a third - place tie in the Eastern Professional Hockey League Thursday night as they played a 3-3 tie with Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds in a game marked by a third - period switch in the Wolves' goal.

Danny Dyson, versatile Wolves right winger, abandoned his forward slot after scoring two goals and don rookie Carl Wetzel's goal pads when Wetzel got a game misconduct penalty midway through the final period.

The Sudbury goaltender went after referee Bruno Simone following the Thunderbirds' tying goal. He was banished when he slapped the official with his stick and threw the puck.

Burton was tested six times and although he wobbled, he stopped them all to nail down the tie.

The Thunderbirds' controversial third goal was notched by Doug Robinson, with Ed Kachur scoring the other Soo marker. Jason Sudbury's third marker, sandwiched between Burton's two.

The tie moved last - place Sault Ste. Marie within two points of the fifth - place North Bay Trappers.

Tonight's EPHL action sees the league - leading Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers travel to Kingston for a game against the second - place Frontenacs. The Wolves and Thunderbirds take up where they left off, this time at Sudbury.

Patterson Calls It

An 'Interesting Fight'

TORONTO (CP)—Floyd Patterson thinks it will be "an interesting fight" when he defends his world heavyweight title here Dec. 4, against unranked Tom McMeeley of Boston. Beyond that, he has no predictions to make on the fight's outcome.

The champ gave his views Thursday on the arrival by car from New York with trainers Cus D'Amato and Dave Wolf, five sparring partners, his cook and singer Sammy Allen. Patterson was officially announced by Mayor Nathan Phillips at city hall.

Patterson plans only light exercises until Saturday, when he will start boxing sessions. "I'll use only four or five days a week until the day we take otherwise. "On the other days, I'll do road work and other exercises."

Sparring partners with him included his 18-year-old brother, Raymond, at amateur who is managed by Floyd.

Patterson also manager Cooper Allen, who has been booked into Toronto night club. Allen will sing O Canada and God Save The Queen the night of the fight.

Boxer Sues Manager

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Johnson, the National Boxing Association's light - heavyweight champion, sued his manager Thursday for a financial accounting and to be released from his contract.

Johnson accused manager Pat Oliver of spending $7,000 of winnings $3,725 due him for a fight in Seattle, Wash., a few weeks ago.

Johnson also said Oliver "entangled the plaintiff with sinister and disreputable persons whose interests are inimicable to the plaintiff and professional boxing." He did not elaborate on this statement.

Another complaint was that Oliver had charged Johnson for bills run up by the manager, his family and friends.

Rosemount Takes East Title

TORONTO (CP)—Only a few days ago coach Ike Asmussen was worried that over - confidence might knock his Rosemount Bombers out of their quest for a second straight Canadian junior football championship.

It turned out he had nothing to worry about, at least as far as the first lap was concerned. The Bombers defeated Scarborough Rams 34-7 Thursday night in the eastern final and were to clinch their coast of the game despite the low score.

They meet Winnipeg Rods in Calgary next Wednesday night in the final.

The tough defence of the suburban Montreal crew forced the Rams into seven di ast four fumbles and choked off a last-minute Scarborough offensive.

Unbeaten Wings Still Flying

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The high-flying Hamilton Red Wings still haven't been stopped.

Niagara Falls Flyers had a chance in Hamilton Thursday night but they couldn't stall the hustling Wings, who stretched their unbeaten skein to seven games with a 5-3 victory.

Hamilton now has a seven-point bulge in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings, Niagara Falls is a second place.

At Peterborough, St. Catharines Teepees hopped over the Petes into third place with a 6-4 win.

Hamilton banged in a goal at the 15-second mark. The Tyzuk came close to tie the score midway through the first period but the Red Wings roared back with two goals in less than a minute and never looked back.

Lowell Macdonald and Pit Martin, the league's leading scorers, each scored twice for the winners. Larry Zeolliotte netted the other goal.

The Flyers' goals were notched by Billy Glashan, with two, and Glen Bruce.

St. Catharines' win came on the strength of four unanswered goals in a late third - period surge. Phil Esposito paced the Teepees with three goals. The others went to John Brennenan, Paul Popiel and Duke Harris.

Petes' goals were by Tom Carty, Pete Stong, Lorne O'Donnel and Keith Wright.

Tonight Niagara Falls gets another crack at Hamilton in the border city; Peterborough travels to Montreal and St. Catharines plays at Guelph.

Rider-Argos Coaches Have Worries

OTTAWA (CP) — Russ Jackson or Ron Lancaster?

That's the issue facing coach Frank Clair as his Ottawa Rough Riders prepare for Saturday's sudden - death playoff against Toronto Argonauts for the empty berth in the Eastern Football Conference final.

But the same question also faces coach Jim Agar of Argonauts and for him it poses an even bigger problem.

Jackson and Lancaster have been alternating in the Riders' quarterback spot all season and the decision on which one starts will influence Ottawa's style of play.

Jackson is a running specialist while Lancaster's strong point is the long pass — which clicked for three touchdowns last Saturday and nailed down second place for Riders in a 34-23 win over Argos.

Thus Agasy has to be ready to shift things around right at the 2 p.m. kickoff time when Clair's choice goes on display for all to see.

CLAIR CONFIDENT

There's no such problem in the Argo lineup. The Toronto squad has been operating exclusively with veteran Tobin Rote at the helm and Clair seems to be confident the Riders have the answer to Rote's powerful passing game.

Saturday's winner advances into a two-game total-points set with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who finished on top of the Eastern Conference.

If the 37-year - old Agasa is worried about the Jackson-Lancaster problem he wasn't showing it when Argos flew into Ottawa Thursday night and quickly bedded down in the Chateau Laurier Hotel.

He said the club is set to adjust to any situation Riders came up with and "we plan to do a few things differently ourselves."

"We were behind in last week's game almost before we got started but that won't happen again." The whole club was confident.

Argos plan an afternoon workout, chiefly to judge how the blustering sun will affect passcatching. The sun was a problem for pass-receivers on both clubs last week.

However, the weather man says there is a chance of cloudy conditions for Saturday.

Moira Meets Oshawa CI

Moira Secondary School juniors will be bidding for the COSSA Junior "A" football crown when they travel to Oshawa Saturday to meet CCVI in a sudden-death game.

The Moira Juniors, coached by Lee Batstone, earned the right to represent the Bay of Quinte District by ousting Quinte Little Saints in a hard-fought playoff series.

Moira's record this season is five wins and one loss, the loss coming at the hands of QSS in a post-schedule game that forced a sudden-death tilt earlier this week. Moira erased Quinte's earlier win by defeating the Saints 12-8, thus earning the right to meet Oshawa.

Leads Senior Scorers

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Don Emms of Strathroy Rockets has taken sole possession of first place in the Ontario Hockey Association senior series scoring race with 16 points.

Emms, who shared the lead last week with Billy Forhan of Galt Black Hawks, moved a league - leading eight goals and has eight assists, league statistics including Thursday night show.

Forhan dropped to a fourth-place tie with Sullivan of the Rockets, each with 12 points. Forhan has six goals and six assists and Sullivan is 5-7.

Strathroy's Paul Oliver and Willie Haas, who along with Emms are former OHA Senior B scoring champs, hold second and third places. Oliver has 14 points on six goals and eight assists, Haas 13 on 5-8.

Gord Mallin of Waterloo Tigers registered the season's second shutout in his first appearance with Waterloo, who defeated St. Thomas 6-0 during the last week. He finds goaltenders.

Jim Strashan of Strathroy and Ross Childs of Windsor have had a greater last week. Strashan has a 2.25 goals-against average in four games; Childs a 2.4 record for five games.

THOMPSON RELEASED

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Hank Thompson, one - time New York Giants baseball player, was released under an indefinite suspended sentence Thursday after he pleaded guilty to a charge of third-degree robbery. Thompson broke up a tavern Feb. 26, 1961, and got $37. He claimed he had been drinking.

Bulldogs Nip Tigers 6-4

WINDSOR (CP) — Windsor Bulldogs turned back the stubborn Waterloo Tigers 6-4 Thursday night to regain first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior Series.

Mike Laycock's unbeaten Bulldogs' fifth win in six starts, Waterloo lost its fourth in five games.

Centre Erwin Grosse led Windsor with two goals and Jack Costello, Ron Brown, Walter Pawlyshyn and Tom Walker scored one each.

Harry Batyniuk, Art McCarthy, Larry Pfaff and Charlie Brooker replied for the Tigers.

Walker's goal, with little more than a minute remaining, broke up the close - checking tussle. Windsor outshot the visitors 30-26 and each team served five minor penalties.

Stamps Meet Eskimos

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders will be trying to bring a halt to 11 years of unprecedented success in Canadian football when they meet Edmonton Eskimos in the Grey Cup game, total-point Western Football Conference semi-final.

The series starts here Saturday afternoon and switches to Edmonton for next Wednesday.

Edmonton enters the semi-final with a record of advancing to the WFC final for 11 consecutive seasons, five Grey Cup appearances and three Grey Cup victories in the period 1950-1960, a performance that has made the Stampeders heavy underdogs in the series.

"Fortunately, the record doesn't mean a hoot," said Calgary coach Bobby Dobbs. "It's how they play Saturday and Monday."

Dobbs thought just as little of the Eskimos' second-place finish. He said that their 6-6-2 win-loss record against the third - place Stampeders. Winnipeg Blue Bombers — Calgary's opponents play the winner in a best-of-three series starting Dec. 2.

Neither club has a serious injury problem. Canadian International Paul Dekker, who missed halfback Ron Quillen will not play for the Kahs. Starting linebacker Bill McKenna is the only Stampeder certain to miss the first game.

Leave Mexican National

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Coaxorilles Sam Snead and Howie Johnson, the defending champion, pulled out of the Mexican national open golf tournament Thursday, leaving a wide-open scramble for the $10,000 prize money.

Tony Lema, young touring pro from San Leandro, Calif., and amateur Roberto Halpern of Mexico City grabbed the first-round lead with four-under-par 68s.

Tournament officials said Snead phoned from Miami, Fla., and said business commitments would keep him from competing. Johnson, who won last year, also withdrew at the last minute, officials said.

Montreal's Jack Kay coupled rounds of 36 each for a 72 total. George Knudson of Toronto shot a 36-37—73.

Knudson played the round despite a stomach disorder.

International Classic

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — The Russians and Americans were at it again today over a $70,000 international prize.

The money will go to the winner of Saturday's 10th International race in which eight scientists representing six countries will compete at 1½ miles on the grass.

Zabeg will win the International," Russian trainer Yevsenti Gordilkovski said.

"The Americans will have a little to say about that," reported Jockey Johnny Longden, 56, who will ride T. V. Lark, one of the two U.S. entries. The other U.S. horse is Kelso, who has lost only four times in 30 races over a three-year span.

Zabeg finished third in last year's International, the best finish by a Russian horse in three of the invitation affairs.

The second half of the Russian punch Saturday is Irtysch, a chestnut with a reddish tint.

Kelso, who will have the superior riding talent of Eddie Arcaro, will go off as odds-on choice. The track will post him at 4 to 5 to start on the board but he is believed certain will lower it to around 2 to 5.

Trainer Frankie Miles, Venezuela's Pronpicul, Denmark's Wednesday and Ireland's Sail Cheoil.

Prince Philip Is Pressing To Have Son, Charles Attend Gordonstoun School

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — It looks as though Prince Philip is determined that Prince Charles should follow in father's footsteps.

Charles is coming up to his 13th birthday, and an announcement is expected soon about the next stage of his education. Although Eton has long been favored, the choice now seems likely to fall on Gordonstoun, a public school near the rugged Moray sea coast in northeast Scotland.

Gordonstoun's most famous graduate is Prince Philip, and there are persistent reports that he has been pressing to have his son follow suit. The Queen is thought to prefer Eton, the famous school near Windsor that traditionally produces Britain's ruling elite.

Eton is a special favorite with Queen Mother Elizabeth who often visits the school. Putting one's son down for Eton, it is said, is like stamping a coronet on the baby's bottom. It breeds what Britons call "Top People," leaders in politics and industry whose easy urbanity sometimes borders on arrogance.

About half the present British cabinet went to Eton.

SNOBBERY AT ETON

There is a feeling that Eton's social snobbery may be beginning to tune to a time of declining imperial grandeur. Whereas Eton caters for bluebloods, Gordonstoun goes in for classlessness. Some regard it as significant that the Queen recently paid a visit to the Scottish school.

Gordonstoun would mark a definite break with precedent. It was founded in 1934 by Dr. Kurt Hahn, a German Jew who fled from the Nazis. It puts emphasis on outdoor activities, including a mountain rescue service, a fire station and a navigation classroom full of model ships, flags and charts.

The fire station houses two engines, complete with pumps, helmets and axes.

Some have portrayed Gordonstoun as a school according a Sandhurst - style toughness, but in fact it has a good record with delicate children. Its academic standards are high. Scottish Field, a magazine published in Glasgow, recently called Gordonstoun a "dynamic and progressive school . . . as sound in its training of the mind as . . . of the body."

The school buildings, with a pleasing touch of Dutch colonial architecture, have been fashioned out of farm buildings of the 17th and 18th century, manor houses of trees, flower displays and a lake complete the setting.

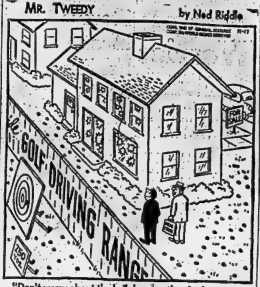
The headmaster is Robert Chew, who helped Dr. Hahn in the founding of Gordonstoun. Dr. Hahn has left to establish similar schools elsewhere.

Two old Etonians, Lord Altrincham and Lord Kilbracken, have said publicly they hope Charles won't go to their old school.

Altrincham, whose father was equerry to King Edward VIII, now the Duke of Windsor, describes Eton as the snob school par excellence.

LITTLE IN COMMON

"Charles III will have little in common with his Stuart namesakes," he writes. "If the contrast is to be fully observed between the feudal monarchy based on Divine Right and the new democratic monarchy, he had better not be an old Etonian."



Lord Chatham long ago said he "scarce observed a boy who was not cowed for life" at Eton—but the queue for places nevertheless remains a long one.

Charles now is in st Cheam, a small "prep" or preparatory school near Newbury, founded in 1646. Prince Philip also went to Cheam. Although the boy Charles will one day be king is said to be more like his mother than his father, there seems reason to believe that Philip's preference for Gordonstoun will be decisive.

Students Home With Broader Outlook and Much Greater Appreciation of Homeland

TORONTO (CP)—Four students at Toronto's Bayergal College who travelled separately in Europe this summer came home with a broadened outlook and greater appreciation of Canada.

"I have come home believing that you must try to understand others' point of view, then work out your own," says Helen Terry, 17, who spent six weeks touring France and England with her parents.

"You can't translate a person from another country until you understand how he thinks, so you must know those people. Once we can do that, then we can form the basis of world understanding."

Helen said she found young people in other countries have far less freedom than teen-agers in Canada. "It teaches you the fact that you must accept responsibility."

Philippa Wallace, a 15-year-old Grade XI student, spent a year in Athens with her father who was a guest professor at the American School of Classical Studies. Before her stay in Greece she had planned to study languages.

"Now I have a purpose. I have decided to study the classics . . . and I want to go back to Greece."

After a five - week tour of Europe with her parents, Sheryll Taylor, 16, said she returned with a fuller appreciation of home.

"Before, I had no point of comparison. Coming back to Canada, I realize and appreciate how much I have."

Sheryll says she has a new found respect for languages after having tried to speak to natives of other countries.

Jacqueline Cogan, 17, visited Scandinavia, Berlin and Munich with her family. "I have come home wanting to go out and do more for peace in the world," she said.

Her East Berlin visit came before the barricade between eastern and western sectors of the city was thrown up.

"As soon as you go through the Brandenburg gate you can feel the air grow tense. East Berlin was pathetic; it was all in ruins. We were allowed to get out at a German cemetery. There were Russian soldiers all over and the buildings were just fronts in that area—the backs were all down.

"Now I would like to go on the Peace Corps. I hadn't thought of actually doing that before."

Moments of Humor Seen As Homes of Film Stars Burn

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comedy was mixed with tragedy in this week's big story—the fire that razed through the heart of the movie colony.

The flames destroyed the homes of film stars Burt Lancaster, Joe E. Brown, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Cliff Robertson, Laverne Andrews, Walter Wanger. For scores of others, the fire brought hours of frantic activity and concern for their homes. As in all such tense situations, there were moments of humor.

What do people snatch up in when they are faced with total loss?

The Van Heflins took a load of paintings to her mother's house, then returned to operate a kind of Noah's ark for burned - out neighbors. Their corral was filled with 25 horses, and an assortment of cats and dogs and other pets.

SAVED JEWELS

Mrs. Richard Boone left her Mandeville, a gift for her husband and one for their son. "She must have thought we were going to move," says Boone.

He was able to get up to the house and keep the grounds wetted. The fire swept through the canyon, but "I don't think I could stand losing two houses in two years," he says. Actor Pacific Palisades house was robbed and set afire two years ago, while he was in New York. Marlon Brando loaded a car with belongings, but an aide didn't want to specify what they were.—"he's been robbed so many times." The aide did mention "pictures of his children." The Brando Oscar remained in the safe keeping of the actor's father.

WATERED ROOFS

James Garner crashed home to get a metal box containing insurance policies and other valuables, sent his wife off with it, her wedding ring and his birthbed. He spent the night watering down the roofs of his and his neighbor's houses, while others burned to the ground.

The neighbor was so grateful she said: "When we build our house, you'll let you and your family in."

Colleen Gray had a chance to take two cartons of belongings out before flames closed in on her house. What did she choose? "Small things of monetary value and big things of sentimental value." Among them: Her daughter's guitar and record player, house papers and insurance, baby pictures, expensive books and layers of clothing between pajamas done by the family.

"I kept thinking I should go back and get my books of Stanislavski stamps, but I never did," she said. The house was

Shelters Only Adequate Protection From Fallout

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS Reports Thursday night offered some needed light on the confused subject of protection against nuclear fallout in the event of an enemy strike.

The hour-long show, narrated by Howard K. Smith, raised many questions, some unanswerable, and exposed conflicting viewpoints on handling the problem.

Smith midst two things clear. The only adequate protection from fallout is in shelters, and the shelter program, whether privately or publicly financed, must be supervised and controlled by the federal government if it is to be effective.

Looks as if perhaps Steve Allen, after a slow start, is finally hitting a winning stride in his ABC show. His Wednesday night outing was bright and funny—particularly his good - natured spoof of Mitch Miller . . . CBS' Checkmate, despite its fairly early-hour spot in the schedule, is going in for some pretty adult themes and words—the week's show was full of forthright references to "an affair" and "a lover."

Garry Moore and Carol Burnett will be guest stars on CBS' new, amusing Password — and stars of such Caulfield calibre are a certain clue the show is in the all clear . . . Never mind the wind called Maria, NBC has A Fire Called Jeremiah, a show about a forest fire, scheduled Dec. 3—rather timely after the disastrous blazes in Los Angeles this week.

Right and Responsibility

By ROY L. SMITH

The air is full of shouts, cries, arguments, and demands relative to the matter of rights — civil rights, racial rights, minority rights, worker's rights, student's rights, marital rights. It might help to clear the atmosphere if we were to give a little attention to the matter of responsibilities, for with every right there goes a responsibility.

A CHRISTIAN DOCTRINE

Courses in comparative religion all too often overlook the fact that the doctrine of responsibility is peculiar to Christianity. No other great world religion lays the same emphasis upon duties.

And there can be no logical or honest consideration of the matter of responsibility which does not include the question of property, money, possessions and economic power.

Jesus' parable of the talents is a blunt, honest, and unanswerable statement of the proposition. Responsibility grows with the accumulation of possessions. He who owns much property is under a far greater burden of responsibility than that one is who owns no property. The management of a million dollars is a vastly more serious matter than the management of a few hundred.

That which gives money its value and significance is the social relationship that the individual bears to the community. A hundred dollars in the pocket of a man shipwrecked on an empty island may be valueless, but the same man, with the same hundred dollars, in the midst of a modern city occupies an entirely different status. He whose wealth is created by the presence of neighbors, customers, clients, or commercial advantage, is in debt to the public, and the only way he can pay that debt is by accepting the responsibilities for the maintenance of the community.

THE JEWISH DOCTRINE

The Christian doctrine of stewardship rests down, in turn, upon the Jewish doctrine of ownership. At the very heart of Hebrew teaching is the principle that "the earth is the Lord's and all things therein."

One of the earliest economic concepts of the Hebrew people — one which they brought in with them from the desert, when they invaded Canaan—was that land was the gift of God. No man had made it, and so man had earned it. The original family estates all represented the benevolence of Jehovah.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for Nov. 12: "Growth Through Stewardship," Matthew 22:1-36; 25:14-30.

From this doctrine there arose the corresponding principle that man was the administrator, or the trustee, of the gift that had come from the hand of the Divine. In modern terms this means stewardship.

ALL MEN ARE NOT EQUAL

There is widespread confusion among us relative to this matter of equality. The Declaration of Independence does not mean that all men were born and created equal, but that we were created equal in the matter of rights.

It is a principle basic in our Christian doctrine of democracy, that the doors of opportunity must be kept open to all men, regardless of their color, ancestry, social standing, or religious affiliation.

And it is a corollary principle, that every individual must be held responsible for the way he uses his opportunities and privileges.

From time to time we hear it said that a boy was born on the wrong side of the tracks. And that, of course, implies a hardship and a handicap. But at the same time it must be said that there is an open highway between the two sides of the tracks and that in our system there are a hundred helping hands extended to the boy who wants to cross over from the bad side to the good side of the tracks. It can be said with much truth that no man needs to live indefinitely on the wrong side, and if he does so he must accept the responsibility for doing so—at least some part of the responsibility.

No man is responsible for exercising powers he does not command, but every man is responsible for the use of every power within his reach.

Welshmen Split On Opening Pubs on Sunday

CARDIFF (Reuters) — The drinking outlook in Wales, officially "dry" on Sundays for the last 80 years, today was "wet" in places but continuing "dry" in others.

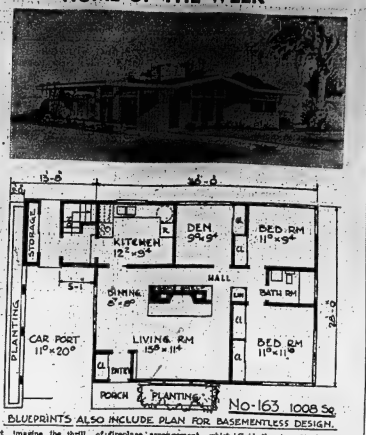
This was the result of voting Wednesday among 1,800,000 Welshmen on whether they wanted to be allowed to buy a drink in their favorite "pub" on Sunday.

Of 17 voting areas, mainly along county lines, eight voted to continue the ban on Sunday pub opening and nine cast ballots in favor of opening them up.

Most of the areas in favor of Sunday drinking were in Wales' industrialized southern section while the anti - opening vote mainly came from agricultural and strongly church-going north Wales.

Until now all of the regular pubs have been closed in Wales on Sunday, but thirsty Welshmen were able to slake their thirsts by joining clubs. In the clubs they were allowed to buy drinks on Sundays.

The vote on Sunday opening followed recent legislation establishing by-law-making powers for drinking laws, which provide for a legal drinking period of three hours in the afternoon after which the pubs close and reopen again in the evening up to 11 p.m.



The main effects of the liberalized laws have been to add a 10-minute grace period after closing time in which to down already purchased drinks.

In addition, package stores are allowed to sell liquor throughout the normal shopping day rather than just during pub hours.

West Awaits Clarification Of Russian Stand

No Official Evidence To Support Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Puzzled U.S. officials awaited today clarification from Moscow of reports that the Soviet Union has developed a four-point proposal for negotiation on a settlement of the Berlin crisis.

There was encouragement among high officials here at evidence that Soviet Premier Khrushchev seems to be moving into a negotiating position. But they found no hint in the report of Soviet concessions which would give hope of an early East - West agreement on Berlin.

State department informants said they lacked any official word from U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, in Moscow to the effect that the Soviets had come up with a definite point - by - point proposition. On the contrary, word from Thompson Friday said that, so far as he could judge basic Soviet policy on West Berlin stands unchanged.

WILL TALK OVER

Thompson is due for discussion by state department officials and diplomatic representatives of Britain, France and West Germany who meet here regularly to discuss the Berlin crisis. Their next meeting is scheduled for Monday.

Any dispatches from Moscow Thursday night told of what was described as a new four-point plan being advanced by the Soviet Union for a Berlin solution.

The essence of the proposal, as described in these dispatches, was that Russia and the United States, Britain and France would agree on a new status for West Berlin, guaranteeing the freedom of the city and access to it.

East Germany would respect this new Soviet - Western agreement in an accord to be reached by the Western powers and the Communist regime. For their part, the Western powers would undertake to respect the sovereignty of East Germany.

The agreement between Russia and the Western powers would be worked out in advance of Khrushchev's proposed Soviet peace treaty with East Germany.

ASPECTS PLEASE

U.S. officials said that the proposal, if confirmed, contained no offer of concessions from Khrushchev's previous Berlin demands. They were pleased, however, with the stress on Soviet - Western agreement to the dovetailing with the Western proposals on the basis of his making a peace treaty with East Germany.

Such an understanding might eliminate sources of tension and political nuisance of which would arise if the Soviets signed a peace treaty unilaterally with East Germany.

What was baffling was the lack of any official evidence to support the news reports.

LONDON (Reuters) — The Times Friday won the award for the best newspaper story of the year in the annual British newspaper design competition.

Royal Winter Fair Opened In High Style

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's traditionally diamond - studded and white tie Royal Agricultural Winter Fair followed tradition at the opening Friday night.

Women in evening dress with ermine wraps stood out in sharp contrast to some of the farmers who viewed the show dressed in their sweaters and rubber boots.

The Earl of Perversham official - opened the show with a speech in which he urged Canadian farmers to stay alert in what he called an ever-dangerously competitive world market.

The international equestrian events highlighted the evening program in a series of tough jumps which earned first place for the United States team. Canada was second, Mexico third and Argentina fourth.

The teams will continue their competition for the remaining seven nights of the Royal, and will aggregate the points each nightly.

The RCMP musical ride was another well received attraction.

Will Erase Immigration Discrimination

HALIFAX (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday that changes in Canadian immigration regulations are intended to equalize rights without regard to race or color.

His remark during an impromptu address to about 1,000 Dalhousie University students was the farthest he has gone in outlining proposed changes to the regulations.

His reference to the government's intention came as he told the students that his political career has been governed by two principle aims:—"To end within our country discrimination based on race, color or religion" and to build towards a true Canadian nationality.

"They said it couldn't be done . . . but the ambitions of 1911 became law of August, 1960," he said, referring to the Bill of Rights passed at the last session of Parliament.

His reference to 1911 was part of an anecdote he has told many political audiences of late, starting with Sir Wilfred Laurier as a newsboy.

DIEFENBAKER DEPENDS UPON BRITISH PLEDGE

Is Confident Trade Ties to Be Guarded

HALIFAX (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday he relies on the statement of British Prime Minister Macmillan that Commonwealth economic ties will not be damaged if Britain enters the European Common Market.

Mr. Diefenbaker, whose brief visit here was lengthened by three hours because of aircraft trouble, said he is confident that if Britain is admitted to the trading bloc she will do so only after ensuring that there will be no serious disruption in the Commonwealth's economy.

The prime minister told the annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Progressive Conservative Association, that each Commonwealth nation has a right to go its own way, but Canada has told Britain she must not disturb existing economic ties within the Commonwealth.

If Britain could attain entry and at the same time "protect and preserve within reasonable limits those things which are necessary to Commonwealth trade ties," it would be a service to both Britain and other parts of the Commonwealth.

DOESN'T OBJECT

Canada's stand has brought no objection from Britain, he said.

"I rely on Mr. Macmillan's statement that Britain will preserve and maintain those Commonwealth ties without which our great Commonwealth could not continue."

But if Britain entered the Commonwealth without making these provisions "there may be need de damage and serious damage to our exports from Canada — and you here in the Maritimes will feel it at the very first."

In his 75 - minute speech,

Sorrowful Memories of Mother Being Shared by Many Today

OTTAWA (CP)—The sorrowful memories of Mrs. Sylvia Kimmel are being shared today by Governor - General Vanier, Prime Minister Diefenbaker — and by thousands of others.

Mrs. Kimmel, a greying mother of seven, died Monday in B.C., the Governor-General and Mr. Diefenbaker will lead those who pay their respects before the National War Memorial on this Remembrance Day in honor of Canada's war dead.

Some 1,000 veterans' servicemen and soldiers, other dignitaries and civic leaders and members of the diplomatic corps will take part in the ceremonies before the memorial. Thousands will watch, including Mrs. Kimmel's husband, Harry.

Mrs. Kimmel, a 56-year-old housewife who looks every bit a mother, represents all Canadian mothers who lost sons in war.

The Kimmels lost three sons in the conflict. Second World War. Five of their 11 children were in uniform.

Just the thought of the memorial ceremony was a trying ordeal for Mrs. Kimmel. Friday, 21 in all, picked for the job by the Royal Canadian Legion, but "it's part of the job I came down to do."

Memories crowded in, she said in an interview Friday, of the three sons, Clifford, Gordon and Richard, who died within a nine-month period in 1944.

"But I've remembered so often, it gets so it doesn't hurt any more."

Clifford Kimmel, 25-year-old corporal, was killed in Italy and is buried at Ravena, Gordon, 23, a fitter-gun, died of wounds while a prisoner of war. He is buried at Bretteville-sur-Laize, France.

Their brother Richard, 30, was killed in northwest Europe. It is not known where the body rests.

Friday Mrs. Kimmel saw the names of her boys inscribed in the Book of Remembrance in the Parliament Buildings. She

Bosomy Market Mammies, Oarmen Seen by Queen

ACCRA (CP) — Queen Elizabeth, flushed in fierce tropical heat, walked around narrow alleys and between laden stalls of Ghana's Makalo market today to get a cheering, chanting reception from the bosomy market mammies and their thousands of customers.

The Queen and Prince Philip earlier watched a regatta in the harbor with canoes paddled by near-naked boatmen through the foaming surf.

But as Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah showed his royal visitors the sights of Accra, up in Ashanti province which they visit next week, an unconfirmed report said police were making a wave of political arrests.

Some 100 persons are believed detained in Kumasi followed a call on the headquarters of the opposition United Party and its leaders.

Thousands lining the long stone jetties in Accra harbour and perched precariously on the cliffs overlooking cliffs watched the Queen and the thrill-packed regatta.

Each boat was manned by a bosun, helmsman, 10 paddlers and a "cookey matey" all dressed in brief, colored shorts. The huge, muscular boatmen furiously dipped their paddles, shaped like a three-fingered hand, to give the cockleshell canoes through the surf from the sandy beach.

The Queen, in a crisp pink dress and matching hat, clapped excitedly as the winning canoes completed the gruelling course around buoys and an ancient wreck off in the harbor.

From there the Queen drove with Nkrumah through the crowd-jammed streets to Makalo market, the bustling centre of Ghana's local economy.

She was introduced to Mme. Afua Kuttle, a stallholder for 25 years and president of the Market Women's Association, and was wearing a 100-year-old hogs-hair crown and the local national costume.

New Ontario Minimum Wage Legislation Now Being Sought

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Agitation earlier this year to improve conditions of immigrant construction workers in Toronto appears to have set off a movement for extension of Ontario's minimum wage legislation.

The Ontario Federation of Labor is broadening the matter before the week in its annual convention at Windsor. A brief presented by President David Archer and other officials criticized existing regulations as not providing for male workers. Another complaint cited the minimum scales for agricultural workers.

Ontario now has a minimum of $30 a week for women, but although the act provides for male minimums the section never has been applied.

The Goldenberg royal commission now studying labor relations in the construction industry in Ontario, has enunciated plans about to amend minimum wage legislation to provide a male wage.

The Goldenberg royal commission now studying labor relations in the construction industry in Ontario, has enunciated plans about to amend minimum wage legislation to provide a male wage.

The suggestion was for $1.25 an hour for unskilled labor, compared with 62½ cents which is the effective rate for women in urban centres.

There has been no indication that Ontario, or any other province administering minimums, has immediate plans afoot to amend minimum wage legislation to provide all have laws in effect.

Eastern views widely, a Canadian Press survey shows. In some cases a general enabling statute is on the books but specific regulations have been proclaimed only to a limited extent.

Nova Scotia, for instance, has a general minimum for women in cities of $28.00 for a 48-hour week. Men are covered only in certain construction trades in Halifax, Dartmouth and Sydney.

A general minimum wage act for men was passed in 1954, but has never been proclaimed.

Minimum wages for city construction workers range from $1.35 an hour for laborers in Halifax to $2.76 an hour for bricklayers in Sydney.

The only minimum wage order in effect in New Brunswick is for men involves those in certain food - packing industries, providing at least 65 cents an hour.

Women hotel and restaurant workers must get at least 52 cents an hour for 48 hours, but in most other undertakings the minimum for women is 60 cents.

A minimum wage act for women went into effect in Prince Edward Island in 1949 and men were covered in 1960. But so far only restaurant waitresses and cashiers in Summerside have applied for the legislation to be put into effect. They get at least $21 and $22 respectively after 60 days' employment.

In Newfoundland, males over 17 get a minimum of 70 cents an hour for 48 hours, 75 cents daily. Women get 60 cents a week. Women get 36 cents an hour for 48 hours.

Minimum regulations provide for a 70-cent hourly wage in the Northwest Territories and elsewhere. All workers except those included in decrees and collective agreements are covered.

A differential between male and female workers was removed in Manitoba by legislation which became effective June, 1960. The minimum for all urban workers over 18 now is 65 cents an hour, and for those in rural areas 61 cents.

A minimum of $32 a week applies in Saskatchewan to both men and women, with some exceptions. Drivers of small trucks, for instance, get $32, and drivers of large trucks and

BINGO PAYS OFF FOR GAMBLERS SAYS CHIEF

Estimates Profits $6,000,000 Yearly

TORONTO (CP) — Professional gamblers are moving into the field of bingo games and making big money out of it, Metropolitan Toronto Police Chief James Mackey said Friday.

He estimated that profit to operators in Toronto "amounts to $6,000,000 a year, after all prizes have been paid."

Chief Mackey's remarks, in a speech to a service club, came one day after a report on gambling in Ontario was presented to Attorney-General Roberts.

Mr. Roberts said he had no immediate comment on the 500-page report, prepared at his request by Professor Desmond Morton of Osgoode Hall Law School. He said it will be submitted to Premier Robarts for study before any decision is reached on making it public.

In London, Ont., Premier Robarts said he hasn't yet seen the report. Until then he can't know what the decision will be." But it was conceivable that it might be in the public interest not to release the report.

STARTED IN JULY

The attorney - general asked Professor Morton to prepare it last July. The step was taken following publication reports that crime syndicates were operating in Ontario.

In an interview Thursday, Mr. Roberts said his department is keeping an eye on criminals and when there is enough evidence to bring them into court, this is done.

RCMP Commissioner C. W. Harvison said in a speech in Toronto Thursday that big crime syndicates have begun to treat Canada "as an area for expansion of their activities."

British Paper Sees Canadian Snub Of Common Market Meet by Drew

LONDON (CP)—A reported conflict between Canada and Britain over Common Market negotiations was a front-page topic today in the British press.

Under the headline "Drew to snub for market talks," The Daily Express wrote of the "long-simmering" feud between the two governments over the Commonwealth trade issue but "exploded into the open."

The Daily Express, a firm editorial supporter of British membership of the European Economic Community, based its story on the fact that George Drew, Canada's high commissioner, did not attend a special meeting called Friday by British ministers to brief Commonwealth governments on the progress of Britain's negotiations with the Common Market countries.

A Canada House spokesman, asked Friday whether Drew had attended the briefing, replied in the negative and left the clear implication that Drew had stayed away deliberately.

Canada was represented by Ben Rogers, Drew's deputy.

The briefing was given by Duncan Sandys, Commonwealth relations secretary, and Edward Heath, lord privy seal, who has a special responsibility in the Common Market negotiations.

The high commissioners of Australia and New Zealand, Sir Eric Harrison and T. L. Macdonald respectively, also stayed away from the meeting, as did the Commonwealth relations of.

Although too much emphasis perhaps should not be placed on the fact that Canada was not represented by a minister than a misunderstanding between governments could be aggravated for weeks that some Commonwealth governments were becoming increasingly resentful over what they considered to be a breach of faith by Britain in connection with the Common Market talks.

The British government promised to consult its Commonwealth partners before taking

Live Like Rats Or Co-operate World's Choice

Geophysical Year Set Example States Nehru

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Prime Minister Nehru has told the United Nations that people will learn to co-operate or else live in holes "like rats."

The Indian premier, addressing the UN General Assembly Friday, said that "more and more we live under a regime of terror" which no country can withstands or wants.

The threat of nuclear war was becoming more real day by day and might have the virtue of shocking people into the realization that coexistence between East and West "without violence" was the only alternative.

Nehru suggested that the UN consider setting aside a year for co-operation in all fields—along the lines of the International Geophysical Year—for study in the political, economic, cultural, social and humanitarian fields. "There must be thousands," he said.

The choice confronting the world is "co-operate or perish—peaceful existence or no existence at all," Nehru declared.

Continual stress on conflicts was leading people to believe that there is no co-operation between East and West, which is not true, said Nehru, without giving examples.

MCI was not a ill-smooth period to which scientists of all countries could contribute a very vast scale. Perhaps something similar could be achieved, Nehru said, with the present Political Co-operation Year—promised by delegates to the assembly.

Nehru admitted his co-operation idea was not presented in detail but he urged developing countries to consider it and perhaps appoint a committee to work out how a "year"; could be dedicated to such an undertaking.

Nehru on nuclear weapons said like External Affairs Minister Howard Green, he was against war but said his policy speech to the General Assembly that there is a danger the prospect of nuclear war will become generally accepted unless a way is found to end it was considered unthinkable.

REJECTS MOVE

Nehru's speech was the main event at the UN Friday but considerable controversy occurred in the assembly's 103-member special political committee.

Premier Verwoerd's Indian resolution, co - sponsored by seven other countries, urging a worldwide boycott of South Africa to change its policies of apartheid (racial segregation). He said such pressures might result in "coexistence of a kind" being brought in Pretoria.

But the whole South African question—now under debate for the second time in a week—led to confusion when Ethiopia and the

Students Eat First Meal In Four Days

KINGSTON (CP)—A group of Queen's University students ate their first meal in four days at noon Friday.

Approximately 20 students decided not to consume anything but coffee, tea and water between noon Tuesday. By doing so they hoped to raise student interest in a current campus campaign to help the world's starving millions.

Stewart Goodings, 20, of Port Hope, president of the Alma Mater Society, said as he tackled a bowl of soup: "I just can't tell whether our Operation Starvation had any effect or not."

Goodings and David Hill, 21, said Donald Fraser, 25, both of Ottawa, were the leaders of the promotion stunt.

All the money saved on food was to be contributed to the World University Services Share campaign but the cause or six dollars trickled into the special funds provided in the dining halls.

HEAVY TRAFFIC PROBABLE CAUSE OF COLLISION

Exceptionally heavy traffic on North Front Street last night was believed to have been the cause of a two-car collision at the intersection of North Front and Harriet Sts.

Police said a car driven by Kenneth William Murphy, 189 Stanley St., collided with a vehicle driven by Clarence Hugh Lough of R.R. 2, Belleville.

It is understood that the view of vehicle one, which was proceeding east on Harriet St. was blocked by a heavy stream of traffic on the south bound lane of North Front St. and when he attempted to emerge onto the east side of the intersection, he was struck by car No. 2, which was proceeding north on North Front St.

Damage to both vehicles was estimated at approximately $300. Both vehicles suffered front end damage.

TEARFUL PARTING

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Norman Grunsefeld, 22, was left in tears Friday when he tried to sell his mother-in-law's car. The dealer found a small defect under the front seat and handed it to Grunsefeld. The device exploded in Grunsefeld's hand, spraying both men with tear gas. No one was injured seriously. Police said the device was a tear gas gun but no one seemed to know who put it in the car.

BOOKS FOR LIBRARY

The chapter voted a $10 grant for books to be added to the library of the adopted rural school and a like sum for the Provincial Institute for the Deaf School for Retarded Children.

Mrs. M. Patterson, Jr., welcomed two new members into the Chapter, Mrs. G. Mc-Donald and Mrs. Bird, and gave the highlights of the annual dinner meeting held at Picton last month.

Miss Ruth Park, provincial vice-president, was the guest speaker and gave a most interesting talk on various aspects of I.O.D.E. work. Report of the International Fair showed it to have been a most successful event.

Thanks were extended by Mrs. Patterson and the Fair convener, Mrs. E. Sutton, to all who had helped in any way.

Since the National Emergency and Welfare Fund had been declared inactive, all contributions made by the I.O.D.E. to assist victims of the disastrous forest fires in Newfoundland, of the devastating floods in New Brunswick, and of the Fraser fleet disaster in Nova Scotia, the Chapter voted to make a donation of $25 towards this fund.

CHRISTM AS TREATS PLANNED

The Chapter voted to spend up to $60 on Christmas baskets which will be sent to families of needy veterans whose names will be obtained from Colonel A. Duffy. People at the Home for the Aged Duffy will also be remembered.

Mrs. E. Rutherford reported on the Civil Defence meeting of November 1st when Col. A. Duffy was the guest speaker. Both the Argyll and St. Julien Chapters met together in the armories for this important occasion. Mrs. Rutherford pointed out the responsibilities of the I.O.D.E. should be prepared and willing to give assistance as E.M.O. in the event of an emergency in time of war or national disaster.

St. Julien Chapter being a participating agency of the United Appeal, many of its members had helped in the blitz door-to-door campaign of October 30. Mrs. Patterson thanked all those who had helped in the canvass.

Close to 300 office workers of Northern Electric will be settling into new accommodations in Belleville as they report for work at the company's recently completed new $400,000 office building.

The mass move was announced Friday afternoon and office workers packed up their files, papers and books. Desks and filing cabinets will be moved over the weekend and Monday morning office personnel will have the job of settling down in their new surroundings.

The new two-storied general administrative and general office building was built by Construction Company of Canada and contains 34,000 feet of floor space.

Constructed as a wing, the new office extends the front of the Belleville factory to include a works entrance, reception and waiting room, main managerial quarters, conference rooms, library, engineering and general offices.

Planned in 1960, jointly by the engineers of plant management and the Belleville management, the project was designed by architects Messrs. Watson and Wiegand, Toronto, and C. T. Anglin Company, engineering consultants. Messrs. Watson and Wiegand's office and workshop floor areas by 10,000 square feet and 18,000 square feet respectively and also provides new areas such as reception and conference rooms.

Features in the design are: fluorescent lighting ceiling with high voltage flush mounted lighting fixtures; terrazzo ceramic and vinyl asbestos tiled floors; vitreous glass block walls in wash rooms laid up in pleasing slack bond; and demountable glass panel partitions for executive offices; all of which combine to give maximum access costs and highly functional qualities.

The under underfloor duct arrangement furnishes power and telephone outlets to all desk positions without exposed wiring and a hidden system of lighting in the tile ceiling permits a low level public address system.

The series of 16-foot-long by 4-foot-high windows ensure maximum daylight and good ventilation, and the pneumatic tube transportation, controlled hot water convectors should provide comfortable heating.

A special built-in feature is the bank of closed circuit T.V. monitors for the receiving areas which can be adapted to portable television, security or production line check points.

Small Number Of Vendors On Market

Activity was at a standstill on the local market this morning. Only a handful of vendors was present and a few early morning shoppers strolled around looking for bargains, where were not too hard to find.

As the market season nears an end, prices of fruits and vegetables have remained the same for several weeks. As one farmer's wife remarked this morning, "we don't know from week to week if we will be able to come back again, but as long as the weather is favorable we will continue to come."

The vegetable department of cabbage, turnips, beets, onions and carrots were selling from 5c to 10c per pound and sold for $2.50 per bag.

Apples are in season now and are selling from 50-75c a basket and $2.50-$3 a hamper. Cucumbers were on sale this morning, the last of the season, and were selling for 40c a basket.

Apple cider is still a treat on the market, selling for 81 a gallon and 15c for smaller bottles.

Eggs have held a steady price; small and large real from last week. Extra large sold for 65c a dozen, large 61c, medium 56c and small 46c.

Roasting chickens sold at 50c a pound.

Three-Year-Old Learns to Drive The Hard Way

TRENTON — Left alone in his father's car, parked on Queen Street in Trenton yesterday around noon, three-year-old Douglas Baker of Sidney Street, decided to give himself his first driving lesson on the road.

Douglas switched on the ignition; stepped on the gas and, fortunately the car was in reverse.

Douglas—and the car—proceeded to back out onto Dundas St. West, where it collided in a large circle, jump the curb in front of St. Peter's rectory and strike a telephone pole. The hydrant was broken off and damaged to the extent of $400.

Damages to the car were estimated at $150. Douglas was unhurt.

Water supply in homes located in the higher areas in the vicinity of where the accident occurred was shut off, or greatly reduced for almost an hour while public utilities men repaired the hydrant.

The youthful motorist is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Stack.

Girls' Work Board Holds Leaders' School

Over 40 C.G.I.T. and Explorer leaders met recently at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for an all-day leadership training school sponsored by the Belleville Girls' Work Board.

Excellent help in Bible Study methods was given by Mrs. A. Dancey, of Oshawa, a member of the Ontario Girls' Work Board, who had attended the C.G.I.T. Conference held at Lennoxville, Quebec last summer. Illustrating her talk with fine charts and visual aids, she concluded the session by dividing the ladies into smaller groups for a workshop which proved practical, stimulating and amusing.

In the afternoon, Mrs. H. Harrison, of Plainfield, conducted a workshop in handcrafts when the ladies made some articles and received many fine and useful ideas for other things to be used in their work during the year.

Mrs. F. Thompson, from Toronto, a member of the National C.G.I.T. Girls' Work Board, led those of the United Churches in discussion of the new Mission Study for the year.

With the aid of pamphlets, books, posters, film strips and tape recordings, Miss Thompson showed how to make mission study interesting and worthy for the teen-age girls. Mrs. F. Wyatt and Mrs. O. Bertrand helped in giving instruction to the Presbyterian C.G.I.T. leaders and Explorer leaders respectively.

During the day, leadership was given in various phases of the girls' work by Mrs. Don McLeod, Mrs. D. Milton and other C.G.I.T. girls from Carrington and Miss Lenore Wright. In the evening, Miss M. Hills, with the aid of charts and books gave a fine talk on leaders' helps.

The meeting closed with the showing of the film, "Treasure in Bethany," a film produced by the Board of Information and Stewardship of the United Church of Canada.

The Rev. R. D. MacLean, minister of St. Andrew's Church, who had conducted a worship service earlier in the evening, pronounced the benediction.

Green Outlines Foreign Policy Of Government

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's external affairs minister Friday night expressed concern that joining the European Common Market might induce Britain to bring her policies to some extent into line with those of France and West Germany.

Speaking at an open meeting of University of Toronto Progressive Conservative Club, Howard Green said: "The main aim of the Common Market is not economic but to build up a third world force—in effect a United States of Europe."

Mr. Green said the federal government's stand on whether Canada should acquire nuclear weapons can still best be summed up by an earlier Canadian statement to the United Nations that Canada wishes to do nothing that would contribute to the spread of nuclear weapons, but reserves the right to acquire them "if world conditions deteriorate."

Supporting NATO, he said: "The defences of the free world must be maintained." The policy of all 15 NATO member nations must be heard in policy deliberations and NATO should not have an "inner group" of three or four nations — the United States, Britain, France and perhaps West Germany—deciding NATO policies.

It would be a "big step" in foreign policy for Canada to enter the Organization of American States and the present policy of the government was to "let the Canadian people think it over for a while."

United Appeal Fund Stands At $54,000

The Belleville United Appeal campaign has reached the $54,000 mark as of yesterday evening it was reported this morning by executive secretary A. L. "Les" Gnaedinger.

The residential "blitz" has exceeded last year's mark as has the national corporations division and the payroll giving division. Of these three the national corporations division is the only one that has not yet gone for this year.

Good returns have been coming in from the special names and the professional division. It is not yet possible to tell if these and the business divisions will meet their objectives yet due to the fact that all of the kits have not yet been turned in by the many volunteer canvassers in these divisions.

In recent days a large number of individual citizens have been showing up at the United Appeal headquarters in the former Victoria and Grey Trust offices opposite the Post Office to make their personal contributions, Mr. Gnaedinger said.

Looking at the overall situation the results look quite encouraging for the 1961 United Appeal to well exceed last year's level of giving and this year's objective of $80,000 may yet be reached, he said.

Predicts Social Medicine in Ontario Soon

Social medicine is on its way in Ontario in the near future. This was the opinion expressed by Dr. D. M. Anderson, at the general meeting of the Bayview Home and School Associa.

Dr. Anderson who was introduced by Mr. H. Pollard, opened his topic speaking of increased interest in social medicine in the last few years, brought about by higher costs in the medical field. He outlined the truly socialized medicine program in Saskatchewan, with emphasis on some of the difficulties of putting such a plan into operation.

Advantages and disadvantages, in a medical plan on a social level, such as the national health scheme in Great Britain were mentioned by Dr. Anderson, in as much as the main advantage appears to be in complete hospital coverage, and specialist medical care. Disadvantages were mainly, that it spoiled doctor-patient relationship. Also a trend toward the medical profession by unsuitable students has been noted since the adoption of this plan in Great Britain.

He felt that a person getting along in years, is more likely to need medical care than a younger person, and less able to afford it, on an average, was another point made by Dr. Anderson, as being one of the reasons for the increased interest in social medicine.

The speaker answered questions for a short time, then was thanked on behalf of the Bayview parents, by Mr. R. Riley, vice-president of Bayview H—S.

Struggle Between Havana, Washington for Latin Soul in America Becomes Real One

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In Latin American politics the convenient labels of "leftist," "pro-American," or "Castroite" often have little meaning. Each attempts to interpret every event south of Texas in terms of the East-West struggle and is often fallacious.

Nevertheless the no "v called the struggle for the soul of Latin America between Washington and Havana is real one, and the outer of Ecuador's President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra is tied in with it, at least indirectly.

Ibarra himself, a 72-year-old veteran of Latin American uncertainties who has been elected president four times and thrown out of office three times in a 35-year period, has defied classification.

FIRED MINISTERS

When he took office last year he was described as an open sympathizer with the Fidel Castro regime. But in December his interior minister and close personal friend, Manuel Araujo Hidalgo, came back from Havana glowing about the regime and found himself out of a job.

In May his foreign minister, Dr. Julio Tobar Donoso, was quoted as calling the Castro regime a "bloody dictatorship" opposed on the Cuban people by outside imperialistic intervention. His resignation was accepted a short time later.

In the current troubles, Ibarra blamed a "Communist" label on his vice-president and onetime ally, Carlos Julio Arosemena, and had him arrested for allegedly trying to set up a dictatorship.

In a typical Latin American upset of fortunes, Arosemena was seemed walked out of jail Wednesday and was sworn in as president Thursday.

34th Battery Members Attend Montreal Meet

The 14th Canadian Field Regiment members are holding a reunion at the Craig Street drill hall in Montreal today and a number of 34th Battery members, which was recruited in this city, will be in attendance. James "Snipe" Mattbows has been in charge of rounding up the boys for this safari and members from Bowmanville, Cobourg, Colborne, Belleville, Napanee, Kingston and Gananoque. They will proceed to Montreal in a Fred Rawson bus and will return immediately after the social function.

The 34th was a battery in the Field Regiment, which consisted of the 56th Battery from Montreal and the 31st Battery from Shawinigan Falls. This is the first reunion of the regiment in many years and the boys are looking forward to a real good time renewing old acquaintances.

Parade, Service at Cenotaph War Veterans, Citizens Pay Remembrance Day Tributes

The city paused briefly this morning in silent and tangible tribute to the memory of its gallant dead of two World Wars.

Recollective swelling back over the abyss of time brought back memories of the first "Armistice Day," November 11, 1918, 43 years ago today, that ended the war "to end all wars."

Today is Remembrance Day, set aside by the nation in general and by war veterans and relatives of those who did not return, in particular.

Today the red poppies, symbolic of "Flanders Fields" are worn in blood-red colorful memorial of those who gave their all in the holocaust of two great world conflicts.

War veterans organizations, civic, fraternal, service and other associations with individuals honored their dead with a parade, a special memorial service at the city cenotaph, and the laying of wreaths at the foot of the stone monument.

Tonight Belleville Canadian Legion, Branch 99, and Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans, Branch 201, will further mark Remembrance Day with dinners and special speakers.

COLORFUL PARADE

The many units, veteran and otherwise which formed the parade, assembled at Bridge and St. armories at 10.20, moving off under Parade Marshal Ralph Taylor, on ten minutes later, and arriving at the cenotaph a few minutes before 11 o'clock.

The parade left the armories, swinging across Bridge to Pinnacle Street to Station Street and the cenotaph. It returned via Station Street to Front Street to Bridge Street and the armories.

Color parties, the marshal and representatives of federal, provincial and municipal governments headed the parade followed by No. 8 Repair Depot RCAF flight and band.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, featuring its colorful drum and trumpet band, followed with sea cadets, army cadets and air cadets next in line.

Then came the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 99, and its Ladies' Auxiliary; the Col. P. D. Wills Branch Canadian Legion Ladies; the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada, Branch 201, and Ladies' Auxiliary, led by the branch pipe band; the RCAF Association, Naval Veterans Association; the Salvation Army Band; Boy Scouts; civilian organizations and wreath bearers, and detachments of the city police and fire departments.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

Arriving at the Cenotaph the parade formed a square about the memorial. An honor guard of four Sea Cadets manned each corner of the Cenotaph with bowed heads and arms reversed.

In mute tribute to the dead, a large crowd stood with bared heads as the brief but impressive service was held. It was conducted by Major Canon A. E. McConnell, MBE, rector of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, and assistant chaplain of the Hasty Pees here, and Rev. Rev. Maurice Imhoff, Rev. C. H. Norman and Mr. Brum Humphreys.

Music for the hymns was played by the Salvation Army Band. "Last Post" and "Reveille" were sounded by the Royal Canadian Air Force trumpeters.

At the post-service wreath-laying ceremonies, the wreath of the Government of Canada was deposited by Mr. Lee Bonter, MP Hastings South. Mrs. Elsie Soule, assisted by Elmer Sandercock, MLA Hastings West, deposited that of the Province of Ontario.

Mayor A. M. Haig officiated in the laying of the city's wreath. Ed Smith deposited that of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 99; Ken Edgecombe that of ANAF Branch 201, and Mrs. Robinson that of the Col. P. D. Wills Branch Canadian Legion Ladies' Auxiliary.

Representatives of the Royal Canadian Navy, the Canadian Army and the Royal Canadian Air Force deposited the wreaths of the armed services.

Others laying wreaths were Veterans, RCAF Association, city business and industrial organizations and other associations, besides many private individuals.

which at many points sounded like a campaign address, Mr. Diefenbaker departed from a prepared text to call Liberal Leader Pearson's recent visit to Nova Scotia a "calamity canvas"; to say he didn't know when the next election or the next session of Parliament would be; and to promise that old-age security legislation will be placed before the next session.

The prime minister, Mrs. Diefenbaker, members of his staff and reporters were scheduled to leave shortly after 6 p.m. for Ottawa. But they were delayed until 9:25 after a transport department Viscount aircraft was slightly damaged by a loading ramp. The flight was cancelled and a second plane brought from Ottawa.

Why postpone enjoyment of needed improvements around your home, plant or business!

Every year more Canadians learn that winter is the very best time to get all sorts of jobs done.

Skilled workers are more readily available and, being more productive, give you better value for your dollar. Many firms also offer discounts in the off-season lull.

In addition to home improvements there are many other things that can be done to advantage during the winter. They include such things as maintenance of lawn and garden equipment, electrical appliances, outboard motors and automobiles, as well as dry cleaning of drapes and rugs and replacement of upholstery, to mention but a few.

By taking a realistic approach to winter work you will also be helping your community by creating employment during the traditional winter lull. When everybody works, everybody benefits.

Curriculum Change Promising

Mr. L. M. Johnston, secondary school inspector, is to be commended for the manner in which he outlined the planned changes in the Ontario secondary school curriculum, to a meeting at the Belleville Collegiate Monday evening.

Mr. Johnston brought considerable information to the members of his audience, most of whom had a lively interest in the matter because they have children who will be affected by the proposed changes in the programs of study.

In the nature of things, it is impossible for the best informed person to sit in judgment on the proposed changes at this stage. For instance, Mr. Johnston said that courses of study for the year program are now in the process of preparation. When this work is completed, those with professional training may possibly find themselves in the possession of sufficient information to essay an evaluation of the changes as a whole. Most of us, though will have to wait and see how the judge by results.

There are certain to be some who will be dissatisfied with these results, attempting to place the blame on the system for their own short-comings or for the short-comings of their children. There are also certain to be instances where errors of judgment are made by those in charge of guiding and counselling children into the program of study best suited to their talents and tenacity—teachers being human and children being as unpredictable in performance as their elders. On the whole, though, the program as outlined by Mr. Johnston appears reasonable and workable.

It is noteworthy that, far from attempting to force a child into a mold and keep him or her there, regardless of altered circumstances and unanticipated developments, the plan provides for transfers, not only between four and five-year programs in the same school of studies but also from one type of program to another. Of course, decisions cannot be postponed forever; the child has to make up his or her mind regarding the future at some stage. But the longer all avenues of study are kept open, the better. Far from forcing premature decisions, the new curriculum appears, upon cursory study, to go as far as possible to postpone finality of choice until the last feasible moment.

Now all that remains is to see how it works.

The curriculum change, incidentally, may be considered the first fruits of the rise to a position of responsibility of Ontario's new premier, J. P. Robarts, who as Minister of Education approved, if he did not actually initiate, the proposed revision.

The British Carry on

Despite the many reports and incidents denoting a vigorous anti-bomb campaign by certain groups and individuals in the United Kingdom we firmly believe that basically the stalwart Britton is not too desperately worried about the future.

A recent Associated Press report confirms this belief. The report indicates that the British are actually thinking of switching about to drive on the right hand side of the road. One of the last bastions of left-hand driving in the world today, Britain appears ready to chuck this distinguishing feature because of possible consequences of joining the Common Market.

Amongst these consequences is the possibility of a bridge or tunnel spanning the English Channel. Logistics aside this idea is by any means novel to this century. The conversion to right-handed driving would conform with driving customs in Europe.

The problems to be encountered are tremendous. Conversion of buses alone (there are about 78,000 in the U.K.), to left-hand drive and passenger doors on the right side is estimated as costing in the neighborhood of one and a half billion dollars. Then, of course, there are all the private cars, trucks, road signs and drivers to be converted also.

The problem is enormous, but then the British have encountered events of this calibre before and successfully "muddled through." What does seem strange, however, is that the Conservative government's Transport Minister, Ernest Marples, should advocate such a far swing to the right.

We hope that he does not encounter numerous bodies stretched out in passive protest across his right-of-way.

The only true retirement is that of the heart; the only true leisure is the repose of the passions. To such persons it makes little difference whether they are young or old; and they die as they have lived, with graceful resignation. — William Hazlitt.

Pumpkins Versatile

National Geographic Bulletin

The common pumpkin has uncommonly enriched both our diet and language. Spicy pumpkin pie is a classic autumn dessert, and the word for its seeds (pepitas) is exotic enough to convey both derision (pumpkin head) and respect (some pumpkins).

The ponderous golden-orange field is one of several varieties of summer squash that belong to the same species, Cucurbita pepo. Though the family resemblance is slight, close relatives include the slender green zucchini, scallopers—shaped white bush scallop, and golden summer crookneck.

Pumpkins are native to Mexico and Central America. Centuries before Columbus reached the New World, Indian tribes over most of North America were cultivating pumpkins and squash.

Captain John Smith wrote that Virginia Indians grew "fruits like unto a Muskie Melon, but lesse and worse." The intrepid captain apparently made the mistake of sampling a raw pumpkin.

The colonists soon found that cooked pumpkinwas a nourishing food. By 1624 a Virginia versifier wrote: "If fresh meat be wanting to fill up your dish, We have carrots and pumpkins and turnips and fish. We have pumpkins at Michaelmas and pumpkins at noone. If it were not for pumpkins we should be undone."

The early settlers made pumpkin porridge, pudding, bread, and griddle cakes, as well as pie. The flesh was dried for use in winter and spring, or boiled down into a thick sauce. "Pumpkin sass and roast 'Possum" was a favorite dish. Pumpkin seeds were dried, fried, and salted for snacks.

A colonial drinking song proclaimed: "Oh, we can make liquor to sweeten our lips Of pumpkins, of parsnips, of walnut-tree chips."

Even the shell was used. Early New England blue laws ordained every Saturday night the hair trimmed around a cap. Sometimes a dried hair shell was substituted. Early New Englanders were called pumpkin heads. The word later came also to mean a dolt or stupid fellow.

The term "some pumpkins" to designate a person or thing of consequence apparently, arose in New York State about a century ago when the publick fancy was driven by "monster pumpkins" displayed at the Crystal Palace.

An outsize pumpkin is relatively easy to grow if all other fruits are trimmed from the vine. One-hundred-pound specimens are common, and one farmer grew a 341-pound giant.

Cold Water Eases Burns

Windsor Star

Recent medical literature suggests that cold water is as effective first aid treatment for minor heat and acids, as well as a good means of relieving the pain of a burn.

In one case a patient whose burned arm was plunged into cold water by the chest suffered very little scarring below the elbow where the water was applied. Above the elbow, where the water did not reach there was considerable scarring. In another case, an Icelandic doctor has recommended the cold water treatment until the pain of a burn disappears.

Cold water is an old remedy for burns but has been for been somewhat discredited until recently. We do not quarrel with medical advice on either view, but we point out that the magic of letting the heat with cold seems to support the recent findings.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

GOD'S PEOPLE

It was recently my privilege to attend a Billy Graham meeting and to sit on the platform with that forceful evangelist. At the close of his sermon he asked for decisions, and between sixty and seven hundred people came forward.

As I watched these people standing before the platform, I found myself saying, "I know what heaven is. It is the gathering together of God's people."

This does not mean that only those people who came forward at an evangelistic meeting will achieve heaven. Probably the overwhelming majority of those people who will finally come to eternal blessedness are people who grew up amid the normal and a regular experiences of regular church life and attendance. But of this we can be sure — heaven's population will be made up of God's own people. These will be from all branches of the Church, from all nations and races, from all generations of history from all station of life. The earthly differences which mean much to us mean nothing to God. His demand is for a consistently faithful life.

Heaven will consist of that vast multitude of God's people, and hell will be made up of those who have neglected or defied the will purposes and rightcous commandments of the Most High.

Heaven is the gathering together of God's people. It begins on earth. It comes to its consummation in a distant Beyond.

"He made it, Raymond — try me tomorrow night."

During the past 24 hours Belleville police have recovered four bicycles which were found abandoned within the city limits. Only one of the bikes had previously been reported stolen in Belleville however. Three of the bicycles were found abandoned behind the Bridge Street scales on the market square and had been left there by three men dressed in Air Force uniforms, the local police were advised by two keen-eyed lads. The fourth bicycle was found abandoned behind a bush on Station Street.

Complaining that there were no lights displayed on a city barricade protecting an excavation on Station Street Mr. Carroll of the Mountain View Airport, damaged the right front fender of his car at 1:30 when the vehicle struck the barricade in question, he reported to local police.

A local resident residing on South Front Street is considering the loss of her purse to the police on Friday evening, indicating that she was of the opinion that the article had been 'snatched' from a local store. However, early today a teen-age girl returned the purse with all contents intact. The purse had been found lying on the counter in the Front Street store and returned to its owner without loss.

Acknowledge Courtesies

Brockville Recorder and Times

"Manners Maketh Man." When we speak of manners we think of the courtesies or politeness exchanged with our fellowmen and women. If manners are to mean anything however, if they are to give pleasure and color our lives, they should evoke some response in our fellow beings. This applies to every single courtesy given or receives some courtesy.

It is therefore disillusioning when a simple courtesy of one's hat falls flat on its face for want of any response. The opening and holding of a door, for example, is one of the most elementary examples of good manners. A man will hold the door for his fellow man, as well as for members of the opposite sex—and vice versa.

But of course we are thinking of this principally as a duty that a man performs where possible for members of the opposite sex. How galling it is then, when the ladies sail through without a word, and how the slighted male feeling like a professional doorman, as if he were paid to do it.

A friend tells us that this happened to her one day recently in recent days, when two different girls marched through silent and cold. She could not felt he wouldn't have minded if they had got their feet wet in a pool of water — no more Sir Walter Raleigh stuff for him.

Judge Goods By List Price

St. Thomas Times - Journal

Ever since the long postwar rise in prices began we've heard how nice it would be if they would stop climbing — or even go back down.

Of course when times get tough or there's an oversupply in some field or other, "list price" may become more fiction than fact, but most businessmen have come to learn, however, that people seem to want to maintain the fiction.

Not many are familiar with the practice of discounting in the sale of automobiles, TV sets, refrigerators and so on. They welcome the quiet slice off what they must pay. But they seem to regard the suggested price as some sort of assurance they are getting the best.

THE PACKSACK

—By GREGORY CLARK

It is just as well that Remembrance Day falls on Saturday this year so that the public conscience can have one more year in which to absolve itself. Next year it falls on a Sunday; after that by two full years we will be spared the obscene of any remembrance Day devoted very largely to forgetting. In most areas, schools have been let out on past Remembrance Days, which has given parents wonderful opportunity to take their children down town for the last minute necessary gifts this season, with the onset of winter. In recognition of Remembrance Day, a good many of the large stores laid on special sales, in expectation of lively business. Parking lots were augmented, and toy departments were at almost the Christmas pitch.

Remembrance Day was also a sort of last fling at getting out into the country for visits to summer cottages, picnics, fun. Certain tourist enterprises on the verge of winter hibernation bestirred themselves to entertain and enliven the day.

Why name one day Remembrance Day? Every day is Remembrance Day for those who found eternity. And it is only especially to remember amid the rush of holidays, amid the hustle of stimulated business, that we pause briefly to remember.

Find 7 Tons Of Old Nails

New York Herald Tribune

The discovery by an Oxford University archeologist of an enormous hoard of Roman nails under the ruins of one of Agricola's fortresses in Scotland pricks the imagination.

There were 783,400 of them, to be exact, ranging up to six-inch spikes. They were made of everything from pure iron to high carbon steel. Although most of the nails were rusted together into bunks of metal, many others were bright and clean as new.

They were apparently buried in the ground in order to escape discovery by the Caledonians when the fortress was abandoned toward the end of the first century AD, and the frontier of Roman Britain receded to the Antonine Wall. Seven tons of nails could not easily be transported.

Undoubtedly an interesting find, although one that can be singly abundant one. A plausible theory is that a Roman quartermaster, in calculating the requirements of the forces' carpentering and ordered a gigantic shipment of nails from hardware. The garrison bulldings were, after all, already constructed.

Or perhaps it was just one of those bureaucratic errors which occur in all highly centralized empires. Like the recent shipment to equatorial Guinea of a bunch of Soviet overcoats. Or the shipment of the row of appropriate commissars the Roman Senate would have sent off as military budget time had it got wind of the nail shortage.

We can take comfort that there is now a 1,900-year-old precedent for incidents of logistical inefficiency, and that, perhaps, is some small comfort this morning. There is a rise of about two degrees at the time of evolution. (But you must beware of being misled by a cold, or being lured after a night of carousing, or any such thing that can raise the fermentative index.)

Yes, it's possible to miss the exact time of evolution, but after some years of observation, a pretty good idea to have the husband, as well as his wife, changed for some flaw, perhaps minor the easily reproached, the less-preening pregnancy.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What can a person do about constipation when it is necessary to be on a low-residue or bland diet? — M.L."

Several things. Maybe the first thing to try is simple water, in fact, that's all that all some people.

Laxative juices — prune juice for one — helps.

Bulk may be increased without harmful irritation by bland preparations containing psyllium or agar. And half a dozen or more preparations containing dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate (a moistening and softening agent) are available.

Use a Vitamin B complex or brewer's yeast may help.

And along with any of these measures, there's one very important one: Use of glycerin suppositories may be useful for a time, aimed at promoting regularity. But a habit of regular bowel action is one of the most helpful of all.

Canada Has Many Authors

Ottawa Journal

Mr. Donald W. Thompson of Ottawa is a good example of a president of the Canadian Authors' Association. What he said in Halifax recently should be noted by those who instinctively fear a rising tide of bad days, who think a good Canadian poem has been written since Bliss Carman died or that the last worthwhile Canadian novel was written by Lovecock's.

Mr. Thompson said a year's production of books in Canada now outweighs "in volume and merit" that produced in any decade before 1930.

Mr. Thompson may be right. Too many Canadians are still allowing their nostalgia for Victorian days to blind understandable admiration of some fine Canadian writers today to interfere with a full appreciation of today's work. Mr. Irving Layton may not be congenial to all tastes, nor perhaps Mr. Leonard Cohen. But the fgreat thing is we have a considerable choice today among artists, not perhaps of extraordinary genius, but of a high degree of professional competence.

TO Your Good Health

Meat Is a Reliable Source Of Complete Protein

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: A friend of mine claims there is no food value in meat if it is well done, especially hamburger. If it isn't rare inside, she says, there is no point in eating it. — Mrs. A.Z."

My, oh my! Where do these notions come from? Meat is highly nutritious and a most reliable source of complete protein. It also gives us minerals and Vitamin B. The amount of fat governs, to a large degree, its calories. Cooking doesn't destroy its most useful contents although it may melt off some of the fat. Cooking is primarily a matter of taste, although most meat should be reasonably well-cooked to destroy tapeworm (if present) and trichina (if pork and possibly some game animals).

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is the most effective way of determining the day of ovulation? Is it possible to tell by years without hitting the right day? Is one cheaper? Are there any physical signs I should look for around that time? — Mrs. C.F."

Ovulation usually is the time at which the egg can be fertilized — and usually does so. Its exact timing is not generally from the 12 to 16th day following the beginning of the last period in women having a 28 or 30 day cycle.

Sometimes women experience a sharp pain associated with rupture of the follicle which releases the ovum, or egg. But a great many do not.

Other than that, and as a matter of fact an accepted method of determining the exact time, is the rise in rectal temperature each morning. There is a rise of about two degrees at the time of ovulation. (But you must beware of being misled by a cold, or being lured after a night of carousing, or any such thing that can raise the fermentative index.)

Yes, it's possible to miss the exact time of ovulation, but after some years of observation, a pretty good idea to have the husband, as well as his wife, changed for some flaw, perhaps minor the easily reproached, the less-preening pregnancy.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Your article on cataract surgery met my immediate need, and I plan to have surgery next month. My problem is that I do not want to stay in the hospital more than four or five days. My surgeon seems to have other ideas on things. — H.C.H."

I feel if staying a few days longer gives the eye a chance to heal thoroughly, and reduces the risk of damaging it by getting treated eye, don't you think it's worth the time? Believe me, especially with all the publicity about the cost of excessive hospital stays, your doctor isn't acting without good reason. He wants you out of the hospital as soon as possible — within the limits of safety. Safety for you, that is.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What can a person do about constipation when it is necessary to be on a low-residue or bland diet?

Several things. Maybe the first thing to try is simple water, in fact, that's all that all some people.

Laxative juices — prune juice for one — helps.

Bulk may be increased without harmful irritation by bland preparations containing psyllium or agar. And half a dozen or more preparations containing dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate (a moistening and softening agent) are available.

Use Children As Informers

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

One of the more sickening aspects of the rise of Nazism and of Fascism has been the indoctrination of youth to the point where spying on one's parents and reporting them to the Gestapo for harboring anti-Hitler sentiments was publicly praised and rewarded.

Ironically, the techniques of Hitler and Mussolini are being used with success by the Communists in Eastern Europe, where prizes are offered to children who betray people they fail to accept the party side of the wall. Footballs and other suits are being handed out to young informers in the border area, the military correspondent of the Manchester newspaper Das Volk reports.

Similar to the Hitler Jugend of the Young Pioneers, the junior Red movement for ten to fourteen-year-olds. The purpose is to embrace most of the tenets of the Soviet Communist movement. An example: Heidi Malowitz told her father there was no God. When he asked why, Heidi elected police, and Heidi was presented with a track suit.

Herr Mallowitz had better be careful not to criticize the new party line. He should recall English-born Thomas Fuller's era warning: 'Children have wide ears and long tongues".

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PULSE

Pulse tells about condition. It tells the story of the heart which is the most important organ in the body.

Pulse tells the truth, too.

I like to put my fingers upon the pulse of one's mind that I may feel your heart beat. I associate with its impulses and I can then decide as to this that it may mean into something solid, substantial and eternal.

When the nurse touches her fingers to her patient's wrist she may learn much but she will say little.

And so we may get the spirit of our friend, of the world, of written or expressed thought through the pulse of these things, but the essence of life's pulse escapes. It lies in the interpretation we put upon what we find.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINNIFRED WILSON

Do not expect to see many migrants here at this date. For two months or more beginning with those whose food gave out first the little travellers have been on the move. The majority of flycatching birds including swallows, whip-poor-wills, nighthawks and, of course, members of the family called "flycatchers" were among the first to leave us. Nearly all warblers are partial to flying insects and little green worms in summer fare. But Myrtle warblers, being especially versatile in their taste, hold out until quite late in the season, eating berries and seeds. Like juncos, they can be attracted to feeding trays by doughnut crumbs, suet and sunflower seeds. Nuthatches and woodpeckers, thriving on insects and insect eggs found in the bark of trees all year round, remain indefinitely.

NEED OPEN WATER

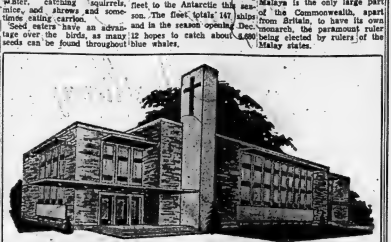
The disappearance date of fish eaters depends upon when their particular body of water freezes over. Those accustomed to finding their food in small lakes and streams start away early; cormorants, loons and several species of ducks linger around the St. Lawrence River near Montreal as late as the end of November, sometimes until Christmas, because the current there is swift enough to keep the river open. Gulls spend the winter at Montreal harbor because they can subsist on scraps inadvertently supplied by man.

Screech owls, willing to eat almost any animal food, need not leave at all; great horned owls stay because they can catch all sorts of small animals, including domestic cats. Most owls are flesh eaters, the large majority preferring mice to any other diet. Consequently, many are what is termed "partly migratory" those breeding in the south are "residents", the others remain in their summer homes as long as it is possible to catch mice. The short-eared concentrate in large numbers where the mouse population is high, but by mid-winter leave all Canada except southern Ontario and southern B.C.

MAY STAY LATE

Movements of shrikes, too, depend to a great extent on the availability of mice; but these birds are able to stay in our southern Canadian settlements until near the end of the year.

Most hawks (daylight flesh eaters) find foraging here too difficult by the end of October, but rough-legs take the owl tactics of hunting at dawn or dusk, so remain well into the winter, catching squirrels, mice, and shrews and sometimes eating carrion.



Seed eaters have an advantage over the birds, as many seeds can be found throughout our cold season. Crossbills and pine grosbeaks, with a perfect fence for seeds of conifers, buds and wild fruit, thrive here, brightening our chill, winter days.

MOST WHALERS

TOKYO (AP)—Japan is losing the world's largest whaling fleet to the Antarctic this season. The fleet totals 147 ships and is the reason opening Dec. 12 hopes to catch about 4,000 blue whales.

UP-TO-DATE

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—The government plans to build a new royal palace costing $1,600,000, including a private golf course and swimming pool, on a four-acre site here. The present palace may be turned into a national museum. Malaya is the only large part of the Commonwealth, apart from Britain, to have its own monarch, the paramount ruler being elected by rulers of the Malay states.

White Shrine Marks 35th Birthday

Bethlehem White Shrine of Jerusalem, No. 11, held its 35th birthday in the I.O.O.F. hall, Front Street, last Wednesday, with a record attendance.

The hall was beautiful with yellow and white blooms and other floral decorations.

The Union Jack, followed by the Stars and Stripes, was escorted to the East, in honor of visitors from the U.S.A. Visitors from Kingston, Peterborough and other parts of Canada, were also present.

Sol. K. Bushell, W.H.P., presided in the East, assisted by Sol. D. Hollinger, W.O.S.

After the meeting all the sojourners adjourned to the upper hall where the tables were most attractive, with yellow daffodils and small horns of plenty," filled with candies at each place setting.

BIRTHDAY CAKE

At the head table a three-tiered birthday cake, made and donated by Sol. K. Bushell, WHP, formed the centrepiece with yellow daffodils on each side.

Sol. D. Hollinger, WOS, was chairman for the evening. One minute's silence was observed, a tribute to Armistice Day.

Sole by Mr. Brinkman (Holy City), was much enjoyed, with Mrs. L. Jordan at the piano. Later a delicious supper was served.

The program was as follows:

A toast to the Queen, by Sol. D. Hollinger, WOS; a toast to Supreme Shrine by Sol. Edna Calvert, WHP, Kingston, responded to by Sol. Dawn Corcoran, High Deputy, of Syracuse, N.Y.; toast to absent members, by Mary Hearns, D. Deputy Pres., responded to by Sol. Arthur McCarey; toast to visitors by Sol. George Pound, WPOS, responded to by Sol. Edna Pyke, chairman M.O. Committee; solo by Mr. Brinkman (Bless This House.)

Chairman Sol. D. Hollinger, WOS, finished his remarks with a very appropriate verse:

"Count your garden by the flowers,
Never by the leaves that fall;
Count your days, by golden hours,
Don't remember clouds at all;
Count your night by stars, not shadows,
Count your life with smiles, not tears,
And with joy, on this your birthday,
Count yourself one, by friends, not years."

"In Remembrance"

At the Cenotaph I stand,
A tear stands in my eye,
And on my finger, just a band
Of gold, I stand alone and cry.

He left me with a tender kiss,
A sweet embrace; a tear,
These are the things I truly miss
Where'er I wish him near.

Through mem'ries dimmed not by the years,
I sense him near . . . close by my side.
Although he died there with his peers,
Here in my heart he will abide.

God only knows where now he lies.
I hope it's peaceful there.
Perhaps he sleeps 'neath quiet skies,
Tucked in his bed with care.

Perhaps he has no monument,
But on this Cross I see
A simple graven message sent—
"I died to keep you free."

I wonder how he met his fate
Within the arms of Doom.
However, when he reached the Gate,
I'm sure God gave him room.

When duty called he went abroad,
He gave his life for us.
I know that he is now with God,
And not in Krebus.

He died with glory in his soul
And courage in his heart.
Honor was then his only goal
Although it meant we'd part.

With pride and love for him, I kneel,
At this Cenotaph today.
Deep in this heavy heart I feel—
Oh! What a price to pay.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE

Bryn Mawr college for women near Philadelphia has employed social research and economics since its opening in 1880.

Brownie Pack M.A. Elects 1961-2 Officers

The Mothers' Auxiliary of the First Belleville Brownie Pack held its first regular meeting of the season Thursday evening in the Winston Churchill School.

Tawnie Owl Lillian Irwin introduced the Brown Owl of the Pack, Mrs. Willa Eakins, who in turn introduced her other helper, Mrs. Marian Mundroy. Mrs. D. Hannah, the other helper, was unable to be present.

Mrs. Eakins explained that as there was such a large number of girls in the pack this year, it was necessary either to split the group or have extra help, the Brown Owl chose the latter. At the present time the four leaders have 24 Brownies in their care. In the coming two weeks 12 Tweenies will be enrolled and the young ladies' mothers are invited to witness the ceremony.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

A Christmas party, with the parents in attendance, was decided for the second December Brownie meeting. Besides refreshing themselves with gifts from the draw of names, the children decided some food to be given to Salvation Army.

Arrangements were made for Golden Hand girls to visit their other homes and make tea for their homes and also try out tests for the house orderly badge.

Mrs. Lorriane Fourcis reported that the demand for used uniforms was far greater than the supply and asked that anyone with a daughter who had outgrown her Brownie or Guide uniform telephone her in the evening at 968-9218, and that she would immediately arrange for an exchange or a sale.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The remainder of the evening was taken up with the election of officers for the coming year. Tawnie Owl Irwin called for nominations and the candidates that were elected are as follows: Mrs. L. Fourcis, president; Mrs. Dymock, vice-president; Mrs. Devine, secretary; Mrs. Hunn, treasurer; Mrs. Nora Welsh, telephone convener, assisted by Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Margaret Hollins, social convener.

The newly installed president announced regular monthly meetings would be held on the second Thursday of the month, beginning in January.

Before serving the lunch, the Brown Owl and the Tawnie Owls congratulated the executive and thanked Mrs. Mooney and Mrs. Hannah for their husband had made for the leaders to keep their supplies in.

Mrs. Casgrain Seeking Seat in House

QUEBEC (CP)—A dark-eyed, comely woman, hoping to become the Liberal party's candidate in a by-election in Montreal - Jacques Cartier next month, has pushed aside politics Friday at the opening of the Quebec Liberal Federation meeting.

Mrs. Claire Kirkland Casgrain, a lawyer and mother of three, would become the first woman ever to enter Quebec's legislature, if she becomes candidate and wins the Dec. 14 vote.

She is the daughter of the late Thomas Kirkland, millionaire without portfolio in the Liberal government and who repealed the big riding for 22 years until his death three months ago.

Mrs. Casgrain was greeted by some 50 women in the flowered lobby of the Quebec City hotel where the Liberal meeting is taking place. She got roses and the traditional French-Canadian victory song Elle a Gagne set to Epaulettes.

Bayside G.G. Brownies L.A. Holds Meeting

The Local Association for Guides and Brownies held its regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Brodie with ten ladies and three guides present.

Mrs. Cowan opened the meeting. Futher plans were discussed for the Christmas concert which is to be held December 6 in the Legion Hall, Trenton.

Some games were played and the hostess, assisted by the Guides, served lunch.

National Railways in Japan Offer Speed, Luxury, Scenery

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

KYOTO, JAPAN—The Japanese National Railways Limited, named the Swallow, makes it here from Tokyo in a snappy six hours. That isn't quite as fast as Japan Air Lines seven snappier Convair 880-M jets, but it's more sensible. It's also a lesson in what railroading can be in this faster-than-a-speeding-bullet age.

"We regret to announce we are running three minutes late" said the conductor in English on the public address system as we pulled in. This is the sort of line that would get a laugh on most North American railroads, where three minutes late is practically ahead of schedule. In Japan, it's losing face.

The first class coaches are laid out like ours, but with enough leg room for the Japanese or one Texan. Each seat is equipped with a tiny hearing-aid type radio earphone for following "Viva Plain Hill Music" or "Ma Yamaguchi's Family." You may not understand what's going on, but it sounds as dramatic as a Kabuki play. Some drinks have television, and one crew member has the sole job of continually turning the channels to pick up the strongest signal.

The conductor makes detailed announcements before and after each stop. Each car is heated or air conditioned by six individually controlled ceiling units, and is equipped with vision and one crew member has the sole job of continually turning the channels to pick up the strongest signal.

The conductor makes detailed announcements before and after each stop. Each car is heated or air conditioned by six individually controlled ceiling units, and is equipped with lavatories and western style toilets (there really isn't any difference, except in deference to visitors). Coaches are kept immaculate by employees who come through and sweep up periodically.

GOOD FOOD TOO

Good European style food is served in the diner, where a marker board also keeps you posted on the train's current location. If you choose to dine at your seat, you can pick up a Japanese box lunch for about 60 cents, consisting of sushi (wads of rice covered with strips of fish), sliced mushrooms, fish cakes, pickled beancurd and seaweed, a sort of Japanese special-combination pizza. At stops along the route young girls come aboard to sell packaged specialties of the region such as seaweed and horse-radish.

The route is the classic imperial road of ancient Japan, full of sights as familiar to the visitor as all the scrolls and silk screen paintings he has seen. It starts high above the waters of the Bay of Japan, where stand the oft-regimented cypress trees whipped into grotesque shapes by the wind.

On the right rises Fuji, its perfect symmetrical cone symbolizing the mystical Japanese yearning for perfect beauty. Still bare of its snow collar in autumn, it stands gray and ominous in the morning mist. Though it has not erupted for two centuries, Fuji is still a live volcano, always reminding Japanese of the precariousness of life.

Beyond Fuji loom the jagged black-green mountains that look like no others, in the valleys from which they rise abruptly, farmers in coolie hats bend over the yellow rice fields in a timeless tableau. An occasional red arched bridge crosses a stream, though most have been replaced by modern vehicular ones.

WOOD AND PAPER

Villages stand close by the tracks, still traditionally wood and paper in the cheapest and most esthetic Japanese materials - after thousands of years and thousands of fires. From a distance they look black and ugly, but up close they are remarkable.

Most are unpainted, but the wood is either weathered or hand-rubbed to a glass-smooth finish unknown in the West. The sliding shoji screen windows are covered with the fine parchment paper that gives the sort diffused light effect copied by decorators and labeled "Japanese modern." Black tile pagoda roofs turn their corners toward heaven on each structure.

The inside of a Japanese house is tpnitied, and best reached from the visitor. In the Japanese-style accommodations available in most new and all inns. But rarely - for some unknown reason are the rooms occupied by North Americans. They are studies in the highly developed Japanese art of relaxation and serenity; steeping in one is an experience in itself for the traveller.

JAPANESE SERENITY

In the new building of Kyoto's Miyako Hotel, the Japanese rooms are in separate wings with fanciful names like "Moon" and "Snow," a pleasant stroll beyond the swimming pool through gardens of rocks, ferns, dwarf trees and miniature waterfalls. The corridors are decorated with tiny vases of flowers and sprigs, and the only sound is the tinkle of the waterfalls, heard through tiny windows.

The room is square with alcoves separated by sliding screens for clothes, washing and bedding. Furniture is sparse except for a small alcove decorated with a vase of flowers and a hanging scroll, illuminated by a concealed light. The floors are covered with tightly woven tatami straw mats, and the only furniture is an exquisite lacquered lamp table.

A prescribed routine is followed as in most Japanese room. First he removes his shoes at the traditional marker - then his clothes. A hotel kimono and slippers are provided, and after a refreshing bath he seats himself at the table.

The maid brings tea, gracefully dropping to her knees as she serves it. Then she slides aside the shoji screens to reveal a peaceful garden and mountains over which the moon will rise as the guest sips.

After he is properly unwound the maid returns to the table, spreads the foam rubber, satin-covered mattress on the floor in the knowledge that even the crazy American in Tokki-6 can sleep like the Japanese baby without benefit of the Japanese Sandman.

KATHERINE HALE

"It is but common to believe in him who believes in himself, but oh, if you would do enough unconscious, believe yet in him who does not believe in himself. Restore the faith to him."—Muriel Strode.

Have you ever had a tribute paid to you at a testimonial dinner, arranged in your honor?

Such as one arranged recently in Tweed for Mr. Howard Connor, by his pupils past and present, to mark the beginning of his retirement after fifty years of teaching? Such an occasion makes the heart sing, as does any mark of appreciation, but especially for one who has made a career of teaching. . . .

But why is this especially so —about teaching?

Perhaps Aldous Huxley throws some lucidity on, such a query, pointing out as he does that "of the significant and memorable experiences of life only the simplest are open indiscriminately to all. The rest cannot be had except by those who have undergone a suitable training."

One must undergo training, it seems. Only a teacher holds the key. The train is difficult. Indeed it is an art, an art that deals with young minds, the most precious of any artists' commodity. And humanity composed of all ages. Of which perfectibility does not vouchsafe certain success concerning this commodity One English schoolmaster upon retiring at the age of eighty recalled the days as a schoolmaster appeared in the school paper as a "schoolmaster," and though only a miniprint, gave him, often, much cause to ponder.

Yet many deem it worth devoting their lives for the privilege of trying, in spite of this very precariousness, which often not only a challenge but a source of enchantment to the profession. And while a teacher's efforts are never made manifest immediately, yet memorable moments sometimes arise unexpectedly, as was the case of a revered Ontario teacher, Dr. Thomas Carrcadden.

At a testimonial gathering in his honor at the time of his retirement, a young woman, tall and slender, . . . to come forward upon the platform, where she was introduced as a "former pupil."

"Sir," she turned as she'addre- d the frail, white-haired pel, with a look of veneration, "During my four years here, I well remember one very special day. It was the day that you called me into your office."

A hush lay upon the assembly. That had overthose of seriousness.

"Upon your desk," the lady went on, "lay an Algebra paper. Mine had written it the day before for a test. Your face was full of nothing but concern and disappointment.

"Another failure —" you said with a sigh, and I recall how my heart sank, for I was very, very discouraged I was. I was a disgrace to my teacher, disgusting but a miserable failure.

"How bleak and terrible life was! I felt entirely crushed and then I heard you say as you handed the paper to me 'But — I must admit that was an excellent composition you handed in . . .'

"How my heart suddenly soared as your words brought hope and encouragement. It had never occurred to me that

W.H.A. Fashion Fiesta Plans Lively Program

Plans have been completed and the 'count down' about to begin for the fashion fiesta, "Interlude in Italy," sponsored by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary of Belleville General Hospital. This will take place at the Collegiate on Wednesday evening with Mrs. J. H. Forbes as narrator.

The six models, the music and soloist, ushers and ticket sellers for what the grand draw have all been selected. The script used will be an intriguing one. Mrs. Ben Burley has taken charge of the stage setting and Mrs. Ross Bongard co-operation accorded her by many friends of the auxiliary and by the merchants of the city have been amazing. Bright sharp colors, a romance with the Mediterranean theme, will be used.

Luxurious furs, exotic jewels and personal accessories, dazzling evening gowns, all combine to make the 1952 fashion fiesta one long to be remembered.

The proceeds from the ticket sale will be used to purchase new linens for the public wards of the hospital. Adorable models and pretty puppets brighten the lives of the small patients, will be made available to the public before and after the show.

one subject could possibly off set the failure of another, just as one day as well as another, sir, was a day to remember, for that day, you gave me faith in myself. To remember throughout my career as a teacher, and failed to encourage so much as to those words of praise . . . but that was an excellent composition . . . It made me realize and be thankful for what I could do well, and resolved from that moment, to perfect myself in the faithful- to my talent and if possible make you truly proud."

That she has succeeded may be testified by her many readers, for she was none other than the late Mrs. John Carvin, whose pseudonym of Kathleen Hale was known for her poems, essay and lectures. On her mother's side she was related to Edward Everett Hale, author of "The Man Without a Country" and Nathan Hale, who, then, was Katherine Hale, who came by her chosen profession. Undoubtedly it was the respect of a teacher, it may be was really her due to her and the glory of her native land.

BELLEVIGNETTE "Dear day, quite by accident I spilled some horse-radish on some brussel-sprouts, which I was serving. Horrors! But served it anyway, only to discover it is be a hit with my guests!" a Belleville hostess related the other day and said we might pass the good news along to you.

A Lift for Living

Shelters of Religious Faith

BY DR. RALPH SOCKMAN

Today most Americans are talking about shelters. Shall each of us build a shelter in his own yard or under his own house? Or shall we construct community shelters? How shall we protect ourselves from neighbors who invade our shelters? Shall we call out the National Guard to arrest them? Is it at least one state governor has promised to do? Or shall we shoot them with our own pistols, as some suggest?

I live in an apartment house. I have no backyard. And I am not going to buy a gun. But among all the questions about shelters, the one which puzzles me most is this — when is it safe to come out? We must consider both the going in and the coming out of our shelters.

This reminds me of something Jesus said. He lived before bombs, but this question of shelters is more comprehensive than protection from bombs. In his great description of the Good Shepherd, recorded by John in the tenth chapter, Jesus said: "I am the door. If any man enters by Me, he will be saved and he will go in and out and find pasture".

We feel the force of this figure if we think of a sight which was familiar to Jesus. He was accustomed to seeing sheep at nightfall, huddled together, eager to go into the sheepfold. Then He would see those same sheep in the morning hungry and restless to get out to the pasture. And just as the sheep's healthy life depended on going in and out of the sheepfold, Jesus said, so it is with His human followers.

KEEP LIFE FREE

When we translate this principle of alternation into the concrete prose of everyday living, what does it involve? For one thing, it suggests to me how to keep life free, we must go into the shelter of our religious faith and then out to the exposure of it.

We need shelter from the world. Most normal persons want to see the world. But travel and sightseeing do pall on us after a time. The Psalm Royal was the centre of Britain's gaiety and night life in the early nineteenth century, but when there that John Howard Payne penned the words of "Home, Sweet Home". We need shelter from the crowds of our own community. After a while the unfeeling stares of strangers, hostile looks of criticism and people pushing around us get on our nerves.

Hence we say a man's house is his castle. Not only does it protect us from search without a warrant, but it also shelters us when "the world is too much with us".

Much as we may desire at times to get away from people we cannot healthily stay away from them.

We need shelter not only from the strain of the world, but also from its temptations and sins. There is a profound truth in the hymn: "Stay Thou near by; temptations lose their power when Thou are nigh". In the house of God, in the sheepfold with Christ, temptations which might prove too strong for us on so-called Great While we do not sensit us OFTEN DO FALL.

It is curious how many persons underestimate the trouble they can stand and how they overestimate the temptations they withstand. They are blind of some possible calamity and say: "I would never succumb to that". But if it comes, they do. On the other hand they think of a deed as unforgivable when committed and comment, "I could never do that". But in the temptation comes, they all too often do fall.

Consequently we do not live an effectively moral life by trying to keep away from the exposure to sin. When Jesus was criticized for dining with publicans and sinners, He replied that He came to call the sinners, not the righteous, to repentance. Our slum streets will not be cleaned by the smugly good who merely try to "keep their skirts clean".

We must go into the world of trenched evil.

We think of John G. Whittier as the gentle Quaker poet. But remember, Whittier was once editor of the Pennsylvania Freeman. His office in Philadelphia was burned by a mob. He had to consider it unfeeling life because he had gone out so bravely for anything else to try.

When godly persons go into the shelter of their religious faith, they go not to escape the moral struggle of this world but to fortify themselves for it. As the Psalmist said, "God is our refuge and strength."

QUESTION:

O lodge will be holding a special meeting next month and for our late evening lunch we are planning on something special, turkey (roast), being fin. main dish and to be served buffet style for 20 to 25 men. What other dishes could be served along with the turkey to make it a tasty lunch. This is one of those men only affairs, and we are depending on our wives to help prepare the food — Malcolm C.

ANSWER:

If the turkey is to be served hot include cranberry sauce, 2 different kinds of salads such as genuine cole slaw and Hot German Potato Salad, hot pecan rolls or Date-buttered French stick. If the turkey is to be served cold include cranberry jelly, casserole of scalloped potatoes, and a tossed green salad with French dressing. Hot butt..d thinly-sliced rye bread.

Desserts that are men's favorites: Apple Pie and Old Cheddar cheese or Cherry Lattice Pie or Pumpkin Pie with whipped cream, bits of coffee and rich cream and sugar, raisins and nuts.

I hope you will add to the recipe for hot German Potato Salad which is the only one I make a real success of. Be sure to have it nice and hot when you serve it. Unmould cold platter with large paper doilies and decorate with sprigs of parsley. It is now ready to be piped in st ..ding hot on Bobbie Burn's Day.

A Patient Martyr

By ALMA MASON

In one of our city hospitals a young colored girl persistently refuses food from her bed. Through a medical accident she was deprived of both legs. Her three children were taken from her and given to families for adoption. Her husband deserted the young wife who would be a burden. She is alone and almost friendless.But not quite—for she has for her Comforter and constant Companion, the man of Galilee. Who knew loneliness and desertion and an agonizing death. Through faith and a concurring love for her Master, she is able to maintain her heart with love and compassion instead of bitterness and malice. With what pass by her bed invariably stop to chat with her, drawn by her irresistible sunny smile,

Why is Frances left to know the confines of a lonely room for the rest of her life? To answer such a question one would have to have a glimpse of the hidden scroll containing the wise and wonderful plans of the Almighty for all of the human race.

What a lost world this would be without the ineffably sweet courage and loving care of patient martyrs!

But it was Frances. Often I seek her warm smile because my own smile needs bolstering; because my small troubles have threatened to engulf me; because I need her wisdom or spirit to help me bear my insignificant cross. Selfish? Yes, perhaps I am. However, as Frances impregnates me with her sunny and noble philosophy, she feels that she is still a useful element in this topsy-turvy world Others, like myself reap inspiration and uplift to help them bear their more burdens, need only to absorb a golden smile that rises like a rainbow above seemingly insurmountable obstacles, be tightly told of God's love and again and walk brave-ly forth.

Because you smile thru pain and loneliness
And blithely lift your leaden cross,
My own wes burden smaller grows,
Your rainbow courage will outshine mine.

Such poor and paltry stuff as mine
In your bright light my candle glows.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

DON'T BE A "HEAVY" HOSTESS!

"When you've seen one g old mine, you've seen them all." This was the way a friend summed up the after-dinner "entertainment" offered by a hostess who had just returned from a tour of South Africa and had brought back a good slice of it on film.

The rolls were subsequently spliced and reeled off for an unsuspecting audience of twelve who thought they had been invited only for dinner. No one had told them that a two-hour travelogue was on the menu.

As my friend added: "All that gold certainly sank the sparkling conversation I had memorized for the evening. I couldn't even get off one nugget."

As you can readily see, guests may appreciate a well-organized party, but most hate to be regimented. This should serve as a warning for hostesses, especially during the season when parties of any description tend to become more lavish.

If any entertainment other than good old-fashioned conversation is planned for after dinner, then it should be something the majority of the guests will enjoy.

In the case of the aforementioned travelogue, the world would have been more thoughtful to edit the film down to a half-hour or so instead of showing the entire thing to an audience that was more restive than relaxed. But so much for hindsight.

Before springing any entertainment, a thoughtful hostess will ask herself a few questions, whether she has in mind a game of cards or a series of charades. If the suggestion is snapped up, she's in business. If not, then it's better to let guests follow their own inclinations and keep their party relaxing smoothly in neutral gear.

Very often, feelings are misjudged. Some people prefer to play bridge, while others would prefer to listen to music or talk. If this is the case, the conscientious hostess will set up card tables at the end of the room, leaving the other free for music or conversation or both.

It takes a skilful hand to juggle entertainment that will be satisfactory to all. The important thing is to let guests have some say in the matter, instead of herding them into an activity in which they take only a half-hearted interest at best.

The gracious hostess makes her guests, feel captivated, not captured. It's a thought worth entertaining for the holidays.

Garden Notes

Just Before the Big Freeze

By FLORA M. HAVILLE

If you have any tomato plants with fruit still green pull up the plant by the roots and hang in the basement. The flavor is better in vine ripened tomatoes than those wrapped in paper, or placed on a shelf.

If you neglected to cut and dry your favorite herbs you can still find a few fresh tips. Cut and hang, or spread to dry. When bone dry crumble and place in jars with tight lids. You may still find bunches of fresh herbs for sale at the Saturday market. These are more pungent than bottled herbs. You can also freeze herbs. Spread them out on waxed paper on a cookie sheet and when they are frozen place in plastic bags. You can then take out a spike at a time as needed.

Some pruning can be done now. Where branches cross or long branches whip around in the wind they should be cut back. Shrubs which have developed thick centre growth can be pruned to open up the passage for sun and air and better air circulation. Those shrubs which bloom on last year's wood should only be pruned severely. You will lose too much bloom. Diseased or broken limbs should be cut back and the cut surface treated with a dressing.

CAN STILL PLANT

Bulbs can still be planted. Tulips may be set into soil as the ground is not frozen hard. Daffodils and hyacinths should be planted long before this.

Trees and tall shrubs which were planted this year should be tied to stakes to prevent movement. Next fall when good roots have developed you can remove the stakes. Newly planted birch and shade trees can be protected from winter damage by mice or rabbits by painting with white latex paint. Buy one pound of resin from a hat store. Mix with three pints of denatured alcohol. It may take two days for the resin to dissolve. Paint all parts of the bark these pests can reach.

Mulching — Don't mulch anything until the ground freezes. Under plants may be protected by knocking the bottom out of a basket basket, filling it with hay and turning it over the plant. Another is the ground with coat hanger wire bent like two-large hair pins. Slip these through the wire handles and push into the ground. Cut a few branches of evergreens and place over your pansies. Cover soft leaved blossoms such as Canterbury bells, Fox gloves with an umbrella of plastic, or heavy paper. They do not need protection from the cold but something to keep the cover dry. Hollyhock, Primula, Iris and Dianthus are apt to rot if they are given a mulch.

A GIFT IDEA

— There is still time to have an amaryllis in bloom for Christmas. Buy the bulbs and place in a five or six inch pot. Use a soil mix of one third soil, peat moss, or leaf mold and sand. Cover hole with a button, or fat stone. Add a half cup of bone meal for good drainage and then soil. There are lovely shades of red, orange and white and they are showy enough to feature in the holiday decorations. Start one for a gift also.

Do you lose your bulbs and corms when you store them over winter? Drying out is the prime cause in most cases. Dry peat and dust glad corms with a fungicide after you clean them. Store in plastic bags, or in slatted boxes of dry peat moss. Dahlias should be stored in slightly damp peat moss, or sand. I have used wood ashes with good results. The Cannas and caladium bulbs are treated the same way.

Make a compost heap of the fallen leaves and garden refuse. Wet it down well, add a layer of fertilizer of any kind and three or four inches of soil. Keep the centre lower than the sides to catch water.

Cut off and burn tops of iris and peonies to destroy borers and fungus pests. Soak soil around evergreens several times before the ground freezes. These plants lose moisture through evaporation even in cold weather. There is no harm in the mulch a plastic spray that will protect narrow and broadleaved evergreens over winter.

BINGO PAYS OFF

Donald MacDonald, Ontario Provincial Conservative Party, criticized Mr. Roberts for the same day for inaction in combatting crime in Ontario's province. Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer demanded aggressive action to root out organized gambling in Ontario.

DENIES REPORTS

Reports that Inspector Jack Webb, newly appointed head of the anti-gambling squad of the provincial police, has been interviewing Ontario police chiefs about crime in their areas were denied today by Commissioner Conniscioner W. H. Kennedy of the OPP.

Chief Mackey said police have investigated a number of bingo halls in Ontario. Some of these have established that they are being operated by professionals who usually control the operation from small halls.

"As a matter of fact, some of them now own and operate public halls throughout Ontario," he said.

"It should be apparent that the only way to stop this bingo game is not donated to charity."

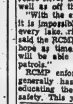
the negotiations. Early in October, however, complaints were heard that British was playing her cards close to the chest. Commonwealth sources were particularly noticeable. The Heath's first statement to the market countries was at Paris meeting Oct. 10.

British ministers obviously were aware of this dissatisfaction.



COME CLEAN

This was apparent Friday when the Commonwealth relations office announced Commonwealth correspondents to a private background talk by one of the top members of the British negotiating team. At the same time, the office informed correspondents of the scheduled briefing for Sunday and Heath, which it said was given expressly for high commissioners.

CHECK BOATING HABITS — Backed by stronger laws, police plan stricter enforcement of safety regulations for pleasure boating next summer. Stricter Law Enforcement On Canada's Waterways To Make for Safer Cruising

By RUSSELL ELMAN

OTTAWA (CP)—Police plan stricter law enforcement next summer on Canada's waterways to make cruising safer for the country's half-million licensed small boat owners.

They hope to attain their objective through a popular-education program on water safety and by taking advantage of amendments to the Criminal Code passed by Parliament last June.

The amendments, aimed at more effective regulation of power boats and other small craft, went into effect Sept. 1—too late to have any appreciable effect in the 1961 boating season.

Most significant change is transfer of boating regulation from the federally administered Canada Shipping Act to the Criminal Code, a federal law whose enforcement is a provincial responsibility.

The main effect...say RCMP officials who in past assumed almost sole responsibility for water law enforcement, is that now all police departments—provincial and municipal — will share that responsibility.

STIFFER PENALTIES

"We hope that by putting the boating regulations into the Criminal Code, other police forces will become interested and accept their responsibility," said a senior RCMP official.

Stiffer penalties also are provided. Maximum under the Canada Shipping Act was a $500 fine or six months imprisonment for dangerous operation of a vessel. Under the Criminal Code it's two years for an indictable offence and is left to the magistrate's discretion for summary conviction.

The regulations class as offences careless and dangerous driving of a boat and failing to remain at the scene of an accident. They also require that two persons be in a boat towing a water skier and forbid water skiing from one hour after sunset until sunrise.

With the exception of Quebec and Ontario, which have their own provincial police forces, the RCMP is the local police force outside the main urban centres in each province.

PATROLS LIMITED

The Mounties also operate on a national basis a marine section with a fleet of about 30 craft. Its duties include customs and it works mainly on the chief waterways such as the St. Lawrence River and Great Lakes as well as off the West Coast.

"With the existing manpower, it is impossible for us to patrol every lake, river and stream," said the RCMP official. "But we hope at times goes on that we will be able to put out more patrols."

RCMP enforcement policy generally has been geared to educating the public in water safety. This year it distributed 80,000 copies of the 48 - page pamphlet, "Safety Afloat," published by the transport department.

During 1961 the RCMP made some 20,000 inspections of small craft and, where necessary, issued warnings about equipment deficiencies such as lack of life jackets. They also checked on operators licensed by the customs department and required by all craft with motors of 10 horsepower or more.

DETAIN BOATS

In more serious cases of equipment deficiency the RCMP may place a boat under detention until the equipment is installed.

Actual prosecutions usually depend on the manner in which a boat is being operated and take into consideration the load and whether there is danger to the driver, passengers and other craft and swimmers. No complete figures are available for 1961 and no conviction is under the Criminal Code has been reported. During 1960 there were about 60 convictions.

The RCMP stressed, however, that the success of its efforts to promote safety depends largely on co-operation from the public police and the public. Assistance is regularly received from fish and game officials.

In Manitoba excellent co-operation was received from boating clubs and municipal authorities as well as a couple of private companies, while Quebec yacht clubs have put pressure on members to exercise special care in conforming to water skiing regulations.

East Selkirk Woman Wins World's Title

TORONTO (CP)—Selection of seed or table potato samples is more difficult than picking out winning wheat exhibits, according to Tom Chorney of East Selkirk, Man., this year's winner of the Canadian Pacific Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

Mrs. Chorney said grain can be spread out on the kitchen table, while potatoes can soon overrun the whole house and even make their way as far as the bedroom.

The Manitoba farm wife sorted four exhibits and won the world's title for both seed potatoes and table potatoes.

The variety was Norland, a new potato licensed only last year. There were 173 entries of potatoes, and 118 of table potato exhibits.

Mrs. Chorney won the seed potato championship last year, and the table stock championship the year before.

chalked: "Welcome Your Majesty."

With Nkrumah at her side, the Queen strolled among the stalls laden with everything from frying pans to fertility potions.

Shocking, cheerful mammies laid sleth on the ground in Sir Walter Raleigh style for the Queen to walk over.

At one stall the Queen stopped to admire a carved stick used in the local game of marbles. The stallholder promptly presented it to her as a gift.

GETS LOVE FLOWER

At the end of the market tour the Queen was given a gold brooch in the shape of the flower of love.

From the market, the Queen drove to a children's nursery. After a lunch for the Commonwealth high commissioners at the grandiose state house the Queen beside a garden party in the grounds of the 100-year-old castle where the Governor-General is staying while in Accra.

The canoe handlers watched by the royal couple for will be without work. They learned to handle the boats in a few days but a big harbor at Tema, 18 miles from Accra, will be in full operation by the end of 1962.

Tonight the Queen's hostess at a private dinner at Ghanaians turned out to see the Queen today and Friday at military and youth and welfare groups parades in Black Star square.

At the state dinner Friday night, the Queen and Commonwealth nations to be generous in interpreting one another's intentions and to doubt the good faith of fellow Commonwealth countries.

WATCH PARADE

After lunch, the royal couple watched a civilian parade of almost 15,000 persons. Hundreds of Young Pioneers, a movement founded on the lines of its Russian namesake, rushed onto the field with flags and green and gree uniforms to form the Ghanaian flag.

Hundreds of market women pranced and danced past the royal visitors. The total was 100,000 spectators urged the women, in their national costumes, to even greater efforts in their jazzy dancing.

Prince Philip clapped his knee and laughed at the antics. The Queen showed a big smile.

NEW ONTARIO

lumber workers get at least 90 cents an hour.

The minimum wage regulations provide for a minimum of 40 cents an hour in centres of more than 5,000 population, and 75 cents an hour in smaller centres.

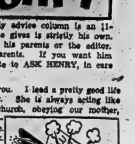
About 40 industries in British Columbia work on a 40 hour minimum wages set by labor department orders, which also provide for time and a half for overtime. Rates vary from $2 an hour for 40 hours for tradesmen in construction industries to $1.30 for labor on the pipeline construction workers.

All provinces except Ontario have laws that set out the week over the maximum work week.

Minimum wages in the United States were this year raised by Congress to $1.15 from $1 an hour. Manitoba and Saskatchewan are not covered by the legislation.

MAY AFFECT RATES

A study by the Ontario Federation of Labor, based on U.S. legislation, suggests that increasing wage minimums would not only raise sub - standard rates but would also push up higher rates paid by the same employers to maintain the job differential.



The study also suggests that the resulting increase in costs would be offset by increased efficiency and would be offset by a higher standard of personnel and training.

ask Henry

The writer of this weekly advice column is an 11-year-old boy. The advice he gives is strictly his own. It has not been changed by his parents or the editor. He welcomes letters from parents. If you want him to discuss your problems write to ASK HENRY, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Henry:—I am 11 like you. I lead a pretty good life except for one thing—my sister. She is always acting like a little angel, singing in a church, obeying our mother, stooling on me, etc. My parents seem to favor her above me. It is making my life a wreck. What do I do?—BROTHER OF AN ANGEL.

Dear Angel's Brother—What can you do? Let's face it she is an angel. She helps your mom. She is obedient. What she would a mother want. She is wrecking your life, so the only thing you have left to do is DUTIFO love her.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—My two-year-old son writes on the wall with pen, pencil and crayon. I have taken them away from him but he gets hold of them somehow. I bought him colored books but he won't write on them. Please help me! —WORRIED MOM.

Dear Worried Mom—Get him a big sheet of paper and explain how to draw on it nicely. Coloring books are too advanced. Praise him for any drawings he makes except the ones on the wall.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I am 11. Am I too old to have a birthday party? My mother and father say I am too old.—JIMMY.

Dear Jimmy—If you want a birthday party, you are not too old.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—My daughter entered grade nine a month before her 13th birthday and my son is in the top bracket in grade seven at 11 years of age. Question: Are children with a high IQ harder to cope with (by mothers) than less advanced children? How do we handle these bright kids? —A REAL BEAT MOM.

Dear Beat Mom—Yes, a bright kid is hard to cope with, because he can figure better ways of outsmarting parents. He thinks for himself, although not always right, he wants his way. One day you will be proud of them, be patient. —HENRY.

Dear Henry:—We have no children. Last Hallowe'en we went out to supper and then to a movie in order not to be pestered by kids.

When we came home we noticed these words written with soap on the living room window: "Are you afraid to stand up to us? Are you chicken?"

What do you think about these misbehaved kids?—DEEPLY LOVED.

Dearly Deeply Moved—I agree with the kids. Think how it would be for kids if everyone would be like you on Hallowe'en.

I am sure you could have fun seeing the kids all dressed up on Hallowe'en and handing out goodies.—HENRY.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Moose steaks, deer roasts and stew meat, and bear cutlets should demand a lot of deep freeze accommodation after the official bugles blow "last pot" on the hunting season.

Back there on the range where the deer, the moose(ets) and the bearets play between more serious games of bullet-dashing, the weather is good, hunting conditions are fine, there's enough deer to go around, the moose population is heavier than usual and bears are "occasional."

That's a capsule report of the first week of hunting in the northern haunts above the Number Seven line.

It could be they have heard the vote on Sunday sports is an open one, but not a few wily old bucks are escorting their families this far south in the banana belt.

The other day Gerald Vallear, driving his truck near Demorestville struck and killed a small fawn when it suddenly leaped in front of his vehicle. In passing it is noted it is illegal to shoot deer in Prince Edward County.

Recently Harry Yeomans who resides on the south side of Highway No. 2, two miles east of Napanee, spotted a large doe within 300 yards of his home.

Truck drivers using Highway 401 state that numerous deer have been seen crossing the highway west of Marysville, especially at night. One motorist states he stopped his car and watched a nice buck, doe and fawn just inside the fence near the Shannonville cut-off.

Lands and Forests officials state that the season is well ahead of last year. Yesterday a light covering of snow, not enough for good tracking, blanketed the area north of Tweed. The weather has been good but cool enough for top hunting. However, that could have been remedied by the time this edition goes to press.

Tom Lloyd of the North Woods, those Jimmy Durante of the timberland trails, are reported to be in the "southern" post of their northern haunts in fairly good numbers.

Donald Bolsby of Wellington, and a party of seven hunting near Rockshed Lake, shot three moose and a couple deer on the opening day.

Forestry Chief J. Taylor told this department "a few moose have been shot in the Bancroft area." Don McNevin and a party of twelve hunting near Millbridge, bagged seven deer, a moose and a bear in the first few days.

One of the biggest bucks reported thus far was bagged near Stone Lake by banker John L. McLean and Ray Woolfrey. It weighed 355 pounds.

Department officials stated a party of 17 shot seven deer near Fievre the first day out.

Hunting, like married life, occasionally has its humorous sides. Down Lake Chemaplain way a pilot-biologist team is flying over a 2,000-mile route making a duck and geese survey. They use a very small yellow plane that comes down low over the haunts.

Occasionally a few "potted" hunters take pot-shots at the plane which is not funny as far as the occupants are concerned. They do not know, it seems, the plane is on the protected list, and besides, it is inedible.

Then there's the yarn from up west of the truant officer who parked his trusty, but very dirty, car near a bridge and took off for a little hunting. He returned a few hours later to find the car washed, polished and shining like a silver dollar.

Investigation turned up a group of kids who were playing hookey from school. The bridge was their hideout. They apparently became bored sitting around for hours enjoying their sinful ways and lacking more exciting things to do, decided to wash the officer's car. Or were they just having a little insurance?

ADD FULLING THE LEG DEPT.

Some years ago a local wag told a gullible reporter of a strange hybrid that had been developed. It was called a "tur.duck" and was a cross between a turkey and a duck. Said the wag, "It has the head of a gobbler, the webbed feet of a duck, (he didn't mention the haircut of a teen-ager), quacks and gobbles alternately, and hibernates around Christmas time."

Now up comes this one and it is taken from the New York Times, of all papers.

The story says: "Up in Ontario somewhere near Fort Robinson, there is a live "phen" said to be walking around loose. A phen, according to people there who have seen it, is a cross between a male pheasant and a domestic hen. Its appearance is enough to give a strong man the shakes, for it is described as having the feet of a chicken, the head of a pheasant and the body of both." Next?

Hawks, Habs Grab Spotlight Tonight

Detroit Is At Toronto

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Blonde left-winger Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks is having a so-so early season.

Hull, since this year the team's most potent offensive weapon, has been virtually muzzled. It could be because of injuries to his linemates—centre Bill (Red) Hay and right-winger Murray Balfour.

Hull missed Hay's play-making magic for eight of the Hawks' first 10 games. Then, Hay in the line—labelled a million dollar unit by coach Rudy Pilous—was back together, Balfour rejoined his left wing, fractured in last spring's Stanley Cup playoffs.

Balfour did not accompany the Hawks for a National Hockey League game against the front-running Canadiens in Montreal tonight. He also is expected to miss Chicago's game at New York Sunday.

Detroit is at Toronto in another game tonight. All teams play Sunday—Toronto at Boston and Montreal at Detroit along with the Chicago-New York battle.

Hull, the NHL's scoring champion in 1958-60, has only four goals and six assists to show for 13 games this season.

FACES FORMER JINX

To complicate matters, tonight he's playing on an ice surface that has proved a jinx to him. Not one of his 105 regular - season NHL goals has been scored at the Forum.

Hull has scored twice in Montreal, but both goals were in playoff games.

Balfour was injured in Chicago's 6-0 victory over Toronto Tuesday night. Against the Canadiens and Rangers, he'll be replaced by 22-year - old Chico Maki, recalled from Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League.

The Canadiens already have beaten the Hawks twice this season—3-2 at Chicago and 7-1 in an earlier meeting at Montreal.

After tonight's game, the Habs' leading second-place New York by two points, embark on an eight-day, five - game road trip.

Toronto occupies third place—three points behind Montreal—before weekend games while the Black Hawks and Red Wings are deadlocked for fourth. Boston is last.

Majors Will Discuss It

Spitball on Way Back?

BOSTON (AP) — American League president Joe Cronin, a staunch advocate for the restoration of the spitball, argued Friday that the extra pitch would lengthen the career of a pitcher.

"It's quite possible," said Cronin, "some pitchers could add three, four or even five years to their careers if they can use the spitball.

"I can recall a lot of spitballers who pitched after they were 40. Burleigh Grimes and Red Faber are two. John Quinn, the old righthander of the Yankees and Red Sox, finished when he was 48.

"A spitball isn't a dangerous pitch and not harmful to the arm. It's like a screwball because it can break inside or outside depending on how it is thrown. It usually flutters a bit but overall it's just another breaking ball."

Opponents of the spitball say that the saliva delivery is dangerous.

The majors outlawed the pitch in 1920. The major league rules committee will decide at the winter meeting in Tampa, Fla., next month whether to legalize the spitter.

Western Semi-Finals

Stamps Tackle Eskimos

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders test a year of rebuilding today as they open the Western Football Conference semi - final series against Edmonton Eskimos.

The teams enter a two-game, total-point contest as they did in 1960, but there is one striking difference: Only six Stampeders occupy the same positions they did last year.

The other 18 spots, offensively and defensively, have been filled with new faces by rookie coach Bobby Dobbs.

If the juggling pays off today, Dobbs has a chance to go to the championship game Nov. 25 in Vancouver. Field conditions at McMahon Stadium will be near-perfect and a sunny day of 45 degrees is predicted.

Eskimos are 14-point favorites to take the series and have been a best-of-three final against Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Dobbs made his bet, but refuses to challenge the doubts oddsmakers have about his team.

"Our ball club, being the kind of ball club it is—young and immature—has played spotty football," Dobbs said Friday.

"We are not going to be ready anybody in Canada on a given day. By the same token, if we play like we have on some days, anyone in Canada is capable of beating us."

Eagles Meet Giants

NEW YORK (CP)—It may be the day of reckoning Sunday in both divisions of the National Football League. Then again, it may merely set the stage for one of the wildest races the circuit has seen in years.

Barring a reversal of form, the defending champion Philadelphia Eagles could all but wrap up the Eastern Conference championship by whipping the defensively-proud Giants in New York. The Eagles have won seven games and lost one. New York has a 6-2 won-lost record.

If the Giants conquer the Eagles, the two teams would be tied and anything could happen in the remaining five games of the 1961 campaign.

In the Western Conference, the leading Green Bay Packers, now 8-2, tackle the Bears in Chicago. The Bears, generally regarded as the most improved club in both conferences, have a record of five victories and three losses.

Red Wings Soaring In Junior A

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There'd be a nip-and-tuck battle for first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A race if it weren't for Hamilton Red Wings.

Only four points separate the second- and the last-place teams. But the Wings have a nine-point lead over the second-place Niagara Falls Flyers, when they defeated 3-2 Friday night for their eighth straight victory.

In other league action, Montreal Junior Canadiens dumped Peterborough Petes 5-2 in Montreal and Guelph Royals trounced St. Catharines Teepees 9-3.

At Niagara Falls, Red Wings' margin of victory was a goal by Bob Hamilton with less than two minutes to go, plus sparkling netminding acrobatics by Buddy Blom.

BAD BUSY NIGHT

Hamilton was outshot 31-18 but Blom's wizardry kept the Flyers off the scoresheet until late in the second period.

Scorers for Red Wings were Lowell MacDonald, Pit Martin and Hamilton. Flyers' marksmen were Terry Crisp and Bill Chisholm.

The Junior Habs, behind 1-0 early in the opening period, scored four quick goals. The third period was enlivened by a first - swinging melee between Bryan Watson of the Petes and Habs' Germain Gagnon. Thirteen penalties, including four majors and one misconduct, were meted out in the third period.

Johnny Taylor scored two goals and Andre Boudrias, Jean Richer and Yvan Cournoyer one each for Montreal. Peterboro got its goals were by Lorne O'Donnell and Jim Patterson.

Guelph, sparked by Dave McComb's three goals, took its second win of the season. Other Guelph scorers were Borden Smith with two, and Oscar Alden, Terry Oliver and John Mahon. Jack Staniland, Dennis Berish and Jerry Bumbacco got St. Catharines counters.

RED-CARPET TREATMENT — World heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson signs Toronto's guest book as he gets an official welcome to the city from Mayor Nathan Phillips. Patterson took up training quarters at the suburban New Woodbine racetrack. He'll defend his title here December 4 against Tom McNeeley of Boston in Canada's first world heavyweight championship fight. (CP Wirephoto).

Patterson Starts Training

TORONTO (CP)—Floyd Patterson isn't wasting any time getting ready for his Dec. 4 title fight against Boston's unranked Tom McNeeley.

The 25-year-old champion arrived here Thursday afternoon and was out bright and early Friday for a four - mile road walk around his headquarters at the suburban New Woodbine Race-track. In the afternoon he worked indoors.

He sparred one round each with John Henry and his 18-year - old brother Raymond Patterson, shadow - boxed two rounds, skipped the rope, hammered at the small bag and went through five minutes each of calisthenics and banging the medicine ball.

ENDS FINE CAREER

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—The end of an era in harness racing comes tonight at Roosevelt Raceway when Adios Butler, the world's fastest pacer, goes to the post for the last time.

The occasion for his final competitive appearance is the $50,000 National Pacing Derby. The five-year-old son of Adios is odds-on to finish his career with his 13th straight victory, his fifth in 30 starts and over-all purse winnings of $510,000.

Nine horses will get a last crack at this standardbred wonder horse before his retirement to stud in Ohio.

Don Fairfield Leads Tourney

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Don Fairfield took a two-stroke edge at the halfway point in the $20,000 Beaumont International golf tournament Friday with a steady one-under-par 70 and a 36-hole total of 136.

Jay Hebert and Bob Rosburg posted rounds of 68 and 70 for 138 totals.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg fired his second straight 71 for a 142 total and a tie for 19th place. Al Johnston of Montreal has a 143 total and a tie for 25th spot.

Jack Bissegger of Val Morin, Que., missed the 144-stroke cut off with a 75 for a two-day total of 148.

TRAINERS SUSPENDED

MONTREAL (CP)—Trainers Rosaire Biron and Jean - Guy Breton of Quebec City have been suspended from Blue Bonnets Raceway for one year for drugging a horse before a race at the track Nov. 1. The suspensions were announced Friday night by John Broderick, the track's presiding judge, who said the horse Justice Rosecroft was administered an amphetamine-type drug by injection.

Minor Sports To Hold Annual Ball

The Belleville Minor Sports Association is holding its annual dance on Saturday, November 18, at the ANAF with all proceeds going toward minor sport in this city.

Tickets are available from all members of the BMSA and it is hoped that a large crowd will turn out for the 8.30 dance.

The Belleville Minor Sports Association is the governing body of the minor hockey, soccer, baseball, softball and track and field in this city. Proceeds from the dance will be divided, according to the Association budget, among each of the groups.

Bearcats To Carry 19 Players

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Coach Lee Fogolin said Friday his Port Arthur Bearcats will carry 19 players during their forthcoming European tour.

Since the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association limit the bill for only 17 players plus the manager and coach, this will mean two players will go at the team's expense.

Though dates for the tour still haven't been set, the team already has new uniforms—in the Bearcats' colors of green, red and white and bearing a maple leaf crest.

Contributions from fans, the city and Lakehead businesses mean the team will also get blazers, slacks, topcoats and hats, as well as some $2,000 worth of goodwill souvenirs for the halfway point in the $20,000 Beaumont international golf tournament Friday with a steady one-under-par 70 and a 36-hole total of 136.

Jay Hebert and Bob Rosburg posted rounds of 68 and 70 for 138 totals.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg fired his second straight 71 for a 142 total and a tie for 19th place. Al Johnston of Montreal has a 143 total and a tie for 25th spot.

Charlotte Picks Riders For Cup

OTTAWA (CP) — Mayor Charlotte Whitton is convinced Ottawa Rough Riders will be playing in the Grey Cup game Dec. 2.

She sent a telegram Friday to Premier Robarts of Ontario telling him not to visit Ottawa that day as he had planned.

The mayor said his visit was an occasion "which we would all want to share" but on Grey Cup day "Ottawans in the thousands will be in Toronto actively supporting the Rough Riders in the Grey Cup game."

Intermediates Trounce Juniors

"Old Pros Never Die"

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Old pros never die. They don't,even fade away!

Tommy Lamivaree's Intermediate "Unmentionables" dazzling in scarlet and white hockey ensembles proved that here last night.

They've got deeply into their bag of experience and came up with a 5-2 win over Gordie Ball's Junior McDonalds.

And some 380 "paid," many of whom came to scoff remained to cheer. The majority liked what they saw looking at Ball's clock.

The pre-game "dope" failed to materialize. In fact it came up with a complete reversal of form.

Many expected the Orphans of Uncle Lammy to fold and wilt in the third period before the fast-skating juniors with much more practice under their McFarland blankets.

Instead the more experienced "oldtimers," who skated blasé for blade with Bells best, turned the third period into a near rout, blasing five unanswered goals before the youngsters came back with their lone score.

It was a close-checking affair in the scoreless first period with both defences right and goalies having little to do. The "Originals" played much better positional hockey and their experience was sometimes glaring.

Bell has a big, fast team that backs pollish and finish around the nets. They were disorganized on a few times but their attacks did not seem to be properly organized. They have a big, backlining defence and did not fear exchanges of bumps with the older crew.

"Wiener" Brown turned up the best brand of speed and that ever-dangerous slap shot. He was the best man on the ice. Flori Goegan played one of the best games since wearing a Bellville uniform and that goes for all time. Bobby and Dave Gilbert were brilliant at times, while Gary Goyer, Trendall, Chuck Rowbotham, Jerry Hull and Shaker Baker showed up well.

Blinkide observers felt that with some more offensive power the intermediate squad will rank with the best in the league.

The "Orphans" and "Aces" used two goalies, Barclay and Moxon dividing duties for the former and Parker and Dulmage working for the Bell boys.

Dulmage didn't have much chance on the five goals that beat him in the third frame. His mits were coming in on sustained attacks and passing that had him beaten all the way.

Bell has a well-balanced squad that compares well with the fine club of a year ago. Zakos should be a big help to them.

The Intermediates broke the scoring ice with a pair in the second period before the Juniors whittled the lead to two.

It was all Intermediate in the third period. They hemmed the youngsters in behind their blueline ramming home a quintet of markers in less than fifteen minutes.

Goyer and Jones scored twice for the winners with Goegan, Brown and Irwin getting singles. Jones, Goegan, Brown and Baker had two assists. Rowbotham had three and Irwin and Bottly one.

Weston and Zakos scored for the Bell boys with Hunter and Mavety drawing assists.

The teams:

INTERMEDIATES — goal, Barclay; defence, Bolley, Goegan; centre, Jones; wings, Trendall, Brown; subs, Moxon, Lamivaree, Irwin, Goyer, Rowbotham, Baker.

JUNIORS — goal, Parker; defence, Hull, Mavety; centre, Scott; wings, Kellar, Duval; subs, Dulmage, Zakos, Reid, Rowland, Weston, Hunter, Smith, McGuire, Ethier, Hull.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Clubby Jim Fitzsimmons, 73, is betting his retiring to arrive at Old Woodbine Park since Indian summer departed. Jim's string of 24 has been among leading riders Friday by winning five of the eight races in which he rode.

In 1954 Jim's four shoart Windy Fay, the choice of many of the 8,800 in attendance, Fitzsimmons had little difficulty defeating the field of maiden fillies, a year - old. At the second, he guided Choppy Wind to victory to return $6.

Fitzsimmons also rode Labelled to victory in the featured Golding Pur Purse. He now has ridden 17 winners during the meeting.

The wagering Friday totalled $286,003.

Riders Look For Argo Air Attack

OTTAWA (CP) — Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders square off today under an ideal weather conditions in a sudden-death semi - final game for the right to meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats for the Eastern Football Conference championship.

Both teams held brief workouts at Lansdowne Park Friday afternoon.

On the whole, there are few changes in the two clubs who met on the same field a week ago.

Ottawa took that game 35-23, thanks to a lively ground attack and the pass-catching efforts of Les Chandler who scored two touchdowns early in the game.

Toronto coach Lou Agase hopes to have patched the hole in the pass defence with the replacement of Boyd Carter with Ron Morris. Chandler, who un.game by a flu attack.

Last night with a workout scheduled for Ottawa's air attack is muddled.

A late switch in the Ottawa lineup is George Diederich to replace middle linebacker Ron Koes. Koes came out of Friday's warmup on the limp. An early season injury came back to aggravate his right knee.

Argonauts will probably start halfback Lynn Bottoms who was kept out of last week's

Marilyn Maxwell in Demand Since She Left 'Bus Stop'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I just turned in my apron and took the next bus out of town." That was Marilyn Maxwell's comment about her departure from Bus Stop.

It is not often that a star leaves a good-paying TV series. But Marilyn took a walk on bus ride! after the first 13 weeks of the ABC hour for a simple reason: "There was nothing for me to do but pour a second cup of coffee and point the way to the men's room."

Marilyn signed up to play the proprietor of Grace's Diner in the TV version of the Marilyn Monroe movie.

"I thought the idea was to play the stories in and around the diner, so I would have things to do," said Miss Maxwell, "But it got to be too limiting to have the characters in the drama arrive on the bus every time.

"So the studio built a town around the bus stop and the stories began to get involved with the happenings in the town. That left Grace out in the cold. So I told them I wanted to leave."

RECEIVES OFFERS

She did. She wasn't idle long. Warners sent for her to play a movie queen in a '77 Sunset Strip program. Red Skelton summoned her for a show this month.

Marilyn wants to get her career in a swing again after seven years of semi - activity during her marriage to producer Jerry Davis. The marriage now is over, and she and Rock Hudson now are steady dates.

She hasn't done a movie for some time; thought she had found one when Rock showed her the script of Lover Come Back.

"I read it and told him I thought it was great," she said. "But what interested me most was the part of a blonde charmer that sounded just like a Marilyn Maxwell role. I thought I was a cinch for it, especially since it was Rock's own production.

"But Rock wouldn't let me do it. He wanted me to get away from Marilyn Maxwell roles. He even wants me to let my hair go brown, so I can get away from the limitations that every blonde actress has."

Bulldogs Unbeaten

Terriers Chew Royals 12-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Terriers are looking a little more like the defending Allan Cup and aspiring world amateur hockey champions. For the first time this season their wool - heat average in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior Series is above .500.

The new status was achieved, however, at the expense of St. Thomas - Belmont Royals, who now have lost four straight by monumental scores.

The Terriers beat them 12-0 Friday night, Don Rope firing three goals and Lloyd Mercer two.

Windsor Bulldogs, maintained their unbeaten streak, defeating Stratford Indians 8-4 with the help of goalie Ross Childs, who turned back 46 shots. Woodstock Athletics pulled into fourth place by downing Chatham Maroons 3-1 in the night's other game.

The third - pipace Terriers poured 60 shots on Royals goalie Jim McLean in handing their fourth straight; home and away, their 12th. Dick Page, Bill Wytle, Pete Kowalchuk, Bob McKnight, Joe Hogan, Bob Mader and Don Rope were the other scorers. The Royals could manage only 18 shots on Galt goalie Boat Hurley, who won his second shutout.

The Bulldogs got away only 24 shots at Jack Ross in the Indians' net as Stratford Indians made them count. Tom Walker and Walt Pawlyshyn each got two goals, singles going to Jack Corbello, Joe Hlusko, Wayne Brown and Ed Switzer. For Stratford it was Billy Flaherty, Marv Shantz, Gary Layben and Neil Cockburn.

Athletics coach Ken Doison presented an oddity to the 500 registered fans — a forward line composed of three centres. The three — Gerry Goodale, Don Hall, and Jean Marc Aselin — each got a goal. Ernie Dick tallied for Chatham to ruin At Cullen's shutout bid.

Liberals Talk Of Civil Service Purge in Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Electoral reform is the theme of the Quebec Liberal Federation's annual meeting, but the question of Union Nationale appointees to the civil service has stolen the spotlight.

Both Premier Lesage and outgoing Federation President Francois Nobert referred to the situation in speeches to the opening session of the federation's three-day annual meeting Friday night. Today delegates begin studying 243 resolutions submitted by county and regional associations.

Ten of them deal with civil servants, one demanding bluntly that all "disloyal" government employees be dismissed. Another, by the Levis Women's Liberal Association, says all government employees named before the Salvas royal commission investigating purchasing practices of the former Union Nationale administration should be fired.

Premier Lesage said the key to putting government policies into practice lies with the civil service where there is much "dead or recalcitrant wood." . . . Mr. Nobert declared that a government with great policies cannot confide their realization with persons "who hold a post, by cy of immobilization, of corruption and of sabotage."

The speeches came at a time when high government and party officials are reported annoyed that the Union Nationale found out that authorization under the Great Seal of Quebec was not issued to the Salvas royal commission investigating the former Union Nationale administration.

WOMAN DIES AT 100

FAIRVIEW, Utah (AP)—Mrs. Celestia Terry Peterson, whose birthday died a month before they would have observed their 82nd wedding anniversary last year, died Wednesday. She was 100 years old. Her husband, Peter, also was 100 when he died. The Petersons were believed to have been the longest wed couple in the United States. They were married Dec. 11, 1878 at St. George, Utah.

Reds Win Over Aces, Bears Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Providence Reds used a spectacular goal by defenceman Ed MacQueen and a defeat suffered by Hershey Bears to grab sole possession of second place in the 4-team Eastern Hockey League's Eastern Division Friday night.

MacQueen, 25-year - old veteran, scored midway thrcugh the third period to give the Reds a 3-2 victory over the last-place Quebec Aces. The Bears, meanwhile, dropped a 4-1 decision to Rochester Americans, tied for second place with Cleveland Barons in the Western Division. The Reds are third in the East, four points ahead of Quebec and two behind Providence.

The Aces, who have won only four of 16 games this season, held a 2-2 tie until MacQueen put on his show at Providence. He blazed up the left side of the rink and eluded Quebec defenders three times with some fancy stick work before scoring.

Other Providence goals went to Zellio Toppazzini and Serge Boudreault. Michel Harvey and Guy Rousseau scored for Quebec.

The Americans spotted Hershey a 1-0 lead on Ross Lesuk's first-period goal, then scored back with two goals by Bruce Gamble and one each by Bruce Draper and Gerry Ehman.

Beavers Extend Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers drew a brilliant performance from Olympic goalie Jack McCartan Friday night and opened up a six - point lead over second - place Buffalo Bisons' Aces in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

McCartan, with 37 shots to handle, allowed only one powerplay score as the Beavers edged the Frontenacs 2-1 at Kingston.

Sudbury Wolves downed Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds 6-2 in the night's other game to break a third - place tie with Hull-Ottawa Canadiens. They beat goalie Roy Edwards three times in the first five minutes of the second period to break the Thunderbirds' defence.

The Wolves, playing before 2,000 home fans, counted two goals by Gord Haworth and singles by Cammy Burton, Ed Dinchuk, Dennis Howell and Phil Maboney. Doug Robinson and Merv Kuryluk scored for the Sault.

In the third period Sudbury's Keke Leon-Rochefort, battling with Dino Robazza, turned on linesman Merv Gribbons. Gribbons retaliated but the two were separated by other players.

It was a goaltenders' duel at Kingston. The Frontenacs' Ed Chadwick, although he had only 20 of the saves for an extra attacker. They may have lost the services of Bryan Heaslip, however. The outstanding rookie tripped over Chadwick in the second period, rammed a goal post and was feared to have twisted his knee.

"Bezbell" She's Kaput In Cuba

NEW YORK (AP)—Minnie Minoso, Camilo Pascual, Pedro Ramos, and other Cuban major and minor leaguers have stayed away from their native land this winter despite threats by Cuban Sports Commissioner Dr. Jose Llanusa to confiscate their property if they didn't return by Nov. 1.

Some 45 players have either remained in the United States or have gone to Mexico City or Venezuela to play winter ball.

Llanusa announced recently all Cuban players must have their 1962 contracts signed to get a permit to leave Cuba next spring.

Cuba is trying to kill off baseball. No professional games have been allowed this winter in the island.

"Our boys will have to learn only soccer and chess in the future," said one of Llanusa's aides.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Canucks are showing signs of improving their last-place standing in the Western Hockey League's Coast Division.

The driving force in the Canucks' recent surge has been playing-coach Phil Maloney. He scored the winning goal with just 34 seconds remaining in a 10-minute overtime period Friday night to give Vancouver a 5-4 win over Portland Buckaroos.

The home-ice win moved the Canucks to within one point of the third-place Calgary Stampeders.

Edmonton Flyers, Northern Division leaders, scored a 5-1 victory over Seattle Totems at Edmonton.

Dave Fiske scored Vancouver's other goal. Gord Fashoway scored for Portland.

Len Haley, Warren Hyner, Ed Joyal Don Chiz and Lloyd Haddon scored for the Flyers. Gerry Leonard replied for Seattle.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, November 12, 1961

General Tendencies: Until soon very upsetting conditions can be in force and you can handle this period wisely by attending the services, and living the principles, of your choice. However, the latter part of the day and evening are fine for whatever has to do with public relations and thinking out plans for impressing those in powerful positions as well as improving your physical health.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Because you are desirous of having a good time starting early this Sunday morning, be careful you don't jeopardize present security for this one reason alone. You find that if you relax instead, evening brings benefits unexpectedly.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) You are able to lift your level of consciousness today, so be sure you delve into the higher things of life. Later, get into some activity that is truly absorbing and satisfying. Feed your soul and know greater success in the future.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Many fine intuitive impressions are yours this morning, so be sure to pay attention to them. Try to get off alone somewhere for best results. Then the late afternoon and evening are fine for being with loved one. Be happy.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — By getting together informally with all associates this Sunday you can come to a far better understanding while at some form of amusement. Then plan to have dinner together at some charming spot and round out the evening. .

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Be sure to live in such an inspiring way today that others want to emulate you and you can then come to a greater understanding for greater mutual benefits in the future. Tonight, plan new week's activities intelligently.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—A day for real enjoyment, if after services of your choice you get in touch with those whom you truly want to have fun with and plan a period of entertainment that will be appreciated by all. Be happy — have a ball!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — If properly attuned with your planets, it will be possible to have a delightful time at home with kin and friends, as well as make that sphere of your life far more harmonious.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Keep alert to fine ideas and important data that can come to you today via relatives, good friends or new acquaintances. These can be of great benefit to you in the near future. Forget complacency now and think.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — If you make it a point to call on key people informally now, you will find them very co-operative and give you a more efficient modus operandi to follow that will be far more lucrative. Put your varied background to work.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take time on this day of leisure to really know what it is you want most in your personal life, then see the right people who can help you to attain your aims. Raise level of consciousness. Be sociable in pm.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) By concentrating upon the verities, you will find that you can make your life far more beautiful and be a true source of inspiration to others. Do some deep, serious thinking. Delve into artistic, cultural things — grow.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Be social today and renew old acquaintances, make new and valuable contacts, please everyone about you. You have been too much of a hermit — let the world in and know far greater happiness and real success in the future.

If your child is born today—he, or she, will be one of those remarkable children who early will understand the importance of security and stability. So, be sure you do your utmost to be just that yourself and set an example, as well as early give your progeny the fine principles and tenets that have made the people of this country great, though of humble birth at times. A fine mind for business here, whether male or female.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Be alert to important data in your paper that pertains or appeals to you as well as from other printed media, as well as from new contacts. Evening brings opportunity to make fine impression on higher-ups. Expand.

Gemini (May 21to June 21)—Morning is best time for any monetary matters of importance and keeping the books straight. Don't forget to send a little gift to loved one. Later, fine ideas can be yours, but you have to do some research work to comprehend fully.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Before lunchtime, be sure you enhance your appearance so that interviews will be easier and others will be drawn to you naturally. Get out socially in p.m. and increase your popularity and you will find greater success, too.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Morning brings an opportunity to understand and do whatever it is your family requires of you, thereby getting further co-operation from them. Fine ideas are yours in p.m. for advancement.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—You are enlightened during the morning hrs. best to proceed in order to get practical ideas across. Also, get valuable data from your paper. You can have a wonderful time right in your own home in p.m. — be sure to stay in.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — By putting into practice more practical and modern systems, you find that your income can be increased appreciably now. Evening is fine for contacting good friends and enjoying the recreations that mutually please and satisfy.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Perserverence in whatever has been proven efficient and workable will now bring the fine benefits you anticipated. Don't make any changes. Spend evening getting bills paid by check and collecting what is owed you.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Morning is ideal for getting future activities organized properly, but don't make any radical changes at this time, or you jeopardize present security. Go after personal aims in p.m. with vim and determination. Have fun, too.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Make it a point in the morning to contact loyal comrades who can help you to attain your most cherished longings. They have wonderful ideas. Get future planned in p.m., stressing what is modern and most practical. Expand.

If your child is born today—there is bound to be a good deal of reticence and scrappiness in this nature, so that it behooves you to early give practical courses that rid your progeny of nervous tensions and teach the value of a dollar. Then upon maturity there will be such dynamism here that all will be highly impressed and great success is possible, especially in the scientific fields.

Mandatory Hunter Training?

New Hampshire, first State to introduce hunter training into the public school curriculum, has recently enacted legislation requiring youngsters between the ages of 12 and 19 to be in possession of certificates of competence before purchasing their first hunting licenses. A 14 year old youngster may take the Hunter Safety Course after he reaches his or her 14th birthday.

While other states already have similar requirements, this marks another step in the right direction. The old method of having a youthful hunter schooled by his parent or an older friend was a makeshift at best. From what I have seen of adult gun handling on public lands, a good many of these grown-ups would do well to sit in on a Hunter Safety Course.

As you know, each year the public print is all too liberally sprinkled with accounts of hunting accidents. Many of these are completely avoidable had a little reasonable care been taken. In my book, hunter-safety examinations are a must in any State, just as they are now examinations mandatory in the securing of automobile operators' licenses. After all, guns are designed to kill things. It seems to be only reasonable that the hunter should show proof that he is familiar with the basic safety rules of hunting safety.

"BALLED" CARTRIDGES

This was an incident in South Dakota. This was in the days of World War II, when shells were hard to come by. A hunter armed with me some shells which a friend, a fellow duck-hunting buddy had given him. The shells had been given him by a friend in the oil patient and they had been stored for a few years in the bottom of a desk drawer. He kicked like a mule.

A pheasant was a great big buster of a rooster — flushed from the swale ahead of me and when this guy soared to the safety of an adjacent corn field it was a long shot, possibly one which I shouldn't have attempted, but it was a tremendous bird so I let fly. The pheasant came down as though I'd hit him with a hammer.

Curious as to how I could kill a bird that dead on such a long shot, I walked over to where he'd return to camp. Sure enough, there was a ball, possibly one and a half inches in diameter. Upon closer inspection I found that the ball was a lethal shell, just as dangerous as a rifle bullet.

Winchester has come out with a new shell, the Ranger, Fiasting etc., is number of these lots are from various farms in Sidney Twp. Hall, Odessa, Ont., 9 miles west of Kingston on Highway No. 2, on Friday, November 17, 7 p.m. Not responsible for accidents.

Your Car

Some Tips Concerning Antifreeze

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Waste no more time wishing your car had an aircooled engine . . . get that anti freeze in before a sudden cold snap outraces you And, keep these wise 'dos' in mind:

Never mix different brands of anti freeze. There's no sure way of knowing the freeze point of such mixtures or any chemical reaction of the various inhibitors.

Don't fill the radiator too high . . . keep the level below the filler neck. The reason for this is that heat causes antifreeze to expand more than water will —thus, there's a greater chance of coolant loss due to heat expansion.

Don't automatically assume that the cooling system is leakproof. A tainted nose haven't lost a drop of water. Anti freeze will find its way through pin-pricks and slightly cracked spots that don't leak water. Inspecting radiator, hose and hose connections, expansion plugs, pet cocks and heater will find any leak if visable, but it isn't enough. Double-check them again after the anti freeze is in the system.

M.V. asks: "Will dirt in the fuel filter hurt the carburetor, engine?"

(A) Not only dirt, but water which accumulates in the bowl can interfere with fuel flow. Remove and clean it at least a few times yearly.

From P.L.: "My dealer tells me that I need a new amplifier and tailpipe more than a tuneup to get back engine pep and power. Do you think he's trying to take me?"

(A) No. If a tailpipe or muffler is damaged so that it restricts exit of exhaust gases, excessive back pressure results and will smother engine power.

T.J. writes: "A test of my engine shows that compression readings are adequate but only six cylinders. Is this bad?"

(A) Not a significant variation in usual thing. However, if one or more cylinders show a 10 to 15 per cent loss of pressure, planing or valve work may be necessary.

S.B. asks: "We're warned repeatedly that a leaky muffler or exhaust is dangerous because it allows carbon monoxide to escape. How is this poison gas created?"

(A) It's a chemical by-product. The burning mixture of air and oil produces the carbon monoxide.

Soviet Union proposed amendments that would change the nature of the Indian resolution.

PLAN TO SANCTIONS

There would bring it more in line with a 31-nation draft looking for full sanctions against South Africa and possible expulsion of that country from the U.N.

The new developments stymied the debate for a year in the committee Monday and the whole thing was put over until Tuesday to give time for new amendments.

Some quarters said a Thursday speech by South Africa's Foreign Minister Eric Louw steadfastly proclaiming apartheid as the salvation of his country's multi-racial society, and initiate action, to the fullest extent possible.

MUSKELLUNGE STOCKING—

It is doubtful that any many Lakes have any idea of how much money is involved when it comes to stocking musky. A press release from Wisconsin tells the story. Wisconsin Conservation Department has purchased 961 musky fingerlings from a private hatchery for these pay paid — bold your hat — five thousand dollars.

That must be wrong, said I to myself, so I re-read the release. Then they paid five thousand dollars for 961 musky fingerlings.

Naturally, I wondered about the reason for buying musky fingerlings from a private hatchery. The reason is a good one. Musky are reared on a per-pound basis, the little fish cost about $25 per pound. That is about 94 per cent water. Then they can release muskies at the state hatchery.

Who says that a fishing license isn't the best value on the market today, with the possible exception of a postage stamp?

CO-COLUMNIST

You who read this column will note that less hunting on the by line may be, instead of yours truly, the name of my son, Richard Alden Knight, Maybe this is a good time for you and I to be introduced, as he will be doing some of these columns for the future.

Dick has had a wide and varied experience in the outdoor field. He has more knowledge than that of his old man. His first job was fishing and hunting much all over the entire northern part of the Western Hemisphere. I assisted Dick's father with the tools of his trade — a rifle, shotgun, rifle and pistol, deep-sea gear, shotgun, rifle and pistol. In the past he has been an outdoor editor, a sportsmen's shows throughout the eastern part of the country and being an excellent wing shot, he has served as gun at the New York Herald Tribune and Long Island's Newsday as well as staff writer with Sports Illustrated. Added to all this last summer he was voted into the Fishing Hall of Fame at age 31, its youngest member. Dick is also in addition to working with me, he is the Director of the International Tarpon Tournament held each year in Punta Gorda, Florida.

I think you will enjoy a fresh approach in his columns.

WHOOPING CRANES

So far, the southward migration of whooping cranes seemed to be going satisfactorily. A helicopter flight over the U.S. County in which Aransas Territories last September 18th counted a total of 31 birds, of which were youngsters.

The wintering population of wild whooping cranes is now 36 birds, 6 of them young of the year. It is hoped that by the next official count when the birds all return to their winter haunts in the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge along the Gulf of Mexico.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Retirement Just One of Man's Many Later-Life Adjustments

By THOMAS COLLINS

"Forced retirement is a good thing, psychologically, if it impresses a man or woman with the truth that he or she must learn to adapt to change . . ."

(This is the view of an expert on retirement who has been matching the pattern of it for ten years It is a view that many industries hold and one they use to justify their compulsory retirement policies at 65 . . . if a man knows he must retire at 65 he'll prepare; if he doesn't know he won't.)

"But," continued the expert, "when people, having made the initial adjustment to retirement, get to thinking that the problem is solved once and for all, many of them are in for a rude awakening later on . . . because retirement is apt to be only the first of the later-life adjustments a man and his wife may have to make."

(Retirement training programs and counselling services seldom get beyond the initial adjustment, where to learn a hobby, a road map to St. Petersburg, etc.)

"Even those couple who approach retirement confidently and enjoy the planning and adventure it entails may overlook or fail to face the further upheavals that older age inevitably brings . . . .

"The average couple planning retirement plans for the first six months Everything beyond that is hazy.)

UNABLE TO WORK LATER

"Those who buy farms and businesses" the expert continued, "may find themselves able to work at 65, but unable to work later on . . ."

(Those who buy farms at 65 seem particularly blind to the future. Milking a cow twice a day can become an intolerable chore, and farming a field is a muscle job Those who buy businesses seem to fare better. They can close the doors for a few days if the rheumatism acts up and all they lose is a few sales. Also a business can be sold earlier than an old man's farm.)

"Those who plan to keep two places of residence may find, as they move on beyond 65, that they can no longer make the semi-annual trips between them . . ."

(Those who hold to their old homes as they venture south to buy new ones — which is a smart thing to do — usually dispose of one home or the other in two or three years, because the travelling becomes too difficult for sure, but also because in that length of time they can know which home they prefer.)

"Those who elect at 65 to live in the country or in remote suburban areas may be seriously handicapped after a while by their inability to drive a car . . ."

(This is a trap retired people seldom think about and if they did they would be quite certain it would never happen to them. It's like having a heart attack. Me? Nonsense!)

"WHAT HAPPENS THEN?"

"All married couples considering retirement," and this is still the expert talking, "must plan against the day when one partner passes away or suffers a confining illness. What happens then?"

Dying? Bedridden? Me? Nonsense!)

"One piece of advice I would like to pass on to those who are retiring is to be sure that any property they buy can be readily sold without a serious loss in case it becomes necessary to abandon it . . ."

(It is common knowledge that if you want to buy a retirement home dirt cheap you should look up the wife of a retired man who bought one — and who has just died.)

What does all this advice — which is rather grim — mean to you who are thinking about retirement? It means that just as the 17-year-old must surely grow into manhood, the 65-year-old must surely grow into old age. Plan for it Retirement will not be age 65 forever. It will be 70, or 75. If you're lucky it will be 90.

Just keep watching that fact out of the corner of your eye as you pick up your pension and go out to play.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Very Lonely

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I am 19 and very lonely. I don't know any boys or girls to go out with. My parents say it isn't safe for me to go to dances or skating alone so they always take me and bring me home.

I wonder if I could get a few pen pals through your column. My friends tell me I am real good looking but I don't get a chance to meet anyone around my age. There must be other lonely boys and girls in the world.—LONELY.

DEAR LONELY:—It's not pen pals you want. It's real live people around your age. Where are you hiding yourself?

Belleville has a fine assortment of recreation groups, churches, sports clubs. There are hobby classes. Probably there are things like square dancing groups.

Your library, recreation director or minister can lead you into a group you will love. It's the first plunge that is the hardest—but right now you should be having the time of your life!

DEAR DORIS:—I had a trip planned to the U.S.A. (for my health) so I wrote to my daughter and asked her if she would like to keep house for my husband while I was away.

Instead of waiting for the time for me to go, she came right away and brought her husband and two children. She has been with us a month now and it is terrible. It hurts me to see how my new home is being wrecked. It is never clean and they will not get up in the morning.

The young ones are too much for me, but I guess I got myself into this mess. So now I need some advice to get out of it.—SICK AND TIRED.

DEAR SICK AND TIRED:—Do one of two things. Either go on your trip and get feeling better. Then when you come back you will feel better and can do the renovating the house will need without minding so much.

Or stay home and send your daughter and her family back where they belong. This is your husband's business too so don't let him sidestep the issue. He must stand beside you in this. You were trying to plan for his comfort.

DEAR DORIS:—I read the letter Mrs. A. K. wrote about waitresses and tipping. I think she is being very funny. "Waitresses are very well paid."

How do you know, Mrs. A. K.? Have you worked as one? Well I have and I know what I'm talking about. No waitress earns more than twenty-five or thirty dollars a week at the most. Then they take off so much for meals, for breakage, for mistakes in adding a customer's bill; it all comes out of your pay.

Such a very well paid job and yet the paper is full of waitresses wanted. Grab it, Mrs. A. K. You don't know what you are missing. Don't just sit back and envy the waitresses.—MRS. WAITRESS.

DEAR MRS. WAITRESS:—You'll never make a fortune at it, that's for sure!

Yet I know waitresses who love their work and make a good deal of being thoughtful and doing many little things, and earning the generous tips of their grateful customers.

When tipper and tipped respect each other and understand the custom, tipping works like a charm!

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. S.—You have not made it clear who your husband's friends are. Is this the groom? Or the bride? If you are a wedding guest, you give a gift to the bride to arrive before the wedding. A tea or luncheon does not call for a gift.

The groom is usually the person who provides the wedding bouquets for the bride and bridesmaids. The groom may also provide corsages for both mothers, for the wedding. Not for any other affair.

Drew's Denial Of Snub Fails To Quiet Papers

Common Market Tiff Could Become Serious

Non-Attendance Not a Snub Says Drew

LONDON (CP) — Following is text of a statement issued by George Drew, Canadian high commissioner in London:

The suggestion that my absence from a meeting of Commonwealth representatives in the Commonwealth relations office on Nov. 10 was intended as a snub to the British government is absolutely false.

As has been pointed out, the Commonwealth relations office was notified in advance that I regretted very much I would not be able to attend the meeting because of other official commitments. There is nothing unusual in this situation. London has become the crossroads of the world. That is the reason that nearly all the high commissioners' offices have elevated high commissioners to meet this situation. On this occasion, Canada was well represented by Mr. Benjamin Rogers, one of the most experienced officers in the Canadian foreign service, who had previously been Canadian ambassador in Peru and later in Turkey.

I can remember few meetings of the Commonwealth re-unions office during the time I have been in London when several of the Commonwealth governments were not represented by their deputy high commissioners or by similar reasons.

The Canadian government has made it clear on many occasions that what the British government does it entirely its own responsibility. This has always been the situation. There has been a Canadian high commissioner's office here since 1880. During all those years, the duty of Canadian officials in London has been to assure the closest possible co-ordination with the British government under instructions from the Canadian government. I am confident that responsibility has been, and is being well and effectively maintained.

LONDON (CP) — A British newspaper predicts that the "diplomatic tiff" between Canada and Britain over Common Market negotiations may well become much more serious.

The Guardian of Monday says a difference between the two governments came to a head last Friday when George Drew, Canada's high commissioner in London, "pointedly stayed away" from a briefing session arranged by Britain's Commonwealth relations office for Commonwealth high commissioners.

The Guardian also publishes Drew's statement, saying that Canada House Sunday night denying that his absence from the briefing was "intended as a diplomatic snub to Britain.

"The suggestion . . . is absolutely false" Drew's statement said.

He said the Commonwealth office was notified in advance that he was unable to attend because of other official commitments. This was not unusual and Canada was well represented by his deputy, Benjamin Rogers, former Canadian ambassador in Peru and Turkey.

PREVIOUS ABSENTEES

Several Canadian ministers few meetings, at the office during his term in London when governments were not represented by their deputy high commissioners for similar reasons.

Drew's statement was issued after a weekend speculation in the British press that his absence from the special Friday briefing, given by two top British ministers, Commonwealth Relations Secretary Duncan Sandys and the lord privy seal, Edward Heath.

The briefing was designed to bring Commonwealth high commissioners up to date on Britain's talks with the European Economic Community.

The Guardian story today says "it seems Canada House in London has still not received the full briefing on the political points raised" after Heath's visit to Paris on the 21st to present the British application for market membership.

Drew has made speeches in London saying Canada would be harmed by the departure from Common Market. He has sought to show that trade within the Commonwealth would benefit.

The Guardian says "Canadian political circles in London are trying to find out whether Drew acted on his own initiative in absenting himself on Friday briefing, or whether he did so after consultations with Ottawa.

"If Mr. Drew now is cast in the role of a Commonwealth Twelfth Man, the chief question is whether he or Mr. Diefenbaker is wielding the willow."

Queen and Prince Watch Dancing At Gathering of Tribal Chieftains

TAMALE, Ghana (CP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip today watched a display of "gathering of tribal chiefs" after flying here from the Ashanti capital of Kumasi during their 11-day visit to the country.

The Queen and her husband were greeted by Ghana's chief town of Ghana's northern region and Asantahene, head of the Ashanti region.

The highlight of their visit here was to be a state dinner shortly after they were welcomed by large airport crowds and a 21-gun salute. Ghana's president Nkrumah who had flown here from Accra.

In the Durbar, tribal dancers gyrated in spectacular tropical costumes and a double row of chiefs looked on. The chiefs sat under the gold state umbrellas which are their symbols of office.

It was estimated that the Queen and her husband had been seen by 500,000 persons in Accra since the start of their tour last Thursday.

And they already have seen plenty in the way of color.

Typifying the royal welcome piled with thousands of Ghanians at a garden party. Bright costumes worn by Ghanian chiefs made the scene a riot of color.

CANADA DOES NOT FAVOR UN WAR IN CONGO

Green Gives View In N.Y. Interview

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Canada would not favor the United Nations force in The Congo joining an offensive against secessionist Katanga province, External Affairs Minister Howard Green said Sunday night.

The 11 - member Security Council meets on The Congo today amid reports that Britain and the United States would strive to strengthen the hand of the UN force.

Deputy Foreign Minister Vasirian Zorin of Soviet president for this month, called the meeting at the request of Ethiopia, Formalities of Nigeria to consider the situation "caused by the lawless acts of mercenaries" of President Moise Tshombe's Katanga province.

Green, who arrived late Sunday night for a stay of several days in the UN, told correspondents Canada would refuse action to rid Katanga of mercenaries.

DEPENDS ON DEBATE

Canada is not a member of the Security Council and Green said it will depend on how debate goes whether his delegation will ask to appear before it.

"We don't think the UN should join in an offensive," he said. "Canada has efforts by the central Congolese government in Leopoldville, Joseph Tshombe's regime at Elisabethville. That is our present thinking."

He indicated that the inability of countries with troops in the UN Congo force are not in favor of a UN offensive."

Green said the "essence" of the UN role in The Congo is "mediation, not offensive."

CONVERGING STAND

On other points, the Canadian foreign minister:

1. Indicated he considers Canada is taking a tougher stand against South Africa's apartheid racial policies than in the past at last year's UN session. Debate on apartheid resumes today in the 103-member special political committee.

2. Described as an "interesting suggestion, certainly worth consideration" a proposal by Prime Minister Nehru of India before the UN General Assembly Friday for a "new co-operation" to lessen tensions. This would be centred on the current International Geophysical Year. But Green added with a smile, "We have to see co-operation all the time, not just for a year."

KILLED IN TRAP

McCAYSVILLE, Ga. (AP)— The wife of a part-time gunsmith was killed by a shotgun he had rigged up as a trap for burglars. A coroner's jury Saturday ruled death of Cheri Stepp was an accident. Sheriff H. G. Henson said Mrs. Stepp, who was pregnant, to be triggered by the raising of a window. A string ran from the window to the gun stretched across the floor and Mrs. Stepp tripped over it.

Thinks Red China May Be Making Doomsday Machine

CHICAGO (AP)—Communist China could be building a "doomsday machine" to deter leading powers from interfering with her future plans, a physicist said Sunday.

W. H. Clark, physicist at the Utah Research and Development Company, said the mini-thermonuclear requirements for the machine are 10,000 tons of heavy water, a dozen nuclear detonators and accessories.

Some or parts of the nuclear explosives, he said, could be secured in the unavoidable bargain for submarine to the general vicinity of an enemy, anchored and eventually exploded by time fuse or radio signal.

A doomsday machine has been defined by scientists of the Rand Corporation, a research organization, as "a reliable and security protected device that is capable of destroying almost all human life and thus would be a formidable deterrent to any enemy committed any one of a number of unacceptable violations."

Clark, who based his views on theoretical studies by a group of scientists of official information published on H-bombs, said in a speech to the Chicago section of Atomic Scientists:

"Any country which can build a nuclear detonator can produce a billion dollars worth of heavy water—10,000 tons."

He said the program, based on United States and British experience would take about 10 years to complete.

"The chiefess are secretive about their nuclear operations," he said. "We do not know when or if they have started, and the program may be finished any day from now."

Clark said a nuclear mine containing only 1,000 pounds of heavy water is theoretically capable of producing a wave 300 feet high, 300 water miles away from the explosion site.

These are the figures he went on; could be much higher or lower when they reach the coastline, depending on its configuration.

He said the heavy water bomb would release about 10 tons of neutrons capable of heavily contaminating 300,000 square miles.

Clark said heavy water — a substance used by the ton in many nuclear reactors—can be detonated if its temperature is raised to 1,000 times the detonation temperature of a chemical explosive. The heat of reaction, he added, releases 20,000,000 times the energy of a chemical reaction.

"Such devices would be very difficult to prevent a second power as a means of deterring great power interference, and self-repelling. For the power states is doubtful," he commented.

NATO Parley Hears Call To Strengthen Alliance

CP from Reuters-AP

PARIS (CP)—Proposals for a transatlantic trading community and currency are expected to be discussed at a conference of legislators from the 15 NATO countries which opened here today.

The delegates are expected to take up the possibility of wider and freer commerce among members of the western alliance to give the alliance more political cohesion.

NATO discussion of political and economic matters has been left to the European Common Market talks on a parallel resumed today in the 103-member special political committee.

It is described as an "interesting suggestion, certainly worth consideration" in a proposal by Prime Minister Nehru of India before the UN General Assembly Friday for a new "co-operation" to lessen tensions. This would be centred on the current International Geophysical Year. But Green added with a smile, "We have to see co-operation all the time, not just for a year."

The discussions among the NATO parliamentarians will coincide with a meeting of the organization for Economic Co-operation and Development where the U.S. and Canada will be welcomed now as full members, with expected to be announcements how to promote greater trade and how to co-ordinate western economic aid.

Meanwhile, a call for strengthening the NATO alliance in the face of "Soviet threats to Berlin" marked today's opening session.

The appeal was made by Nils Langhelle, president of the Norwegian parliament, as the delegates got down to business at the five-day session in Paris to put any Western differences on the back burner.

Langhelle, retiring conference chairman, said Russia's Berlin threats, its nuclear explosions and pressure on Scandinavian countries "all fall into the picture of a war of nerves."

"In the past year," he said, the Soviet Union and its satellites have continued their actions against the United Nations, its financing and its present form of operation.

The influence of both the Soviet Union and of Communist China has grown in Africa, in Asia and in Latin America."

"Openly or in secret, by military, economic and political moves," the Norwegian said, "the Communist bloc is making world domination continues."

He added that unless the Russians "fully realize" the import-

SEE SCHIZO CURE

LONDON (Reuters)—Mental patients occupy all the beds in British hospitals, a mental health research fund reported today. But the report said a cure for the largest of the causes of "severe mental disablement"—schizophrenia—"might not be far off." This would mean about one-third of Britain's mental beds could be emptied, the report said.

U.S., Britain Send Notes to Soviet Union

LONDON (AP) — The United States and Britain today called on the Soviet Union to resume negotiations for a controlled suspension of nuclear weapon tests.

Notes on the subject were dispatched by both Washington and London and were delivered to the Soviet foreign ministry in Moscow.

Purpose of the move by the two Western powers is to overcome the complex nuclear negotiations which broke down in Geneva last year.

The United Nations General assembly last week approved a U.S.-sponsored resolution for resumption of the talks but the Russians rejected the plan in advance. They said no new plan can be discussed only in the framework of negotiations for general disarmament. The Western powers have ruled out this approach.

CITE RESOLUTION

The new notes refer to the UN resolution and urge the prompt resumption of negotiations.

The Geneva talks continued for almost three years. Agreement was reached on many sections of a draft treaty but the Soviet Union and the United States and Britain, but the U.S. were underground.

The Russians touched off a world-wide wave of dismay and anger with their series of atmospheric tests. Soviet claims of a force exceeding 50,000,000 tons of TNT.

The British foreign office gave only a broad outline of the British approach. Apparently, text of the British note was not released.

13 Italians Held by Central Congo Govt.

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters) — Soldiers of the Katanga Congo government arrested 13 Italians—the crews of two United Nations planes that were forced landed at Kindu, in Kivu province, Saturday, the UN announced today.

Reliable sources added that the Italians were maltreated by the soldiers. One of them was seriously wounded by a rifle shot.

A UN spokesman said the Italians were still being held by the Congolese troops.

THREE PERISH IN FLAMING CAR NEAR CAVAN

Auto Catches Fire Following Crash

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Two women and a man died Sunday night in the flaming wreckage of their small European car after it collided with another car on Highway 7A near Cavan, about 10 miles southwest of here.

Three bodies, charred beyond recognition, were identified by Peterborough provincial police as Beatrice Boucher, 50, and her daughter Wilma, 22, both of Bolton and the driver, Helgar Swanson, 30, of Rexdale, Ont.

The driver of the other car, Joseph Fleisher, 30, of Willowdale, Ont., suffered minor injuries.

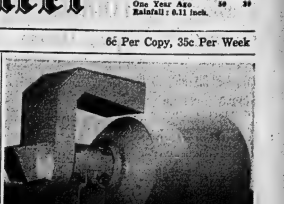
The accident occurred about 7 p.m. as the small car was heading west in a light rain. After the collision, it bounced off the road, crashed through a wooden fence and burst into flames.

The flames rose as high as 30 feet. Ammunition in the car's shotgun shells inside exploded. After firemen put out the blaze, the car with the charred bodies was towed to a funeral home in Millbrook. Firemen were called again as the fire broke out while the bodies were being removed.

Coroner J. W. Wright of Millbrook said it was impossible to tell whether the victims were killed in the crash or in the fire. He said an inquest will probably be held.

Orbital Flight By Chimpanzee Is Postponed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Hopes of putting a man into orbit next month this year faded almost completely Sunday with the indefinite postponement of a chimpanzee orbital flight by a Jupiter.



The U.S. man-in-orbit effort depended wholly upon the success of the projected ape shot, originally planned for Nov. 21.

Walter Williams, Project Mercury spokesman, announced officially only that the launching had been delayed a "few days."

Powers said there would be no launching attempt this week because the agency had never announced a specific launching date, except that it would not be before Nov. 14.

Meanwhile, the body of a tiny squirrel monkey that died in an ejection capsule which was found Sunday by a wreckage dredged from the Atlantic.

The Aerojet private, named Goliath, was in the nose cone when an Atlas missile blew up upon over the cape Friday.

Sirens To Wail In Tocsin B Test This Eve

Public Just Listens As Survival Trial Held

"Tocsin B's" sirens will sound in Belleville this evening and time after 5:30, Lieut-Col. Angus B. Daily, officer commanding the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment announced this morning.

The first siren gives the "Alert," a long continuous sound lasting for approximately three minutes.

The second siren, "Take Cover," will be an undulating sound of a rising and falling nature.

The exercise is being done under the Emergency Measures organization to see if the country can operate under attack.

It should be clearly understood, Col. Daily said, that the test is purely an exercise measure.

If war should come, the first siren, "Alert," would mean that some part of the country is in imminent danger of attack or that hostile planes are over Canada.

The second siren, "Take Cover," means what it says. People will immediately retire to shelters.

Col. Daily said that two sirens are already established in Belleville and three more will be placed in the immediate area in the near future.

Eventually there will be made possible with the assistance of the Belleville Fire Department.

There is no cause for alarm. The exercise is a test of a piece of equipment and an education feature for the general public.

Verwoerd's Reformed Church Turns Against Him on Liquor Issue

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Many pastors in the Dutch Reformed Church have not forgiven Premier Hendrik Verwoerd for a new law to let this country's Coloreds buy liquor legally starting next year.

Verwoerd is a member of this church. His spokesmen fought against the law backed by the Verwoerd-controlled Parliament against a wall of protest. Speeches at the recent synodical meeting of the Nederduitsch Gereformeerde Church of Cape Province showed the church's fight is continuing.

The Verwoerd government argued, in parring this controversial legislation, that the country's Negroes were getting liquor despite prohibition laws. Blame, it said, rested with bootleggers. Others get a diluted and sometimes poisonous liquor at high prices in the shebeens—dark and dangerous dives in their segregated townships.

The government contended that only the bootlegging boot-legger got rich, the state lost revenue and police were kept busy arresting buyers which never stopped illicit traffic but only increased racial friction.

The legislation will permit Negroes to enter police stations to buy liquor.

AIDS REFUGEES

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The Vatican's pontifical mission for Palestine refugees has donated $60,000 to establish a centre for the blind in the Gaza Strip.

The season at the Quinte Curling Club was officially opened Saturday night by President Bob Lecning and Mrs. Jean Smith, President of the women's section after completion of a week's long mixed mens' bonspiel before the largest crowd ever assembled in the rink. The prizes were distributed, a social evening of dancing was enjoyed capped off by delicious buffet lunch.

Never in the history of the club has there been so much enthusiasm shown by the members. The crowd was large, fellowship was at its highest peak and the committees in charge under the direction of Ev Gowans, in charge of club activities did a marvelous job.

The buffet lunch was prepared and efficiently served by McAvoy Caterers while Charlie Kinnear and orchestra provided the music for dancing. Mr. Laughlin is the building and season officially opened thanks to his committee for the splendid efforts put in and the support the members they alone were responsible for the success of the club. He stated that membership was at an all-time high, there was now a waiting list and he especially welcomed those members who have recently joined.

Mrs. Jean Smith on behalf of the women's section paid tribute to the full support of the women, in any project that might be instituted. She thanked the men's section for the splendid facilities provided and was sure of a real fine season.

The clubhouse was a picture in bright colors and very appropriately was due to Bill Gault chairman of the building and his committee. For weeks, Mr. Gault and his men have been busy with decorations and here and there and there feir work could be seen. In every nook and corner. Also he was congratulated were the nice committee of Mr. Finley McQuordale and Everett Black with Art Hannon as engineer. The ice was a pleasure to curl on ing while with the rings in blue and red, the sheets were true and the draws perfect and excellent curling for the first of the season.

The rink of Mrs. Jean Riley, Don Hannon, Mrs. Mildred Stanton and Bill Riley were high in the bonspiel with 285 points, and a trophy and prize obtained by a rink of Mrs. Mavis McLean, Vince McLean, Mrs. Joyce Walker and Jim Walker. The highest three-game winner was Mrs. Mildred Dyradale, A. O. Dyradale, Mrs. Greta Peverley and John Peverley.

The winners in the two-game division were Mrs. Marion Chatland, Art Chatland, Mrs. Anne Acton and Pete Acton and the high points in the single game was Dick Kuntze, Enos David, Ab Tobe and Doug Asbury. There were also a few in one game.

The lowest points in one game went to Mrs. Madge Cowley, Dan Cowley, Mrs. Doris Bannon and Art Bannon. The prizes were presented by Ev Gowsell and there was good natured booing as each winner was announced. The whole affair was well organized, wonderfully conducted and put the stamp of approval on curling as the season winter pastime. The comradeship and fellowship exhibited once more showed that curling is a people's leveller and that the season just inaugurated will be a successful one, socially and financially.

There can be no compromise with dishonor, with communism, or with Rev. Dr. Imhoff of Belleville declared as he addressed the Army, Navy and Air Force Association's annual Armistice Day banquet in the ANAF hall Saturday evening.

"Many of us recall having stood over there in Flanders fields among the poppies and many crosser erected for those of our comrades gone before us," Father Imhoff said, "and as we stood there in those days, we made promises to ourselves. What is this all about?"

"We saw those white crosses upon the graves of our departed comrades who gave their all for God and their country, and the only honor they have now are those little white crosses over their graves."

"In those days," said Father Imhoff, "we felt we had ended a war that would be the end of all wars, but we find that the storms of war are not over, nor do the guns cease firing, and they never will as long as there are soldiers not asking of the Almighty God for the peace you and I enjoy."

"Therefore, on this solemn occasion, as we gather here tonight, we cannot help but think of our fellow men all over the world who are looking for the same peace and joy."

"Tonight as we look back over those years, we know we have not help pondering over the fact that again another war is near," he said, "not on the horizon, but in a nuclear cloud in our northern skies."

"While we are here today, we must also ponder over what will happen to our children and our children's children. It is not a very pleasant thought."

"We call our God a God of love, and we hasten onwards in search of a denomination that this is true. We press onwards as proof of this, and we rest not until we are on Calvary's heights.

"It was not hatred that put God on the Cross," said Father Imhoff, "but love, and does Christ stand for? Love. We look to the Good Shepherd with open arms and He meets us upon this wholehuman race as being His loving children.

"As we look on the left we see the hammer and sickle, the symbol of darkness today, and tomorrow thrown out. On the right we see Christianity, waving itself up and up and up. This is the world faces. You cannot compromise evil with hatred, God and the devil with love.

"Lest you think I am exaggerating, I have taken the time to read a book written by the 'Father of Communism,' Karl Marx, who says, 'religion is the opium of the people'! Also that 'only the bullet's only the weak-minded believe in the forces of a written treaty.' Justice and truth are laughable". How in the world are we going to get along with them when they don't even believe in a written treaty!

"This is the most modern day are facing. How can we compromise with this dishonor? How can we compromise with a man that does not believe in a written treaty?

"It is a world situation are faced and you or I know not what the outcome will be. You and I enjoy our peace, we enjoyed peace with freedom. We do not want or desire slavery. We know that the God-given rights we possess, come from a higher source.

"Take this superior God from the Heavens and what have you but Dictatorship, and a man who wants to make a god of himself on earth.

"We love our country with our justice, we cherish those who gave their lives that we may live. O Cross of our Fathers, our heroes, our pioneers, and those who have gone before you we feel and we know what you represent."

Some 65 veterans attended the banquet and, gave hearty applause to the speaker at the conclusion of his address.

After the opening prayer by Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, President Ken Edgecombe gave a short welcome address and called on J. Sundberg who introduced R. B. Cavanagh and those present of the service record of Father Imhoff.

The guests were led to the head table by pipers Jack McIlwain and Jerry Bennett, and Mc Cecil Brown introduced the head table guests they being Dvam Alfred George Chamberlain, Past President T. Yorke, Archdeacon J. B. Creegan and Father Imhoff, Capt. H. Vaughan, representing the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, President K. Edgecombe, S. Mathews, Mrs. Sundberg, R. H. Boyle and J. C. Lundberg.

Egerton Boyce Dies Suddenly At His Home

Egerton Boyce, organist and choirmaster of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and member of the faculty of Albert College, died suddenly of a heart attack on Saturday evening at his home, 174 Albert Street. Mr. Boyce had completed giving a lesson to a private student and when his wife returned home shortly after, she found him slumped in the kitchen beyond medical aid.

In the death of Mr. Boyce, the city and district have lost an outstanding musician, an excellent teacher and a man of many fine qualities. He was born in Flinton, 61 years ago, being the son of the late Rev. W. J. P. Boyce and Mrs. Boyce and has been a resident of this city for the past nine years. He was educated in the high schools of Brighton and Napanee and graduated in the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto where he obtained his ATCM Degree.

In 1919 he became choirmaster and organist at Port Perry and in 1922 moved to St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Peterborough where he was also employed by the Bell Telephone Co. He moved to St. Giles United Church in Hamilton and served as choirmaster for 23 years and then moved to Trinity United Church in the same city from where he came to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in this city. Besides his music he was only took an active interest in his churches but he became an active executive in the music field.

EXECUTIVE HEAD

He became the first vice-president of the Ontario Registered Teachers' Association and later became head of the Hamilton Branch for two terms. He also served three terms as president of the Ontario College of Organists and received appointment to the executive committee of the college.

Not only was he interested in music but was a keen golfer and he became active in choral group singing. He became director of the Kiwanis Club of Crest male choir at Hamilton which won the Kiwanis musical in 1951 and the Kiwanis shield the following year. With the Quinte Kiwanis choir he was the Hugh Danson memorial choir at Hamilton and the Hamilton district. He was also adjudicator for his Kiwanis club at Edmonton in music for a number of years.

SERVED THREE LODGES

Mr. Boyce was a member of the Masonic Order in Hamilton and served three Lodges in that city. Kinsale No. 62 from which he served for 24 consecutive years, probably a record in this province. In this city he was an active member of the Rotary Club and took an active interest in many occasions.

He was also a man of wide circle of friends in the music world among the students of Albert and also in the civilian and social life of the district. He was a man of many talents and had a faculty of making and keeping friends, was a kind neighbor and loving husband.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Vera Wilhelmine Napanee, one son, Gerald E. Boyce, member of the Madoc Secondary school staff, one grandson and two sisters, Mrs. Clarence (Dorothy) Bonisteel of R.R. 4 Oshawa and Mrs. Wilbert Elsonor Clarke of Brantford.

The funeral will be held in Napanee on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. with interment in Riverside Cemetery in Napanee.

National Survival Subject Of Address to Legionnaires By Hasty Pees' Colonel

Saturday evening members of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 99, probably received the best, and one other thing, which was as sure as death and taxes — that thing being that there is never anything quite so forceful as the wrath of a disorganized Commissariat. We quote:

Lt. Col. Angus B. Duffy, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and a former RSM of that regiment during World War II, showed that he was still in command of that forceful fulness as he addressed local Legionnaires and members on the subject of national survival as guest speaker at the banquet. Reeve Dan Baquet.

"An atomic war, once started," he said, "would be one of its major battlegrounds and, although the country will not be completely devastated, it will be a "hell of a mess" in many parts. There would be years of continuous service with his regiment said.

"Survival, however, how-ever, is from the "alibi situation" and the "excuse" type such as was dominant in 1939 which can leave one side weakened to the point of providing an open invitation to war," he said.

The government must do more and be urged to do more by the people of the country to ensure that the civil defence programme is ready for any eventuality he suggested.

"If an attack should come during the next three years it will be by intercontinental missiles, which are too unreliable to warrant the construction of a special military weapon, Lt. Col. Duffy said.

No matter what the method used to deliver an attack there would be casualties, many thousands more wounded and possibly a million homeless if a nuclear attack does take place, he advised.

MEET EMERGENCY

Canadians must prepare themselves for the eventuality of such an attack, especially in such areas as Belleville, Trenton and Picton for fear of fallout from nuclear bombs dropped on nearby targets but not to a great extent for the Canadians from the bombed areas in the former city, Colonel said.

It is about time that we did something up to this fact and prepared themselves against its possibility and results, he commented, adding that no one can expect "George or gib gov-ernment" to look after them.

Protection against fallout and the other effects of atomic attack are relatively simple things which can be provided on an individual basis with very reasonable cost, especially when basic principles in the art of his family are involved Lt. Colonnaires were told.

Perhaps the top snow out of one's house will also keep out radioactive dirt or "fallout" but definite protection is provided against the radioactivity of the fallout by the provision of shelters for the necessities of life during the initial period after a nuclear blast, Lt. Col. Duffy advised.

SHELTERS TO HELP

"A basement shelter with three feet of earth on the top with layers of concrete blocks over the top of it will provide protection against the radioactive rays given off by the fallout of the basement windows are also sealed off by dirt," he said.

A battery radio, to receive emergency broadcasts and advice as to what to do and when it will be safe to leave shelters, together with food and water sufficient to feed each person for two weeks constitute the basic necessities in a shelter.

In the event of a nuclear attack the Canadian Army is responsible for the early warning system, which currently is inefficient, and for re-entry into areas hit by nuclear bombs, the guest speaker stated.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will not be in this area once an attack comes. Its members will be moving to another area from which they will be operating to assist in the evacuation from a section of Toronto. Personnel of the regiment are being made familiar with the area in which they will have to operate during re-entry through personal visits to that area during the next few months, he advised.

Communities, such as Belleville, will have to be prepared for those evacuees which will border local populations by a ratio of five to one and increase the demand on local hospital facilities by a ratio of 30 to one. Preparations will have to be made at a community level to handle the food and shelter needs of these people, the local service station proprietor said.

He suggested that the Legion could play a part in preparing the citizens of the community for the possibility of an attack by arranging for first aid courses to be held in their new hall.

After two world wars the free world is again faced with the possibility of another conflict in even more worse form than has ever been experienced before, he noted. It would be mockery of the sacrifice which many Canadians made during and Lieutenant Colonel Anthony Adams at Church Street. Interment on Tuesday, November 14th, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for service at 2.00 p.m. Rev. R. D. MacLean officiating. The casket will be open from 1.00 p.m. until time of service. Trenton News

—By EULA BONTER—Phone 3-3933

Lee Grills, MP, chats with Senator W. A. Fraser at Trenton Legion Remembrance Day banquet. Both are members of the Trenton branch.

Members Must Make Public Aware of Legion Projects Advice of Hon. Treasurer

TRENTON — Speaking at the annual Remembrance Day banquet in the Trenton Legion hall provincial honorary president, George Lonsdale, told the Legionnaires that the "image of the Legion as a bunch of 'Old Sweats,' sitting around a table, drinking beer" must be dispelled, and that it was their obligation, as members of the Royal Canadian Legion to make the public aware of the many fine community projects which are spearheaded by the Legion at all levels, provincial and local levels.

"Get out and tell people about the concern the Legion has for the country's senior citizens," Mr. Lonsdale advised the more than 100 members of Trenton Branch 110. "Tell them about our low-rental housing projects for elderly citizens. Tell them about our physical fitness programs for youth. Tell them that last year the provincial command distributed more than $12,000 in bursaries for students."

Mr. Lonsdale said that every Legionnaire had a "moral obligation" to the men who fell in past wars to get out and win the respect of the people in the community.

"We must give leadership to the youth of the country," the speaker said. "Our youngest citizens don't realize the seriousness and horrors of war. We were there. We know what it's all about. And we must get the idea across to the younger generation that Peace is neither won nor lost; it lies in your hand."

Mr. Loughlin said that Legionnaires were the "links in the great chain of remembrance," and that if total success was to be achieved, all peoples must be made to realize that avarice, greed and envy would bring about such a war, can only be "kicked" by a spiritual war.

IMPORTANT NIGHT

"Remembrance night is an important night in the life of the Legion," said Mr. Lonsdale, "but how much depth of thought goes into our remembrance rituals? Those who fell in the great wars had their dreams and plans for the future. All this was denied them. They gave their all. Dare we give anything less? Our minutes' silence; our tears are not enough. We can build memorials, but the true memorial is these gallant men's regard upon the heart of humanity. The Legion is the greatest service organization in Canada. We must re-dedicate ourselves to the principles for which our heroes died."

Mr. Loughlin, a native of St. Catharines, was introduced by branch secretary Lou Knack and thanked by 1st vice-president Robert Wright.

Preceding the address by the guest speaker, Kenneth Craddock, president of Branch 110, introduced the head table guests.

The toast to the Ladies' Auxiliary was proposed by 2nd vice-president O. C. Smith and responded to by Mrs. Jean Wright, president of the auxiliary. The banquet was prepared and served by auxiliary members.

His Worship, Mayor D. James MacDonald welcomed the out-of-town guests and paid tribute to the members of the Trenton branch for their community spirit.

Greetings from the federal government were extended by Lee Grills, MP for Hastings South and W. R. "Elmer" Sandercock brought provincial government felicitati.

The toast to the armed forces was proposed by Don Craig, who reminded the audience that the men serving in the armed forces today, in many of the world's "hot spots," were respected for their integrity.

In reply to this toast, Air Commodore R. J. Lane, Air Officer Commanding Air Transport Command, said that he could not help but admire the "Old Sweats" from the First World War, who turn out to every Remembrance Day service, no matter what the weather. He said that the Legion "has come a long way, prepared" while endeavoring to maintain the peace.

"If we do lose the peace," the Air Commodore said, "it's impossible if we could win the war."

Rev. J. A. Payton, padre at Quinte hall, 110, proposed a toast to the fallen. During a brief musical interlude, John Silver, M.B.E., intoned the stirring Lines of Commemoration, and the Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Bugler LAC "Bud" Spence.

Dinner music for the banquet was provided by Stephen Cuckoo, director of the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra and members of his organization.

Among the honored guests present at the banquet were Senator W. A. Fraser, Major Frank Riordan of the Hastings and Prince Regiment, Lieutenant H. W. Curtis, Commanding Officer of RCSCC Trenton, Canon A. S. McConnell of Belleville, D. McDonald (Rotary) and Robert Reid (Kinsmen), Legion zone commander Jerry Simpson and Sgt.-at-Arms, Norman Baker.

Remembrance Service Held At Cenotaph

TRENTON — Saturday, November 11, Remembrance Day, was marked by a parade of Trenton Legionnaires and marching units from RCAF Station, Trenton, Sea Cadets from RCSCC "Trent" and RCAF cadets from Picton. The parade, led by marshal Albert Cunnell, marching to music provided by the Quinte Pipe Band, proceeded through the downtown streets to the Cenotaph in Fraser Park, where the salute was taken by Air Commodore R. J. Lane, Air Officer Commanding Air Transport Command.

At the Cenotaph, spectators were welcomed by Mayor James MacDonald and Kenneth Craddock, president of the Trenton Legion branch.

The remembrance service was conducted by Rev. J. A. Payton, chaplain of Branch 110. Mr. Payton warned the legionnaires that they must concern themselves with "moral and spiritual disarmament."

"We must be men who honor today died to give us time to establish a reign of peace in the world," he said, "but intolerance of race and creed must go before that world peace can be realized."

Assisting in the service were Flt. Lt. (Rev.) K. K. Miller and Rev. T. H. Delaney.

Wreaths were laid by Silver Star Mother Mrs. Murray Dixon; Mayor MacDonald, Air Commodore Lane, Kenneth Craddock and Mrs. Jean Wright, president of the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary.

Legion Deputy Zone Head Heard At Frankford

TRENTON—"It's about time that we, in the so-called "civilized" part of the world, took stock, and started to voice our opinion in the cause of legislation, not as individuals, but as an organized group; the largest organized group of men and women in Canada—the Royal Canadian Legion."

Speaking on Saturday night to members of Branch 387, Frankford Legion, William Lawson of the Trenton branch, Quinty Zone Commander, told the 97 members present that "the unspoken voices of their fallen comrades were still with them to guard with their lives the freedom and way of life for which they died."

"Khrushchev doesn't want a million bombers," he said, in a speaker, "by his tactics, he is understanding economy of the Free World to such an extent that the world markets are affected, and this will lead to the end result of crippling us, if we fail to take action."

Mr. Lawson said every day we hear reports about a "new crisis." He said that the Berlin crisis was only one of many and future crises, which had been, or would be, instigated by the Kremlin.

The speaker revealed that at the beginning of the century people had thought that the long-sought "Golden Age" was about to be ushered in. He said that the outbreak of World War I had shaken civilization to its very foundations, and that this war had been referred to as the "war to make the world safe for democracy." Then came the Hitler, the Mussolini, and the Stalin.

"The decisions at Yalta 'sold us down the river'," Mr. Lawson contended. "The Kremlin monopoly was crafted at Yalta and we've been paying for it ever since. Notwithstanding the sacrifice of

Civil Defence Gets Scant Aid Mayor Asserts

TRENTON — Speaking at the Remembrance Day banquet in Trenton to more than 100 Legion veterans on Saturday night, Mayor D. James MacDonald of Trenton has stedily increased both in quantity and quality the variety of spiritual fare now on the menu for sensitive and effective directing.

From the blueprint of interpretation to the completed confirmation of purpose—directing a play requires careful attention to detail—and not literally with hammer and saw. It presupposes a practical knowledge of stagecraft and production, and in Mr. Alexander's case he possesses it correctly.

FLEXIBILITY OF TEMPERAMENT

During the last violent difference of opinion between the actors, known as "The Little Strut," it was evident that he had taken this approach completely to heart, he does not impose his interpretation upon others — he calmly supplies the handholds that will evoke the right characterization and then patiently waits for them to materialize. Logically, and yet amazingly, it works.

With the opening just a few days away - November 17 and 18 - Mr. Alexander's experience as a paratrooper left him in complete agreement with the principle that "the show must go on" — a principal that brooks no compromise, but requires optimism and flexibility of temperament probably stems from the alphabetical order of his surname, for numbering among one of the first to be called, picked, ordered, assigned or delegated — we can't forget, do or jump. Confucius says: when confusion inevitably prelate and enjoy it. Mr. Alexander really does.

Zeller's Store Is Entered During Night

TRENTON—The Zeller's department store on Dundas West was entered sometime during the past night for the second time in a week, according to Inspector R. J. Rutherford, investigating officer, after discovering that entry had been made by breaking through a skylight.

The same method of entry was used during the previous break-in. The amount of loss by theft would not be known until an inventory could be taken, Inspector Rutherford said, although a soft drink machine had been opened and the money taken from it.

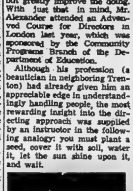
The Curtain Rises

By Sylvia Dolan

Some people are born into theatre, some acquire it, and some have it thrust upon them. Jim Alexander of the Trenton Dramatic Group, who directs the forthcoming production of "The Little Hut" in co-operation with the Belleville Little Theatre Guild, fits none of these conditions exclusively, yet all of them partly. He was born with an impulse to discover, investigate, and learn; he acquired a taste for theatre while still in public school; and he was thrust into full-scale participation when he married Wilma Judge of Belleville, whom he describes as "a very good actress but for the sake of continued domestic harmony I would never dream of directing her."

But he did enjoy acting with her, and his favorite play and fondest memories date back to 1955 when he starred with Mrs. Alexander in "The Four Poster." That was the last performance of the Gateway Players Summer Theatre, presented in Bridge Street Theatre, and, coincidentally, the last performance by Mrs. Alexander. Since that time her devotion to theatre has branched out to the backstage side of creating costumes, painting sets, and promoting publicity; the talents of her children are cheerfully donated to that voracious little octopus Theatre, to a keeping house and bringing up a family.



There are skills and arts that intelligent people may acquire by the application of patience and everything, and thus bring order and method of the process of production. With a stubborn determination to learn by doing, Mr. Alexander has steadily increased both in quantity and quality the variety of spiritual fare now on the menu for sensitive and effective directing.

From the blueprint of interpretation to the completed confirmation of purpose—directing a play requires careful attention to detail—and not literally with hammer and saw. It presupposes a practical knowledge of stagecraft and production, and in Mr. Alexander's case he possesses it correctly.

FLEXIBILITY OF TEMPERAMENT

During the last violent difference of opinion between the actors, known as "The Little Strut," it was evident that he had taken this approach completely to heart, he does not impose his interpretation upon others — he calmly supplies the handholds that will evoke the right characterization and then patiently waits for them to materialize. Logically, and yet amazingly, it works.

With the opening just a few days away - November 17 and 18 - Mr. Alexander's experience as a paratrooper left him in complete agreement with the principle that "the show must go on" — a principal that brooks no compromise, but requires optimism and flexibility of temperament probably stems from the alphabetical order of his surname, for numbering among one of the first to be called, picked, ordered, assigned or delegated — we can't forget, do or jump. Confucius says: when confusion inevitably prelate and enjoy it. Mr. Alexander really does.

JIM ALEXANDER

And watching Mr. Alexander directing a rehearsal of "The Little Hut," it soon becomes evident that he had taken this approach completely to heart, he does not impose his interpretation upon others — he calmly supplies the handholds that will evoke the right characterization and then patiently waits for them to materialize. Logically, and yet amazingly, it works.

FINAL EXOTIC TOUCHES

In the meantime, Mrs. Rudy le Butler and Mrs. Rodger Greig are down at the Workshop, supervising the final exotic touches to the set — a South Sea Island under whose shelttering palms cavort a marooned lot of sailors and their best friend — and it's really a sight to gladden the heart, particularly when you've just battled a raw November wind to get there.

"The Little Hut" will tickle your fancy, not only because it's sheer entertainment, but also, for a little while, the setting will transpose you as well; you'll see for yourself, of course, when the curtain rises. . . .

Council Voted Wisely

It would appear that city council took the sensible course in authorizing a vote, on municipal election day, as to whether Sunday sports and movies shall be permitted in Belleville. It is a thorny problem that had to be faced sometime and the action of council merely will provide an early answer. The presentation of a petition for a vote provided evidence of a segment of public opinion which desires an easing of limitations on recreational activites on Sundays. Once a municipal council is presented with an adequately-signed petition, it has no alternative but to arrange for a vote.

Council had earlier rejected the proposal for such a vote, but the presentation of the petition altered the picture. Council members cannot be charged with inconsistency in this matter and even if they could, even if some of them changed their minds as to the desirability of settling this question quickly, they can find adequate comfort in the knowledge that they were not afraid to remedy what they may regard as errors in previous decisions.

The Council is to be commended as well-on its decision to amend the by-law covering bowling alleys, so as to remove any doubt that, as now worded, it makes the operation of these alleys on Sunday illegal. This amendment is in keeping with the spirit of the law as it is today. If the electors vote in favor of Sunday sports, in the opinion of City Manager J. R. Reynolds this will mean that Council could pass a by-law permitting bowling alleys to open on Sunday.

Something Fishy Here

Rather belatedly, we admit, we join with Sir Winston Churchill in being thoroughly puzzled by the Russians.

Winnie's bewilderment was publicly proclaimed shortly after the outbreak of the Second Great War when he made his famous pronouncement that Russian foreign policy was a riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma."

This, though, was the bewilderment of the customarily well-informed statesman unable to make head or tail of all the welter of information at his disposal.

Most of us, while puzzled by Russian policy, found little new in this because we were also puzzled by the foreign policies of a variety of other states, not to mention being plagued by a chronic inability to understand a host of other things, ranging from women to income tax and back again.

It was not until a Quincy, Mass., commercial fisherman, by name John Stimeris, visited a Russian trawler off Cape Cod that we were forced to the unpleasant conclusion that the Russians were an unusually complicated people.

Mr. Stimeris complains that Russian trawlers are crowding U.S. vessels off Georges Bank. He also says that he and another fisherman who went aboard a Russian supply boat received "a better reception than you'd get aboard the Queen Mary."

People with little practical experience in being puzzled might have a severe reaction to these two statements regarding the apparently contradictory attitude of the Russians—on the one hand acting downright unfriendly and on the other proving extremely cordial.

Newspapermen, however, having had to deal with a variety of contradictory phenomena, such as statesmen, mothers whose knife-wielding sons never do anything bad and staggering car drivers whose whisky breath is always the product of pills prescribed by their family physicians for sleepy, are not easily betrayed into puzzlement.

It was not until we read that "we were deluged by the crew with Russian perfume and cigarets to take back to our wives and families" that we felt our senses reel.

We have no practical working experience with Russian perfumes, but we presume that they are at least designed to smell good, as a good perfume should. Labels like Red October, All Power to the Soviets, Siberia Holiday and Collective Delirium, we presume, would be substituted for familiar, common-sense names like Taboo, Surrender, Temptation and One Night of Love, but the essence would be essentially the same.

Will somebody please explain why a supply ship would stock perfumes for the crew of a trawler on the banks? What does a Russian commercial fisherman smell like, cod or spring on the Volga?

The (John) Birch Society employs the whole ugly arsenal of slander and vilification. It exposes all respect for the democratic process. It respect for the independence and integrity of the judicial system of the United States.—Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California.

Paper Firm Reforests

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

Northwestern Ontario's most important renewable resources at present involves trees to feed the pulp mills and provide lumber. Existing available stands of timber are being used up at a fast clip. These resources are not limitless and they can eventually disappear.

Every thinking company in the North is faced with the problem of getting new pulpwood after cutting and logging has removed the mature timber. Management foresters for both industry and government are deeply concerned regarding the areas which are not being needed naturally to a desired level of stocking by the most desirable species of tree.

It is interesting to note, in a story from Geraldton, the work being done by one firm. The Kimberly-Clark of Canada Pulp and Paper Company at Longlac, one of the companies interested in the field of operations, took a long stride about 1953 towards a solution to their problem of reforestation. Some 70-acres were planted with a few miles east of Longlac on Highway No. 11.

At present only 45 of the 70 acres are in production but as the need increases for more pulpwood then there will be areas for this expansion.

The company is interested primarily in white and black spruce. Their foresters locate stands of high quality timber and reserve these for the cone pickers who climb on the stands on which they are to pick and who are also paid on the number of cones picked.

Seed from these cones is extracted for the company by the department of lands and forests at the tree seed plant in Angus and then forwarded yearly and stored as directed by the company. From Angus the seed goes to Kapuskasing where it is grown in the company's nursery until it is ready for transplanting in the Longlac region.

The present production target for planting is 1,000,000 trees a year, with two-thirds being black spruce and one-third being white spruce.

British Plan Wins Praise

Ottawa Citizen

The Board of Broadcast Governors plans to encourage radio broadcasts to place commercial spot announcements before and after each program, so that the program itself would be uninterrupted. The proposal represents a step forward, but does not go far enough. As in Britain, it should apply to television as well.

There are many sponsored radio programs today, so that the new plan would not affect relations between sponsors and the broadcasters to a significant degree. It would relieve listeners of the irritating interruptions of programs by spot commercial announcements, which undoubtedly annoy many viewers. Television broadcasters, having become wholly dependent on the public domain as a privilege, have been slow to turn over some of that domain to advertisers who decide that they should control the point of view.

The British system avoids this form of censorship by compelling advertisers to buy time rather than sponsor a program. Private broadcasters carry a group of advertisements before and after a program; the program itself is unsponsored and uninterrupted. The method might well be applied to Canada.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

YOU JUST CAN'T DO IT

"I'll get back at him if it's the last thing I ever do. I'll make him wish he had never been born." Uncommon remark? Not at all. Millions of people are saying these things and making themselves miserable as a result. For the truth of the matter is that revenge happens to be one of life's few impossibilities. You can never revenge yourself on anybody. Revenge kicks back and hurts you worse than the other person. You think you will get even with him; you end up by getting so involved yourself, finding yourself so frustrated, by losing friends, by losing money or business that the hurt that life does not appear to be worth the living.

St. Paul urges his followers not to seek revenge, "Avenge not yourselves beloved," he says "for it is written, Vengeance belongeth unto me. I will repay saith the Lord" (Romans 12:19).

When Jesus counselled man to love their enemies and to do good to them, he was showing bitter and fruitful, but hopefully a way out of their difficulties.

Merely forgetting injuries is not enough. Revenge kicks back from injustice does not wholly settle the problem. There must be something positive. We must start taking a new attitude toward the person we mistakenly hated. Life is made up of positive and negative factors. Revenge is wholly negative. The world is put together in such a way that revenge never brings

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 13th, 1941.

In its first year of operation the Belleville branch of the Canadian National Railways War Veterans Association sold nearly $300 for its cigarette fund. The first donation was to send cigarettes and tobacco to C. N. R. men from Belleville who are overseas, but the line was not drawn too closely, and other names were added. At present there are fifty names on the list.

Two investigations were instituted by Belleville police early Saturday when it was reported that robberies had entered Hannah's bakery on Front Street, and also had broken into a and entered the Coca Cola plant on Church Street during the night. At both places were stolen from the cash register at Hannah's bake shop, five dollars being the amount that had been left for Saturday's business. At the Coca Cola plant the marauders ransacked the office and bent the combination knob on the office safe but failed to break it.

The Town Council of Trenton at its last regular meeting passed a new anti-noise by-law, and today police notified all taxi operators and others to this effect; and advised them that in future the terrible din which has been precipitated by wedding parties, must cease.

Mrs. and Mrs. F. A. Kellaway received a cablegram that their son, Gunner Kennedy Kellaway had arrived safely in England.

Mrs. W. H. Doran and Jack and Ford are spending a few days in Kingston.

A correspondent writes to the Intelligencer advocating that the city taxes be paid in three or four instalments as it would be easier for the taxpayer to pay and would give to the city ready money instead of having to borrow from the bank.

The officers of the Belleville Curling Club for this year are as follows: Hon. President, R. J. Wray; president, Dr. Mackay; vice president, W. N. Belair; secretary-treasurer, George Hunter; committee, Messrs. Duff, Stock, Backus, Iler and Hurley; management committee, Messrs. R. Gardley, Claire, White and Elliott; entertainment committee, Messrs. Gilber, Adams, Pitney and Charles Symons, representatives to Ontario Curling Association, R. J. Wray; alternate, J. A. Kerr.

The Cronk Block at the southeast corner of Front Street and Victoria Avenue was destroyed by fire which broke out shortly before eleven o'clock last night. The entire building and the greater part of the contents of the business concerns occupying stores in the block were damaged, the heaviest sufferers being Chesley's Clothing Store, Wright's restaurant and bowling alley and Reno's confectionary Store. The Intelligencer and the Conservative narrowly escaped, the latter only when it had a narrow escape; the fire hall at the side of the building and the hose from it, together with four streams of water at the side and back of the building saved it. As a slight expression of appreciation of the work of the firemen, the publishers of the Intelligencer sent a cheque for $100 for the firemen's fund to Fire Chief Campbell today.

Today is the 54th anniversary of an important event, namely the opening of the Grand Trunk Railway from Belleville to Toronto. The Grand Trunk then was a small affair and for many years it was run at a loss. It is now prospering and is one of the greatest railway systems in the world. Mr. Charles M. Hayes is the present General Manager.

TV Is Timid Says Nat Cole

Ottawa Citizen

Mr. Nat (King) Cole, a highly successful performer in night clubs and on records, who happens to be a Negro, says the members of his race are frequently discriminated against by the United States and by the United States networks in television, thereby squeezing out of talented Negroes. The trouble, as Mr. Cole sees it, goes back to Negro artists themselves. They do not pay too much attention to letters from the organizations that engage us TV audiences, but his point is that Negro artists in general, no matter how popular they may be, can expect little more than passing appearances. He does not claim about his own treatment, for he is more a handsome income in other fields, but he is right in drawing attention to a color barrier which evidently does exist.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

For several years past, TV commentators have dilated on beautiful if dumb young ladies in fashion. This year they are looking if phony gentlemen in their thirties to offer the "end of the season clear out of everyone." Not just lately there has unfoubtedly occurred a change of mind in the advertising profession. The commercials being done by pretty old headwaiters, pat-bellied delivery men in aprons and fat, cheerful-looking elderly motherly and daughters are meeting in the kitchen with their arms full of shopping bags.

I asked a member of the profession what this trend implies. "It's a big switch," he said, "in the direction of a more familiar relation with the viewer. It's more personal, more homey. We are trying to give the feeling that the commercial might be happening right in the viewer's own home."

Maybe we are getting a little closer to an understanding of the people who write commercials.

Are those the yacky kind of homes they come from?

Enemy Threat Inspires Brotherhood

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Perhaps the last best hope for peace in the world began on April 8, 1960 when scientists of the National Radio Astronomy Observatory opened their "Project Ozma" at Green Bank, West Virginia.

Project Ozma is a new radio telescope, burning ceaselessly, with its immense 85-foot "ear" tipped to the star nearest the Milky Way, hoping to hear some echo of human life reverberating through the cosmos.

Life on other planets was a science-fiction myth only a few years ago. Today it has become a distinct possibility. I suggest that hundreds of millions more dollars be poured into such projects, because they may help us the fact that discovery of life elsewhere would make us unlike the human race.

Fear of some external aggressor has been the most effective peopelling human society into larger and larger units. From the Neanderthal tribes, tribes became cities, cities became duchies and duchies became nations — and even when the fear of a common enemy forced these nations to forget their own differences. Love and reason, alas, have never been sufficient motives.

Now the world is too small for such conflicts, and war has become a fatal boomerang. But morally and emotionally we are confounded by the results of our technology. That is our tragic limitation.

What we need, as soon as possible, is the discovery of life in at least one other planet. Then we could protect all our fears and differences toward another planet. And then, too, the Russians, the Chinese, the Negroes and the Arabs would suddenly seem like cousins to us — not lovely, but familiar.

And if we could discover that human life — or at least, intelligent life — had taken a different turn elsewhere, so that thousands of miles away there was not a moral sense and feelings we could recognize and identify, then we would feel even closer to each other in a cold and fearful universe.

Nothing but the presence of a new enemy, or a new common threat, can draw us nearer one another. The Greek city-states united against the Persians, just as the American colonies closed ranks against the British Redcoats. In point of fact, all modern nations (and nationalism is only a few centuries old) owe their very existence to the need for help from a distant star to obtain the recognition of our brotherhood.

This entertainer's strictures are reserved for the television industry — and only in the U.S. for he pleases the audiences of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation as he does others. "There is a lot more integration in the actual life of the United States," he remarks, "than you will find on television. I notice they always put a white person in the prison scenes on television."

The attitude of sponsors is short-sighted. In some other fields, industry has broken the barriers to the Negro are being rapidly overthrown. Today, for example, the presences of Negroes on first-class professional baseball teams is a common place; the Jews judged by their performance, not color. In this respect television at least in the U.S. seems to be lagging behind the times. As it is in so many "re" ways.

Fires In Canada

It we worry, we go into intensive, fire-ravaged city, and were told that in it five thousand persons had perished in the flames, we should be deeply moved.

Such a gruesome picture would be presented if all five tragedies across Canada during the past week-end were gathered together in one place.

Anti-Coagulant Drugs Help Prevent Blood Clots

By Joseph C. Meiner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Meiner: Can a blood clot travel? I have had one for two months. My doctor gives me a drug to melt the clot, but nothing has happened so far. — Mrs. J.H."

Yes, blood clots can travel. But often they don't.

Let's say that a clot forms and blocks (either wholly or partially) an artery somewhere in the body.

By shutting off circulation through the artery, it can do damage, wherever it is. It can be painful in the leg. It can be more dangerous by far if it lodges in an artery in the brain (a "stroke") or in an artery feeding the heart muscle (a "heart attack.").

Usually a clot will become fixed to the vessel wall where it is positions. If it is dislodged and moves along inside the artery, it may become caught farther along also and perhaps do more damage than it did the first time, depending on the location.

Formerly we couldn't do much about a clot, except to hope, and try to keep the patient's relatively quiet to prevent it from moving on.

In the last few years drugs (anti-coagulants) have been in use. I would not say that they "melt" a clot, but they prevent it from becoming larger. They also prevent other blood cells from adhering to the clot.

If you can, with these drugs, prevent the clot from becoming worse, then Nature has a far better chance of gradually absorbing it and reabsorbing the fibrin-ogen.

When you say that after two months of the drugs, nothing has happened, you are without doubt misleading yourself. The fact that nothing has happened is good news, and the implication is that you are in safe condition. You may, it is true, still have a clot (or even a new one, depends on the location) but the fact that it is not getting worse, and has not caused the cold sweat, is an indication that the clot is fixed or gradually being absorbed. This doesn't happen in a hurry. The fortunate thing is that it does happen in the process forming bigger, and prevents new clots from forming.

"Dear Dr. Mohler: Can one build resistance to colds by taking medicine all year long? — C.O."

Just building general health is the only way. Enough sleep, enough exercise, a balanced diet. Flu vaccine may prevent major colds due to one of the influenza viruses.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am an artist and work in pastels. I breathe the dust from them which irritates my throat. I also use a spray fixative on my pictures. Could these be harmful? — M.H."

The coloring matter in pastel crayons is usually non-irritating, with the exception of a few which, because of the presence of lead compounds or certain organic materials, may be toxic in sufficient quantity.

In general the binding materials in the crayons, which may contain starch, gums, shellac, etc., make up the bulk of the crayon, and the dust is harmless enough except to people who may become hypersensitive (allergic) to something in the dust. The same applies to fixing sprays.

It is more likely, I think, that one of the ingredients of the fixative could be an irritant, so when servicing, try to avoid the face, or wear a mask over nose and mouth.

Allergy to pastels is not impossible. If distress is limited to getting a bit of dust in the throat, try to forget it. If there are real signs of allergy (rash, drippy nose as in hay fever constant sneezing, asthma, etc.) it's worth the attention of an allergist.

Resources Employ Few

Financial Post

Our renewable resource industries — forestry, agriculture, fish and fur — employ few directly. By 1980, for example, probably only 10 to 12 per cent of the labor force will be employed in these industries as against 20 per cent or more in the late 1920s. We live in a world of glut and surfeit. The secret has been the application of the basic raw materials wood which we have always in often boast. We live among nations engaged in an unprecedented drive to speed diversification and a larger degree of specialization. The implication of all this is plain. Canada needs vigorous and successful secondary industries beside them. This requires the government to overhaul commercial policies.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INTERESTED "OTHER PEOPLE"

I do not ask anyone to think as I think or what I am or do as I do. I have regarded rather highly my opportunity at the game of life and have used it for appreciation. For what I have been able to do that has been of benefit to others.

The one thing that irritates me more than any other in my sense of life is to see one of my fellows just to tell me that I have not been interested in him or her as he or she views it.

Well I'm not that I am sure. That's this life belongs to me only, to do with as I shall, just so long as I do not infringe on the rights of others. I can think of no greater impertinence than to single out some other human being and tell him or her that he or she should be this and so.

In the first place I have no idea what any other human being should be. I have few things, at least, that I should do and that is sufficient to keep me both busy and thoughtful.

Yet, everywhere you go, you so often find people who seem to feel they are a sort of Almighty appointed to steer others aright.

I want no one to get the idea that I have anything new to present or to teach in these simple daily Talks. They have been, less of benefit to myself than to help me in my own life and then one in a while I get an expression to help other people. I have never asked anyone to believe what I say or to accept my belief appears good.

One of the great evils of this time is that of interfering with others. If any people should go to Mars I have no intention of being one who have no time for anything excepting to peep about, or say things about, other people to hurt or to get them into trouble.

"We are not my keeper's keeper" only so far as we have love in us to help him and to help him around the sharp corners.

Our appraisal should be confined to that of character and not to conduct.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

New St. John Division Gets OK by Priory

Formation of No. 200 Quinte Ambulance Division has been approved by the Priory of Canada of St. John Ambulance. Initially it is composed of some 15 men trained in first aid who are available to do public duty at local events requesting their services.

The new division is unique in that most of the members are already highly trained. Within the year all will hold the St. John Ambulance medallion or beyond. Four of the members already hold instructor's certificates and have taught first aid for some years.

Dr. K. M. Douglas, F.R.C.S., well known local specialist, has been appointed divisional surgeon and through a series of lectures is raising the division to a high degree of proficiency. Mr. J. W. Hodgson, who previously headed No. 147 division until enlistment in the Medical Corps in World War II, has been appointed divisional superintendent. Widely known in Scouting as well as in first aid work, he completed 30 years with St. John last year. Mr. E. R. Waters, first aid instructor at Northern Electric, was named divisional officer, while Mr. Ernie J. Reed is divisional sergeant and Murray E. Johnson is corporal and treasurer.

Other important organizational posts are held by Mr. William James, the president, who is also secretary of the local St. John Ambulance branch; Mr. Al E. Dustin, secretary, and Albert F. Mulvey, quartermaster.

Holding instructors qualifications beside Mr. James and Mr. Walters are Northern Electric first aider F. L. Allcorn, former district commissioner of Scouting, and Mr. J. R. Sproule.

Although recently formed, this division has been mentioned by provincial headquarters for its service at the recent Interna tional plowing match. Members have already completed over 300 hours of public duty at Air Force Day, at the Marmsworth Rest Rooms, Belleville Fair and at the secondary schools' rugby games.

Already their presence is being noted on the streets and within the next few days, thanks to assistance from provincial headquarters, some members will be appearing in full uniform.

TO BE INSPECTED

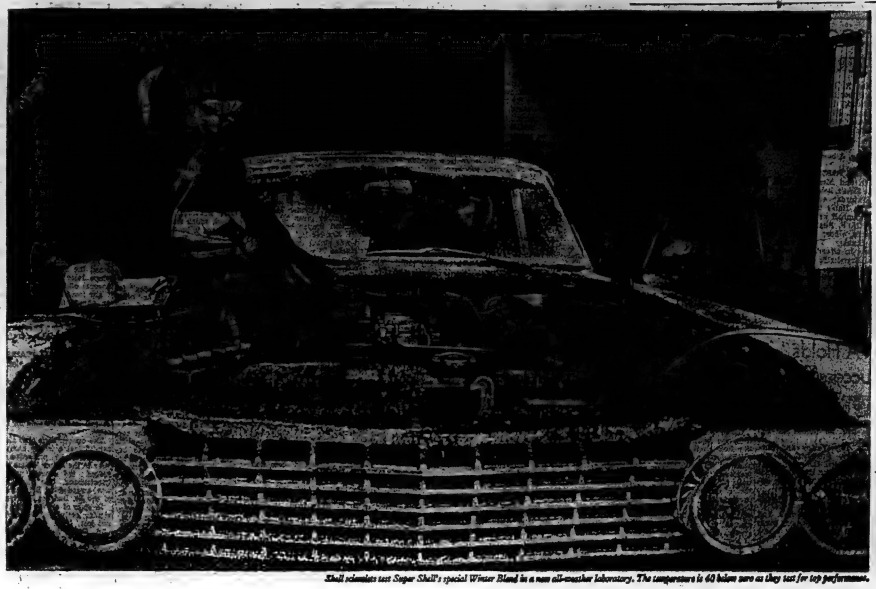
Big event in any division's year is its annual inspection by the provincial commissioner. This year's event in the Belleville Armories by Brigadier Kris Snow on November 15, finds the division vigorously practising to present a good display.

The Order of St. John dates back to the Crusades when early hospitallers banded together to render aid to the wounded and suffering. St. John work in Canada falls into two sections: the Association which is the teaching body, and the Brigade, which is a serving group of trained first aiders ready at all times to render aid where needed. By drill, examination and continuous training on the diagnosis and treatment of theoretical casualties and by instruction from the divisional surgeon, they are brought to a high state of preparedness. The division aiders (can) for public duty and also assists with public classes, acting as demonstrators.

The public is cordially invited to watch the inspection of this new unit and any man who has received first aid training is invited to inquire about membership in the division.

Blaze Quickly Extinguished

Damage estimated at approximately $1,000 resulted Sunday morning at Duffy's Front Street service station when fire started in the boiler room causing damage to boiler equipment and stock.



Fire Chief Gerald Vance said the blaze was confined mostly to the boiler room but smoke damage was considerable throughout the building. The blaze is believed to have started from the electric motor on the oil burner.

Also Sunday morning firemen were called to 43 Dundas Street where a defective chimney allowed smoke to infiltrer the house.

Other calls for the department were to the Bayview schoolgrounds where a tree trunk was afire and this morning to the old Bay Brewery property on Front Street where a small fire in the vacant building was extinguished. There was no loss except for smoke damage at one Front Street dwelling.

Sunday afternoon fireman took part in the National Survival training exercise conducted by the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment along No. 401 highway eight miles west of Belleville.

Fires started as part of the training exercise were later extinguished by firemen.

Shell scientists test Super Shell's special Winter Blend in a man all-weather laboratory. The temperature is 40 below zero as they test for top performance.

WINTER BLEND:

Shell scientists adjust three of Super Shell's nine ingredients to create a special winter formula for top performance in coldest Canadian weather

Shell stations are now pumping a blend of Super Shell's nine ingredients especially formulated to give you faster starts and quicker warm-up on coldest mornings. The dosage of two ingredients (butane and mixed pentanes) has increased. A third ingredient is added to cut stalling caused by carburetor frosting*. Read how Super Shell's Winter Blend helps make winter driving more pleasant.

A GASOLINE that gives you top performance in summer can make your car difficult to start and balky to drive when the temperature drops.

Tests in Shell's new winter laboratory prove it—at temperatures from forty above to forty below zero. That is why, this October, Shell scientists have altered the formula of Super Shell to create a special mix for low temperatures —a Winter Blend.

Read how three of the nine ingredients in Super Shell have been adjusted to create a Winter Blend for Canadian weather conditions:

1. Butane content increased to give you quick starts

If you have trouble starting your car in cold weather, it may be that your gasoline is not vaporizing as promptly as it should. Until it starts to vaporize and mix with the air in your carburetor, gasoline has a hard time "firing" your engine.

Shell scientists fight this problem with an extra dose of butane. Butane is highly volatile—which means that it changes easily from a liquid to a vapor.

The change is the same sort of thing that happens when water boils and turns into steam. Butane actually boils and vaporizes at 31.1°F.—lower than the temperature inside your refrigerator. It is so eager to get going Shell has to store it under pressure until it is mixed by mixing with other ingredients.

This remarkable ingredient increases the volatility of Super Shell dramatically. Fires your engine in a hurry. Takes a strain off your battery—and also off your patience.

2. A bigger dose of mixed pentanes for fast warm-up on cold days

Starting is just part of the story. Cold engines struggle and sputter annoyingly until they warm up. This wastes gasoline.

That is why Shell scientists increase the dose of mixed pentanes in Super Shell's Winter Blend—to speed up the delivery of heat to your engine. Shell makes mixed pentanes by subjecting petroleum to terrific heat, transforming heavier hydrocarbons into lighter, quick-burning molecules. Blended into Super Shell, these quick-burning molecules work much like kindling in a log fire. They ignite easily and everything gets going quickly. Your engine warms up faster, goes over that hesitant, balky feeling in a hurry.

3. Carburetor defroster added to prevent stalling on chilly, damp days

It's a surprising fact that your carburetor can frost up even when the temperature is a mild 45°. Carburetor frosting happens most often on chilly, wettish days when there's a lot of moisture in the air.

Here's why: Your carburetor gulps great breaths of air to mix with gasoline —actually 14 parts of air to one part fuel vapor.

As gasoline vaporizes a curious thing happens. It pulls heat out of the air. The inside of your carburetor is soon as cold as your refrigerator. The moisture in the air freezes and clings to the metal carburetor walls like hoar-frost or the frost that forms in your refrigerator.

Under normal running conditions you won't be aware of the frost, but when you close the throttle, e.g. at a red light, it can choke off the air supply and your engine stalls. The anti-frozer in Super Shell fights this maddening phenomenon by coating carburetor walls so that ice can't stick to them. This drastically reduces your chances of an icing stall whenever the temperature drops to 45° or lower.

Fill up with special Winter Blend

Make sure you're ready for winter driving with a tankful of Super Shell's Winter Blend. Its nine-ingredient formula is adjusted to help make the difference between balky, sputtering performance and a fast, smooth getaway. Don't forget all the other ingredients in today's Super Shell (see box). They're working every day you drive, every season of the year, to give you top performance.

*Carburetor frosting (sometimes called "carburetor icing," or simply "cold stalling") should not be confused with gas line freezing. Carburetor frosting occurs in chilly, damp weather. It does not occur in cold, dry weather. When the mercury dips to 10° or below, carburetor frosting is no longer a problem, but gas line freezing can occur. Water condensing in your car's fuel tank freezes in the gas line. This stops the flow of gasoline and you are stalled. The best insurance against gas line freezing is a can of gas line anti-freeze added at your Shell service station.

Weddings

RYAN — GILPIN

A pretty fall wedding was solemnized recently, at the Alderwood Baptist Church, Toronto, when the Rev. Phil Kerner united in marriage Carland Fern Gilpin, 440 Hamilton Ave., Toronto to Leonard Ryan, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Ryan of Belleville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her floor length gown of chiffon over taffeta, the bodice embroidered with sparkling sequins and pearl sequins with some trimming on the full skirt by very full skirt. Her three-quarter length veil fell from a pearl and sequin crown with small dropping pearls. She carried a cascade of white chrysanthemums, centred with sprays of ivy.

Well-to-Do People of Nigeria Women Says Wife of Chief

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—If you've been worrying about the women of Africa being downtrodden, you can probably forget it as far as Western Nigeria is concerned.

"The well-to-do people of Nigeria are the women," said Mrs. Emily Akinkola in an interview while here on an unofficial visit with her husband, the prime minister of Western Nigeria.

"Women have control of all the money," she added. "Men give us the income to do what we want. They never mind it if we're in business."

The 31-year-old wife of Chief Samuel Ladoke Akinkola, who also is the western region of Africa's largest Negro nation, is one of her country's successful businesswomen. She imports cement and other materials from Germany, keeps a knowing eye on the New York and London stock exchanges.

She's been a trader since she was 13. Her father, chief of the forest rangers, gave her the first money to start a little shop to sell bats and materials in front of her house in Ibadan. "I didn't have time to hawk about with a round tray on my head, like other women do, because I was going to school."

TRADITIONAL ROLE

Buying and selling of goods has been the traditional role of women throughout West Africa, but Mrs. Akinkola inherited a sharp trader's sense from her mother. But she also has her head on straight. Her daughters, aged 20 and 25, the oldest of her five children, are where girl is married, the younger is studying medicine in England, and neither dies and leaves them the business."

Mrs. Larmour says the constant change in Canada's customer relations is one of the biggest problems facing the profession.

"At federal budget time, we are faced with up to 500 changes in Canadian tariffs. There are also about 42,000 rulings on tariff cases, and an efficient broker should know them all."

Woman Doing Big Job in Man's World

WINNIPEG (CP) — Lillian Larmour is a woman doing a big job in a man's world, and she thinks the arrangement is "simply terrific."

She is the first woman president of the Dominion Chartered Customs House Brokers Association. What makes it even more of an accomplishment is the fact that less than 10 per cent of Canada's 460 customs brokers are women.

Being a customs broker—one who acts as intermediary between importers and the department of national revenue—is usually a man's job because a broker has to have an extensive knowledge of industry and what custom regulations apply to different products," the attractive Hamilton-born woman said in an interview while in Winnipeg for the association's national convention.

Miss Larmour got into the business a few years ago when she started work for another woman customs broker in Hamilton. She now is chief executive of the company.

"Most women become brokers through no fault of their own. In many instances they are left a widow, husband or father dies and leaves them the business."

Miss Larmour says the constant change in Canada's customer relations is one of the biggest problems facing the profession.

"At federal budget time, we are faced with up to 500 changes in Canadian tariffs. There are also about 42,000 rulings on tariff cases, and an efficient broker should know them all."

This being a Hallowe'en party, special treats were served.

The next meeting will be on November 21st, when plans will be made for a combined family night and Christmas program.

MADOC — The 75th anniversary of St. Peter's Presbyterian W.M.S. was held at Madoc on November 2nd, with a fine representation of members from neighboring auxiliaries, with the following representatives: Belleville, Trenton, Foxboro, West Huntingdon, Stirling and Tweed, as well as a good number from the local ones.

Mrs. Sinclair received the guests and the president, Mrs. H. Bailey presided and welcomed the guests. The Bible reading was given by Mrs. O. Ketcheson, the prayer by the Rev. D. G. Kemble B.A. of Picton.

It was stated that the W.M.S. originated 75 years ago when 12 women of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church formed a Women's Foreign Mission Society, under the presidency of the late Mrs. William Macintosh and through the years the work prospered with a good increase in membership.

GREETINGS

The greetings were brought as follows: the session — the Rev. R. A. Sinclair, Madoc; the congregation — Mrs. V. Weir, Belleville; the Synodical — Mrs. J. Walker, Belleville; the Synod — the Rev. John H. Waddle B.D. of Bloomfield and the council — Mrs. M. Keefer of Trenton. Many other greetings were received from friends far and near. Mrs. Empey of Trinity United Church and Mrs. Glen Nickle of St. John's Anglican Church, expressed congratulations and best wishes.

Mrs. D. Bailey, the secretary gave an historical resume which was most interesting and Mrs. Allan gave a memorial tribute to those who had been the bulwark of the W.M.S. throughout the years. Beautiful flowers in memory of Mrs. J. Empey, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. C. Woods, respectively and each spoke briefly with a few appropriate remarks.

St. Peter's W.M.S. would like to take this opportunity to thank all the friends and former members, who so generously bestowed gifts, at this time.

The prayer calendar and the history of the Society has been carefully nursed and fittingly observed.

SEA CANCELS FLIGHTS

LONDON (AP)—British European Airways cancelled one night the cancellation of 68 flights to and from London airport today at the start of the second week of a wage strike by baggage loaders. BEA is the only airline affected by the strike, which is confined to London airport.

Ladies' Quarterback Club Gets Blessing of Men

MONTREAL (CP) — Husbands don't mind their wives belonging to the Alouette Ladies' Quarterback Club—on the contrary, they enjoy it.

Through the club, husbands have more chances to meet the Montreal Big Four football team's players, says Mrs. Phyllis Berryman.

"Jack would you know the players, it is just that much more interesting to chat."

A former ballerina married to a Montreal policeman who shares her keen interest in football, Mrs. Berryman got the idea for the club after meeting members of Edmonton's Eskimo Ladies' Quarterback Club at the Banff Canada Day Arts in 1958.

Sole purpose of the club was to get more women interested in football and help them understand the game, but the club's scope later widened to include several other activities.

For instance, it now sponsors an annual Christmas party for underprivileged children and, as well, when a fire destroyed several homes in the town last midyear, the club helped refurnish new ones.

BOBBY WHEELCHAIRS

This year it gave $400—proceeds of a "Salute to Sam" Quarterback Dinner—to provide $1,000—toward the purchase of wheelchairs for 10 polio-stricken victims. The remaining $600 was divided among four municipal hospitals with special polio treatment.

The quarterback club also arranged that a trophy named for Schweppy be presented each year to the Alouette player judged the most promising quarterback. This year's trophy was awarded to Brian Piccolo of the St. Laurent Spartans.

In spite of all the extra-curricular activities, the club has spent all but eight of its original six. Every three weeks during the football season members meet at a downtown hotel to hear one of the Alouette players tell his football story.

In the off - seasons, "clinics" are held each month to explain rules and regulations to interpret plays to the women.

Smith said the goal is football game just looked like a mass of humanity," said Mrs. Berryman. "Now I can follow the line up in formation, I know what to expect and I can see the plays develop."

St. Anne's CWL Plans Coming Bazaar

St. Anne's C.W.L. held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. Milosad Fisech.

The financial statement was given and correspondence read.

Final plans were made for the Christmas bazaar in December. The regional meeting will be held on November 30th in Tweed.

After the meeting adjourned euchre was enjoyed.

The hostess served a most delicious lunch assisted by Mrs. E. Walsh and Mrs. F. Deveau.

CWL Hears 'Truth Tapes'

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in the club rooms on Monday with the president, Mrs. E. Kelleher, presiding. There was a good attendance. The secretary, Mrs. F. Freeman, read her report and other correspondence at hand. Miss L. Doherty, treasurer, presented her report, which showed the weekly bingo to be the main source of revenue. It was noted that card parties are not being as well attended as anticipated and the president urged that these be publicized and people invited to attend.

One of the "truth tapes" for the aims of the League and other organizations was played. The title of it was "You and Your Love," and depicted the pitfalls and dangers men, women and youth fall into in their modern every-day way of life. The record is one of a series of 12 and it was agreed that it was a marvellous opportunity to hear so much good can be derived from them. They are supplied in connection with the Catholic Social Life Conferences.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

The main business of the evening was to finalize the plans for the annual Christmas bazaar which was held on Saturday of the Masonic Temple. There was a home cooking table, candy table, touch and take table, the "country" market, a draw for a Dresden plate quilt and a tea-room where tea and afternoon tea was served.

The proceeds go to the parish.

The card parties will continue to be held each Wednesday evening with good prizes and a lunch.

Mrs. Clarke and Mrs. Long will be in charge of the November bingo with Mrs. J. Smith as assistant to look after December bingos, many of which will feature turkeys and chickens.

Each convener presented a report during the past month and a letter was read from the Diocesan convener of export forms. It was urged that an exacting account be kept of the number of cards sent in order that a true picture could be given at the end of the year of the work undertaken in the parish by the C.W.L.

The spiritual director the Rev. J. C. Mooney, was present to give advice and to help the members in any way possible.

At the conclusion of the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. P. Monaghan and Mrs. J. Smith. Mrs. F. McEvoy and Mrs. E. Kelleher will be in charge of the lunch for the December meeting.

Travancore Chicken Chowder

By Mary Moore

Letters saying you have brought down and washed or polished old or heirloom silverware have been gratifying.

Because of an urge to change the pattern of menus I have given you some recipes for informal soups that make elegant main courses. If you have guests the air with which you serve them makes all the difference.

Through trial and error I have discovered a new soup influenced by my nephew's wife, Barb, who was born in India. She enjoys curry. They were bringing their precious brood of three to dinner so Davey could play with his cousins.

My job was to think of something children and adults would enjoy. The menu turned out to be:

Travancore Chicken Chowder
Hot-from-the-Oven
Cheese Bread
Brian's Favorite Salad
Orange Juice Layer Cake with Not-too-Sweet Frosting drizzled with Bitter Chocolate
New Mixed Jello filled with Sliced Peaches and Bananas
Almond Ice Cream

The variety of desserts was due to a just-past birthday, the indifferent appetite of Stovey (three) and two dieters.

TRAVANCORE CHICKEN POWDER:

As usual chickens were a "special" so I bought a three-pound one for 99c, washed it, barely covered it with water (6 cups cold) in my deep well cooker and simmered it for 2½ hours when the meat was falling from the bones. I lifted it out onto a big aluminum tray to cool enough for me to strip the meat from the bones. I strained the broth and poured it into a tall kitchen pitcher so the fat would rise to the top and be easily skimmed off.

Into a huge frying pan I put 4 tablespoons of the fat and gently sauteed in it for 10 minutes: 1 cup chopped celery stalks and leaves, 1 small parcel green pepper chopped, 3 small carrots cubed, ¼ large Spanish onion, chopped, 2 medium apples, pared, cored and chopped. Then I added 4 tablespoons flour, 2½ teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon sugar and 1½ teaspoons curry powder, and stirred to blend these in. Then I stirred in 6 cups strained, skimmed chicken broth until thick. By this time the pan was full, so I transferred it to the clean deep well cooker, added all the chopped chicken and 3 small peeled tomatoes chopped and let it simmer about 1 hour. The resulting soup, stew or chowder, whatever it was, was rich and looked elegant in our old silver soup tureen. Brian served it like Henry 8th into our Coalport soup bowls ("Fragonard"), which I bought for $1.00 apiece — the biggest bargain of my long life.

NOTE:

After serving the children and those who like it mild, add more curry powder for those who want it to "burn".

Tomorrow I will give you the recipe for the Cheese Bread and on Wednesday I will give you my 1961 Christmas Fruit Cake.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

There are times when use of first names — even your own — is proper. But there are other times when it shows bad taste. Do you know the difference? Answer True or False to the following:

Cannot Talk to a Boy

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—Could you give me some advise on why a girl of 14 in grade 10 cannot be trusted by her parents to go out with a boy? Even if I talk to a boy and my father hears about it I get a scolding.—PENNY.

DEAR PENNY:—He trusts you but he does not trust the boy.

Aren't you stretching it a little? Surely there are times when you talk to a boy and nobody minds? If there are none at all, your father is being unusually strict. Perhaps a little help from mother or a respected relative, or a guidance counsellor, might help him to let the bars down.

There is one thing worse: parents who don't give a hoot what you do. At 14 you could get into plenty of trouble if the sky was the limit.

If there is no middle course, right now, make pals of your girl friends, learn to take responsibility at home and show in other ways that you are growing up. Things have a way of changing as we do.

DEAR DORIS:—I met a married man two years ago. He has children but comes to see me when he is on duty. Says he likes me and loves me, but never comes to see me on days off.

I have told him over and over not to bother me but he still does. I have met a very nice single man and told him about this man.

The other day the married man followed me along the street. I would not talk to him but when he kept following me I finally did. I asked him what he was after and he said, "You, I like everything about you and your ways."

Is that man happy with his home life? I have threatened to move to a different city, and his answer is to ask me to give him a picture of myself. I tell him I'll go home and never come back and he says, "That's where you'll get hooked." Why should he worry about that? I do like him a lot.—WORRIED BLUE.

* * *

DEAR WORRIED BLUE:—You'll be worried bluer if you don't start acting grown up. Both of you are playing with fire.

Not much chance of you getting hooked by a decent man while you play cat-and-mouse with your amorous shadow.

He's happy enough with his home life not to risk it for a date with you when Mama expects him home. Lay down the law and mean it.

DEAR DORIS:—We are a young married couple and would like to say Grace before each meal. I would appreciate it if you would send me a couple that would be suitable. Best of luck with your social work.—MRS. G. B.

DEAR MRS. G. B.:—I am sending you three to choose from.

Thanks for your good wishes.

DEAR DORIS:—I'm lying awake at nights feeling a remorse I can't do anything about. I just have to tell someone.

My husband and my only brother never hit it off very well, and then when my brother got married I had trouble being friends with his wife. They came to visit us a short time ago, and the whole thing ended in a row. It was something very childish and trivial, but they went home without making up.

Three weeks later my brother died suddenly of a heart attack. I had been planning how I would write him a letter and now I have lost my chance. How can I ever get back my peace of mind?—SORRY NOW.

DEAR SORRY NOW:—The road to you-know-where is paved with good intentions. We often lose our opportunity to carry them out.

Make it up by being a friend to someone else. Go out of your way for his widow. Talk with your husband about it, if you haven't already, and admit your own part in it.

Peace will come back with good deeds.

DEAR DORIS:—My father retired from the farm eight years ago. He and mother are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary next year.

There are several of us in the family, all married and living in various provinces. Would it be proper to have their celebration in another province, or should they remain "at home?"—GOLDEN WEDDING.

DEAR GOLDEN:—Where are their friends? Are the pals of a lifetime—the folk who rejoice with them—living near where they are now? If so, that's the place to have it.

It is not considerate to ask elderly friends to travel long distances to attend. And if you just have the nearby friends of one or more of the sons and daughters, this is hardly your parents' celebration.

Perhaps it is not completely out to return to the locality where you were raised, for the event. How about that?

DEAR DORIS:—Would you please suggest suitable words me to use in presenting a trophy to a curling club? Is necessary for me to address the chair?—KRY.

DEAR KAY:—Mr. Chairman and Members of the Whoosis Curling Club:

"Blankleen years ago the Triptown Trophy was set up. The award was to be made each year to the club winning the greatest number of games. I am happy to make the presentation this year to your club.

"Ever since the Whoosis Club came into the league, competing rinks have considered their visits here as a highlight in their season. Your team play is terrific; your skip and sweepers well-nigh unbeatable. You always present us with a happy challenge.

"It has been fun getting to know each one of you—and has brought about some interesting—sometimes amusing—incidents. (Tell one.)

"It is my pleasure now to award you with the Triptown Curling Trophy. May your curlers continue to sweep awaybody off their feet!"

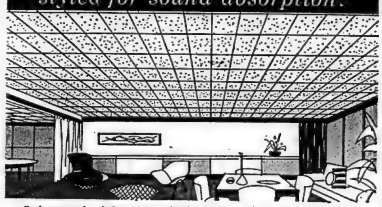
CARS Plans Spring Auction Sale

The C.A.R.S. Auxiliary meeting for November was held at the home of Mrs. Don Williams with the president, Mrs. A. W. Hume, in the chair.

Plans were discussed for a bake sale to take place the middle of November, and the Christmas party for the patients to be held December 6th. It was also thought advisable to ask all friends of the Auxiliary to save summer rummage and auctionable articles for the annual rummage and auction sale in the spring.



A patient was driven to Toronto in October for treatment at the Arthritic and Rheumatism Centre.

The meeting was concluded with refreshments served by the hostess and co-hostesses, Miss Gladys McDonald and Miss Rita McDonald.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Sylvia R. — My husband must arrange to spend some time with Lloyd.

Bertram R. — As a busy doctor, I can't do much active child raising.

Sylvia R. — We have an 11-year-old son and something must be done to perk him up. I've tried my best, but a mother can't do the whole job alone.

His marks at school have been going down steadily. When I spoke to his teacher, she asked whether anything was wrong at home. She said Lloyd seems depressed. He doesn't join the other kids in playground teams but wanders off and reads a comic book during play periods.

He hasn't any close friends in his class, but does spend some happy hours with a few boys down the block who enjoy reading and music as much as he does. The teacher suggested, and I agree, that he spend more time with his dad. But my husband insists his work won't permit this.

Bertram R. — Some wives just have to try to be both father and mother to children. No matter how I try, my free hours never seem to coincide with Lloyd's and I can't do the hiking and ball playing fathers are supposed to do with their young sons.

Anyway, Lloyd doesn't seem to be particularly interested in athletics and active sports. Up to now he's appeared to be engrossed in his books, his record player and other things up in his room — like his chemistry set and his feeding-station for sparrows.

In another year he'll be old enough for the Scouts, and those Scout leaders will have to do the things their father can't get to — like being Lloyd's pal. Meanwhile his mother must keep trying.

The Council: Busy or no, Dr. R. will have to do better than this as a dad. Lloyd is at a crucial age where his need for identification with (and closeness to) his father, rather than his mother, is paramount.

While this boy may, with luck, emerge unscathed from such a cramped boyhood, the present picture is the one which, according to psychological investigations, can produce future difficulties. The crucial age seems to be from 7 to 12 (Lloyd and his dad can still get in under the wire), and the crux is the boy's feeling of acceptance by his father. Such a transition — from Mother's boy to Dad's sidekick — is long past due in this case.

Space permits but a few suggestions. One way for Lloyd to see more of his father would be for Dr. R. to take him along on calls. The boy might profit from a dedication with which his dad works. Some man-to-man chitchat would also be beneficial. As to Lloyd's popularity with his classmates, athletic prowess isn't essential. But interest and a degree of enthusiasm, rather than standoffish disdain, are. Both parents, with the help of a club leader perhaps, might encourage Lloyd to participate, if only as cheerleader in the activities which delight his contemporaries.

In other words, Lloyd must get joy from being a boy. That means, he must be successful at a few "boy things." Mother, father and teacher must devise ways to make this possible.

Surprise Party Honors Triple Birthdays

FRANKFORD — Last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. May Stephenson in Frankford a triple surprise birthday party was held when 12 ladies and a number of children gathered to honor Mrs. May Stephenson who was 80 years young on November 6th; Mrs. William Lyons, who was 86 years young on September 7th, and Mrs. Richard Twiddy of Shickdale, whose birthday was on November 2nd.

Mrs. W. Kemp led in prayer and all joined in singing "Jesus Lover of My Soul."

The honored guests were presented with birthday gifts.

Refreshments were served, including birthday cake. A time of fellowship was enjoyed by all.

UNITED CHURCH W.A.-W.M.S.

SHANNONVILLE — The monthly meeting of the W.A. and W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Raymond Clark on Thursday afternoon with an attendance of 20. Mrs. E. R. Vivian presided.

Mrs. Malcolm Little took charge of the worship service. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Asa Cook from the Gospel of Peter, with Mrs. Damon Hinchey reading the lesson thoughts from the devotional leaflet, the theme for the month being "Our Willing and Reasonable Service."

Mrs. W. D. Robertson gave a reading entitled "Autumn and Remembrance Day."

It was decided to cater for a supper for the Senior Citizens' Club in December. Mrs. Elliott read a letter from Mrs. Larry Lefleur, wife of a former minister of the church, now serving in the west, and to learn that they were all well and settled in their new field of labor. A card and note of thanks was also read from Mrs. James Kirk for the many cards received during her stay in hospital. Mrs. Albert expressed thanks to all who sent cards, and to all who had called in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Charles Wood, W.M.S. president, added her welcome and took charge of the business. The secretary gave her report, and Mrs. Wood thanked all who had helped with the October rally, and Mrs. W. Ross gave the financial report.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes, guest speaker, from Holloway Street United Church, gave an interesting and informative address on the new organization when the WA and the WMS will join at the new year.

Mrs. Wood extended thanks to Mrs. Holmes.

A nominating committee was appointed to elect officers for 1962. Prayer was offered for the missionary, Miss Joyce Peary of Nova Scotia.

Thanks were rendered the hostess by both presidents and cards signed by all to be sent to the sick members, Mrs. C. Clarke and Mrs. A. Goodfellow.

The next meeting of the WA and WMS will be held at the home of Mrs. K. R. Vivian.

Lunch was served by the committee in charge.

Prince Charles Sets Sail Upon Teen-Age on Tuesday

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles turns 13 Tuesday and sets sail upon teen-age, ending the sometimes irksome chapter called childhood and entering the transition years that lead to manhood.

On the eve of this graduation from child to teen-ager, Prince Charles is a chubby, big-eyed, slightly understated carbon of the nearby preparatory school of Cheam.

He is the first heir to the throne to attend such a school. All the others have been privately tutored in palaces and castles.

Cheam is a private school, but open to a wide variety of boys whose parents can pay its fees. A boarding school, its students get home only for holidays and seldom for the weekends.

Friends of the Royal Family say that Charles was sent to Cheam, principally at the insistence of his father, Prince Philip. Instructions were that he was to be treated as any other boy.

AN AVERAGE STUDENT

He doesn't seem to have a great deal of talent for games. Nor has he shown—up to now—any great talent for scholarship. Those who know say he's not unlike his father. He is an extremely well-behaved teen-ager, however, attentive and polite and conscious of his position.

Nobody has publicly called him a sissy, but he certainly shows no signs of being a toughie. He is sensitive and impressionable.

Following at his mother's footsteps not long ago, he visited the newly-decorated home now of one of the Queen's close friends.

The friend was a young woman and proud of her artistic decorations. When she pointed out the new curtains, the Chippendale and Hepplewhite furniture, the deep soft carpets, the Queen nodded—but said nothing.

After a tour through the apartment, the friend—who knows the Queen pretty well — said she was afraid Her Majesty was not pleased.

"Oh, no," whispered the Queen, "I didn't want to enthuse. You know Charles is so impressionable."

IMPRESSED BY CURTAINS

The friend's inference was that Charles is impressed by flowing curtains, gleaming furniture and the trappings of a home—not the usual enthusiasms of a boy about to be 13.

Insiders say that Prince Charles will probably be sent to Gordonstoun, a public school in Scotland which stresses character, self-reliance and discipline along with book learning. Prince Philip went to Gordonstoun.

At Gordonstoun, Prince Charles probably will receive a toughening that some say he needs.

If he attends, he will probably put in four years and then go on to a university. Oxford or Cambridge would be the obvious choice.

The Queen and Prince Philip have tried to let their son see life—as much as is possible. At an early age, he was taken for rides on the London subway and on its big double-decker red buses.

His nurses sneaked him into the movies and hauled him off to the galleries. He was taken to the zoo. At home, he was given a pony and he learned to ride at an early age. Horsemanship is probably his outstanding talent.

At the encouragement of his father, he takes an interest in machines, gadgets and boats But no overwhelming interest.

Prince Charles never has been pampered.

Up until a few years ago, his spending money was one shilling a week. From this he also saved to buy Christmas presents and birthday presents for members of the family.

But inflation caught up with the Royal Family and the weekly spending money has considerably increased.

On his way to teen - age, Charles experienced something known to many boys. When he did misbehave the Queen administered spankings.

FIND ROMAN RUIN

VOLTERRA, Italy (AP)— Archeologists in this hill town between Pisa and Siena say they have found a Roman theatre that may be one of the largest and best preserved in Italy. Still excavating the 2,000-year-old ruin, they estimate it once seated 5,000 spectators.

Two Officials Of Parenthood League Held

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)— Two officials of the Planned Parenthood League of Connecticut were arrested Friday in the re-opening of a birth control clinic here.

Warrants were served on Mrs. Richard W. Grimes, executive director of the league, and Dr. Lee Buxton, medical director of the league.

Both were ordered to appear in circuit court Nov. 24. Each was charged with being an accessory to the use of a contraceptive.

The league reopened its first clinic in the state Nov. 1 to test the state's controversial anti-birth control law.

In June, the United States Supreme Court refused to rule on the constitutionality of the 92-year-old Connecticut law.

The court said the law was so many "dead words" and it noted that no one had ever been prosecuted under it.

The law prohibits any person from using any drug, medicinal article or instrument for the purpose of preventing conception.

Ottawa Resumes 6-Year Battle With Owner

OTTAWA (CP) — The City of Ottawa has resumed its six-year battle against Roger Finnerty, an Irishman who refuses to surrender his ramshackle home in a plush Ottawa suburb to the wrecking crews.

The city will ask the Supreme Court of Ontario for an order to evict Mr. Finnerty and his family from his home in the Alta Vista area of south Ottawa so it can be demolished by the housing standards board.

Mr. Finnerty's home is located on a tree-covered lot big enough for three or four modern bungalows. It is surrounded by homes ranging upwards in value from $20,000.

The housing standards board has declared Mr. Finnerty's home unfit for human habitation. Despite appeals, warnings and fines, he has refused to rehabilitate or demolish it.

In his last policy court appearance, the city produced plans for subdividing the property. It said the plans would have left Mr. Finnerty with a site for a home and raised enough money to build him a new one.

COUPLE TRY AGAIN

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—There was a familiar ring about the "I Do's" Friday as Albert and Sola Sefried were married before a Decatur justice of the peace. Sefried, 74, and Mrs. Sefried, 73, had said the words once before—in 1899. A September romance blossomed into wedding bells for the couple, separated for 30 years, following a divorce. Neither had remarried.

Auction of Paintings Held Every Wednesday in N.Y.

By MILES A. SMITH

NEW YORK (AP) — Shortly after 8 p.m. this Wednesday, if all goes according to schedule, a broad-faced, bald-haired man will whack a little ivory knob against a sandalwood block and declare open season on the pocketbooks of the rich.

"Sold!" he will announce, and at that moment an auctioneer's long reign will break. The Rembrandt masterpiece, Aristotle Contemplating the Bust of Homer, will have a new owner.

The price is expected to be around $1,000,000. Perhaps half again as much.

Multi - millionaire collectors, museum officials and agents from all over the world will shift in their chairs and then pull themselves together to catch the bidding on the next item.

Even with "the big one" gone, there will be plenty more. By 9 p.m. or thereabouts, the little ivory knob will have cracked down for the 94th time and the auction will be over. The total take will run $3,000,000 or so in approximately an hour.

For these two dozen paintings, almost without exception, the electronic mind takes over.

Industry Must Decide Whether It Will Make Competition Work

OTTAWA (CP) — Industry itself must decide ultimately whether it will make the competitive free enterprise system work, D. H. W. Henry, director of investigation and research under the Combines Investigation Act, said Saturday.

"It becomes apparent that private enterprise is not producing for industry and other members of the public," said Mr. Henry. "then I suggest there will be a growing outcry on the part of the public to have government intervene in the affairs of industry."

Mr. Henry was discussing specifically the question of identical tenders which he said had been the subject of a good deal of public comment, particularly within the last year."

If it was not entirely warranted, he said, to assume that identical tenders automatically are evidence of collusion among bidders. Other factors sometimes played a part.

He was speaking to the Purchasing Agents Association of the Ottawa Valley.

His remarks were contained in a text of his address issued to the press before delivery.

NOT NECESSARILY IDENTICAL

"It is well understood by economists and businessmen that identical tenders and identical prices can be arrived at without collusion by independent decision on the part of the bidders concerned," he said.

More evidence was required to find such action was unlawful.

For example, in a market where only a few firms supplies a standard product, any price differential could only be temporary "unless some unusual factor is present," such as a particularly large order.

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: A look at expectant mothers and diets back through time and advice on how to feed your baby.

DIETS AND PREGNANCY

Pregnancy has led to special diets since time immemorial.

The Masai of East Africa prescribe a ration of blood, meat and milk. Nearby the Kikuyu tribe urges sweet potatoes, corn, lentils, beans and grain. But the pregnant Kikuyu women are also given a village monopoly on green leaves, a primitive recognition of the need for vitamins.

Another tribe believes the unborn child remains in the womb voluntarily. Therefore, the mother begins fasting a few weeks before her scheduled delivery. Object: to coax the hungry child out to a waiting milk supply.

In ancient China, women were warned that goat meat would produce a sickly child; turtle meat a short - necked child, and donkey meat would lead to a long pregnancy and difficult labor.

Roman women abstained from wolf meat for fear of premature birth. They were also told that eating raven's stork would give both mother and child crazy ideas, while eating mouse meat would lead to black eyes, reports Emma Sietert, clinical instructor in nutrition for Reading, Pa., Hospital in a survey of diets for the pregnant.

MILK FOR BABY

Mothers should continue sterilizing baby's nipples to avoid the danger of infection by virus and bacteria. So reports a committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Some pediatricians have advocated the use of well-washed bottles, have approved hot water right from tap and clean, but unsterilized milk. The committee says there are too many chances for slips in this sort of procedure.

Water supplies are not always safe. This year there has already been one widebreak of dysentery traceable to contaminated water, the report said. Hot water from the tap can also contain some potentially dangerous minerals.

The need for clean bottles and equipment, and 25 minutes of boiling the milk already in the bottles with nipples in place, was suggested by the committee as the safest possible method.

U of T President Hails New Acceptance of Higher Education, Need to Provide

By KEN REILLY

OTTAWA (CP)—New acceptance of the importance of higher education and the need to provide for it "has destroyed the old inertia," Dr. Claude Bissell, president of the University of Toronto, said today.

But in striking this note of cautious optimism at the opening of the National Conference of Canadian Universities and Colleges, Dr. Bissell and other speakers threw out a challenge to tackle the problem of growth and cost in a national and united way.

The three-day conference, attended by some 200 representatives of educational institutions, governments and organizations is meeting to review developments since a 1956 conference on "The crisis in higher education" and to chart a course for "universities in a new age."

Dr. Bissell is the keynote speaker, said that since 1956 "we have all detected a far greater readiness in all sectors of society to accept our own assumptions about the importance of higher education and the necessity of meeting its enormous needs, and acceptance has destroyed the old inertia."

HOW NEED EXPANDED

Now, he said, "we can talk about universities, not in terms of subsistence, but in terms of expansion: not as production lines for business and the state, but as a principal means whereby our economy, our political structure and our culture grow and change. . . ."

Universities had become indispensable to closing the gap between the less well - developed countries and the affluent societies. He forecast more emphasis on post-graduate work, one of the main topics for discussion during the three-day meeting.

Dr. Bissell, in common with another first-day speaker, Dr. Edward F. Sheffield, research officer of the Canadian Universities Foundation, saw a need for united planning and speaking on behalf of universities:

Dr. Sheffield noted unprecedented growth in enrolment and in capital and operating costs.

He predicted that by 1966-67 enrolment will reach 382,000 — 2½ times that of 1954-55—and by 1970-71 will total 512,000. Last year Canada had 151,000 full-time university students.

The estimated annual university operating costs at $480,000,000 by 1965-66, 2 1-2 times the $177,000,000 in 1960 - 61, and spending on new buildings at $120,000,000 a year during the next five years compared with $80,000,000 during the last five.

Exploration of Relations Between Canada and U.S. Draws Big Crowd at Windsor

WINDSOR (CP)—A three-day annual exploration of relations between Canada and the United States ended here Saturday.

Through a series of panels, experts from both sides of the border examined a wide range of subjects that affect the day-to-day living of the peoples of both countries.

The experts were not alone. Nearly 2,000 Canadians and Americans housewives, students, scholars, merchants and laborers—came to listen and question.

This was double the number who attended the first two seminars.

This sudden spurt in attendance was gratifying for Rev. Frank Boland, the Roman Catholic priest who conceived the idea of a forum where matters that cause friction between Canada and the U.S. can be discussed.

Father Boland, an associate professor of history at Assumption University where the seminars are held, said newspaper articles prompted him to arrange the first seminar.

"I had been reading about the Chicago waterdiversion, the Columbia River power project and other things that seemed to be troubling Canadians and Americans, that since 1956 we have all detected a far greater readiness in all sectors of society to accept our own assumptions about the importance of higher education and the necessity of meeting its enormous needs, and acceptance has destroyed the old inertia."

loans. I thought that if we could get people togetherto talk about these sensitive areas it might remove some of the latent friction."

Assumption University absorbed the cost of the first two seminars. Then Father Boland approached major U.S. and Canadian companies for financial support.

"It was becoming a $10,000 enterprise," he said. "I knew I just could not keep it up with out some help. The companies responded almost 100 per cent."

Have the seminars accomplished much? Father Boland said it is almost impossible to tell. He said, however, there is one indication: increasing attendance he has noticed an increasing interest by Canadian and U.S. government officials in the seminars.

There were other signs. The number of authoritative panelists was increasing and a good cross-section of the public attended the discussions.

Panels this year covered such basic matters as the problem of Canadian subsidiaries, Canadian-Americanism, free trade, the European Common Market, international trade union ism, mass media and their effects, and the cold war.

Fallen heroes of two World Wars were honored here Saturday as Remembrance Day ceremonies were held at the Station Street Cenotaph. Members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Militia, Trenton RCAF, and local veterans' association members took part in the parade to the Cenotaph. Premier Lesage Announces Complete Overhaul of Laws Governing Provincial Voting

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage Sunday night announced sweeping changes in forms, limitation and control of election expenses, a new electoral map and a new balloting system possibly using voting machines.

In an address at the closing banquet of the annual convention of the Quebec Liberal Federation, Mr. Lesage said Quebecers are the first citizens in Canada to forget the instruments of their own sovereignty.

"Now, for the first time here among us, an electoral law is going to be shaped by the hands of the people."

Publicity and propaganda would be regulated.

"How is one to hear the voice of the people if it is drowned out by propaganda? What is the right to be a candidate if it is reserved to the wealthy?

"What is a political party if it is synonymous with election funds?

"What is democracy if it is not in the hands of all?"

Mr. Lesage said the government will bring down a complete program of election reforms at the session of the legislature starting in January.

Election expenses will have been set records in Quebec will be restricted and limited.

And in order to give an equal chance to all political parties the province will pay all public election expenses of "all personal good faith" who wish to run the elections.

"On the one hand, the regulation of election expenses will help stop humiliating campaign to which a too large number of voters are submitted at election time, and on the other to free the parties from excessive dependence on election contributions."

Mr. Lesage said once freed from the need of election contributions, "political parties will be able to act without being placed under restrains" whether from the underworld or from "certain financial interests not always as well intentioned as one would like."

Mr. Lesage said the government will ask the legislature to proceed with a long-awaited redistribution of electoral seats.

He said there have been various views expressed on the question. The government wanted to ensure there would be no secondary voting class in Quebec, an obvious reference to heavily-populated Montreal ridings where it takes a half-dozen votes to make up for one rural vote.

The premier declared the government would amend the proposed balloting procedure.

"This convention has seen some happy experiments . . . among which was the use of electronic machines for the recordcat of votes.

"These experiments certainly will be useful to the government the next time comes to study certain aspects of the new election law."

18,000 Envelopes Holding Christmas Seals Now Ready For Mailing to Aid Fund

Approximately 300 community-minded citizens from the Belleville and Hastings County area have been busy for the past two weeks packing around 18,000 envelopes with Christmas seals which will go out in the mails during the annual Christmas Seal Campaign.

Assisting in packing the seals have been members of the CCIC and local Hi-Y groups, the Women's Institute and auxiliary members of the RCAF, along with committee members, their wives and friends.

Volunteer workers are the key to the financial success of the annual Christmas Seal campaign. The more volunteer workers, the more money that is left for the work of the Association.

A minimum donation of $1 is asked for the Christmas seals which soon will be going out through the mails.

Donations can be dropped in at the Bank of Nova Scotia in Trenton. Exirs TB Christmas Seals are also available at the bank.

OPEN WEIGH PUBS

CARDIFF, Wales (Reuters)—About 3,200 taverns in Wales opened their doors on a Sunday for the first time in 86 years as the clocks struck noon Sunday. Customers got the first drink on the house. Nine areas of Wales decided in an area-by-area vote on Wednesday to open the pubs on Sunday while eight other areas, mainly in the north, decided to keep them shut.

HELP FOR TB PATIENTS

— Representative group of local Hi-Y boys are seen helping to pack the more than 18,000 envelopes of seals soon to be mailed out in the annual Christmas Seal campaign. Donations received from the seals aid the Hastings County TB Association in its fight to stamp out tuberculosis.

Party Pressure Is Building Up to Oust UN Supporters

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT

QUEBEC (CP)—Party pressure to purge the Quebec civil service of former and present Union Nationale party supporters is building up on the provincial Liberal administration.

Feelings are running high among Liberal rank and file of Liberal party members over the continued dominant position of the civil servants named under the former administration and several grassroots organizations made their complaints heard loudly during the annual Quebec Liberal Federation meeting here.

This kind of outcry from a political party, 16 months after a provincial election, is unusual.

And the situation poses an embarrassing problem for Premier Jean Lesage and his cabinet ministers many of whose close associates in the civil service are veterans appointed under the Duplessis administration or even earlier, men with 10, 20 or 25 years of experience in NO SECRET

That the government faces a civil service problem is no secret. Several ministers have made public statements about it and Mr. Lesage told the federation Friday the civil service is not only weighted down with "deadwood" but with elements which hamper new government policies.

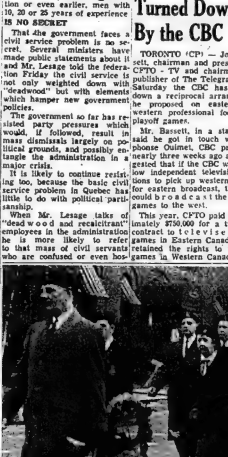
The government so far has resisted party pressures which would, if followed, result in mass dismissals largely on political grounds, and possibly entangle the administration in major crisis.

It is likely to continue resisting too, because the basic civil service problem in Quebec has little to do with political partisanship.

When Mr. Lesage talks of "deadwood and recalcitrant" employees in the administration he is more likely to refer to that mass of civil servants who are confused or even hostile over the provincial government's new policies or administrative methods.

This is the heart of the civil service problem in Quebec and this problem exists because of the state of neglect in which all previous provincial administrations have left the civil servants.

The dismissals and resignations which followed the victory of the Liberals June 22, 1960, were only the usual perturbations at the lower echelons of the civil service which have traditionally followed every change in administration.



The bulk of the civil service problem remains in the present government's lap as a major headache.

Bassett Plan Turned Down By the CBC

TORONTO (CP) — John Bassett, chairman and president of CFTO - TV and chairman and publisher of The Telegram, said Saturday the CBC has turned down a reciprocal arrangement he proposed on eastern and western professional foot b a l l playoff games.

Mr. Bassett, in a statement, said he got in touch with Alphonse Ouimet, CBC president, nearly three weeks ago and suggested that if the CBC would allow independent television stations to pick up western games for eastern broadcast, the CBC could broadcast the eastern games to the west.

This year, CFTO paid approximately $750,000 for a two-year contract to televise eastern games in Eastern Canada. CBC retained the rights to western games in Western Canada.

Veterans of two World Wars marched to honor their fallen comrades. Wreath-bearing member of local veterans' organizations is seen marching with medalled veterans to Cenotaph ceremony.

National Socred Leader Is Building Public Image

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—When a rather short, well-groomed man in a conservative grey suit appeared at the door of a Social Credit dinner here Saturday night, a young woman sitting at one of the tables leaned to her neighbor and whispered:

"What's that handsome guy?"

Many of the 75 men and women in the room might have asked the same question about the man — Robert N. Thompson, 47, recently chosen national Social Credit leader.

The virile - looking new leader frankly admits one of his most urgent and toughest jobs is to get out and meet people across the country from Newfoundland to British Columbia to build up a national image of his party and himself. All last week he was seeking to do just this in a tour through Ontario.

In a dozen towns and cities he sought to drum up support at small informal meetings with businessmen, impromptu speeches and interviews with local radio and television stations and get to know young leader banquets.

PLANS OTHER TOURS

Mr. Thompson, who left his wife and eight children behind at a farm in Red Deer, Alta., looked on the tour basically as a "grassroots" organizing tour to be followed by similar trips in the west and Atlantic provinces.

He told a meeting in London, Ont., that until his election as Social Credit's first national convention in Ottawa in July, the party had never really been national. One of his main tasks during the next few months is to search out potential candidates and local organizers in preparation for the next federal general election. It would be said Social Credit plans to field a full slate of candidates for the first time in nearly every constituency.

Last week's Ontario dinner meeting was the first major part arranged on an invitational basis with those attending after already Social Credit supporters and whose interest in the party had already been aroused. Attendance generally ranged between 50 and 100 and the response to Mr. Thompson's speech was excellent—polite but mild applause to considerable enthusiasm.

In this dinner Mr. Thompson spoke for between one hour and 90 minutes, leaving most

INCO DEVELOPS WORLD MARKETS FOR NICKEL

Coinage provides world markets for nickel

Nickel and nickel alloys make excellent coinage because they withstand corrosion and hard wear; can be blanked and coined readily; have a bright metallic lustre that makes them easy to recognize.

According to the latest information, 47 countries of the world use nickel or nickel alloys in 118 coins. On the average, more than 5 million pounds of nickel are used annually in the coinage systems of the world. That's about 10 per cent of the total tonnage of all metals used in coinage each year. Think what this means for Canada.

Canada is the world's largest producer of nickel. And Inco, through sales, research and market development operations, maintains a continuing program for the expansion of international markets for Inco nickel.

More Inco nickel than ever before will be exported to expanding world markets . . . helping to build trade balances, stimulate Canada's economic growth and create more jobs for Canadians.

MONEY MINTERS, a 16 mm. 15 minute film in colour produced in cooperation with the Royal Canadian Mint is available on loan for group showings. NICKEL IN COINAGE, a free booklet telling the story of nickel coinage through the ages will be sent on request.

U.S. College Football

NEW YORK (AP) — Jarring defensive play and resulting fumbles were the keys to an upset-filled Saturday as four of the top U.S. college football teams received unpleasant surprises.

Texas and Alabama, the top two, rolled on as usual, but Michigan State, Colorado, Missouri and Georgia Tech couldn't get going against stern defences.

Texas, stampeding toward the U.S. championship and host spot in the Cotton Bowl, disposed of Baylor 23-6 in a Southwest Conference game while mighty Alabama crushed outmanned Richmond 46-0.

Michigan State, ranked sixth in the latest Associated Press poll, suffered its second upset in as many weeks, falling 7-6 to Purdue. Utah beat eighth-ranked Colorado 21-12. It was Colorado's first loss of the season.

Tennessee clipped ninth-ranked Georgia Tech 10-6 and Oklahoma, loser of its first five, startled Missouri, No. 10, 7-0.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

If you were a betting man, one accustomed to placing the cookie-jar roll on the favorites, you are likely to be wrong and making excuses to the bank-man this morning.

For the sports scene came up with more upsets than a Grand National water jump or a beach colony whipped by a tornado.

Toronto Argonauts fans won't say it was an upset but the dopesters will and so will a lot of Bytown aficionados and Ottawa Rough Rider Coach Frank Clair who prophesied his galloping gauchos, bolstered by the return of the walking wounded, would sit back and wait for the Tiger-Cat game after Saturday's tilt with the Scullers.

But after the Saturday debacle when a guy named Rote finally came into his own, aided and abetted by one Morris, the not-so-Rough Riders are hanging with their heads down and their football gear up for the season.

For Mr. Rote sledgehammed his way to an Argonaut victory with his pin-pointing right-shoulder bankrooks, and scored twice himself in demolishing the Riders under a 43-19 avalanche.

Closer at home a gallant young Moira Secondary School junior "A" squad ran into a roadblock that looked like the Matterhorn or at least a fairly large segment of the Rockies. The Oshawa O'Neill collegiate youngsters outclassed the Moira eleven-some by a unconscious margin and humbled them to the tune of a 67-0 count. There must have been something lacking somewhere. I do not believe the Oshawa squad, as good as it is, is that much better than the Quinte crew. However, chins up, men, next year is another year.

Another tip of the apple-cart came to Queen's and Kingston fans and followers of the Golden Gaels in general, when McGill Redmen nudged Frank Tyndall's squad 15-7 which almost pulled a victory out of the fire at that. The Gaels were down 15-0 going into the fourth quarter, then suddenly snapped to life, but 'twas too little and too late.

And the general alarm was sounded in the igloos of the Edmonton Eskimos after the Calgary Stampeders scored a late-game touchdown to snatch a 19-19 victory out of the frost-chilled air of Calgary. To turn the knife in the wound, the Eskys lost two more top players to the injury jinx, something that won't enhance their chances in the second game of the points-to-count series slated for Edmonton tonight.

In the National Hockey League the Montreal Canadiens still ruin the roost despite the fact they experienced one of those rarities, a "black" at the hands of the Bruins. The Red Wings after bowing to the Leafs Saturday turned on the pressure in Olympia last night and saw'd the Habs 3-0. The slumping Hawks lost a pair over the weekend and are nesting two points above the cellar-dwelling Bruins.

And here's a tip to football fans. "Touse guys" in Eastern Canada will not be provided with live television coverage of playoff games in the western conference. The CBC which holds western rights and Toronto station CFTO owner of Big Four rights, have been unable to reach an agreement for reciprocal televising of the Grey Cup playoffs.

However, the Grey Cup game itself, to be played in Toronto December 2, will be carried on the CBC national network.

Wings Blank Habs, Hawks Lose Twice

Goal '200' For Bathgate

By LAURENT CHLABON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal Canadiens don't get shut out often. But when they do, the number of goals scored by the opposing team is likely to be three.

Sunday night the Habs were blanked 3-0 by Terry Sawchuk, 32, of the Red Wings at Detroit, marking the first time Montreal failed to score at least once in a National Hockey League game since March 8, 1960.

Their previous NHL shutout also was by a 3-0 score. The game also was at Detroit and the goalie was Sawchuk. In between, Canadiens lined through 89 consecutive non - shutout games—six at the end of the 1959-60 season, 70 in 1960-61 and 13 this season.

In the Stanley Cup playoffs last spring, Montreal twice lost by 3-0 to Glenn Hall and Chicago Black Hawks.

Canadiens did better Saturday scoring two power-play goals for a 2-2 decision over the Black Hawks at Montreal.

The Maple Leafs turned back Detroit 5-3 at Toronto Saturday, then lost 4-3 at Boston Sunday night. Red Kelly and Ray Cullen handed Chicago a second weekend loss Sunday, beating the Black Hawks 4-1 as Andy Bathgate scored his 200th NHL goal.

HATS STILL LEAD

The results left Canadiens atop the NHL standings with 22 points, two more than New York and three more than Toronto. Detroit is fourth with 13 points, Chicago has 11 and Boston nine.

Canadiens' goals were by Geoffrion and Ralph Backstrom, tested Sawchuk 22 times Sunday.

Geoffrion and Backstrom both were injured in the game against Chicago. Their injuries, however, were not believed to be serious.

Sawchuk was struck by Henri Richard's high backhander mid-way through the opening period Sunday, the second eight stitches to close a gash on his right cheek with the game being delayed 10 minutes.

It was his second shutout of the season and 56th in 12 seasons.

Bruce MacGregor, 20, a rookie, scored his first two NHL goals for the Wings — both off passes from defenceman Bill Gadsby. Alex Delvecchio got the other assist.

Canadiens got goals Saturday from Phil Goyette, in the first period, and Geoffrion, in the second, for their win against Chicago. Ab McDonald got the Hawks' lone marker at the 15-second mark of the third.

PERFORM CAPABLY

Toronto got aggressive performances from Bob Nevin, Red Kelly and Frank Mahovlich for its win against the Wings Saturday.

Nevin scored once and drew two assists while Kelly scored once and picked up an assist and Mahovlich had three assists.

Defenceman Carl Brewer and forwards Eddie Shack and Dick Duff got Toronto's other goals. Gordie Howe scored for the Wings.

The Leafs were nicked for three goals within two minutes in the second late in the first period Sunday and they never recovered. Boston made it 1-0 in the second, Toronto getting its three goals late in the third period.

Don McKenney, rookie Cliff Pennington and veteran Vic Stasiuk carded Bruins' three early goals. Pennington tallied in the second. Bert Olmstead, Bobby Pulford and Duff scored for Leafs.

HAVE BIG NIGHTS

Bathgate, Earl Ingarfield and Camille Henry had big nights for the Rangers against Chicago. Besides scoring his 200th goal, Bathgate picked up a pair of assists. Ingarfield scored twice and added two assists while goals while Prentice drew four assists.

Bathgate becomes the 33rd player to get at least 200 big-league goals. The three points tallied in the second Bert Olmstead, Bobby Pulford and Duff scored for Leafs.

Trounce Moira 67-0

Oshawa Jrs. Win Title

By JOE CLAPP

Oshawa's O'Neill Collegiate rolled over Moira B.S. on Saturday by a score of 67-0 to win the CODSSA Junior "A" championship. The game was played at Alexandra Park in Oshawa before a large crowd. Oshawa's Redmen, winners in the Lakeshore district, proved themselves to be in a different class than the Bay of Quinte District champions. It was apparent that the local boys were outclassed early in the first quarter by a much heavier and more experienced team.

Oshawa kicked off to open the game. Moira, after gaining one first down, was held at its own forty-five and was forced to punt. Oshawa marched from its own thirty-seven to the Moira 15. Ron Simpson scored for O'Neill on a 15-yard end run. The convert was missed.

After the kickoff, Moira was held on its own 20 and punted. O'Neill took over at mid-field and moved to the Moira 10, where they were held, and lost out the downs. They gained possession again, however, at the Moira 20 on an interception and moved in four plays to score. The convert was good. The Redmen picked up a single point late in the first quarter when McNamee punted through the Moira end zone.

O'Neill added, two more touchdowns in the first half. McCheesman scored the first and Cheesman kicked the extra point. Simpson scored the second after a 75-yard gallop off tackle. The point after was missed. The last TD for O'Neill in possession on their own 5.

Simpson scored again for O'Neill early in the third quarter after which Sam Cheesman punts. The convert was missed. McNamee picked up another single point for Oshawa by causing a Moira receiver to be caught in the end zone after a 32-yard punt.

O'Neill scored five more times before the final whistle. McNamee scored one himself and also threw two touchdown passes to Brady and one to Brack.

Cheesman made good two of the attempted converts.

Much of the credit for the O'Neill victory must go to defensive men defence. On only one occasion did Moira penetrate inside the Oshawa 40-yard line.

Chicago Rink Wins Bonspiel

CHICAGO (CP) — The International Invitational Mixed Bonspiel was won by a Chicago rink Saturday night with a rink from Sarnia taking fourth place after four days of competition among 32 United States and Canadian teams.

Charles F. Wilson, Canadian consul general in Chicago, presented the winning trophy to skip Melville Cribbs, who's a quartet took victories over rinks from Winnipeg, Detroit, Milwaukee and Wisconsin, Wis., for the winning 34 points.

The Exmoor Country Club from Highland Park, Ill., finished with 27 points. Sarnia, skipped by Col. Lyle C. Phippen and including his wife and Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Macklin, had 16 points.

Col. Phippen's rink defeated a Toronto team skipped by Gordon Smith on Saturday.

In other Canadian wins Saturday, Skip Don Mabie's Woodstock rink defeated Madison, Wis., team 18-6. Others on the Woodstock quartet were Tom McIntosh and Wendell and Veryl Mabie.

The 19 U.S. teams entered won 32 out of 76 games while the 13 Canadian rinks scored 21 victories out of 32 matches.

TAKE SOCCER CROWN

WINDSOR (CP)—Windsor Celtic whipped Windsor Teutonia 4-1 Sunday to win the Michigan-Ontario Soccer League championship. The all-Canadian final was created when Celtic sidelined Detroit Hungaria and Teutonia ousted Detroit Carpathia Kickers in the semi-finals.

Lose Game, Two Players

Eskimos Drop First To Stamps

EDMONTON (CP) — The bruised and battered Edmonton Eskimos lost the services of two more players Saturday as they dropped the first game of the Western Football Conference semi-final 19-8 to the Stampeders in Calgary.

Coach Jerry Keys said Sunday that defensive tackle Art Walker would not play here today and import half Ron Quillen, one of whom Keys expects to use tonight.

STAMPS IN SHAPE

On the other hand, Calgary coach Bobby Dobbs will field a comparatively healthy team. Defensive end Ed Buchanan and fullback Jim Shanahan at home. Buchanan was hammered on the game's second knee Saturday and is expected to be replaced by Jim Walden, who could play defensive halfback or on offence in the power formation favored by Calgary in the series opener.

In Saturday's game, an electrifying interception and 70-yard run by Calgary's all-star Halfback Willie Fleming gave the Stampeders second. Edmonton's Canadian quarterback, Don Getty, had hit halfback Bob Walden with a strike in the end zone to give Edmonton a first lead with less than two minutes left. George Hansen had put Calgary in front with a single and a field goal before Walden made the score 4-3 with a first quarter single. Edmonton starting quarterback Jackie Parker booted the convert for Walden's touchdown.

The game was played in frosty weather with a stiff 25-mile-an-hour wind blowing. The weather office predicted "a good football night" for tonight with the temperature well above freezing and winds light.

Mustangs Beat Blues

Redmen Nudge Gaels 15-7

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

McGill Redmen did it again —and did it with their ace quarterback wandering around in a daze for about 30 minutes.

Before Tom Skypeck banged his head in the third quarter, he passed for two touchdowns and set up a field goal. It was all the Redmen needed to defeat Queen's Golden Gaels 15-7 and force a playoff for the Senior Inter collegiate football championship.

As they did last year, the Redmen dropped their first two games of the season but came back strongly to finish second behind the first - place Gaels in the final game of the schedule and earn the right to challenge them for the Yates Trophyemblem.

In Kingston next Saturday McGill can retain the championship it won last year for the first time in 22 seasons.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs gained third place by whitewashing Varsity of Toronto 21-14 in Saturday's other game. A 54 - yard touchdown run by Whit Tucker set up the first goal from Ken Ryzuk in the fourth quarter won it for the Mustangs and consigned the Blues to the cellar for the second successive year.

After a brilliant first half at Montreal, Skypeck was injured in the third quarter when a pair of six footballs simultaneously into the Redmen's face bumped his head. His halfbacks on routine handoffs.

After the game, he explained: "I was tackled early in the second half and hit my head when I fell. I couldn't remember any of the plays that worked for me in the first half. I was wandering around in a daze.

"When I came to there were five minutes gone in the fourth quarter and I thought I was still in the third."

Coach Bruce Coulter started sending in plays when he realized the judge Skypeck was in, but the dental surgeon from Montreal University would forget them at the line of scrimmage.

McGill's alert defence came through, however, and stalled Queen's dangerous drives — quarter thrusts by the Gaels.

Beavers Well Out In Front

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers, with three victories in three days, are threatening to make a runaway of early season competition in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

The classy Beavers swamped Ottawa Canadiens 5-1 at home Saturday and shut out the Troopers 2-0 at North Bay Sunday. They are 10 points ahead of second - place Kingston Frontenacs, who have played four fewer games.

In the only other weekend game, Hull - Ottawa Canadiens squeezed out a 4-4 tie against Sudbury Wolves in Hull Sunday.

At North Bay Dave Balon fired two third - periods goals for Kitchener - Waterloo to back up a tight defensive struggle with the Troopers.

NHL veteran Red Sullivan set the game - winning goal for the Beavers, drawing the North Bay defence to one side and then passing to Balon who beat goalie Claude Dufour cleanly. Balon's second goal was fired into an empty net 12 seconds before the game ended after Dufour was taken off in favor of an extra forward.

McCARTAN SPARKLES

The shutout by Kitchener goalie Jack McCartan was the second of the season — capped a big weekend. He stopped 31 shots for Ahoka and kicked out 22 Hull - Ottawa shots Saturday.

TORONTO WINS RUN

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto University, led by Bruce Kidd, displayed the senior intercollegiate cross - country run Saturday. Peter Adams of McGill came second. The McGill team placed second to the Blues, with Montreal and Ontario Agricultural College tied for third.

College Title In Doubt

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Ottawa Gee Gees may have won the Ontario intercollegiate football championship.

The situation was left in doubt Saturday when officials stopped a game in Ottawa between the Gee Gees and OACVC Redmen of Guelph with less than seven minutes to play.

Ottawa was leading 33-14 when a players' brawl developed. A declared victory would leave the Gee Gees undefeated in seven games, two points ahead of the second - place McMaster University Marauders of Hamilton.

Halfback Paul Benoit scored three touchdowns for Ottawa and Mike Blain and quarterback Whit Tucker one apiece. Guelph Redmen by George Musgrove and Ray Germain gave Guelph four touchdowns. Ed Theberge's conversion.

In the other two end - of - season games Saturday, Royal Military College beat Ottawa's Carleton University 18-8 and McMaster downed University of Waterloo 23-7.

Queen's turned on the heat after quarterback Cal Connor fired the completion to 54-yard touchdown heave to halfback Bill Sirman and Gary Strickler converted.

Skypeck exploited the Gaels' only apparent weakness — defence against the long pass. He threw 27 yards to Willie Lambert and eight yards to Don Taylor for the touchdowns. His 42 - yard completion to Lambert put McGill in range for a 10-yard field goal by Harry Haukkala.

Skypeck was good on six passes in 14 attempts for 96 yards while Connor completed 10 of 21 for 187 yards. McGill out - rushed Queen's, 180 yards to 102.

Riders Thumped 43-19

Argos, Tiger-Cats In Eastern Final

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Head coach Jim Trimble of Hamilton Tiger-Cats got his wish.

He said he'd rather meet Toronto Argonauts than Ottawa Rough Riders in the Eastern football Conference final.

Argos granted this wish resoundingly Saturday by punishing the defending Grey Cup champion Riders 43-19 before 18,351 dejected fans in the Big Four semi-final with a pin-point accurate aerial bombardment by quarterback Tobin Rote.

Argos now meet Ticats in a home-and-home, total-points series starting at Toronto Sunday to decide the eastern representative in the Grey Cup game at Toronto Dec. 2.

The 33-year-old Rote completed 26 of 39 passes, an amazing 66.4 per cent average. He fired touchdown passes of 16, 34, 32 and 39 yards to Ottawan Ron Morris, picked up from Calgary Stampeders early in the season, and ran two yards and one yard for the ninth Toronto touchdown. Bill Mitchell converted all six and kicked for a single on a wide field-goal attempt.

FUMBLES HURT

Ottawa quarterback Ron Lancaster threw fourteen passes to ends Bill Sowalski and Bob Simpson. But he committed two disastrous fumbles, one wiping out a deep Ottawa advance in the first quarter and the other setting up Rote's second touchdown in the last quarter.

Canadian quarterback Russ Jackson was thrown in when the game was opened recall and ran a three-yard bootleg for Riders' last touchdown with just seven seconds left. Gary Schmidt kicked one convert.

Ottawa coach Frank Clair had expected a Toronto passing attack. But he was looking for Rote's long ball against which Rider had defended well in the past. Rote instead went for the slow but steady advance with short passes from a spread formation.

Ottawa intercepted two of Rote passes, one of which they converted into a touchdown. But for the most part their defence was helpless because the Argo wingline gave Rote magnificent protection.

Argos marched to a touchdown from the opening kickoff, travelling 70 yards in eight plays and they put it all in that time. During the first eight minutes of the third quarter the Riders' scoring lead to 19-13 before Argos took over again.

It was a courageous if vain ending to Riders' football season. Riders had beaten both Toronto and Hamilton in two out of three meetings with each club.

Whip Petes 5-2

Wings Still Soaring

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Continuing their furious pace atop the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league, Hamilton Red Wings gained their eighth consecutive victory by downing the hapless Peterborough Petes 5-2 Sunday.

A first - period hat trick by John Gofton gave the Wings a lead that went unchallenged except early in the second period when the caller - dwelling Petes briefly narrowed the count to 3-2.

The game, played before a 2a1 Hamilton fans, left the Wings 11 points ahead of the second - place Niagara Falls Flyers.

The three goals were Gofton's first of the young season. Jim McCallan and Lowell Macdonald scored the others for the winners.

Peterborough's goals were scored by Keith Weight and Lorne O'Connell. Petes collected 12 of the 20 minor penalties.

TANK GOALIE

The only other regularly-scheduled game of the weekend was Saturday night in St. Catharines, where the Teepees settled for a 7-7 tie when Guelph Royals yanked their goalie to produce a scoring play with only 17 seconds left in the game.

The tying goal, knocked in by defenceman Bob Plager, came after St. Catharines had twice missed on shots at the open Royals net.

Guelph held a 3-1 lead into the second, and the teams were tied 6-6 going into the final 20 minutes.

George Standing and Trevor Fahey each scored twice for the Royals, Dave McComb, Borden Smith and Plager adding the others.

For St. Catharines Phil Esposito and Duke Harris each got two goals, and Ted Cullen, Ron Hodge and Jack Stanfield one apiece.

The tie left St. Catharines tied with Montreal for third place, one point behind Niagara Falls and a point ahead of Guelph.

Adios Butler Retired

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Adios Butler, world's fastest pacer, said farewell to competition Saturday night with a time of 2:01 3-5 that equalled the track record in the 1½-mile $50,000 National Pacing Derby at Roosevelt Raceway.

The five-year-old son of Adios, lower of only 18 starts in a 50-race career, matched the Roosevelt mark set by Good Time in 1952.

Two victory, his 13th straight this year, after losing his first start, was far from an easy one. Eddie Cobb made liberal use of his whip as the Butler bit the dust in the stretch in front of Azmat. Irving Paul, Azmat's stablemate, trailed by another length for third place in the field of 10.

Despite his enviable race record, which includes the one-mile record of 1:54 3-5 on a mile track and 1:53 3-5 on a half-mile oval, Adios Butler retired as only the second-leading money winning harness horse. The $25,000 win Saturday night boosted his bankroll to $508,864 compared to Bye Bye Byrd's record of $504,357.

Adios Butler returned $2.60, $2.40 and $2.20. The Azmat-Irving Paul entry paid $2.80 and $2.30.

Rollins, Joyces Win IL Openers

Joyce Real Estate and Rollins Construction captured the opening games of the Belleville Industrial Hockey League schedule last night at Memorial Arena.

Joyces went on a scoring spree Sidney through the game to chalk up a 7-2 victory over Pringle's Falcons of Napanee in the 8.30 game. In the nightcap, a much closer affair, Rollins Construction squeezed past Booth TV's 4-3.

The Joyces' fifth team, Ygdens Mills, did not play last night.

Goyer's goal was the only one in the first half of the Napanee-Joyce game, giving Belleville a 1-0 lead. The winners struck quickly just after the half-way mark, making it 3-0 on goals by Bryant and Elliott.

The Falcons scored their lone goal, early Conway the markers with Clark assisting. Joyces wrapped it up with goals by Reeves and Goyer while their own team had a man in the penalty box. That killed the game, although even before Sheridan completed the scoring.

Gary Goyer led the winners with two goals and one assist while Buck Goyer had a goal and two assists. Hyde Bryant and Jackie Elliott each had one and one with Jim Sheridan adding the other goal. Floyd Goegan drew two helpers with one each for Bert Faulkner, Thompson and Lou Goodfellow.

The winners drew seven of the 12 minor penalties.

In the second game, Booths and Rollins were tied 2-2 at the end of the first period and in the second half to put Rollins in the win column. Two of the losers in the six-bin. Baker tied it once again for Booths' second goal and scored the winner at the 10.20 mark.

Jack Lester had opened the scoring for the winners in the game's first minute but Gill tied it for Booths. Baker's goal, while Rollins were serving their only penalty of the game, put Booths ahead for the only time in the game but Brown's first goal, with his club one man up, tied it at 2-2.

Wheeler, Brown, with two goals, Jack Lucas and Doug Jones, were the other marksmen. Wayne Wallis and M. G. Bradshaw had assists.

"Shaker" Baker netted a pair for Booths with Jackie Gill, Jim Fisher, Bert Faulkner, Irwin and Don Bishop each getting a single.

The TV's picked up seven penalties, including a misconduct to Howard Skelly, to Rollins' nine minor. Referees were Tim McCurdy.

Intermediate players will be allowed to play in the league when the Intermediate league opens.

Night Racing Big Success

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Night harness racing, considered a risk when it began at the Western Fair Raceway in May, ended for the season Saturday after developing into one of London's most successful sports.

Almost $3,427,000 was bet through the mutual machines on 156,709 persons in the 54 days of the spring and fall meet.

Evan McGugan, general manager of the Western Fair board, said the response surprised board officials, who had spent $100,000 to refit the track for night racing.

Track officials estimated betting of $42,000 a week-end night to break even. Nightly wagering of $60,000 became common.

Packers Nudge Bears

Giants Blast Eagles

NEW YORK (CP)—New York Giants blasted Philadelphia Eagles 38-21 Sunday and moved into a tie for the lead in the Eastern Eastern Division race of the National Football League, each now has 7-3 records and five games left.

Green Bay Packers continued to turn the Western Division lead into a runaway, defeating Chicago Bears 31-20 to boost their record to 7-2 — a healthy four game lead over second-place Detroit Lions, who beat St. Louis Cardinals 45-14 as quarterback Sam Etcheverry got his first taste of action in four weeks.

Etcheverry entered the game in the second quarter, and led the Cardinals in 75- and 85-yard scoring drives—both touchdowns coming on passes by the former Montreal Alouettes' star. At half-time Detroit led St. Louis 17-14.

After sitting on the bench, except for ball-booking duties—for the last three games, Etcheverry made the most of his chance, showing his best passing of the season in the second quarter by completing nine out of 12. His first pass was intercepted but after that he was right on a row.

However, St. Louis was completely dominated by the Lions in the second half and Etcheverry retired to the bench.

Dallas Cowboys 27-7; Minnesota Vikings defeated Baltimore Colts, 28-20 and Los Angeles Rams beat San Francisco 49ers 17-7.

In the American League, New York Titans took a 23-12 homefield victory over Oakland Raiders Saturday and, on Sunday's action, Houston Oilers defeated Denver Broncos 24-21, Buffalo Bills downed Dallas Texans 30-20 and San Diego Chargers edged Denver Broncos 19-16.

Army Cooks Still Maligned But Today Canadian Soilder Probably Best Fed in World

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Until science produces a full - course meal in the form of a pill, the soldier will likely continue to grumble about his food and malign the cook.

Indeed, to deprive him of his grousing about food would be a severe blow to his morale.

Today, the Canadian soldier is probably the best fed in the world. No longer does the Army have cooks. It has chefs.

Until fairly recent times, it didn't even have cooks. As a rule, the most incompetent man in all aspects of soldiering was shoved into the cookhouse where it was believed he could do the least harm. Actually, he could do the most—and often did.

WORMY BEEF

Canadian troops were first mobilized for active service overseas during the Boer War in South Africa. On their way there aboard the SS Sardinia they were served mouldy beef which had been bought in the United States from stocks left over from the Spanish-American war of 1898.

The coffee served a dual purpose. That not drunk was thrown at the cooks and the men doled their white sun helmets khaki.

To give the soup body, biscuits were added after being smashed into bits.

A 1904 Army pamphlet on baking stated: "Biscuits should be of a light yellow colour, highly dried and crisp but not burnt. They should float in water and when struck give a ringing sound."

A common saying at the time was that 20 per cent of casualties were caused by soldiers losing biscuits on their feet and breaking their toes.

BONES BATED

There was no waste. Fat was skimmed off the eternal stew pots and bones went into the stockpot. Orders stated that the stockpot, or soup pot, was to be kept on the simmer at all times.

The order added that first-day bones were to be withdrawn on the third day, second-day bones on the fourth and so on. A leg was attached to each bone giving the date of immersion.

During the First World War, carrying parties took the food from horse-drawn wagons into the trenches. Carriers often came under heavy fire and lost the day's rations in taking cover.

It was not until 1940 that the Army appointed its first catering officer. So important was this appointment considered that the officer, a lieutenant-colonel, had direct access to the defence minister. No other officer of equal rank had this privilege.

During the Second World War, bully beef was gradually replaced by "spam," cold, fried in Canada, and "compo" rations served with Brussells sprouts.

"Bully beef and bacon" was another charming ration. Bacon was canned tomatoes brought into the kitchen where it was cut up with a few strips of bacon. Then, when the Army Service Corps undertook the training of cooks, A special school was established at Camp Borden, Ont. Initial training lasts 14 weeks.

Menu from the Army Service Corps school mess hall for Tuesday, Dec. 12, 1944: "Roast sweet and sour spare ribs with brown gravy, turkey croquettes, brown sauce, parsley, boiled potatoes, mashed turnips, buttered beets, eden mix vegetables, green cabbage, tossed salad with French dressing, white bread, butter, ice cream sundae, date squares, sugar lumps, tea, coffee, milk.

A fat, choked cry from bully beef.

Canada's Biggest Employer Uses Enlivened Brochures to Attract Top '62 Graduates

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government, Canada's biggest employer, has added a bit of dash to the program of recruiting top-notch help from the annual crop of university graduates.

New color and bright layouts enliven the brochures going out to universities this year to attract 1962 graduates.

They tell of the many and varied career opportunities in the federal civil service, and recognize the urge of today's student to make money.

"Senior positions pay up to $18,000 a year or more," says one booklet. "Your progress will depend on your ability."

The government provides "attractive opportunities in a wide range of activities," says Vernon M. Chrysler, a young engineer in charge of the university recruiting program.

He is chief of the functional requirements division of the civil service commission, the personnel branch of the civil service.

BIG PROJECT

The commission annually processes about 180 job applications. It hires around 20,000 new employees every year, ranging from cooks up to professional people.

Federal civil servants now total 150,000.

Mr. Carbison, a native of McAdam, N.B., is concerned with the recruiting of top professional classes from arts graduates to engineers and research workers. He and his staff sift about 2,500 applications a year.

The government service is full of opportunities, says this career civil servant who joined the federal service in 1949 after graduating from the University of New Brunswick.

Comparing with private industry, he starts early in going after the graduates. Some 10,000 personal letters have already been sent to potential 1962 graduates, and thousands of copies of brochures have been mailed to universities. There have been about 4,000 replies so far to the letters.

"When you're dealing with university grads there's quite a competitive element," says Mr. Clarkson. "If the offers aren't early enough you're just not going to get the people you want."

FAST PROCESSING

To speed up the operation, initial question-and-answer tests are processed by machine.

There are followed by personal interviews with specially trained teams that are ready to go across Canada, to the United States and the United Kingdom in search of graduate and post-graduate Canadian talent.

Of the first exams for graduates needed to fill 140 administrative positions have been filled, by 12 classes of jobs involved in below-and-beyond starting salaries ranging from $4,500 to $7,000 a year, and four teams will ship out in January to interview the successful applicants at centres across Canada.

At the same time a special team will leave for interviews with students seeking foreign service work.

ENGINEERS SOUGHT

In another talent hunt, the government is looking for 80 engineering graduates, offering starting salaries ranging from $5,100 up.

Another search is going on for 230 graduates in the biological sciences such as biology and agriculture. The starting salary ranges from $4,500 to $5,800.

There is also a need for medical officers and other professional workers, at salaries ranging from $5,000 to $7,000.

And after determining the government will start looking for 1,200 stenographers, typists, typewriter jobs, ranging from clerical work to helping with northern development. About 20,000 hired for these last year.

Wonderful World of Toys Just Gimmick to Sell Them

CJBQ
Program Highlights

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Somebody had a lovely idea.

The idea was to take all the toys into New York's Central Park on an Indian summer day and show the toys to the folks after they've just been the Christmas shopping season.

But the idea began to go to pieces. Somebody also had the idea of having Harpo Marx, the's the"silent one who whistles, blows a horn and makes funny faces, to wander around demonstrating the toys. Harpo may be a funny institution but he had to rely almost completely on the funny faces Sunday night. They weren't enough.

The show wouldn't have been entertaining, even if broadcast during the early kiddie hours. Unfortunately, NBC's Wonderful World of Toys was really aimed at the world of adult buyers and it started at 10 p.m.

Brightest spot of the weekend viewing was Friday night's Telephone Hour on NBC—The Music of Richard Rodgers. No matter how often TV decides to have a Richard Rodgers evening, it's always a hit. His gentleman's music is just plain wonderful.

NBC's next excursion into TV portraiture will star evangelist Billy Graham. The network obviously is pleased with the first of the series, The World of Bob Hope, which drew a big audience.

Murrow's Mission Much Less Than a Smash Hit

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Edward R. Murrow has come and gone; and his mission to Hollywood was considerably less than a smash hit.

The newscaster, now director of the United States Information Agency, was invited to tell the film industry that it could do a better job in presenting the image of America abroad.

Murrow had two strikes against him:

1. Film producers don't like to be told what to do and scream "censorship" when someone in the government tries. Murrow realized this and even blunted some of the pointed remarks in his prepared speech.

2. Murrow, curiously for a former reporter, barred reporters from the dinner with producers. Federal officers were reported to have embraced the dictum. His speech was delivered in two rows of tables in a plain envelope amid mystery and turned out to be not the exact speech he delivered. It was not surprising that he got a bad press.

Murrow cited overseas reports, "From India — 'Movies are a powerful influence.' From Southeast Asia: 'Movies misrepresent.' From Africa: 'American housewives as useless drones always smoking and drinking.' From Japan: 'Movies persuasion, and apparently failed.

AT THE BELLE — Each My Wife! Steve McQueen seems bound to believe his own statement that he points to his bride, Brigid Bazlen, in this scene from "The Honeymoon Machine". The new M.G.M. feature opened in Color, also stars Jim Hutton, Paula Prentiss and Jean Hagen. The film is playing tonight and Tuesday at the Belle Theatre.

To this observer, it seems a shame. Hollywood continues to neglect its responsibility to present the United States to the world.

A look at the upcoming product shows a large supply of sex (The Chapman Report, All Fall Down, Splendor in the Grass) and morbid psychology (Sweet Bird of Youth, Summer and Smoke, Children's Hour).

The U.S. government will be pictured with Advise and Consent and The Best Man, which display the use of blackmail and corruption by high powers.

American fumbling abroad is the subject in Judgment at Nuremberg, Town Without Pity and The Ugly American.

Are there any films that show the goodness of America?

I don't see any, unless you can include a couple of musicals (Music Man, State Fair) and a western (How the West Was Won).

But they are scarcely a matter of contemporary America.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, November 14, 1961

General Tendencies: This is one of those days when you are strongly tempted to break up present conditions and to start a whole new sweep towards the benefits which appeal to you, but if you do so, you find you have a very difficult time and that much stubborn opposition will face you. Do your work well and hold temper under control now.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) While you are tempted to tell friends off, as it were, you will find that if you are helpful instead and realize that you, too, have faults, you can reach far greater accord. Then both you and they become more successful.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Don't take your ire out on higher-ups now or you will regret it later, especially if you go against law and order. Also, remember that they too have worries and try to be helpful instead. Then all works out fine — co-operate.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) You are inclined to run away from it all to some worthless pleasure, simply because the work at hand is somewhat tedious and humdrum. Tackle it with vim instead and put it behind you quickly — it is of vital importance now.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Rather than follow that erroneous intuition you have, be sure to listen to the wise advice of higher-ups for the correct answers to your business and personal problems. This applies to finances especially, if you want to succeed.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Instead of criticizing associates today, try to minimize what is wrong in your mutual dealings and rectify errors, hit on a mirific idea that brings far greater success. Sincere co-operation is what is needed at this time.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Extreme care should be taken in whatever you do now, or there can be real damage and loss from too much haste or thoughtless activity. Recheck any figures, statements, etc. Then this becomes a day and night of progress.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) In your keenness for enterprises, you are apt to go overboard financially and this would be very foolish. Look to the inexpensive and wholesome — learn to be more practical.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take the opportunity afforded you today to show your closest ties the depth of your devotion and true loyalty by doing those things that are to their interest. Also, don't forget to bring home thoughtful little gifts. Be true blue.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A day to exercise real care on the road or in any other form of activity, as well as to choose your words carefully or there can be serious damage and unfortunate separations, even in letters you write. Get flies in order.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Important you are careful with expenditures today and especially in the use of liberal credit, or you might invest unwisely. Spend some time with advisers and bankers instead so that you plan for a greater income. Be clever.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you take the health and beauty treatments you need at this time, you ward off a period of malcontent and possibly doing things that are somewhat foolish, not your usual brilliant self. "An ounce of prevention is worth a . . . " etc.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) This is a day when so many people seem to be troubled and come to you for assistance. Be glad they trust you, but do not help very much or they become weak — teach to help themselves. However, be kind, courteous and understanding.

If your child is born today . . he, or she, will be one of those remarkable people who are divinely guided how to solve problems wisely, from the smallest to those of very large magnitude. So, be very sure you give the finest education possible in order that your progeny may make the greatest use of this God-given faculty during adult life, and also be of immeasurable assistance in connection with government.

Federal cabinet ministers will be tied to the emergency govern-camp 100 miles northeast of the Selected engineering, provin-

special communications system.

The job at Petawawa and the other centres will be to evaluate the damage caused by the imaginary attack and to decide what might be done under the real conditions of war.

Commencement Exercises At St. Michael's Academy

On Wednesday evening, the Annual Commencement Exercises were held in St. Michael's Academy, in conjunction with the Parent-Teacher Association meeting.

Mrs. L. Daley, vice-president of the Parent-Teacher Association opened the meeting and was called on Jerry Dowling to conduct the main part of—the program. On behalf of the parents and students, he expressed appreciation of the support and interest of the large audience who attended.

Various selections by the school choir under the direction of Rev. Sister Mary Joan of Arc were given by Carol Chandler, "Spring Low, Sweet Chariot," and "Holy" spiritual sung in harmony.

Stephen Glancey was called upon to introduce the guest speaker, Mr. E. J. Neville, Inspector of Separate Schools.

MAN AN ISLAND

Addressing the graduates as young citizens, Inspector Neville pointed out the first stages of adulthood. Mr. Neville was born in Iverville but now lives in Belleville. Although in many respects he is more like the rest of Canada, "I am an island," since a person cannot isolate himself entirely from others. He has been taught each person may in a different degree develop his own individuality, but he will accomplish on this life depends entirely on himself.

Each of you was endowed with a mind. You must cultivate this mind by digging deep into its deepest resources, and with hard work and perserverance develop your talents to duce it can produce."

Urging the graduates to have an aim so that education might bring them success, he stressed the importance of developing an appreciation of beauty through contact with the best in our cultural inheritance. Quoting from famous authors, Mr. Neville illustrated the appeal of literature to the imagination. "Life is not otherwise be a drab and prosaic existence."

"Books enable us to get away from tensions and frustrations for a time, and thereby help us to keep the peace and sereinty of mind," he continued. "Perhaps a world of history, adventure, wonder or of humor. Then we can come back refreshed to this world in which we live. A few good books is a wonderful that can and will stay with you during your whole life."

Mr. Neville concluded by offering his congratulations and wishes to the graduating class.

Michael Howe thanked the guest speaker.

This was followed by a vocal solo, "Ave Maria," sung by Kathleen O'Connor.

Farmer's Wife Lays Wreath For All Mothers

OTTAWA (CP) — A farmer's wife, dressed simply in black, stood alone before thousands and brushed what appeared to be tears from her face.

Mrs. Sylvia Kimmel, 60, brought of her son who died in the Second World War as the rest of Canada Saturday, Remembrance Day, joined with thousands of other Canadians who gave their lives in that war and others.

As she stood before the National War Memorial representing Canada's mothers in the national wreath-laying ceremony her hand went to her face for a brief moment.

She then looked up at the bronze soldiers struggling with a machine gun mounted on the memorial and calmly walked back to her place between Minister of Defence Harkness and Governor-General Vanier.

"I certainly didn't think I decided to pick me," she told a reporter after the ceremony.

The first lady of Canada become," said the modest little woman who lives with her husband Harry, 75, and a grandchild on a four-acre farm near Metcalfe, Ont.

LEGION CHOSEN

She was chosen to represent all mothers in America, she said, because the Royal Canadian Legion.

"I'm certainly flattered," she said when a reporter asked how she felt and if she did cry a little. "But I'm not ashamed."

As for standing between Governor-General Vanier and the prime minister, it was no different than being with a friend of her husband, she said.

Gen. Vanier preceded here in the ceremony by placing a wreath-ing amputated above the knee following First World War action.

Mr. Diefenbaker, a lieutenant-in First World War, was with Mrs. Kimmel. Then wreaths were placed by the chiefs of staff, federal officials, representatives in the capital of foreign countries, provincial premiers, civic leaders and others from the capital and district.

BAND'S PLAY

The national ceremony, ensu-
ried across Canada, began with the sounding and playing of the Last Post, a two minutes' silence and the firing of a cannon. Then the massed bands on Hill across the street from the memorial to signal two minutes' silence.

Relatively few spectators gathered for the ceremony in the chilly weather and overcast skies.

Afterward Gen. Vanier went to Parliament Hill to place a wreath in the Memorial Chamber of the Centre Block where are inscribed the names of Canada's war dead.

Mock Missiles Wreak Havoc Across Canada

Now Assessing Damage In Theoretical Attack

OTTAWA (CP)—An imaginary force of 250 bombers and 70 missiles swept over North America during the night and into theoretical nuclear war graveyards.

The attack that wreaked havoc across Canada and even spread into the United States was the first phase of Exercise Tocsin B, the second nationwide test this year of Canada's national warning system and its survival plans.

Now follows the assessing of damage caused in the theoretical attack by counting the number of lives lost.

Chief public feature of the test was a realistic 90-minute radio broadcast, carried Monday night on all networks, which described the initial assault and warned Canadians about radioactive fallout and the other steps they should take for personal safety.

STAYS IN SHELTER

One of the first persons asked to take shelter when the bomb hit the capital was Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his wife.

They declined to stay in a fallout shelter at his official residence about two miles from Parliament Hill.

There were an estimated 175,000 persons killed, injured and caught in a tangle of wreckage in Ottawa. The Parliament Buildings were destroyed.

Defence Minister Pearkes, designated Monday night by Mr. Diefenbaker as acting prime minister, had taken over the reins of government at Camp Petawawa, 100 miles northwest of the capital.

The sprawling military camp at this moment is in theory the capital of Canada. Its team of 200 experts was counting up the dead and injured and directing the re-entry of bomb-battered areas by the rescue troops. They were also tracing the path of fallout, which was spreading an ominous series of patches over the country.

BOMB NEAR MISSED

Montreal, for example, was blanketed by fallout from strikes at North Bay and Ottawa. The North Bay fallout also drifted onto Camp Petawawa.

During the attack period from 6 p.m. to 6:15 a.m. EST there were 14 nuclear hits in Canada and 20 on United States cities close enough to the border to cause fallout problems for Canadian points.

South Korean Leader Given U.S. Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt.-Gen. Chang Hee Park, leader of the military junta that seized power in South Korea, opens his talks with President Kennedy today with a request for strong U.S. economic support and additional military aid.

U.S. officials said Kennedy will pledge aid in principle and will approve a plan to modernize South Korea's 600,000-man armed forces.

Park came to prominence last May when he and a group of fellow officers overthrew the democratically-elected government.

At first, the United States was cool to the revolutionary junta but gradually gave it increasing support as the junta attacked graft and corruption in government and undertook a series of social reforms.

That Park was invited by Kennedy for the current talks signified U.S. approval of his regime, U.S. officials said.

Park was met late Monday with a red carpet welcome, complete with a 19-gun salute and full military honors at National airport.

Two Bandits Make $4,000 Haul in Holdup

TORONTO (CP) — Two men with silk stocking masks pulled on in trench coats held up the manager of Home Smith Properties Limited and a young clerk in a parking lot Monday and escaped with between $4,000 and $5,000 in cash and cheques.

One of the bandits carried a sawed-off shotgun.

The holdup occurred in the parking lot of the Old Mill, a restaurant in suburban Etobicoke Township.

Police said the manager, E. F. Bolston, and the clerk were en route to a bank to deposit the money when a car sped into the lot and stopped beside their car. One man jumped out and told them to turn around "and you won't get hurt."

The masked pair grabbed a briefcase containing the money and sped away in the car.

Desegregated Schools Grow More Numerous

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Another 36 school districts have been desegregated this fall in the southern and border states. So far there has been none of the racial violence which has broken out every other year since the U.S. Supreme Court's segregation ruling in 1954.

Of the 6,500 public school districts in the 17-state area, 629 now are desegregated, Southern School News reports in its November issue. Integration has increased at the university, college and teacher levels also, the publication adds.

FORMER PREMIER TAKES TO WOODS FOR RELAXATION

Tells Reporter Why He Resigned

TORONTO (CP) — With the cares of high political office shocked off, Ontario's former premier is devoting his energies to deer hunting.

Leslie Frost, who retired last week, had planned to spend the weekend in the bush with his hunting companion, Clayton Hodgson, Conservative member of Parliament for Victoria, a constituency which embraces his own town, Lindsay.

But previous engagements required him to spend some time in Toronto Monday and today, however, were set aside for hunting. "I'll be calling on wonderful open country of Ontario."

Meanwhile, Mr. Frost took time out to explain to a reporter why he retired from public office at this time.

He had become concerned in the past year by the enormity of the business of government and the chance that would occur in the transition of administration from one pair of hands to another.

CITES PROBLEM

Democracy faces a problem between the transition when "everybody creates a critical period when it is weakened," he said. "So there should be no lag, even in a province, between the inauguration of the new and the young with their new and young ideas."

In attempt to transfer direction at a time of crisis was a mistake.

John P. Roberts, 44-year-old London, Ont., lawyer and minister of municipal affairs in the cabinet, succeeded Mr. Frost, 68, last Wednesday.

Mr. Frost was over his 12 years as premier, Mr. Frost recalled the circumstances under which he took over that office after George Drew, now Canada's High Commissioner in London, went to Ottawa as national Progressive Conservative leader.

"You just can't plan your life," he said. "I became Premier was premier, I was provincial treasurer. I talked it over with George and he consented to let me go if I stayed through the Ottawa Bay and Ottawa. The North Bay fallout also drifted onto Camp Petawawa.

"I couldn't leave at that time. I was premier, Mr. Frost assumed the office in 1949.

East Berlin Stalin Statue Razed, Stalinallee Is Now Karlmarxallee

EAST BERLIN (Reuters)—East Berliners today trudged to work past all that remained of Joseph Stalin's bigger-than-life statue that had been the main street—a small heap of rubble.

It symbolized the overnight removal of the last vestige of the late Russian dictator's name from all of East Germany's main institutions.

The post - war steel town of Stalinstadt, 40 miles away, was merged with nearby Fuerstenberg to form Eisenhuettenstadt (Ironworks City).

The show-place main street in East Berlin—Stalinallee—stood cressed to be Stalinallee no more—Karlmarxallee.

Even as East Berliners headed to work 10 earth-moving machines were drawn up to complete the erasure of what once had been Stalin's monument.

Most hurried by without a glance. But one teen-age boy stopped to stare as 20 workmen swarmed over the rough earth that had been the flower beds and lawns surrounding the statue.

Two policemen hurried up to him and curtly told him to "keep moving, no watch."

"Who really cares?" he muttered as he shambled away.

Another youth geared up at spanking new street signs proclaiming Karlmarxallee and quizzically asked among fitters from other companies:

"Who is this Karl Marx anyway?"

Through the night rubble-laden trucks rumbled away from the site and all work around the statue amid the reverberations of ale hammers. The signs and the noise of the wrecking crew made them obvious.

Then the Communist newspaper Neues Deutschland reported the changes. The new name for Stalinallee was on page 1 under an East Berlin city council announcement.

Also there were made of the attacks on Stalin and his "cult of personality" at last month's Communist party con-

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — South Africa today was faced with a double-barrelled United Nations demand for change of its racial policies and a threat of expulsion from the work body.

But despite two heavily adverse votes in the UN special political committee Monday night, South Africa apparently weathered the storm as far as expulsion or sanctions are concerned.

Twice within an hour the 103-member committee hammered South Africa by approving resolutions that in the overall vote had sufficient majorities for the two-thirds necessary for pas-

'Love Affair' Between India, Canada Is Getting Rockier

OTTAWA (CP)—The so-called "love affair" between Canada and India is becoming a rockier road for romance all the time.

The latest lovers' spat, unlike the previous ones, stems from the fact that both Commonwealth countries are members of the international truce supervisory commission in Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam.

More than two years ago, India objected when Canada and Poland were appointed to the Laos commission to be withdrawn.

The Canadian government's position was that the commission had no further entitlement to function in Laos when the established government of that country said the commission wasn't needed any longer.

As it turned out, civil war broke out again in Laos and the commission had to return. The Geneva conference which assembled in mid-May to guarantee the neutrality of Laos is still going on.

In the meantime, the situation in South Viet Nam has deteriorated because of the increasing guerilla campaign being waged by the Communist Viet Cong.

In Canada's opinion, the hard core of the guerilla force comes from Communist North Viet Nam and this may represent a violation of the Indochina truce agreements signed at Geneva in 1954 by which Canada, India and Poland have been supervising ever since.

At least some of the blame for this situation is placed at the door of India, chairman of the commission, for allegedly having suppressed or investigate reported violations of the truce agreement.

Consequently, there is some tendency here to be sympathetic with United States plans to help build up South Viet Nam's defences against the guerilla war.

Indian Prime Minister Nehru is in Washington at present and that the deterioration in the South Viet Nam situation will be checked if the commission got the co-operation of all nations.

Nehru is reported to have told President Kennedy that U.S. military shipments to South Viet Nam would result in more shipments to Communist forces there by Communist states.

The view here is that U.S. actions in the situation reflect the failure of the commission to function properly.

POLICE QUESTION TWO BOYS IN GIRL'S DEATH

Child Strangled In London Attic

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Police today questioned two 14-year-old boys in their investigation of the death of a seven-year-old girl found strangled Monday night in the attic of a vacant store with 100 years of her home.

Sylvia Fink was sent out Monday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fink, to buy a newspaper. Neighbors who started a search when she failed to return found her body hanging by her belt in the dusty attic.

Police said the two boys admitted being in the ramshackle building in central London about the time that Sylvia was thrown to her death. They claim, however, that they only moved on and returned to speak to Sylvia.

HANGING FROM WIRE

Sylvia's body was hanging from an electrical wire which drooped from the ceiling. The exact cause of her death was resting on the floor.

Police said a preliminary medical examination indicated she had not been sexually attacked. But Dr. John Fisher was performing an autopsy today.

Mr. Fink, an orderly at Victoria Hospital, walked home past the vacant store at about 5 p.m. That was half an hour after Sylvia set out on her errand. He found that she had called at two stores in the district but the afternoon papers had not yet been delivered.

Then he notified police and neighbors, who began looking for the missing child.

PARTLY HIDDEN

Sylvia's body was partly hidden behind a pile of storm windows in the attic. Police said the building, vacant for two years, was scheduled to be torn down Nov. 1 but negotiations

Believe Guests Just Failed To Report Escape

Club Four Blocks Away Also Razed By Flames

SASKATOON (CP)—The 100-room King Edward Hotel here crumbled in ashes Monday night in a spectacular fire which was no sooner extinguished than the fourth-block-distant Gustenau Club went up in flames.

Police said today they did not believe any of the 11 persons still unaccounted for from the King Edward Hotel fire had been trapped in the blaze, although the ruins still were too hot to search. They said the guests were believed either out in the hotel at the time of the fire or to have escaped without notifying anyone.

Firemen rescued an unconscious woman from a cafe on the main floor of the three-storey wooden Gatineau Club.

Paul Gurski, manager of the 55-year-old downtown hotel, estimated loss at $1 million.

He said a crippled man rushed into the hotel and told the desk man the hotel's beverage room was ablaze. Mr. Gurski, who lived on the second floor of the three-storey brick building, sounded the hotel fire alarm and, along all the corridors pounding on doors to warn guests. Some didn't take the alarm seriously, he said, and he had to force a few of them to leave.

ESCAPE THROUGH WINDOW

Fire Chief Tom Lennon said firemen helped some elderly men through a window, some residents used the fire escapes while others left by the inside doors.

Of 46 guests registered, 30 were permanent residents, most of them retired pensioners.

Flames in the Gatineau Club, formerly the Canada Hotel and condemned about a year ago by fire officials, spread so rapidly guests fled in pyjamas.

Fire Chief Lennon believed it may have started from an overheated boiler in one of the building's light housekeeping rooms.

No estimate of damage at the club was announced but flames destroyed the inside of the entire structure.

Shotgun Blast Shreds Baby, Wounds Mother

ESTAIRE, Ont. (CP)—A two-year-old baby was torn apart by a shotgun blast Monday in the mother critically wounded at their home in the centre 20 miles north of Sudbury. She was 26.

Police said first reports were meagre, but that Mrs. Rolly Goulet, 25-year-old wife of a construction employee, was taken to hospital in Sudbury.

The baby—it was not immediately known whether it was a boy or girl—was killed instantly.

Police said the father went to work at 8 a.m., returning an hour later for some tools. He found the body of his son and mother lying in a pool of blood across a bed.

Half Million Fraud Charged

TORONTO (CP)—Max Bobinski, 36, Toronto, was arrested here Monday night by fraud squad detectives on a charge of defrauding 200 and defrauded the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation of $500,000.

The charge says the fraud occurred during June and July of last year when Bobinski, a dealer of blank cheques were stolen from the company's Montreal office.

Police said executives were forged to them and the cheques made payable to the fictitious Toronto contracting firms and deposited in six separate accounts in the Royal Bank of Canada in Montreal.

Since then, more than $250,000 was withdrawn from the accounts, police said.

Bobinski arrested after police were told a man claiming to be a Montreal contractor had arranged to have his account transferred to Toronto. Bank officials here said he was not a Montreal contractor and the Toronto bank became suspicious.

Definite Role For Canadians Rotarians Told

The catastrophe of another world war, towards which there is an unmistakable drift currently, can be avoided if free men want international peace enough to take active and work towards it, guest speaker Len Taylor told local Rotarians yesterday afternoon at their regular weekly dinner meeting at the Hotel Quinte.

It is the responsibility of Canadians to make the most of what war we have left and the sacrifice of the men, who gave up their lives in previous wars because they enjoyed the sum total of their life in Canada and wished to protect it. This sacrifice bought Canadians a reprieve in which to do something to more firmly establish and protect their way of life, but what has been done during this thime queried the public relations chairman of the Royal Canadian Legion in Ontario.

There is a definite role for Canadians in promoting peace today and they can be effective in this work because Canada has "clean hands" internationally and her world is accepted in good faith by other nations, Mr. Taylor pointed out.

This is a part of the responsibility which free men have to accept. It is not to be the main free, remarked the guest speaker, adding that freedom is more costly to maintain or to obtain than ever before in history. As he defined freedom at the beginning with the individual with him having something and living something which he wants for someone else also and as being a positive force not a negative one.

The prerequisite of being a free man in that one must be a good citizen, active in protecting and maintaining this freedom; he must also know what his responsibilities are and he must instil these beliefs and responsibilities in the basic character of the youth of Canada emphasized the manager of The Globe who is intelligencer's commercial printing department.

ANSWER A QUESTION

Mr. Taylor queried as to whether Canadians were afraid to face the fact that they have let down the sacrifice of those who died in two World Wars, that the period of reprieve during which those left could have more firmly established the protected freedom has been wasted up to now.

There is still remaining ample opportunity for Canadians to rectify this situation, right in their community, especially amongst the youth to instil in them the responsibilities and character of a good citizen concluded the speaker, who is also the publicity committee chairman of local Branch 99 of the Royal Canadian Legion.

Eighty Rotarians and guests gave very close attention to the speaker, who was introduced by vice-president Dr. Harry Burns and thanked by Mayor A. McLean Haig, during the meeting which saw two new members introduced to the club. These were Arthur Tourbe owner of S and T Products, and Roy Vagg, president of Vagden Mills. The birthdays of Rotarians Dr. B. Crandall, Glenn Reynolds and Harold Lewis were noted.

A minute's silence was observed during the meeting in memory of Rotarian Egerton Boyce, who died this past weekend.

Club president Virgil James conducted the meeting.

Careless Hunters Said Responsible For 15 Fires

Fifteen forest fires out of 20 which were started by careless hunters in the Tweed district over the past weekend have been fully attended today District Forester Jim Taylor of the Tweed District of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests said this morning.

The number of forest fires were started and close to 90 firefighters from the Lands and Forests department were engaged fighting these fires during the past few days. Eight fires are now reported out but the other 15 fires will require more rain or snow to render their location safe once again, Mr. Taylor said.

Hunters are warned not to leave fires unattended or to make casual fires indiscriminately. Any fire should be thoroughly soaked with water and covered with earth to ensure that it is absolutely out before the hunters using it leave the area.

Schools' Administrative System to Be Reorganized

TRENTON — The administrative set-up of the town's schools is in for a reorganization, "from top to bottom."

Management chairman of the Trenton board of education, Rev. Ronald Reid, told his fellow members at last night's board meeting, that his committee had arranged for a firm of management consultants from Montreal to spend a month reorganizing the schools' administrative system.

To accelerate this program, Mr. Reid said that Miss Eva Baker, who has been serving a probationary term as secretary-treasurer of the board, be immediately put on a permanent basis. Board members agreed, and Miss Baker was named to the post.

Still in line with the reorganization program, Mr. Reid said that the committee needs the assistance of the superintendent, and that V. P. Carswell, had advertised for a permanent teacher, to replace Lorne Alexander, who in turn, had replaced a teacher who had resigned for health reasons. Mr. Reid said that the applicant chosen from twelve would be an applicant "with a glowing report" from her superintendent. He added that the new successful applicant was "single."

"I understand that the teacher who has been serving on a temporary basis has twelve years' experience," said T. S. Ketcheson, chairman of property. "Did you know if she wanted the job on a permanent basis?"

"Yes and was in the paper, and she didn't reply," said Mr. Reid.

"I wouldn't blame her under circumstances," retorted Mr. Ketcheson. "In addition to her there is another teacher, who has taught locally for nine years. I also understand that she answered the ad. You say that this teacher you've had has two years' experience. Is it going to be the policy of this board to hire relatively inexperienced teachers, just because they're single girls?"

CRITICAL OF MOVE

"I feel that the younger people should be given a chance," finance chairman George Greer.

"Aren't you interested in the education of our children?" queried Mr. Ketcheson.

"If I weren't, I wouldn't have sat on this board for 10 years," replied Mr. Greer.

"You say this teacher you've hired is working in another community," said Mr. Ketcheson, addressing Mr. Reid.

"Why are we taking her out of another school?"

"They can hire another teacher out of normal," said Mr. Greer.

"Are you interested in Trenton children having experienced teachers, or in solving Canada's employment problem?" asked Mr. Ketcheson.

"There's more treatise on democracy and less mechanics than any other body I've ever seen," contributed Paul Tripp.

"I'm not hiring this person on the grounds that to do so is ignoring two experienced, tax-paying local teachers," said Mr. Ketcheson.

"I'm afraid we've made a binding contract with the new teacher," said Mr. Carswell. "She's agreed to come on January 1st."

The board members agreed that there was little they could do about the situation in the light of Mr. Carswell's disclosure.

Mr. Reid was again criticized by Mr. Ketcheson, following his reading of a letter from the members of the non-teaching staff association. Association members asked that the board consider some adjustment for the fact that a statutory holiday, July 1 fell on a Saturday this year.

Mr. Reid said that it had been a board decision not to make any adjustment for the holidays.

BOARD RECEIVES LETTER

He said that when the association had been so advised, that the members had written a letter to the board, thanking the members "for the reason on statutory law," and referring them to an article in the agreement by which they were hired, which allows for a meeting between the association and board members in case of a dispute.

"Evidently, the association wanted an arbitrator called in," Mr. Ketcheson pointed out.

"It seems that way to me," echoed Paul Tripp.

"The committee didn't act on the letter. It seemed to contain a certain amount of sarcasm," said Mr. Reid. "We felt the board had taken a decision on the matter. If the association wanted arbitration, individual members should have called the meeting."

"I think that was up to the board," opined Mr. Ketcheson.

Both committee will study the letter and see what action is indicated," promised Mr. Reid.

The secretary read a letter from the architectural firm of Rosenthwaite and Associates, suggesting that the clerk of works, Ralph Stenning, be engaged to spend more than "part time" to oversee the construction of a four-roomed addition to Queen Elizabeth public school. It was felt that the architects 'said that Mr. Steenburg should address to the board of trustees, and down by them, allowing for his supervision at certain periods during the day.

Mr. Ketcheson said that he was satisfied that Mr. Steenburg is a highly experienced contractor, was supervising the work on the Trenton Memorial Hospital and the architects could spend more time in the office than they themselves.

TO MAKE PAYMENT

It was decided to forward a final payment of $17,110.55 to the contractors, Gunderson and the eight-roomed addition to Trenton High School, in spite of the fact that some details of the work were not entirely satisfactory to the board members.

"We'll pay this money in good faith," said Mr. Ketcheson, "if the architect is an honorable man, he'll see that the details are attended to."

Appointed to an advisory vocational committee, to assist in preparing details concerning equipment and operational procedure for the new vocational composite school, were Trenton businessmen, Walter Wrightman, Whitby, Harry Wildsmith and James Walsh. The board chairman, the secretary and school representative on the board, the chairman of planning and the chairman of finance will also sit on this committee.

Send Students Home if Alert Ever Sounds

TRENTON — V. P. Carswell, supervising principal of Trenton's public schools, told members of the Trenton board of education last night that, in the absence of authoritative information, he had advised all principals to send public school pupils home at once should a nuclear attack alert ever be sounded in Trenton. He said that the principal had empowered about procedure to follow and that he had then developed a policy.

"With at least a half hour's warning, he children would have ample time to reach home," Mr. Carswell said.

Trenton Plane Hunts Hunters In Sault Area

TRENTON—RCAF officials at Trenton today said that a search for two missing hunters was being carried out in the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., area.

Murray Macgillivray and Harry Kay, both of Sault Ste. Marie, who are employed by CJIC TV, left on a hunting trip to Dee Summer Lake Friday on the weekend. They were supposed to return home Sunday afternoon but when they failed to return, a check was made of the area in which they were hunting.

DPP at White River, (130 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie) located the hunter's car on the Trans-Canada Highway, beside Dee Summer Lake. They found in the car but their rifles and ammunition were still there. The hunters were last seen in White River where they borrowed a canoe.

A USAF jet helicopter from Kincheloe Air Force base near Sault Ste. Marie and an Albatross amphibian aircraft from RCAF Search and Rescue Unit at RCAF Station Trenton were on their way to the area at first light this morning.

Pilot of the Albatross is Fl. Lt. Bob Jasper of London, Ont. Crew of the Sault Ste. Marie Search and Rescue Unit, RCAF Station, Trenton.

PUC Official Defends Action In Tree Cutting

TRENTON — "Woodman, spare that tree."

On Monday, Howard Hallick, Trenton public utilities, said that he had received one telephone call from Mrs. Clifford Greer, complaints about PUC workmen cutting down trees in the Greer property on Dufferin south of Fairview Crescent. He said that the utilities workmen had been trying Hydro lines in such a way that the trees could be left standing but as sometimes necessary to cut or trim the trees.

Clifford Greer, chairman of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission echoed Mr. Hallick's statement.

"The same people who are complaining about the trees being cut down wouldn't be too pleased if we strung the wires between the branches and a power cut-off was experienced and the linemen were to become covered with ice". Mr. Baker said "Our workmen do their trimming in such a way as to preserve the trees, but if houses are going to be built on sub-divisions some of the trees will have to go".

Mr. Baker added that trees on the trees in the area under discussion are on property owned by the persons who have complained. The land is owned by Mr. Greer and is zoned for a Park which $140,000 over last year's final total of $78,600,000.

"If a tree was on private property", said the chairman, "we'd naturally ask permission to cut it down or trim it".

And still on the subject of trees: The Trenton fire department was called early yesterday morning to a garage fire where fire had broken out in the ceiling. Firemen soon had the fire out and damage was negligible, Fire Chief Cecil Ellis said today. Cause of the fire might have started the fire.

At last night's meeting of the Trenton board of education, maintenance chairman, Paul Tripp, commenting on a request from the principal of College Street School that elm and maple trees in the playground area, be removed, told the board members that the trees should be preserved wherever possible.

Man Suffers Head Injuries

TRENTON—Earl Bull, 33, of Leopold Street in Trenton, received head injuries when he fell from a truck loaded with lumber, around 1 p.m. yesterday. He was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital by ambulance, following the mishap. The accident occurred on Marmora Street.

Police say that a chain, holding the lumber, gave way and caused Mr. Bull, causing him to fall.

or collective", action is open to term to prevent the south African government to change its racial policy. This passed 72 to 2 with 27 abstentions, including the United States, British and France.

Sources said they considered Cuba and the Soviet bloc delegation stand in the UN so far as being "reasonable" and which left the Commonwealth earlier this year.

The harsher of the two resolutions sponsored by Ghana, 29 other Afro-Asian counties and Cuba passed by a vote of 82 to 26 with 20 abstentions. It contained references to expulsion and sanctions. Canada for the first time did not oppose sanctions. Ghana abstained.

But the United States, Britain, Australia, New Zealand, France and some South American and Scandivanian countries voted against the resolution.

The vote of Canada, which plumped against sanctions last year, was not explained today because the resolution barely a few hours ago.

But paragraph-by - paragraph voting told a cautious story and the Greeks gave the vote a cheer, reflected in later assembly voting.

The Canadian delegation voted against the clause in the resolution which would expel South Africa from the UN. The vote was 47 to 32 with 22 abstentions.

IN MEMORIAM

CLARE. — In loving memory of our dear father, William E. Clare, who passed away November 14th, 1960.
We treasure still with love sincere,
Beautiful memories of one so dear,
If we could only speak to him,
Tell him how much we miss him,
No matter what we've said or done
He'd forgive and understand,
Time changes many things,
But love never grows strange,
Within our hearts,
He is not forgot,
Nor ever will be,
More cherished in our memories.
Sadly missed and lovingly mourned by daughters-in-law and grandchildren.

Christ Church Group Dance Great Success

Box office returns not yet complete from the gala occasion of their third annual "Falling Leaves Dance," the Christ Church Ch Rho group have declared the event a success. Based on the prevalence of fine fellowship, the many new faces in attendance and the apparent good time enjoyed by all, the financial returns have almost become a secondary consideration. Light refreshments of home-baked cookies, tea and coffee were served, while soft drinks and potato chips were on sale throughout.

Christ Church's auditorium was again resplendent in festive coloration with sprigs of autumn's red, yellow, rust and brown leaves adorning walls, curtains and featured in the majestic spray over the entrance to the hall.

With "live" entertainment, the function utilized to more advantage than in the past, another facility of the new hall. On stage, entertainment was provided by fellow organizations for the guests.

A male quartet from the church's choir sang several numbers.

Skits depicting light and humorous situations at home and church were presented by the AYPA and Men's Club.

Many prizes, donated by local merchants, were awarded. The winners were: spot dances — Nina and Norm Wilcox, Isabel Fuzzen and Gerry Cherry, Marion Rowbotham and Bill Crouter; Ethel and Lee Tripp; "squat" dance — Catherine McLean and Owen Clarke. The dance committee under Al Gardiner acknowledges with thanks the prizes donated by the merchants, all those who came out in support of the affair, the services of square dance caller Merrill Gordon and the efforts put forth by the fellowship members by which the evening was made possible.

Winter Works Committee Meets to Discuss Plans

The importance of local municipalities taking full advantage of winter works programs and thereby possibly avoiding higher relief costs, was emphasized today as members of the local winter works committee met to discuss plans.

Committee chairman George A. Whitman, city welfare administrator, said providing men with jobs not only avoided higher relief costs, but also had the effect of boosting the husband's morale and bettering family relations.

When the husband has a job there is less chance of family breakdown which costs the municipality much more than providing a job.

Current high relief costs which this year in Belleville are expected to mount close to $400,000 of which 25 percent is paid by the municipality were a source of alarm for City Manager J. R. Reynolds.

He said it would be much better if something constructive was done with the money.

14 PROJECTS APPROVED

So far this year 14 municipal works projects have been approved for the county with five of these now underway employing a total of 93 men, Cecil Hnuser, National Employment office manager, said eight other winter works projects were pending.

As of October 31st there were 1,282 persons in the city looking for jobs as compared with 1,332 at the same time last year, Mr. Hnuser said. This is a decrease of about 17 per cent.

Claimants for unemployment insurance were also down at 877 as compared with 1,318 at the same time last year. The figures show a drop of 441 or 34 per cent.

over its resale delayed the work.

"I sent her for the paper," Mrs. Finkle recalled. "When she didn't return home in half an hour, I started to worry.

"It's horrible. Such a bad thing came out of such a little errand. I must know what happened—what went on in that building."

Mr. Fink, 38, who came here from Latvia 12 years ago, said Sylvia would not have entered the vacant building by herself. "Although not old and the fire was still out of control.

It was the second destructive blaze in a week. The first one destroyed 465 homes and destroyed 14,000 acres.

Fuse Blows, Siren Is Silent As Warning Button Pushed

"For the want of a fuse a city was lost."

Belleville sat by its radio and television set last night awaiting a bombing raid warning that never came.

A fuse in the alarm system that was in perfect order in the afternoon failed to function when the official button was pushed about 7.30.

Investigation revealed the source of trouble. It was remedied as quickly as possible and the "Take Cover" shook the down-town airwaves a few minutes past eight.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance and members of his department who were in charge of siren activities told Lieut. Col. Angus Duffy, commanding officer, Hastings and Prince Edward regiment that in a "quiet" afternoon test the siren mechanism was found in perfect order.

But nothing happened when the time came for the official warnings.

Col. Duffy said this morning the national effort was a good blaze in a week. He first complimented the city officials and fire and civil defence personnel for giving excellent programs.

He thought the country-wide system of warning was an "excellent idea" inasmuch as it would help people a general idea of the organization along federal and provincial levels, and emphasizing that little or nothing was being done along municipal lines.

He thought that a general interest was shown by residents of the city as many evidenced curiosity as to why the "Alert" siren was not heard.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Smoke hung heavy over Los Angeles again today while fields winds hampered for and against an army of fire fighters striving to control a searing brush fire.

The erratic blaze destroyed 10 homes in Kagel Canyon, the U.S. forest service said, and forced evacuation of more than 200 residents from Kagel and Little Tujunga Canyons 30 miles north of here.

Officials said 2,300 acres had been burned off and the fire was still out of control.

A force of 625 men are battling the fire.

It was the second destructive blaze in a week. The first one destroyed 465 homes and destroyed 14,000 acres.

Too Clever a Trick

In Manitoba an enterprising conservation officer set a trap for "jacklighters," hunters who use lights to befuddle deer at night and thus get their venison the easy way. He erected a decoy deer.

The Manitoba Minister of Mines and Resources, Hon. C. H. Witney, was not amused. While he expressed sympathy with the conservation officer's viewpoint, he ordered the guns and cars confiscated from the decoyed hunters to be returned and said no charges would be laid against them.

Our first reaction was that this was altogether too sporting an attitude on the part of the minister. We felt the same way about the decoy deer as we do about the provincial policeman patrolling a highway in an unmarked car —that the law-abiding will not be injured and that the law-breaker has no real cause for complaint.

Reading the details of the Manitoba trap put things in a different light. The stuffed deer was set up just off the road, apparently at a point where it would show up in the light of cars using the road. On the sides of the trap that "hunting groups from three widely-separated parts of Manitoba stopped their cars, fired at the decoy and were caught by the conservation officer." Now we cannot see how, under the circumstances, the conservation officer could be certain that these hunting groups were touring the country with "jacklighting" in mind. They may have been travelling to or from camp when temptation suddenly popped out at them. The conservation officer was not merely being smart; he was acting as an agent provocateur. An unusual situation in traffic law enforcement would be for a policeman in a plain car to drive slowly at the head of a line of traffic, speeding up whenever the road was straight and free from oncoming traffic, then slowing down again on reaching a hill or a curve, to tempt somebody to make under forbidden circumstances, then to arrest him.

If the decoy deer had been set up away from the road, where it could not be noticed by the casual passer-by but only by persons bent on "jacklighting," then we could consider it a legitimate ruse by the conservation officer. But under the circumstances described by the news story, even if the jacklighters were normally operating by driving along back roads until a deer showed up in the car lights, the minister was right in opposing the methods used, because those caught might have had no original intention of breaking the law but merely have succumbed to temptation.

Primping

"Carrying of a comb seems to have become a social necessity for a boy in his teens," says the Hamilton Spectator.

This puzzled us.

Combs were considered a social necessity by teen-agers many long years ago. We would venture to guess that most of those former teen-agers still carry combs.

But the Spectator quickly explains: "It is the ostentation of the modern youth's comb that is new, not the use of the comb itself." Apparently today's teen-agers carry brightly-colored plastic combs with long handles.

This had escaped our attention. But what had been noticed was the tender, cherishing touch which the boy has his teeth bestow on his hair. The hand is brought up to the locks in a caressing motion and the hair is gently adjusted, not once but two or three times, being pushed upwards and then allowed to subside of its own weight, the motion being repeated until the owner of the hand is re-assured that every hair is resting in its proper place. It is the same motion which every woman with a new permanent goes through a hundred times a day, mostly, we feel sure, without being aware of it. The unconscious push and pat is an old story—what is new is seeing the male of the species indulging in it, with precisely the same dainty twist of the wrist and curl of the fingers which mark milady's way with a hair-do.

If . . . the devastation of a nuclear explosion can be so easily counteracted, then why should any nations develop nuclear bombs or consider using them against an enemy? You can more easily kill off three per cent of the enemy population with rocks and sticks and bows and arrows.—Dr. John N. Wolfe of the Atomic Energy Commission, disputing estimate that 97 per cent of the population could survive an atomic attack.

U.S. Is Not Synonymous With America

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was listening to a talk by a speaker from Canada not long ago, and during the question period someone asked him "what the Americans people should do" about disarmament.

He smiled gently and said, "I suppose by that you mean the citizens of the United States of America."

It is an unfortunate accident of history that we in the U.S. have come to claim the name "American" for ourselves alone — forgetting that the Canadians, the Mexicans and the people of South America likewise think of themselves as occupants of "America."

As Roscoe Fleming has observed, this is totally unconscious arrogance on our part, for "America" consists of two great continents and nearly 300 million other inhabitants have as much right to call themselves "American" as we do.

Yet there is no single word to distinguish us as a political and social entity. We are called "Yankees" in Canada, and "Yanquis" south of the border — and in both places we are resented for our appropriation of the name "American."

Fleming cites of professor of sociology: "Statesian" which is pronounced "You-State-sean" — but a citizen of the United States. It sounds awkward and strikes the ear harshly at first, but it is more modest and dignified as appellation than "American."

The Latin American groups have solved this ego-problem century ago by having their words mean "English" and "British"; the first refers to England proper, and the second to all the whole British Isles, thus appeasing the pride of the Irish, the Welsh and others. People, it seems, are much more willing to relinquish their political sovereignty than their ethnic identity.

Despite our resentment and ill South America, we are still resented greatly in that area for the kind of power which our domination of the entire two continents — and the dollar which is not as much economic or military as it is psychological. We simply assume that the American way of life refers to us, always us, and nobody else but us.

Of course, the rich uncle is always resented; but that does not excuse our lack of tact and taste in equating the United States with "America" as far as they are concerned, our attitude and behavior are definitely "us, American."

Make Gains In Cancer War

Windsor Star

Medical science has as yet discovered no cure for cancer, despite the very best efforts that researchers backed by great financial resources can put forth.

There is great doubt, indeed that any dramatic "cure" for cancer will ever be discovered. The "cures" for such diseases as smallpox and poliomyelitis have been preventives whose success against the disease is in watching and "cure" than in treating it. Undoubtedly there is more hope seeking a preventive for cancer, but much progress has been made in curing the disease.

It is good to read of new scientific victories in the battle against cancer, such as the success in treating victims with new chemical agents. Each, perhaps, a small advance. But added together, they represent significant gains for science.

STRENGTH for the DAY

HANDICAPS

A few days ago in a public place I saw a man who had a great handicap. He appeared to be cheerful. The woman who accompanied him, presumably his wife, appeared to be cheerful also. They lived with a millionaire about their necks, yet it appeared not to make them unhappy.

At the same time you and I know many fortunate people who weep, drivel, rage, and beat their breasts — over nothing at all. They have no handicap. Those who have spent more than ten years in bed with tuberculosis writes fine poetry.

Let us sneak out quietly and find a shrine where we can confess our sins and weaknesses before the Lord.

We may have greater handicaps than the manifestly handicapped — our worst handicap being that we may not recognize our pitiful state.

The collection from the annual Poppy Day Fund tag day held under the auspices of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, Post No. 301 on Saturday amounted to over $700, officials of the organization announced today as they expressed their thanks and appreciation to the citizens of Belleville and district for their generous contributions. The sum is expected to be supplemented somewhat with collections from the R.C.A.F. Station where poppies were sent for distribution.

Construction companies are reopening and building highways adjacent to Belleville. East of the city the four-lane highway from Gibson's Crossing to the Trenton gate is being resurfaced, while one mile east of Trenton a paved highway is being constructed from Highway No. 2 north to Six Repair Depot station a little over a mile north of the trunk highway.

The regular monthly meeting of the executive of the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was held on Nov. 7th with Mrs. Lazier, acting president, in the chair. The treasurer, Mr. Herkey reported: Donations received during October, $449.35; Special donations to Blanket Fund, $75.00; Bills payable for October, $538.00. During October, 800 lbs. of honey and jam have been donated by the Women's Institutes, church, and shipped by this branch.

Real Rulers In Red Russia

New York Times

Any attempt to assess the Soviet power situation in the wake of the Twenty-second Soviet Communist Party Congress must take into account the realities that meeting exposed. It is clear that Premier Khrushchev is consolidating his position visibly while they busted themselves exposed by the publication of each other, resorting to blackmail and murder when necessary. The Congress has given Khrushchev and the failure to maintain a united front against indicated his enormous power. But at the same time Khrushchev's sovereignty is not absolute, felt it expedient to pay tribute to the contributions of other leaders, while Krushchev himself stressed the "collective" character of the Party's leadership. Finally, the Soviet Premier let it be clearly informed that in 1937 the precedent had been set of the large purges when despised Central Committees overruling a majority vote in the Soviet Presidium.

Khrushchev's present primacy seems clear enough, but it can hardly be the kind of power monopoly that Stalin enjoyed, especially now that so much dirty linen has been washed in public. We may suspect that veteran Stalinist figures such as Mikoyan, Suslov and Kosygin will expect their say and be taken seriously. In the Secretariat a new generation of party "organizers" is also a strong representation: the propaganda chief Ilyichev, the policeman Shelepin and the specialist in the politics of the international Communist movement Ponomarev.

It is the Central Committee, however, that has been really revolutionized. A clear majority of this group consists of newcomers who had no important role in the Stalin era. And yet, when the last Central Committee was elected, the increase of that body's size to 175—it was 133 in 1956, 125 in 1952 and 71 in 1939—assures that more and more elements of the Soviet ruling class are represented. All this increases the chance for differences in opinion and factionalism, or at least for competing pressures on the First Secretary and the Presidium. And the future history belongs to the new generation whose memories have made their first massive advance this year toward the peak of Kremlin power.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When a grown man or woman reaches being correctly advised or instructed, you are free to assume that he or she has ceased growing. They have reached their limit. Hardening of the brain, which is a most commoner, and sets in far earlier than hardening of the arteries, has been achieved. They are now comfortable for the rest of their lives with what they've got. Nothing can be added.

Children and youths often resent being corrected; and that is natural, because the young are properly under the impression that they know it all. That is the definite key to youth. But the realization that you know nothing, or next to it, and it is time you got busy and started to find out, is the moment of discovery, one of the most penetrating and thrilling moments that stirring brains of our time, upsetting apple carts all over the place, has said that one of the satisfactions of being old is that you have so much more to unlearn.

Of most of us it can be said: this is our size.

But of a few whose brains have not set like plaster casts, no one can estimate the size.

Space Age In Fiction

Brantford Expositor

In the realm of science fiction we have come quite a long way since the days of Jules Verne and H. G. Wells, though these writers are still read. All sorts of people like science fiction, just as all sorts like detective yarns and mystery thrillers.

The best of the present-day science tales are well based and well told. They have enough actual fact and theory in them to make them plausible and interesting.

Writing for the British Information Service, Lindsay Lejeune reviews the situation. Science fiction, he asserts, is no longer just a poor relation of the "true science" account. "At its crudest (though not necessarily at its least satisfying) it becomes space opera, a western with rocket guns for six-shooters and space ships for horses. It also finds room for detective stories of quite an intellectual kind . . . . Science fiction writers seeking new variations on the basic themes, have displayed considerable ingenuity."

Nor is such literature confined to western or to pseudo-scientific mental gymnastics. "It has", Mr. Lejeune finds, "a philosophy for the most part although one or two writers have begun to tackle the metaphysical and theological problems which the license imply."

Of some help to writers and readers of this type of fiction are two recently published books, The Language of Science by William Gilman (Harcourt, New York) and Aerospace Dictionary by Frank Gaynor (Philosophical Library, Inc., New York).

The first stresses the advisability of using the right word in dealing with scientific subjects. Using a wrong one can be expensive in addition. Take a case concerning the St. Lawrence Seaway. Engineers, writing the specifications, mistook as "compact to very compact" the will be needed by the contractor took the phrase to mean "dense" and the bulldozers he found instead that the needed dynamite. So he claimed an additional $8 million on the ground that the correct technical term for the soil was "cemented".

The second book, as its title indicates, is a kind of glossary. Plasma jet, it explains means streams of electrons and positive ions raised to high temperature by technical discharge. Pitch has various uses, from either salesmanship or music; it is "the extent of rise of an aerofoil or space craft about its lateral axis."

If you want to know what a lateral axis is precisely, you'll have to look it up yourself. But we have given enough to show the extent to which language and literature are becoming embellished — or complicated — by modern developments.

Sniffing of Solvents Can Be Very Dangerous

By Joseph C. Weiner, M.D.

Trust the teen-agers to discover whatever there is to be discovered — and some of them are doing a dangerous trick.

The solvents used in modern plastic glues and cements have vapors which can have strong narcotic or inebriating properties, if inhaled in excessive amounts.

Because of this, "glue or cement sniffing" has become a fad among some youngsters.

It is bad enough that this sniffing can cause all the hazards we have mentioned, with drunkenness. But it also can become habit forming.

Still worse, it can cause serious physical harm, and not all the harm can be corrected afterward.

Depending on the type of vapor that are inhaled, there can be damage to the brain, nervous system, blood, liver or kidneys.

I am not proposing that we give up the use of these glues and cements properly handled, they are not harmful. But I do advise strongly that parents and teachers watch out for this practice of "sniffing," and take whatever steps are necessary to stop it. The risk is too great.

Among the solvents being used are such materials as methyl ethyl ketone, methyl isobutyl ketone, toluene, xylene, trichloroethylene chloride, methlyl chloroform, trichlorethylene and occasionally the very dangerous carbon tetrachloride or benzene.

Using an occasional dab of these adhesives is all right. If they are to be used steadily on a project or hobby, they ought to have good ventilation. And sniffing? Don't.

Credit Card Firms in Red

Financial Post

The all-purpose credit card, with which it has been possible to obtain nearly anything from a sandwich to an African safari on tick, has not proved to be the thumping success that was expected.

Three of the cards are still in the field. Only Diners' Club, the originating committee, is showing a profit. The American Express Company's credit card operation is in the red. The Hilton Corp.'s Carte Blanche lost $4.2 million in its last year.

One reason for disappointing results is simply lack of sufficient customers. Another huge cutlay on business machines needed to process masses of small bills. Another difficulty is that competition among the card owners forced their charges down to unreasonably low levels.

It has also been found, as any shrewd economist could have predicted, that many shops and restaurants, accepting the card as evidence of credit worthiness, evade the club commissions by billing customers directly.

The most valid general conclusion is that cash, the poor man's credit card, is still a status symbol of sorts. To make a profit from it, the discovery an enterprising group has started in Nice for the Grand International Club Shops which belong give card-carriers discounts ranging from five per cent to 40 per cent — if they pay on the nail.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

"KEEP APLUGGIN' AWAY!"

The one who emphasized the title of this Talk is a most appealing way to the discouraged poet, born of slave parents. His name was Paul Laurence Dunbar, and he died in 1906.

Many of you have read his poetry. One evening when this particular poem was being read over the radio I was sitting at my typewriter to listen. What a simple philosophy, what wisdom, after all, I thought.

Just "Keep apluggin' away!" Undermine the pain or the misery of life a little sentence at a time, frequently as a quote: "The day barks, but the caravan passes on." It's that way with all of us. If we keep at it, it's right on, you are going to arrive, especially if you have determined and definitely decided just where you want to arrive.

The trouble with most people is that they have no special time or place in their minds as an objective to work at. They want to get there either by a shorter route than the ordinary one pre-scribed by common sense, or dissipate the necessary pains and labor.

The "Get-rich-quick" artists fine the main thoroughfares and the side streets.

But it is the Lincoln, the Webster, the "Stonewall" Jackson and the Dr. Frankenstrangloks who dot our national and world fabric and make it durable.

We all learned in our mathematics that "the shortest distance between two points is a straight line."

But there are those who want to short-cut that straight line!

Never mind. Sew away. And "Keep apluggin'!"

York University Head Proposes Scholarship Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Murray G. Ross, president of Toronto's young York University, today proposed a radical new scholarship program to meet the mounting cost of providing higher education in Canada.

He suggested in a special conference on education here the establishment of a national scholarship trust fund financed by governments, private bodies and individuals. An individual student's scholarship fund would be built up on the basis of his academic record during high school.

Mr. Ross called for "an entirely new kind of scholarship and award program" in a paper read to the National Conference of Canadian Universities and Colleges. The paper was distributed in advance to the press.

He proposed scholarships to university should be provided from a fund established by the federal government "or by such a body as the Canada Council."

The major share of money required to start the fund should come from the federal government. Mr. Ross said, but individuals, clubs and corporations should be asked to contribute. Students who receive assistance from the trust would be "encouraged" to contribute after completing their education, possibly paying back the amount received in scholarships.

An individual scholarship trust account would be started for the deserving student at the Grade IX level and additional funds would be added each year in high school if the student maintained his standard of progress.

Local committees, including teachers, would select the students to receive scholarships. Those selected probably would include all who receive first class honors standing as well as "some other students of considerable talent."

Mr. Ross suggested that the individual trust account should be built up by $750 each year that the high school student meets the academic standards. This would amount to a total of $3,000 at the end of a successful four-year high school course, which should provide "sufficient money at least for his fees" at university.

If the scholarship student did not attend university, his accumulated reserves would revert to the national trust fund.

A student and his parents would be invited to add to the individual trust account during high school with the aid of increasing the scholarship to provide for university expenses apart from tuition fees. University bursaries would help the student who was unable to meet all university expenses out of his trust fund, Mr. Ross said.

The proposal, Mr. Ross said, would provide "the essential early assurance to boys and girls of talent that if they use their talent effectively, they will have adequate support for the continuation of their education throughout university."

Mr. Ross said the system might reduce the number of students who drop out of school before completing their secondary education.

He said that under the present system of financing, the universities are subsidizing all students regardless of talent or needs. Canadian university students now pay only about one-third of the cost in their tuition fees and the remaining two-thirds amounts to a general subsidy, he said.

Mr. Ross questioned whether "all students in university deserve or need this large subsidy now provided for them."

He suggested that under a system of aid to higher education that differentiates between need for students and for universities, governments could assist the universities while universities could avoid too much dependence on government grants.

23 Injured As Bus Smashes Into Tree

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — A Greyhound bus enroute to Montreal from New York City veered from a rain-slick highway three miles north of here early today and smashed into a clump of trees — three persons — mostly Canadians — were injured, one badly.

Police Sgt. Peter said he had been blinded by the lights of an approaching car that did not stop.

The injured included three children. A woman passenger was pinned in her seat for 45 minutes before rescuers could free her.

Among the injured taken to Champlain Valley Hospital was Miss Jane Fyfe, 26, of Cornwall. Most of the injured were in satisfactory condition.

Mrs. Georgie Algiers of Montreal, who was pinned in her seat, suffered a fractured left leg and severe cuts on the right hand. She was reported in serious condition in hospital.

The driver, George W. Gannis, 54, of Brooklyn, suffered an arm injury.

Finn Leaders Are Told About Reds' Demands

HELSINKI (AP) — Russia would like more political influence in Finland or it will otherwise demand military consultations, parliamentary sources in the Finnish capital said today.

Premier Martti Miettinen and Foreign Minister Ahti Karjalainen informed the party leaders about the aims of the Russian note to Finland at a closed-door meeting this morning, and asked the political committee to recommend a reply regarding an answer to the note.

In the note the Soviet government said that "certain (Finnish) circles give their active support to the dangerous war preparations by NATO countries, and thus advance the growth of war psychosis which is restricting to the accepted line of Finland's foreign policy."

Counsel Says Wife Treated In Rude Manner

TORONTO (CP) — Crown Counsel Herbert Langdon said today that Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Skiba, 35, was "continually abused" by her husband. She went on trial on a charge of non - capital murder in the stabbing of Kenneth Stanley Skiba, 36.

Mr. Langdon told Mr. Justice D. C. Wells and a Supreme Court of Ontario jury that the woman had a split lip and cuts and bruises to her face and hands when police found her in her home. She was stabbed May 24.

Mrs. Skiba, mother of two sons, has been free on bail of $15,000.

Mr. Langdon said that on the night of the stabbing Skiba "treated his wife in a most insulting manner" in front of friends at their home. Then the group went out drinking. The Crown counsel said evidence would show the husband was drunk when he returned home and that husband and wife were arguing before he was stabbed in the heart with a bread knife.

Clifford George Lothian, brother - in - law of the defendant, testified Skiba had boasted of needing $60 to $70 a week to cover his drinking bills. He told the court Skiba became "fairly violent" when he was drinking, going into a rage at a slight annoyance.

He said Mrs. Skiba once had to pawn her rings to get money to support her children.

Mrs. Marion Dunivan, a former boarder with the Skibas, testified Skiba taught his young est son to revile his mother.

No Birthday Celebration For Prince

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today had a non-age heir to the throne.

Flags flew through the country to mark the 13th birthday of Prince Charles.

But there will be no birthday cake for the prince today.

Cheam, the prince's exclusive school near London, has a rule that birthday celebrations can only be held on a Wednesday or Saturday. The prince is no exception and he must wait until Wednesday before enjoying his cake, cooked by Buckingham Palace's chef.

The Queen and Prince Philip left then presents before they left on their current tour of West Africa.

'Sanctions' May Force Closing Of Royal York

TORONTO (CP) — Angus MacKinnon, manager of the Royal York Hotel, said Monday that officials of the 1,600-room hotel are considering turning it into a merchandise market if the city continues to impose "sanctions" on it.

This would mean closing part or all of the hosiery, largest in the Commonwealth, as a hotel.

The Hotel and Club Employees Union (CLC) has been on strike against the hotel since April 24 in a dispute over wages and working conditions. The hotel has remained opened but has been picketed since then.

Mr. MacKinnon defined sanctions as the action of civic officials in refusing to sanction out of the hotel.

Meanwhile, actress Gretchen Wyler and her musician husband checked into the hotel over the protests of Allan Wood, president of the Toronto Musicians Union.

Miss Wyler stars in the musical Bye Bye Birdie, now playing here. Her husband, Shepherd Coleman, a member of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL-CIO), is musical conductor with the show. He said the members of the cast were booked into the hotel by the show's general manager but that he plans to check out as soon as possible.

Stalinist Ulbricht Expected To Remain E. German Boss

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Anyone seeking to compile a thesaurus of left-handed superlatives should look up the file on Walter Ulbricht, boss of the gosteeo gaulleier of Communist East Germany.

He's been called a lot of nasty names in his time, including bearded horror, squalid dictator and, almost demurely, a ruthless opportunist.

Only last week, a British commentator called him a "uniquely odious" character.

Yet the short, bespectacled former carpenter from Saxony remains obdurately in power, ignoring the insults, working an industrious 18 hours a day — mainly, it seems, to keep things as uncomfortable as possible for East German citizens.

No serious challenge, except for the 1953 uprising, has been offered to Ulbricht since the May day 1945 when he moved into battered Berlin with a motorized Russian convoy to take the Communist half of conquered Germany.

EFFICIENT MAN

How does he do it? Why does Soviet Premier Khrushchev accord such tolerance to a man who obviously enjoys command and the respect of his people?

A short answer may be that Ulbricht is totally efficient, and that Khrushchev can't find anybody to replace him.

Whatever the factors that have kept the 68-year-old leader in power for 16 sterile years, his biggest test now may be forthcoming. For Ulbricht is conspicuously one of Stalin's old proteges, a faithful exponent of the kind of politics now tearing the Kremlin's wrath.

When the unbelievable happened and Stalin's body was removed from the mausoleum in Red Square, Ulbricht may have recalled with a tremor what he had said of Stalin's proposal.

"The greatest man of our era has left us. May we all implement the testament of the great Stalin."

STILL A STALINIST

Terence Prittie, correspondent of the Guardian of Manchester, describes Ulbricht as "one of the most dyed-in-the-wool Stalinists who ever breathed." Prittie says there now is much speculation in West Germany about his ultimate fate in view of the Kremlin's latest line.

Nearly all Germany would gloat over Ulbricht's downfall. Nevertheless, there is probably an element of wishful thinking in seeking to align the East German leader with Vyacheslav Molotov, Marshal Voro shilov and other objects of current Soviet displeasure.

At the moment, Khrushchev seems unlikely to extend the Kremlin witch-hunt outside Russia. On balance, it looks as though Ulbricht's charmed life will continue a little longer.

Lucille Ball To Be Married On Sunday

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedienne Lucille Ball has revealed what many of her friends have suspected for some time—that she'll wed comic Gary Morton, a man she met on a blind date.

The actress, whose 20-year marriage to Desi Arnaz ended in divorce in May, 1960, said Monday night that the wedding will be held here Sunday.

Miss Ball, who by her own admission was depressed after her divorce from her longtime I Love Lucy on television, met Morton last summer while she starred in the Broadway musical, Wildcat.

When she walked just four months ago whether she was thinking of marriage, she replied:

"No, I have no plans to get married."

Then, reflectively, she added: "I'm afraid of marriage."

The tall, broad - shouldered Morton also has been divorced once.

Despite their marital split, Miss Ball and Arnaz still maintain close business ties—like their Desilu production house. Both are millionaires several times over.

What everyone should know about term insurance!

Term, or temporary, life insurance has many uses—but watch out for possible abuses.

Just as Fire Insurance pays only in the event of fire loss during the life of the policy, so Term Insurance pays only in the event of death before the term expires.

Often The Excelsior Life man will recommend Term Insurance—but only as a temporary coverage where the maximum amount of immediate protection is needed for the least amount of premium. But he cautions to make certain that this temporary life insurance is converted into permanent personal policies as soon as the owner is able to do so.

There is no equity in Term Insurance which can carry the policy if a due date is missed, and none which builds future security for its owner.

We suggest that you talk to The Excelsior Life representative in your community. He has been selected and trained to help you with all your life insurance problems—and especially assist you to design your own "Blueprint for Security".

Pr. Wales H-S Assoc. Holds 'Open House'

Last Tuesday, Prince of Wales School was the scene of an "Open House" Home and School meeting.

Every parent was invited to meet his child's teacher in the classroom and discuss his progress and problems at school. The work books and works of art were there for inspection.

Everywhere there was a friendly atmosphere and a gala appearance with Hallowe'en motifs still in evidence such as black witches with pumpkin heads, and large masks, some funny and some scary.

There were exhibitions of the children's work including growing over a marsh; a replica of Upper Canada Village made out of cardboard boxes complete with roofs, steeples and furnishings; samples of writing and art, and scrapbooks full of health rules.

Some good visual aids were in evidence as were the symbols of Remembrance Day.

Following the tour and conference with the teacher, refreshments were served.

A short business meeting brought to light the fact that there are no Brownies in this part of the city due to lack of leaders. Two or three more are needed who are willing to train as leaders. Mrs. Bushell thanked the room mothers and teachers for helping to make the annual "Open House" such a success.

Woman Must Wear What She Buys

MONTREAL (CP) — Marie Paule, a couturier in Montreal for 25 years, believes Canadian women buy clothes too quickly and too often.

"A woman should condense her wardrobe and wear what she buys," she said in an interview.

The place for clothes isn't tissue paper. When she has worn a dress as long as she wants to, she should give it away so that someone else may enjoy it."

Miss Paule feels that if a woman can afford only one good thing for her wardrobe, it should be a suit. "In this modern age, a suit goes almost everywhere."

Carefully - chosen accessories are important, and "one good jewel and a good handbag are part and parcel of chic."

Miss Paule, in private life Mrs. Jean Nolin, said being "chic" is "a matter of personality."

"Like cuisine, it can be varied but still delectable."

She said a woman at any level of society can have chic, but it begins with personal happiness. "Even the most beautiful creation becomes sad if the wearer looks sad."

Christ Church EBWA Plans For Bazaar

On last Monday evening, the members of the Evening Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary met in the parish hall for their monthly business meeting.

The meeting was opened with a devotional period by the president, Mrs. L. Donnely, with Mrs. S. Briggs as pianist. Correspondence was read and the treasurer's report given.

Mrs. W. Edwards, Dorcas secretary reported that 20 gifts were required for children of six to eight years and plans for purchasing these were made.

Plans for the coming bazaar were discussed for the balance of the meeting. Mrs. L. Mason reported that a $5. voucher had been received from a local supermarket towards supplies for the bazaar.

After the meeting closed, the members worked on lovely plastic wreaths for the bazaar and then enjoyed a delicious cup of tea and cookies served by Miss F. Reid and Mrs. L. Reid.

Says Logging Child's Play To Nursing

VANCOUVER (CP) — Logging is child's play compared with the work of nursing, says a man who has done both.

Frank Bryant, 34, a former merchant seaman and logger who crashed the nursing profession in 1956, has been a member of the Victorian Order of Nurses. Before that he worked in a hospital for three months.

"The work was just too tough," he says. "It made logging look like child's play."

Now married to a nurse from his graduating class, Frank and his male patients in their homes. They are mostly paraplegics and quadraplegics—men hurt in auto and logging accidents.

"All the patients I call on are male. They look forward to my visits because after all you can't have a man-to-man talk with a woman."

Asked how he feels about working in a predominantly female profession, he says: "People need help. I can give it to them. It's as simple as that."

St. Margaret's Guild Sponsors Pretty Autumn Tea, Bazaar

An attractive fall tea and bazaar was held recently in the church hall by the Evening branch of St. Margaret's Guild. The sunny, fall afternoon brought out many ladies and children, who were graciously received at the door by Mrs. I. A. Pape, wife of the rector, and Mrs. William Parndis, president of the Guild.

The hall was tastefully decorated with several arrangements of fall flowers.

On the long tea-table was a large bouquet of chrysanthemums, beautifully arranged in a silver rose bowl. Flanking the central piece were silver candelabra containing pastel-tinted tapers. On the individual tea-tables were small bouquets of artificial sweet peas in tiny bottle-green vases. The decorating was done by Mrs. James Ritchie.

PRESIDING

Presiding at the tea-services were: Mrs. D. Allen, leader of the Junior Auxiliary; Mrs. A. Groom, choir director; Mrs. R. Smith, organist and Mrs. F. Catton, Altar Guild directress.

The home-baking and delicatessen tables were laden with many tasty wares. These included home-made bread and rolls; tarts; squares; cup cakes; potato salad; sausage rolls; T.V. snacks; Boston beans and many other items. This was convened by Mrs. F. Pickering and Mrs. M. Hunt, and the delicatessen by Mrs. W. Roblin and Mrs. R. Rushton.

James and Mrs. E. Lenney.

The children's clothing booth, convened by Mrs. D. Poulton and Mrs. W. McKnight was again a big success. Popular items were mittens and socks in almost every color and size. Other items on this table included overalls; knitted helmets; jackets and bootees and flanelette pyjamas.

The doll's table was delightful. There were many pretty clothing sets, also various sizes of dolls dressed in both hand knitted and sewn garments. One lovely baby doll was displayed, wearing a white lace-trimmed dress and pink knitted set. Popular items were the wooden cradles and several prettily dressed bassinets. Convener for this table was Mrs. W. Lindsey.

Kathy Kusner Loves Horses, Realizes Dream

TORONTO (CP)—Petite, 21-year-old Kathy Kusner, says a dream come true as the United States equestrian team was a child-hood dream.

"I've wanted to get on the team ever since I heard about it—when I was about 10 years old," said the hazel-eyed Virginian.

Her dream came true this fall. She is the only female rider in international jumping competitions at this year's Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

"I just love horses and anything to do with them," said Kathy.

"I don't get scared or excited before a competition. I don't think anyone does who rides a lot. It's just another competition and you go into so many that you get accustomed to it."

Neither her mother nor father is interested in horses.

"They don't come with me on the circuits, and they rarely watch me in the competitions," Kathy said.

Kathy has been following the horse circuits and shows since she was about 13, and has been riding seriously since she graduated from high school at the age of 18.

FULL GOSPEL W.M.S.

FRANKFORD — Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle Women's Missionary Council held its November meeting on the evening of November 8th at the home of Mrs. Ed Sheppard in Glen Miller.

WEEKS DIVORCE

LONDON (AP) — Prince Andrzej, 32, brother of former King Peter of Yugoslavia, is seeking a divorce from his wife, the former Princess Christina of Hesse. He is charging adultery. The 26-year-old princess is the niece of the Duke of Edinburgh.

Former City Girl Prefers Farm Life

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Douglas Palmer is a former city girl who would never move back. She prefers her country life near Schomberg to the city life she knew before her marriage 12 years ago.

Mrs. Palmer, her husband, and daughters Barbara, 16, and Beth, 9, are showing some of their 30 head of horses at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

"The only thing I knew about horses before my marriage was that the head man used to feed his horse at noon," she said.

Now she supervises the care and feeding of the horses throughout the year and looks after them when they are ill or foaling. This often means spending the night in the barn with the animals.

Looking after the mare and her foal is "just like looking after a new mother and her baby." The mare-to-be has to be regulated and perhaps even changed to suit the foal.

The Palmers' Clydesdale/Shire race in Toronto, London, Montreal and other Canadian cities. The Palmers also have Belgian horses on their dairy farm.

To learn about farming, Mrs. Palmer said she "just stood back and listened." Of the farm, 35 miles from her home town of Toronto, she said:

"I think our life provides a much closer family relationship."

In the business the treasurer's report showed $88.69 on hand.

The Couples' rally in the Cobourne United Church was discussed and it was hoped at least eight couples would attend.

Future Coats To Be Simpler And Shorter

MONTREAL (CP) — A couture collection shown to the press here suggests coats for the future will be simpler and shorter.

Designed by Fontana of Rome, Schiaparelli of Paris and Veal of Montreal, and made up by Hollinger, the most popular coat length was the trotter. This—13 to 24 inches—is just between the jacket and the quarter coat.

Many of the sleeves were also shorter and were worn with long leather gloves. Collars were smaller and some of the coats had collarless cardigan necklines.

The silhouette was generally slimmer and straighter and dressmaker details were used to shape. Backs remained slightly full and some were oval or cape-shaped.

Furs shown included mink, beaver, broadtail Alaska seal, Persian marten, Norwegian blue black hair seal, sheared muskrat and Southwest African Persian lamb.

There were fewer spotted furs than last season, and the designers seemed to be returning to the use of one-color fur.

'New Canadians' Interesting Topic at Bridge St. WMS

The regular meeting of Bridge Street United Church W.M.S. was held in the S.S. auditorium with a large attendance. The president Mrs. Davis, opened the meeting The treasurer's report stated that over $1,300 had been raised to date. The allocation is $1,720. New literature for the society of 1962 will cost $30. The W.M.S. pledge of $30 as its share.

The secretaries reporting were Mrs. Harry Brindahl, she made 13 different calls in the sick and shut-in. Mrs. Alex Donald had sent 34 cards since the October meeting and asked for donation of good clothing so a sale may be shipped soon.

Mrs. Adsett, literature secretary, urged the members to make use of the many good books available.

Mrs. Gilmour reported items of interest at the rally held at Shannonville in October where Miss Loelia Rourke, retired missionary with 20 years' labor in Japan and six in Trinidad, was the guest speaker.

The president turned the meeting over to the group whose leaders are Mrs. MacFie and Mrs. Franklin. Mrs. Franklin conducted the worship service, the theme of which was "Our Church in Our Community."

Churches are vital parts of any community, whether rural or urban. The church, which, is the people, is as influential as they are sincere. Jesus showed His love and compassion for the community as He approached Jerusalem. He wept over it.

"Dr. Jorge MacLeod tells the story of a great cathedral which was so built that the high altar was set at the end of the church farthest from the city; so that when the people came to the altar of God, they turned their backs on the community. They left it behind when they came to God. That church was destroyed during the war and when the time came to rebuild men of vision said, "Let us have this church around, put the altar of God nearest the city, so that when we come to God the city is before us, and we may bring out community with us to the mercy seat".

OLD-NEW CANADIANS

The subject for study was "Old and New Canadians," and was taken by Mrs. Franklin and Mrs. MacFie who brought to attention how Canada is changing. It is no longer a country divided into Protestant and Roman Catholic, English speaking or French speaking, but a patchwork quilt of colours, a babble of many tongues. "We must learn that Canada is no longer the exclusive preserve of the early colonists. Every year many people from many different cultures will arrive here to share in the development of this still young country.

"As to their success and what kind of country Canada will become depends to a great extent how we, as Canadians, treat them.

"Canada has always been a mixture of peoples, Indian and Eskimo, English and French, and now with a population of 18 million it has many races from many lands.

"Has this influx of immigrants caused the unemployment? Research answers 'No,' and of the more than 2 million coming here in the past 15 years only about one million enter the labor force and the rest are dependants, thus consumers, who create demands and jobs.

"Dr. Hugh Rose, a missionary doctor in Korea, writing to the Globe and Mail, is disturbed that Canada will only allow persons with a craft, skill or profession to enter the country. How the sick of Korea would give all they possess for a place in one of the sanitoria that Canada is closing for lack of patients. He also says that the Korean farmer would think he was in Heaven to be a hired man or a tenant on one of the many farms being vacated by Canadians.

"What is our stand as professing Christians to these strangers within our gates? Do we invite them to our homes, to our church gatherings? They need more than a shelter and food and work. They need to feel they belong in this fair land, where they've come to share their many cultures and become happy satisfied, contented citizens.

"It's selfish that Canada should accept the young; the skilled and the healthy, to bemoan the fact that so many of the talented young people leave Canada for the United States; yet we are demanding that this must be the type of citizens that Canada will accept from other lands. We claim our interest in the future of the less fortunate countries, we send them machinery; food and financial aid; but if we rob them of their ablest citizens, who is going to be left to make the best use of what we contribute and help in the building of a brighter future.

"Great problems confront this Canada. These must be solved in a Christian-like way. There is no time to lose; a regret work demands action. Our churches are doing much in many ways for the strangers who come to Canada, but more and more tasks await us. The Canadian way of life will be threatened unless we prepare to the degree we perform each day's duties".

CHURCH BY EXAMPLES

As a concrete conclusion to this study, the W.M.S. was privileged to be addressed by Mr. Nicholas Mika, who came to Canada from Europe 15 months ago. He told of arriving on July 12th when the Orangemen were there to welcome his place. Mr. Mika was delighted with the parade, the music and seeing the happy crowd and at once formed the opinion that Belleville was a pleasant place in which to live. He continues enjoying life here.

His first place of employment was at the Hastings County Home where he stayed for one year. Even though he was well educated and an artist in his own land, he had to learn the use of language and different customs in this new land. This has been overcome. After his first year he obtained a position in the Bakelite Plant, which he held until May, 1961 when he resigned as chief draftsman to spend full time on his own business which is silk screening and other artistic endeavors.

GERMAN FIANCEE

Mr. and Mrs. Mika were married by the Rev. Bradshaw of Trefoil of Bridge Street United Church. They had known each years before his fiancee came from Germany. Their attendant was Miss Lorette Mika and Miss Loretta McDougall. They were given a delightful wedding reception by Mrs. Bradshaw with whom he had boarded for eight months. The newly couple surprise and was much appreciated by the people, who felt lonely for their own folk on such an important occasion. Mr. Mika has since secured a position to assist in their business.

They have had several exhibitions of their different works of art all over Canada, also painting on China; work in stained glass and silk screening. They carried on this work in the spacious basement of their home, but due to business expansion are building a place of their own. They will have ample room.

Mr. Mika had two pieces of his art with him, one of wild birds, and one of Belleville. These he left at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Mika are examples of many new Canadians who have become wonderful citizens in the land of their adoption.

THEY RETURNED

They returned to their homeland several years ago for a visit but Mr. Mika said, when the time came to leave Belleville came, he could truthfully say they boarded the ship with joy to be returning.

Mr. Mika was thanked for permitting the Society to share in his and Mrs. Mika's New Canadian experiences.

After the Minute, the ladies gathered in the parlor where they enjoyed sandwiches and tea, served by the group members of which Mrs. Stirling and ladies and four children. Mrs. Wilfred Spencer, president, was in charge of the devotional part of the meeting.

Mrs. James Miller gave the Scripture reading, Mathew 25:1-6, and Mrs. Spencer gave the meditation and prayer.

One minute of silence was observed in honor of the dead in two World Wars.

Mrs. Ross Dickie was convener for the balance of the program, as follows: reading, "True Sacrifice For Us," Mrs. Lindsay Finch; "Remembrance" prayer by Mrs. Ross Dickie; vocal duet, "In the Garden," Mrs. Wilfred Spencer and Mrs. Robert Spencer with Mrs. Ellis Jones at the piano; duet by the Apostles' Creed by Mrs. W. Spencer; reading "Remembrance Words" by Mrs. R. Dickie; "Rylstone" word contest conducted by Mrs. E. Jones and won by Miss Don Stewart.

A clear of home cooking, fancy work and other novelties was well patronized and refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Dickie.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ellis Jones on December 13th.

Christmas stockings are to be handed in to the program committee, Mrs. Robt. Spencer and Mrs. Chester Melkiejohn.

Mrs. Jones moved committee, sandwiches, Mrs. Lily Anderson and hostess; cake, Mrs. James Milne and Mrs. Lindsay Finch.

Plans are being made for the annual Christmas supper and entertainment, to be held in the church on the evening of December 1st.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

EATING WITH GOOD TASTE

Ever since the invention of the fork, man has patiently played to perfect his table manners.

Up to that point, food was casually torn apart and conveyed to the mouth with dripping fingers. Or it was speared with a knife and simultaneously ripped and cut into "bite-size" pieces.

But with the coming of the fork, eating became less dangerous and manners naturally perfected to considerably.

Basically, the idea of table manners is to get food off the plate, and into the mouth in the neatest way possible. It's no more mysterious than that. When a person is said to have a "bad" table manners, it's usually because he's gotten lackadaisical and doesn't give a thought to the impolite impression he makes on others.

Eating too fast seems to be the most common fault around the family dinner table, and leads to a number of bad habits.

When a person tries to down a meal in a gulp or two, naturally he overloads his fork and stuffs his mouth, two practices that can take away the appetite of a more sensitive dinner companion.

The fast eater also has a tendency to bunch over the plate and practically spear the peas with his fork. If he does stop piling it in for a second in order to make a comment, the latter is usually delivered with a full mouth and is barely appetizing to the next table.

Anyone who is intent on improving his table manners should adopt this as his guide line: Slow Down. Finish each mouthful before taking another.

Digestion, as well as appearance, improve considerably with proper posture. It's not necessary to sit like a ramrod, but the head should be held straight. Elbows, of course, should be kept off the table while eating. Also only because it's considered "incorrect," but because it's actually uncomfortable. It's alright to prop between courses, but while eating, it both looks and feels more relaxed to keep the left hand parked in the lap and out of the way.

Reaching, which is used to be taboo, is now tolerated to some extent, as long as the bread or salt is nearby and can be reached without inconveniencing anyone. Otherwise, 'ask to have it passed.

Bread and rolls, of course, should always be broken into bite-size bits before being buttered and eaten. Bits of bread may also be used to sop up gravy. But instead of squishing the bread around with the hand, it's actually much more convenient, as well as more sightly, to drop it on the plate and push it around with the fork.

Basically, good table manners are just another way of showing consideration for others. Faults are easily overcome with practice. And, after all, we do have three times a day to take brush-up courses.

Mr. F.H.—I'll take an old truck horse. He knows the glue factory lies at the end of the parkway.

William H. — RQ, father is working himself into a state, even though he has two years to go yet before his firm will retire him. He's never been afraid to dye his hair, change his name and get himself a new job some where else when he's 63.

I've tried to cheer him up and make him see that retirement means freedom. No more time clocks, no more quotas to meet and no more unexpected pay cuts. He can have a hot lunch at 10 because he's gotten lackadaisical and doesn't give a thought to the impolite impression he makes on others.

Eating too fast seems to be the most common fault around the family dinner table, and leads to a number of bad habits.

Homemade Cheese Bread

By Mary Moore

We went old-fashioned and sliced this on a bread board at the table as it was needed to eat with our lunch (see Mary's Travnsome Chicken Chowder). It was so fresh it was nearly too warm to slice but one whole loaf disappeared on the first round.

HOMEMADE CHEESE BREAD:

One package granular yeast, 1 teaspoon sugar, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 1 cup skim milk (I used reliquefied skim milk powder), 2 tablespoons sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1-4-oz. package process cheese shredded (see note below), 4½ cups sifted all-purpose flour (divided). To the lukewarm water in your 1-cup measuring cup add the 1 tablespoon sugar and stir, then sprinkle yeast over top, stir once, and let stand 10 minutes, when it will have risen to the top of the cup. To the scalded milk in a large mixing bowl add the shredded cheese while milk is hot, so it will begin to melt. Add the 2 tablespoons sugar and salt. When yeast liquid has risen to top of cup, stir it in, then add 2 cups of the sifted flour and beat until smooth. Add 2 more cups sifted flour and mix in as well as you can with a wooden spoon. Sprinkle your baking board or clean counter with 2 tablespoons of the remaining ½ cup flour, save all of the dough on this and knead it for 10 times which means 200 turns by hand. Add only enough flour to add more flour to the board during the kneading — just enough to prevent sticking. Knead until dough is smooth and satiny. Return to scraped-down bowl, butter top, cover and let rise at room temperature for about 2½ hours or until more than double, ed in bulk.

Turn out on board floured with remaining 2 tablespoons flour and punch down dough and knead about 1 minute, grated process cheese may be added. You will notice this bread does not call for any shortening because the cheese contains fat.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Wife Beaten by Hubby

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—My husband keeps hitting me. Just today he took the fly swatter and hit me on the back. I told him that it was time he grew up. Then he started yelling and woke up our 17-month-old son who was scared and started to cry.

Then he hit me with a bottle of milk, pulled my hair and hit me four times on the head. The 11-year-old girl is very scared of him as he hits her for any little thing. She has to be in bed at eight o'clock on the dot. If she should come home from school and tell us what she has done, he tells her to shut up her big mouth.

She has no playmates after school as he sends all the children home. He doesn't smoke, drink or go out. Only works, then back home to his own farm. Buys groceries once a month and if I spend more than ten dollars he yells all the way from the store. I told him I would put things on the bill but he said he won't pay them. So Doris, I was thinking, if I left him would he have to pay for the three kids?

If I call the police when he hits us next time, which will be again in a day or two, would that scare him a little? Please advise me.—MRS. F. F. DEM.

DEAR MRS. F. F. DEM:—You don't have to take it. Children don't have to be raised in fear. If he manhandles you or the children, you can call the police. You can leave him and get support for all of you. Once you start action, YOU MUST STICK BY YOUR GUNS.

The place to go for legal and practical help is the probation officer in the family court, in Belleville city hall.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—Is it possible, in Canada, for first cousins to marry? If so, would the children be deformed in any way?—FIRST COUSIN.

DEAR FIRST COUSIN—Quite possible. Often done.

Children will not be deformed by the mere fact of parents being first cousins. The point is that with similar backgrounds, similar strains, for good or bad, are likely to be emphasized. They are coming from two directions.

Thus, if grandfather was brilliant, the strain will come through both parents, and you may have a genius for a son. If the mutual grandmother had diabetes, this, being passed on through both parents, may well mean a tendency to diabetes in the offspring.

With a healthy background, you have nothing to worry about.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Department

In this article we will deal with the special fun established by the Canadian Education Association to assist school teachers from Commonwealth countries who are presently in Canada under a teachers' exchange arrangement.

A teacher in Canada from another Commonwealth country is usually here for a period of two years, and is paid at the same rate applicable in her home country. Due to the adverse rate of exchange, a teacher here from another country is at a great disadvantage.

To offset this, a fund has been established, to which Canadian teachers contribute, and on which the visiting teacher may draw, to offset the adverse exchange rate and thereby putting the visiting teacher on a more or less equal salary to that of a Canadian teacher.

Contributions made to this fund by a Canadian teacher are deductible up to $250 per year. If these contributions are made by payroll deductions, they should show on the teachers' T-4 slip and identified as such. The school board should not include them with other deductions such as teachers' federation fees or superannuation contributions.

The teacher from the other country who is in Canada under the teachers' exchange arrangement is not taxable in Canada unless the stay here exceeds two years. This is laid down in the Tax Treaty we have with the United Kingdom and also in the treaty with the U.S. We have used the word "teacher" in this article but it also refers to any college professor who may be in Canada under the same arrangement. If you are a visiting teacher or college professor and not sure of your tax status, contact your nearest income tax office.

Question: I am teaching in Canada under the teachers' exchange arrangement. My home is in England. I was told before I came, I was not taxable in Canada. Since coming here I was told by a friend everyone who has income in Canada must file a Canadian tax return as laid down in the Income Tax Act. Who is right?

Answer: You do not have to file a tax return in Canada. Your case is covered by Article XII of the Canada - United Kingdom Tax Agreement, which supercedes the Income Tax Act.

Question: I am leaving Canada to teach in England. Do I have to file a tax return in both countries as I will be paid from Canada.

Answer: No. File your return in Canada as you are not taxable in England unless you remain there over two years.

CAMPBELLFORD

First of Six Travelogues Given by Rotary

CAMPBELLFORD — The first of a series of six films presented by the Campbellford Rotary Club was shown at the Campbellford High School on Tuesday evening.

Sasha Siemel, the "white hunter of Brazil" was the narrator of this World Travelogue series. One such presentation will be made until spring.

The narrator, a professional hunter, said the only white man who has mastered the difficult and dangerous art of killing "tigers" or South American Jaguars with a spear took his audience to the vast jungles of Brazil where he piled his dangerfilled trade.

In addition to the hunting film, an interesting portion of the program was the presentation of the picture story of his life in the Brazilian jungle with his family. He was a guide to foreign hunters in that land.

The pictures were beautiful, depicting many usual and interesting scenes. The commentator was witty and pleasant to hear, and his descriptive power made an enjoyable evening for all.

George Nicholls of the Campbellford club operated the projector, and Dr. Dave Burgess introduced Sasha Siemel to the large and appreciative audience.

Thousands of Ideas Flow From Creative Minds of Inventors to Patent Office

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — A self-propelled floor polisher, a flea-killing dog collar and a dandruff remover are some of the thousands of ideas that flow from the creative minds of inventors to the Canadian government patent office.

There, 120 specialists decide whether the ideas actually are inventions. They process about 24,000 a year ranging from rat traps to security-wrapped weapons of war and complicated chemical, mechanical and electronic processes.

Patents were granted to Roy Fagan of Toronto, inventor of the dog collar; Thomas Roth of Indian Head, Sask., who created the dandruff remover, and Julian Ballard, an Ottawa civil servant, who dreamed up the self-propelled floor - scrubbing and polishing machine.

By granting the patents, the government protects the inventor, giving him a monopoly for 17 years in return for the invention must make a full disclosure of the invention so that at the end of 17 years others will be able to make and sell it.

INSPIRES OTHERS

This process, carried on in most countries including the Soviet Union and Communist China, keeps the wheels of progress turning, says Assistant Patent Commissioner F. W. Simons, a native of Medicine Hat, Alta., who has been with the patent office since 1927.

"Disclosure of the invention advances the public knowledge," Mr. Simons said in an interview. The monopoly given by the government ensures the inventor time and protection to get his invention, either by producing it himself or licensing his patent to others.

The published inventions, said Mr. Simons, can be improved by other inventors and man makes another step forward.

"From the transistor tube came the transistor radio," said Gordon Asher, chief of the organic chemical section of the office. A native of Edmonton, he has been with patents 15 years.

Inventions have become so complicated since the first Canadian patent was issued in 1791 that the examiners must include scientists, engineers, metallurgists and specialists in many other fields.

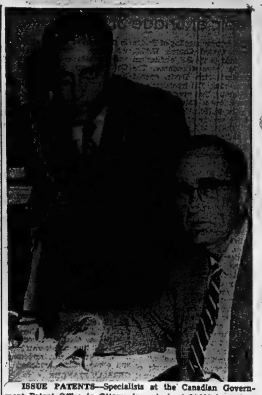
BALLOON PATENTED

Gone are the days when a balloon enthusiast won a patent for a craft he guaranteed would get its occupant from Canada to England the easy way. The occupant was to sit in the balloon high in the air until the world rotated to England, then come down.

And there was the undertaker who patented a casket equipped with an alarm system to be set off by a person if buried alive.

And the burglar alarm that set off a gun and shot the person who entered the premises, no matter who he was.

"These things were patented, but I suppose some of the things passed today will look just as funny tomorrow," Mr. Asher said with a chuckle.



Examiners today take as long as two years to pass judgment on complicated inventions such as the submarine air navigation instrument perfected by Wing Cmdr. J. G. Wright of Liverpool, N.S. He received $13,500 from the Canadian government for the R-Theta computer.

Federal civil servants have become so inventive that special sections within department heads and the Crown-owned Canadian Patents and Development Limited have been formed to license the use of their inventions in industry.

REWARDED FOR WORK

The $1,000,000 annual profits of the company from royalties and licensing fees are invested in further research.

Civil servants who perfect inventions on the job have no rights to the patent but usually are rewarded in a lump sum as in the cases of Wing Cmdr. Wright and D. L. Hings of Rossland, B.C., who received $15,000 for a radio transmitter and receiver used by Canadian army tanks in the Second World War.

ISSUE PATENTS—Specialists at the Canadian Government Patent Office in Ottawa inspect about 24,000 inventions annually and decide on their merits before issuing patents which protect the inventor for a period of 17 years. Gordon Asher (left), chief of the organic chemical section, and F. W. Simons, assistant patent commissioner, study a recently patented invention—the Canada Plotter—used for charting positions on maps. (CP Photo).

They reap the full reward and Dr. Donald Green invented of inventions not related to their work, and created on their own time, Dominion Observatory Physicist Francois Henuteau sold rights for a television camera invention for $125,000 and retired to Belgium.

Some Canadian inventors have gained world fame, notably Alexander Graham Bell who conceived his first telephone at Brantford, Ont., in 1874.

Charles Laurier of Montreal invented the speedometer in 1820; the work of Thomas L. Wilson on acetylene and carbide chemistry led to the founding of Union Carbide Company, a major Canadian chemical firm, today's inventions, Mr. Simons feels there is still room for the ideas of the household handyman working with simple products such as furniture and garden equipment.

It costs about $60 to patent an invention and the application must be accompanied by sketches and detailed descriptions.

Quickest way to make money, says Mr. Simons, is to sell or license your patent to a large company with the finances and facilities to market it right away.

Many Attend Grand Opening Of Supermarket

STIRLING — On Thursday November 9th at 10 o'clock a.m. the doors of the newly renovated I.G.A. store in Stirling were opened to the public. Unfortunately the proprietor, Harold Bird is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. Previous to the opening, he talked with each staff member by telephone.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bird, Mrs. Harold Bird and son Douglas and the large staff members were on hand to welcome the crowds who lined the sidewalk waiting to gain admittance to the new store. During the first hour and a half over 400 customers took advantage of the special sales.

Free cokes and ice cream bars were handed out during the day. Lovely floral bouquets of mums added beauty to the new store. These were gifts of congratulation for this suspicious occasion.

Mr. Douglas Bird was busy taking flash pictures, which his father will be able to view later.

This new supermarket has a larger space for fresh vegetables, frozen foods, canned goods, and a fine assortment of meat. There is also a wide range of non food products. The aisles are spacious which makes shopping much easier. The northern end is covered with wood panelling and this up-to-date store will be a boon to shoppers in this area. The basement will be used for storage, while the upper floor has been renovated into apartments. There are several special prices on items each day this week for the shopping public.

Besides the proprietor, those on the staff are Mrs. Allen Lawes, Mrs. Jack Haggerty, Mrs. Lorne Wilson, Mrs. Doug Scott and Miss Linda Preston. Shades Of 1948, Stamps Upset Eskys!

Win Playoff By Point

By GRAHAM COX

EDMONTON (CP) — Calgary Stampeders reached the Western Football Conference final for the first time since 1948 Monday night, upsetting Edmonton Eskimos 37-36 in their two-game, total-point semi-final. They open a best-of-three final series against Winnipeg Saturday.

The Stampeders, third in the league standings and a decided underdog, beat the Eskimos 10-8 in Calgary Saturday and saw the slim lead shaved to a single point as Edmonton won the second game 18-17 before 14,112 fans at windswept Clarke Stadium.

It marks the farthest advance by a Calgary team since the Stampeders won their first and only Grey Cup by beating Ottawa 12-7 in 1948 and returned to lose 26-15 to Montreal Alouettes the following year.

The Stampeders begin their series against the first - place Blue Bombers in Calgary Saturday. The teams play again in Winnipeg Nov. 22 with the third game scheduled for Nov. 25 in Winnipeg, if necessary.

Calgary made the most of the conditions Monday night to protect their slender margin.

BOOTS SINGLES

Quarterback Eagle Day, a recent acquisition from Washington Redskins of the National Football League, gave them a two-point edge in the first quarter, kicking successive singles of 70 and 65 yards with a 25- to 30-mile-an - hour wind at his back.

Fullback Earl Lunsford also scored two Calgary touchdowns, both converted by George Hassen, who also booted a third-quarter single on a field-goal attempt.

Edmonton touchdowns, in the second and fourth quarters, were scored by quarterback Jackie Parker and fullback Mike Lashuk. Parker kicked both converts and added a field goal while halfback Bobby Walden added a 65-yard single.

Edmonton coach Eagle Keys said the turning point in the game came in the fourth quarter when Edmonton had a touchdown by Lashuk called back on a holding penalty.

"I don't think there's been another touchdown scored on a running play called back all season," he said.

The wind played a major part in the type of game played, both teams having it at their backs for two quarters.

"We did it guys, didn't we?" shouted giant end Ernie Warlick in a raucous display in the Calgary dressing room after the game.

Warlick, a four-year veteran from North Carolina College, was one of several Stampeders who caught key passes in Calgary's third-quarter surge.

In a corner, rookie coach Bob Dobbs held himself out of the limelight, letting his players take the bows.

Dobbs said the switch to the spread formation, an innovation cooked up by the Calgary club just for the playoffs, was the turning point.

"We wanted to loosen up their (Edmonton's) defence and the spread did just that. There's no doubt Eagle made it click, but really it was a fine team victory.

"The offence in that third quarter had to shoot the works because we knew we weren't going to go too far in the last quarter against the wind."

TROPHIES OF THE HUNT — A few parties have returned to the city after having drawn a blank in the woods, but not so the party seen above which copped its full quota. Seen with their moose and deer are Gordon Cooper, Milton Phillips and Dave Burroughs, all of Belleville, and Bud Storey of the Harcourt district. They shot their deer "back north."

'Dollar for Dollar Best'

Riders Pinch-Penny, Hints Player

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders, not exactly the wealthiest club in Canadian football, are going to have to put up a good deal of money between now and next season to acquire new players if it hopes to hold its position — and attendance—in the Eastern Football Conference.

Lineman Kaye Vaughan Sunday night took a crack at the reputed parsimonious attitude of the club owners toward salaries and expenditures for new players.

He said on a local television program that "dollar for dollar, we have the best backfield in Canada." He added that this remark is a team saying.

General manager George Terlep was present and said rather tartly that the players "are paid what they're worth."

Head coach Frank Clair said he plans to leave on a scouting trip in a week or so. This was probably the only useful by-product of Riders' elimination from the Big Four playoffs by Toronto Argonauts Saturday.

"We'll take any player we can get our hands on," Clair said.

For a start, he's especially interested in tackles because Milt Graham has played out, his option and has returned to Chatham, Mass., Graham, with Ottawa six years, said he thinks he'll quit football.

The Riders need a couple of offensive halfbacks and some deep defensive men as well as tackles and possibly an end.

Stafford Smythe Resigns

TORONTO (CP) — Conn Smythe, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, said Monday that his son, Stafford, has resigned as chairman of the committee which operates Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

His move left the committee, known as the Silver Seven, without a leader.

The senior Smythe, in announcing the resignation, reiterated that he would like to step down from active participation in the operation of the Gardens, which he founded in 1931.

Probably the most disturbing aspect of the situation for the club owners is that Riders didn't have a capacity crowd all season, though they won the Grey Cup in 1960. Saturday's game drew only 19,151 or 2,250 fewer than the record turnout for a Hamilton game here earlier this season.

"Nothing would make me happier than to see my son take over my job," he said.

Stafford said later that under certain conditions he would be interested in becoming president of the Gardens.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Heavyweight champion of the world Floyd Patterson is now in Toronto training for his forthcoming title-defence bout with Boston's Tom McNeeley, an outspoken young man who might lack ability but definitely not confidence.

The announcement that McNeeley had signed to fight Patterson merely added fuel to the flame of certain charges against the champion that he doesn't fight worthy contenders.

Before he left New York for Toronto, the champion told reporters his side of the story. "I just wish somebody would sit down and look back through the records. Check my record against those of other champs and see if there is any difference at all in the men we fought."

"As far as I am concerned," Patterson said, "I have to figure like this: I have a family. The NBA is not going to support it if the government takes all my money in taxes. I'd hate to turn to my children when they're ready to go to college and have to tell them they can't go because I listened to the NBA and fought as much as they wanted me to. The NBA is not going to pay my children's way through college. I'd fight ten contenders a year if they would pay my taxes. Of course I've go to lose some day, but not too soon I hope, not for a few more years at least."

Patterson said he had planned to fight more, but again it was a cases of taxes. Everything goes to the government. He said he is fighting twice this year because he loses ground with single fights. He gets stale with inactivity and that's when he decided to fight two bouts annually. "I just hope I defeat McNeeley and fight the Number One contender next year."

He said he considers McNeeley a legitimate contender who has had 33 fights, and is undefeated. "When it comes to beating him I'm leaving plenty of leeway. I'll just be looking to win, and be just as satisfied with a decision as a knockout. I have to gain points and keep him from knocking me out. But if the opportunity presents itself to knock him out, I'll take it. I'm looking for this man to be just as tough as anybody I have fought."

"I underestimated a man once," said the champion significantly, "and got up off the canvas seven times—each time wiser. I can't let my mind be swayed any longer. Every man I get in the ring with is the Number One contender as far as I am concerned. He may not be in someone else's book, but their book doesn't count. In my book he's Number One."

Patterson said he hasn't seen any films of McNeeley's fights and the only thing he knows about him is what he has been told. "I hear he is a bull, that he's wild, that he's got a left hand."

"Next year will be my big year. I'm not committing myself now—and this is providing I get by McNeeley—as to whom I will fight first. But it will be my big year because I have my pride."

"And I want to make this very clear, mind you. It's not because of anything the NBA may be saying, or anything anybody else is saying—that I'm ducking this person or that person. The reason I'll make next year my big year is because of myself, because I want to walk down the street with my head held high. I don't want anyone to take credit saying they did this or they did that and pushed me into fighting this guy or that guy," said Patterson.

"I want to let the public decide if I'm fighting contenders or not. I'm sure they'll agree I am right."

On the other side of the picture McNeeley admits Patterson is a very good fighter after four or five rounds, but he is a notoriously slow starter. "I don't know whether he is slow to warm up physically or is slow to figure out his opponent in an early round but he does get away very lethargically."

And he adds, "a slow starter is made to order for my rushing attack. I took this bout because I'm a better fighter in the first two rounds at least, than Patterson is, and I expect to knock him out."

Clark, Faloney Tops

Eastern All-Star Teams

By WILF GRUSON

TORONTO (CP) — Halfback Don Clark, a spectacular runner who was rejected by two clubs, and the brilliant Bernie Faloney, a quarterback considered expendable a year ago, today gained Canadian interest Norm Stoneburgh as the leaders in the voting for the 1961 Eastern Football Conference all-star team.

Clark, a slashing, field-dodging ground gainer with Montreal Alouettes, was the only unanimous choice of the voters who picked the mythical all-star of fensive and defensive teams for The Canadian Press.

Faloney, the five-year veteran Hamilton Tiger-Cats tried to peg out for quarterback Sam Etcheverry in a trade that didn't jell, and Stoneburgh, a standout for the Toronto Argonauts for eight seasons, were selected by all but one of the 37 voters.

EVENLY DIVIDED

The football writers, sportscasters and coaches in the league cities—five equal representation on the all-star team to all four clubs. The votes were weighted on a five-to-equal balloting strength to each league city.

The league - leading Tiger-Cats ended with a total of seven players on the two teams —three on offence and four on defence. The third-place Argonauts had the last-place Alouettes each gained six positions, landing three men on the two teams, and the runner-up Ottawa Rough Riders were selected for five spots—three on offence and two on defence.

The Alouettes, although they trailed all season, showed vast improvement defensively over last year and the voters didn't overlook it. Last season Montreal didn't place a man on the defensive team.

Clark, a castoff from Ottawa and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, had a great season with the Alouettes in his second year with the club and earned a star rating for the first time. The former Ohio State University backfielder was the leading ground gainer in the league.

Faloney's greatest asset was his return to the all-star team after an absence of a year. Like the good old pro he is, he took the shock of the Hamilton attempt to get rid of him and went on to do an outstanding job. The former Maryland University all - American was picked previously as the all-star quarterback in 1958 and after Etcheverry had been chosen for five straight years. Etcheverry, who shot ahead of St. Louis Cardinals after the trade for Faloney fell through, was selected again last season.

CANADIAN STAR

Stoneburgh, the key man in Argos' offensive line, made the all-star squad for the second successive year. A tremendous blocker, the 250-pound centre is the Canadian who probably is good enough to make the grade in the National Football League.

He and Ron Stewart, the speedy, little Ottawa halfback were the only Canadians picked for the defensive team. They were named to the defensive unit — end Pete Neumann of Hamilton, middle guard Marty Martinello of Toronto and corner linebacker Ron Stewart of Montreal. Stewart and Martinello also made the team last season and for Neumann it was the eighth time in nine years he had earned the honor, including seven straight seasons from 1953 to 1959.

The offensive backfield includes Clark, Stewart, Faloney, triple-threat Dave Mann of Toronto, the leading pass receiver and kicker in the league, and swivel-hipped Dick Shatto, ace of Argos. It was the fifth time in six years that Shatto had made the grade and the second successive season for Mann.

No player was selected for both teams.

Win Opener 4-3

Macs Shade Kingston

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Belleville McFarlands opened the OHA Eastern Junior hockey league schedule in Kingston last night by edging the Junior Frontenacs 4-3 in a nip and tuck battle before a small crowd.

The Macs took a period to get untracked, trailing 1-0 at the end of the first, but thereafter were never hooked. They led 3-2 after forty minutes and opened up a 4-2 lead in the third minute before they closed the scoring.

Coach Cordie Bell is hoping to fill out his lineup with defenceman Paul Zelkos and Nick Wicoli and forward Dave Smith in time for Friday's game here against Peterborough. All three are waiting clearance before signing with the Macs.

Gord Parker, after a shakey start settled down and played a strong game in the Belleville cage. He came up with several key saves when the Frontenacs pressed for the equalizer in the third period.

Pat Keller was a two-goal man for the winners while Bucky Ethier scored what proved to be the winning goal and Pete Weston added the other. Rookie Graydon Scott scored three assists, Garry Mavety two, Gary Duvall and Billy McGuire one apiece.

Ron Brown, pick of the Frontenacs, fired all three of his club's goals. Ron Curran drew two assists, Gary McMillan and Bob Kidds drew the others.

The clubs evenly divided 14 minor penalties, including one each penalty to Belleville but a penalty shot cost the Macs a goal in the opening stanza.

Parker drew far out of his net and the puck got behind him but Ted Johnstone-man Larry Mavety grabbed the puck with his stick as it was about to enter the net and relieve Art Casterton another Belleville goal tender pinch. Brown waltzed in close, pulled Parker to one side and slipped it in.

Thes lead held until the 2.10 mark of the second period when Keller deflected Mavety's shot from the point past Scott. Dummier. Keller sank a short backhand shot to complete a play with Graydon Duvall at 7.30 for a 2-1 score.

The Frontenac penalty backfired on the Macs when Curran and Brown broke away from a Belleville power play to tie it at 2-2 at 14.06.

The Macs put on the pressure when Lavalle was off at 15.46 and just seconds after his return, Weston slid a perfect pass out to restore the Belleville lead.

Three Mac attackers got behind the Kingston defence to make it 4-2 at 13.52 of the third. Ethier took McGuire's pass and tucked it in the short side. Two minutes later, Bucky Hunter hit the sin bin, Brown completed his hat trick.

That was it although the Frontenacs fought hard to the finish.

'Sticks' To Get Telecast?

Hold It! We May See It!

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC said today it has received an offer from Jake Gaudaur, chairman of the television committee of the Eastern Football Conference, proposing duplicate coverage by the CBC and the privately-owned Canadian Television Network of "decisive, final" playoff games.

A CBC spokesman said Mr. Gaudaur telephoned his proposal Monday to H. G. Walker, CBC general manager, and was told he will receive a reply by noon Thursday.

Games affected by the proposal are the second game of the Eastern Canada finals between Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats in Hamilton Nov. 25 and the second, and possibly third games of the best-of-three western finals at Winnipeg Dec. 2 and 3.

The CBC holds television rights to the eastern games and CTV holds eastern rights. Up to the present, the two organizations have been unable to agree on a basis for exchanging coverage in each other's areas.

The CBC spokesman said Mr. Gaudaur's new offer would allow duplicate coverage by CBC and CTV stations in completed eastern games.

Last Saturday the CBC rejected a CTV exchange proposal that would have permitted the CBC to broadcast eastern playoff games to the west and carry western games to eastern areas.

CBC stations outside CTV areas.

Kilrea Takes Over AL Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Springfield's Brian Kilrea, who comes from a famous hockey family, moved into first place in the American Hockey League's individual scoring race.

The 27-year-old centre, whose uncles Hec, Wally and Walt Kilrea all had long service in pro hockey, has tallied 21 points for the season on seven goals and 14 assists according to league statistics released today.

Paul Larivee of Providence Reds, last week's leader, has dropped to second place with 20 points, two points in front of a trio—Floyd Smith, Springfield; Jimmy Anderson and Bill Sweeney.

Smith, teammate Bruce Cline and rookie Pierre Brillant of Providence are tied for the lead in goals scored with nine each while Kilrea and Alex Faulkner of Rochester Americans share the assists lead with 14.

Buffalo's Denis Dupere currently has the No. 1 goalie, al-

Four Kinds of Sex Problems Dealt With in New Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why would George Cukor be directing The Chapman Report?

The question has furrowed a number of brows in Hollywood, where Cukor is noted as a director of taste and quality. Look at the record: Little Women, David Copperfield, Romeo and Juliet, Philadelphia Story, Camille, A Double Life, Born Yesterday, Edward, My Son.

Now he is engaged at Warner Brothers in putting the Chapman Report on film.

A man with penetrating eyes behind thick glasses, Cukor maintains a constant enthusiasm despite his 40 - odd years of directing plays and pictures.

"Why are you doing this a film?" I asked.

"Because I like it," he said. AMUSED AT QUESTIONS

"I am amused by all the people who ask why on earth would George Cukor be doing The Chapman Report. As if I were suddenly making a dirty picture.

"I'm not. When I read this story, I immediately thought, this is current, this is what people are thinking about. I thought we could make a movie that deals with frankness about sex but is done without vulgarity. And that's what I think we're doing."

Besides, I think there are four very exciting stories, each dealing with a different kind of sexual problem. One girl (Shelley Winters) practises adultery as a regular pattern, a widow (Jane Fonda) has an unfortunate feeling she is frigid, a divorcee (Claire Bloom) is promiscuous. Another wife (Glynis Johns) leads a fairly well - adjusted married life but takes a fling at adultery.

"What is the lesson? I don't necessarily make pictures to teach a lesson, but I can assure you that adultery will be shown as a highly unsatisfactory thing. I don't think any woman will be inclined to go out and try it because of seeing our picture."

Patterson Expected To Play

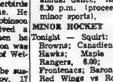
HOMILTON (CP) — Coach Jim Trimble of Hamilton Tiger-Cats said Monday he expects end Hal Patterson will play to Sunday's Eastern Football Conference final against Toronto Argonauts.

The game, first of a two-game, total-point series, will be played in Toronto.

Patterson has been sidelined since being injured in a game at Calgary Sept. 16. He suffered a shoulder injury when upended after catching a pass.

Trimble also denied reports that Patterson had lost 28 pounds during his absence from the gridiron. He admitted that the end had dropped about seven pounds, probably because Patterson had been "fretting about getting back into the lineup."

Wolves Goalie Fined $25, Suspended



OTTAWA (CP) — Goalie Carl Woloshyn of Ottawa Wolves has been fined $25 and suspended indefinitely for money he made misconduct penalty he received at Sault Ste. Marie last Thursday.

President Jack Urie of the Eastern Professional Hockey League announced the decision today, his first official ruling since taking over the presidency two weeks ago.

Wetzel, a native of Detroit, joined the club which plays Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds 3-3 tie in the EPHL when he hooked referee Doug Robinson from behind and received a misconduct penalty. Then he kept arguing and Robinson was hit in the face by one of Wetzel's gloves.

Urie said Wetzel will be suspended for five games Nov. 17 against Hull - Ottawa, Nov. 18 in Kingston and Nov. 19 in North Bay.

Double Fight Bill

TV Payola Gold Mine?

NEW YORK (AP)—Pay television, the coin box gold mine that allegedly was the big lure that moved New York baseball Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers to the West Coast four years ago, is back in the news again with the Dec. 4 heavyweight title fight between Floyd Patterson and Tom McNeeley.

The fight is part of a pay TV doubleheader, with the second originating in Philadelphia between top heavyweight contender Sonny Liston and Eric Westphal of Germany. Patterson and McNeeley fought on TV nightcap from Toronto, the only place on the continent where pay TV and sport have formed a compatible relationship.

In Etobicoke, a Toronto suburb, Telemeter Pay TV has equipped homes with push-button office facilities. Professional football and hockey are currently being brought into the pay viewers' homes and Telemeter officials say boxing's potential for the big dollar is still there. One of Canada's leading market research organizations surveyed Telemeter's subscribers three Sundays ago and showed that professional football is still the big Sunday draw. On that day, the Eastern Conference game between Toronto and Montreal played in Toronto was guaranteed for it by 35 per cent of the Telemeter homes viewing either free or pay TV during the mid-afternoon hours.

Using a hypothetical situation that could have occurred last Sunday if pay TV was in operation in the New York metropolitan area, it could have provided a big payday.

The crucial National Football League game between Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants at Yankee Stadium was a sell-out (65,000 plus) for the last three weeks. There is no television of any other professional football available to the 15,000,000 population in the metropolitan area.

With scalpers asking, and getting, upwards of $75 a ticket for the game, pay TV at the $2 price could bring in an additional $500,000 in revenue if available to home viewers.

Havana to Houston

Rough Trip for Rookie

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Jose Cleto of Havana is well on his way to the big leagues but it's been a rough trip so far.

Cleto, an 18-year-old pitcher, left his hometown nine days ago to join Houston Colts in the Arizona Instructional League.

Arriving signed a Houston contract last March but couldn't get out of Cuba until now. He had no time to tell Cleto he was on his way.

Wednesday, Cleto, Miami the lanky pitcher—who speaks no English—had to spend two days in an immigration camp.

Jose flew into Houston late Thursday night.

He then found he misplaced the suit case he got with Cold phone number.

Having nothing else to do, Jose started pitching. He asked for a hot dog stand. He likes hot dogs and found a stand that sells Houston's best.

Jose ate five hot dogs and ordered two to go.

Then he went to find the airport. So he loaded the two hot dogs under a nearby overpass.

Came the dawn and Jose found the slip of paper but couldn't find a telephone. He spent two more hours eventually winding up several miles from the airport.

The Colts' office but no one there could speak Spanish.

Kemper Kaiser, a pert time scout, came in the offic about the time Jose spoke Spanish and located Arcia.

The young Cuban flew on to Phoenix Monday, hoping any trip he might make through Arizona won't be as tough as his start.

Lightweight Titlist

Moore Whips Japanese

TOKYO (AP) — Featherweight champion Davey Moore, 26, now a two-time winner in Japan, would like to defend his world title here a third time, providing the price is right.

But before Japanese promoters sign him again, they'll probably want to see a more talented than Kazuo Takayama, 25, outpointed by Moore in a 15-round non-title bout Monday night.

Takayama, despite a nine-count knockdown in the 13th round, gave Moore, 28, a working and forceful time at times with his consistent rushing tactics. Moore was defeated in August, 1960, by Moore in the champion's first Japan title fight. He was not the same class with the Springfield, Ohio, boxer.

Balon Leads EP Pack

Beavers Dominate Race

OTTAWA (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers dominate the leaders in the Eastern Professional Hockey League after 17 games, continue dominating the individual scoring race.

Statistics released Monday show Hillyard Wingers' Dave Balon, who picked up four goals and an assist last week, leading the pack with 22 points on 10 goals and 12 assists.

Two other Kitchener forwards follow. Ed Hoekstra has 20 points with eight goals and 12 assists while Mel Pearson has compiled 16 points on a 6-12 combination.

George Sullivan of Kitchener has 19 points and Eastern Canada scorer Wally Kuryluk of Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds and Peter Vaselenak of Kingston Frontenacs.

Kitchener goalie Jack McCartan has the league's best net-minding average—2.41 goals per game—and is tied for shutouts with two.

The Beavers also top the penalty department with 204 minutes. The only division they do not lead is individual penalty count, held by Dino Rozzarra of the Sault with 65 minutes.

Wings Top Juniors One-Two

TORONTO (CP) — Bordes Smith's move from ninth to third place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race went almost unnoticed last week as Hamilton Red Wings' one-two punch of Lowell MacDonald and Pit Martin moved farther ahead of the pack.

A forward for Guelph Royals, Smith collected three goals and four assists to move into a tie with Bobby Falls Flyers' Billy Knibbs. Both have six goals and eight assists for 14 points.

MacDonald and Martin combined to score seven goals and seven assists in Hamilton's last three outings.

MacDonald, with 11 goals and 11 assists in the Red Wings' seven games, holds first place with 22 points, Martin is two points back with 11 goals and nine assists.

Dave McCoosh of Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds is the leading rookie of the Flyers (six goals) having 13 points, while Andre Boudrias of Montreal Junior Canadiens, Phil Esposito of St. Catharines Teepees and Ron Schock of the Flyers have 12 each.

Hamilton's Bud Bloom was scored on seven times but his league-leading goals against average still is tops at 2.11 goals a game. Bob Champoux of the Canadiens reduced his average to 3.17 from 3.4 a week ago.

General Tendencies: Very unusual aspects are in effect today and it is no advisable that you force anything and that you do not respond to the electricity in the atmosphere by losing self-control, or taking chances, especially in motion. However, by sitting back and observing conditions and persons about you, you have big chance to understand most things much better.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —While an associate and a close tie may be having some sort of quarrel, it does not behoove you to take sides. They will soon settle it amicably. Keep busily occupied with your special and important duties. Be wise — smile.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Put aside any ideas that mean making radical changes at this time. Also, don't be harsh with a fellow worker who is out of sorts, but act kindly and go on with your work diligently. You will then be really appreciated. Thinking pays.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Take time to get over assets, inventory, even of a personal nature, but don't confide in others. Make a show of affluence, etc. Be diplomatic and avoid extravagance to create expensive whims. Poise is the keynote A.M. and P.M.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Think out ways in which associates can be more cooperative and make tactful suggestions. Later, don't permit a close tie to curtail your activities because there is an element of possessiveness in the relationship. Grow.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Now is your opportunity to impress higher-ups with your real efficiency and especial talents. Get out of that rut early and be sure you employ the most modern and practical methods in your fingertips for best rates!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Indulge that desire to enjoy yourself, providing you don't neglect vital tasks that need attention first and that you do not spend too much money. Be sane, sensible.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Since you are not thinking very clearly today, it is best to confer with advisers and higher-ups before you make any decisions of importance. Also, confide in family who have your interests at heart as well as fine ideas.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be sure not to neglect those important calls on trade that can be lucrative simply because you feel out of sorts emotionally or want to putter around with little things that are annoying your fussy nature. Be practical.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — It is vitally important that you handle any property affairs pending instead of permitting friends to take you out for sports or meals that can await a far more opportune time. See that monetary arrangements are just and equitable.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) —Take a little time to analyze your present position in life and just where it is you are headed and where you really want to go. However, be very diplomatic with higher-ups, insure personal security. Pick. Avoid a personal argument.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —While you are very anxious to get into new outlets, meet new people, etc., this is not the right day for that, since there is much work facing you that first has to be handled wisely and with real efficiency. Labor diligently.

If your child is born today .. there will be a wonderful faculty in this chart for getting along with persons in all walks of life, as well as having the ability to solve problems very wisely. Hence, he very sure you give as complete an academic education as you can afford, since maturity brings real success, especially where government work is concerned. Give a course in advanced psychology.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Sgt. of Police In Orillia Resigns Post

ORILLIA (CP)—The Orillia police commission Monday accepted the resignation of a sergeant dismissed in July and later reinstated after a public inquiry.

The resignation was presented to the commission.

Sgt. Murray Robinson, in handing his resignation to Judge J. G. Harvie of Barrie Oct. 31, accused Police Chief R. Q. McIntyre of persecution and announced his intention to run for town council in the next civic election.

Chief McIntyre dismissed the sergeant July 12 on charges of swearing and destroying an official ticket and reporting it August.

Sgt. Robinson said he has found himself unable to continue scientifically continue my duties as a police officer and therefore, with much regret, tendering my resignation."

Hunger Strike Leader Now In 14th Day

PARIS (Reuters)—The condition of Mohammed Ben Bella, leader of a hunger strike by imprisoned Algerian rebel leaders now in its 14th day, today was described by French officials as "not critical."

The officials said that Ben Bella and two other imprisoned leaders fasting with him would be force-fed if they lose consciousness or if their lives appear in danger.

Ben Bella and the other two rebel leaders, Ali Ahmed and Mohammed Khider, have protested "against their will" to the hospital at Garches between Versailles and Paris.

All three have refused to eat since Nov. 1 to back demands for treatment as political prisoners.

Another 9,000 Moslem prisoners also were believed to have joined in the strike when it started but the number still holding out could not be determined. Altogether there are an estimated 15,000 insurgents imprisoned in France.

The leaders of the Tunis-based insurgent provisional government have announced that peace negotiations to settle the Algerian war will not be considered while the prisoners were in danger of dying.

The rebels also have said that the outcome of peace talks would hinge on the early release of Ben Bella, Ahmed and Khidder.

strikes. In addition a 10-megaton bomb fell on Detroit and wiped out most of neighboring Windsor.

ATTACK ENDS

Army officers at the national training centre at Ottawa said the attack was over, but the "all clear" signal over radio would not be given for another hour or all later today.

The "all clear" was to be given only when Sirens were used only to warn of attack.

Brigadier Gibbon said the testing of the sirens was "largely successful." More than 300 were sounded.

The public's role to the exercise ended Monday night following a 90-minute radio broadcast in which Prime Minister Diefenbaker reminded Canadians to look to their own personal survival plans.

While the government was "making every possible effort to ease world tensions and to secure lasting peace it is necessary at this the same time to ensure survival of the nation and as many Canadians as possible," he said in a recorded announcement.

WELL, WHAT TO DO

Those who listened to the broadcasts carried by all radio stations—and CBC said that in estimating how many did—were told what they should do in event of attack. The broadcast was sprinkled with repeated assurances that the attack in progress was not real.

Six persons were interviewed by a reporter in a mythical Monday night on Ottawa's downtown Sparks Street. One was from Parliament Hill, as the sirens wailed. Only one of the six knew what was intended.

And while most Canadians went about their business equally unconcerned, the sirens sent groups of officials from capital cities and civil emergency centres out of range of Soviet missiles to control centres in every province for provincial government officials. Ottawa's civil defence officials left by bus for Petawawa from Ottawa's City Hall and included Justice Minister Fulton and Production Minister O'Hurley.

COPTER GROUNDED

Mr. Harkness and other top officials left by helicopter but the final site immediately after the attack was announced. The helicopter was grounded by poor weather. In a real attack, officials said, the helicopters would leave under the cover of bad weather.

The air flight takes 50 minutes, compared with two hours by bus.

In the Ottawa area the training centre at national defence headquarters here, an officer said reporters will be told these information "that might help and comfort the enemy."

He said that if a real attack came the reporters would be cleared out of the building immediately.

Across the first centres assumed to be hit Monday night was Edmonton. There were—in theory—more than 125,000 to 150,000 persons killed, injured or trapped by rubble following the first blast.

Siren trouble came early and fast at Penetanguishene, Ont.

In Ottawa sirens sounded prematurely and no wail was to have been a "silent" test of their electrical circuits early in the day.

SIREN BLAZES

In Vancouver a short circuit set one siren wailing for a minute. It others to wail long past the scheduled three-minute warning period.

Lamented West Vancouver Mayor W. T. B. (Jim) McKitt: "We had to put out the siren to save our eardrull." Another was hit by a missile in the mock attack.

Housewives across the country will be asked later whether the siren were effective.

In Montreal, many persons reported they didn't hear the sirens at all. Others who did complained that they terrified their children. Police and public officials flew by helicopter to underground headquarters at St. Jerome, 30 miles north.

At Toronto and Hamilton sirens were threatening the host but there wasn't a sound in Oshawa. Police manned the prope buttons, but nothing happened. Only seven of 14 sirens at London sounded.

Guelph sirens haven't worked since the city received them two ones two years ago. Sudbury's alert began seven minutes late, Kingston's 10 minutes.

Nine Ontario cabinet ministers, including Premier Robarts, took up quarters at the Ontario provincial emergency centre at Camp Borden. Others northwest of Toronto.

North Bay was one of the first points hit in Ontario and fallout from the imaginary nuclear blast threatening the host of several installations at Camp Petawawa, Ont.

Maj. - Gen. H. A. Sparling, general commanding officer of the army's Ontario Central Command, said the Ontario Civil Defence College was in operation in Wisconsin, Quebec and New York state to give information on theoretical hits and fallout.

Scouting activities

BY CHRIS F. LEGGAT

5TH BELLEVILLE TROOP

A very impressive ceremony was held last week, when nine scouts of the College Hill United Church group were invested into the Troop. This is a very important event in the life of a Scout and Scouter, as Arthur Steenburg, assisted by Neale Alf Warner, who introduced the Investiture was carried out each step was understood by the boys.

The new Scouts, Ronnie Seppel, Blair Crossen, Murray Post, Wade Trudeau, Terry Mash, Ronnie Reeves, Gene Bryonson, Paul Daniels, Jack Pearce and two Scouts who were invested earlier, Rodney Law and Doug Hunter were welcomed by District Commissioner Murray Maw.

The D.C. congratulated the Leaders of the 5th on their efficiency particularly at this investiture and then gave an informal talk on "what is expected of a Scout". This was presumably for the benefit of the parents who were present because as we all know, Belleville Scouts know what is expected of them.

A Mr. Armstrong, to whom we are indebted for this item, wishes to express his thanks to the 5th Attack, Troop and the A.S.M. Jim McBride for their valuable help. There will be more boys ready for the next Troop in the near future and another investiture ceremony is being prepared for.

Pushbutton Shopping in Store for Future

TORONTO (CP) — Pushbutton shopping, a highway-style markets bulk like drive-in theatres is in store for shoppers of the future, a food industry meeting expert said Monday.

Robert A. Whitley, president of the Marketing Audits Institute, said customers at three stores would order goods on a screen, make their choice by pushbutton and have their purchases as they drive out.

He told the Toilet Goods Manufacturers Association that merchandising of the future will provide growing new markets for cosmetics by offering "more and more leisure time for increased purchasing life expectancy, he said, the grandparent market is growing fast and there are more women in the labor force; there will be mobile stores; shopping centres will have their own brand lines; service stations will sell more lines because car makers will produce cars which need almost no service.

Mr. Whitney said goods or services will be sold to more leisure or make leisure - more enjoyable will be top sellers.

Drug Companies Give Figures To Committee

TORONTO (CP)—A survey of most major drug manufacturers in Canada shows they spent an average of 26.7 per cent of their net sales last year on selling and advertising and 8.4 per cent on research.

The figures were presented Monday to a select committee of the Ontario legislature investigating drug costs, which resumed hearing after a summer-long lapse.

Prepared by Toronto accountant Arthur J. Little at the instigation of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, the figures follow a survey of 40 drug companies which represent an estimated 90 per cent of total Canadian pharmaceutical sales.

The 40 companies reported total income for 1960 of $128,302,000, of which net sales accounted for $107,994,000, or 84.3 per cent.

The report said it cost $33,440,000 to manufacture or purchase, assembled for $4,765,000 and selling and advertising for $25,789,000. After all expenses and taxes, the firms reported net profits of $6,998,000, or 5.5 per cent.

Of the 40 companies, eight were classified as being Canadian controlled. Twenty - three were controlled by United States firms, four each by British and Swiss companies and one by a Swedish company.

In Small Doses Alcohol Superb Tranquillizer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Brooklyn professor of medicine said Saturday that unfounded prejudice has virtually wiped out the use in the United States of one of the world's oldest and most therapeutic medicines—alcohol.

In small doses alcohol is a superb tranquillizer, said Dr. William Dock. In larger doses it is a good sedative.

The risk of excessive dependence on alcohol needs proper perspective, he said in a report prepared for a symposium on alcohol and civilization at the University of California School of Medicine.

Dr. Dock is professor at the State University of New York Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn.

"As the human race discovered thousands of years ago, alcohol makes one's troubles somewhere organic or emotional, seem less alarming.

Exercise Tocsin Ends, Country Licks Wounds

Imaginary Nuclear Attack Well Contained

PETAWAWA, Ont. (CP) — This in theory is the capital of Canada today, as the country licks the wounds left by an imaginary nuclear attack and counts the war dead—by now well over 3,000,000.

If the attack were real, crews in Ottawa, 100 miles southeast of here, would be searching in the rubble for the bodies of the prime minister and Governor-General.

Fourteen other cities would be smouldering ruins, with rubble, fire and smoke clouds the only markers over thousands of graves.

Soldiers would be pouring into the cities trying to rescue the persons still alive and the survival operations of the country would be directed from a big basement fallout shelter here with Defence Minister Harkness acting as prime minister.

But the attack wasn't real, and some supposedly successful Ottawa Tuesday night from this federal emergency centre, after 24 hours of close observation and watching soldiers charting the attack and dealing huge casualties, were almost surprised it wasn't.

SECOND WARNING SYSTEM

Tuesday was the final day of Exercise Tocsin B, the second annual security test this year of Canada's national warning system and its civil defence plans.

Tocsin means warning bell—a name that takes into account the 24 alerts that sounded at 7 p.m. EST Monday to start off the exercise.

The exercise finished at 7 p.m. EST Tuesday and Defence Minister Harkness was sounded—in the minds of thousands of Canadians—to sound bobs to plug yet in the country's survival systems.

The week-long exercise helped fill some gaps spotted in the April 1961 exercise last May and others will be filled in future exercises.

This, officials maintained, made the exercise a success.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, very much alive, told a conference in Ottawa Tuesday night that he had received messages complaining that the exercise "a lack of faith in the divine purpose," but that the unnecessary part that it was a preparation for war.

WAR NECESSARY

"These and similar exercises are necessary as assurance for the safety and security of the citizens who would die should a nuclear war come to us," said the Prime Minister.

"The Communist argument that the existence of preparation for war has no basis in

Report Gizenga Directs Mutiny In Kivu Town

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Antoine Gizenga, the leftist heir of former premier Patrice Lumumba, has emerged into open and forceful defiance of the UN and the central Congo government, diplomatic informants said today.

The sources said Gizenga is directing the mutiny of more than 2,000 Congolese troops against the central government authority in Kindu, the Kivu provincial town north of the Katanga secessionist state.

Other mutineers were reported to have created serious disorders in the north Katanga city of Albertville.

A spokesman for the UN said it intends to put down lawlessness in the Congo by force if necessary.

Diplomatic sources said the self-styled politician set himself up in Kindu last Saturday, leaving his former stronghold at Stanleyville in Oriental province to organize allies, who now adhere to the Leopoldville government.

OPEN DEFIANCE

Gizenga, who once accepted the post of vice-premier in Premier Cyrille Adoula's central government here, made his defiance open and apparently final Thursday when he forced two of his former allies, Gen. Victor Lundula and Christophe Gbenye, out of Kindu in fear of their lives.

Motionless soldiers at Kindu refused to hand over 15 Italian airmen they had arrested and threaten Saturday.

Lundula and Gbenye had gone to Kindu to get the Italians freed.

Lady Hardwicke Secures Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) Lady Mary Scott Hardwicke won an uncontested divorce from Sir Cedric Hardwicke Tuesday on cruelty charges. She told her "master, judge is for the bourgeoisie."

She testified Sir Cedric, 68, told her after their July 27, 1950, marriage that he had little money and they would have to live frugally.

"I complained but he didn't," she said. "He insisted on going to expensive restaurants and indulging in other extravagances."

She said Michael, their young son, complained of lack of parental attention. A corroborating witness, Cleo Faulkner, testified that all Sir Cedric "cared about was the 4 o'clock cocktail hour."

Superior Judge Orlando H. Rhodes awarded Lady Mary, 34, the family home and a percentage of Sir Cedric's income. Michael will receive a support allowance and provision for his education.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The defence department issued a pre-Christmas draft call Tuesday for 16,000 men, all for army service. The number for September is 4,000 less than the 20,000 each called for October and November and 9,000 below that for September.

ROYAL YORK LOSES BUSINESS THROUGH STRIKE

Board Rejects Union Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's Royal York Hotel has lost business since a strike started 28 weeks ago by the Hotel and Club Employees Union (CLC). It was disclosed Tuesday.

A report submitted by the hotel to a board of referees of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, showed Royal York room rentals were down 17.3 per cent from Sept. 1 to Oct. 1, compared with the same period last year.

The board rejected an appeal by the union against a decision which withheld unemployment benefits from strikers.

Basis of the decision was the board's finding that the hotel operation was not up to 85 per cent of its normal level. This loss of business, the board held, exempted strikers from claiming unemployment insurance.

The figures showed sale of beverages was down 29.3 per cent, while the number of meals served in dining rooms, at functions and in the coffee shop had declined by 27.6 per cent.

The number of employees was down 17.2 per cent.

Union officials have appealed the board's decision.

ASK INTERVENE

Meanwhile, Alderman Michael Grayson said Tuesday he will ask Ottawa to have the province intervene in the dispute.

The last effort at mediation, sponsored by former premier Leslie Frost, was abandoned as unsuccessful after Labor Minister Warrender suggested this week the parties renew mediation with his department's help, but the hotel proved unreceptive.

Hotel officials feel the union has lost the strike and is therefore faced with accepting the company's terms. But the union maintains its strike is still effective and, after seven months, picketing.

None of the issues have been resolved. Most contentious point concerns rehiring of the 600 employees by the union after the strike.

Other points of dispute include check-off of union dues, layoff notice, wages and elimination of certain job classifications covering 225 employees.

Cyclone Killed At Least 190 Near Acapulco

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — At least 190 dead today from Pacific coast villages flattened by cyclone Tara brought word of at least 190 dead today.

Authorities said the toll probably would rise still more with those cut a long a 120-mile stretch south of here when the storm roared ashore last weekend.

Authorities counted 167 of the dead at Nuxco where flood waters from a river all but destroyed the village. The villages of Tecpan and Petatlan to the north were also were reported hard hit.

This resort city escaped the fury of the storm.

The government dispatched five army brigades and three helicopters into the stricken area, and supply missions arrived here to distribute food and medicines by air drop.

Afro-Asian Lands Demand UN Use Force in Katanga

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—An Afro-Asian demand for the use of force to drive mercenaries out of the Congo's Katanga province was expected to run into strong Western opposition in the Security Council.

The Security Council meets at 3 p.m. EST to take up a resolution by Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic that would authorize acting Secretary-General U Thant of Burma to use force if necessary to expel fighting men hired by President Moise Thombe's secessionist Katanga regime.

Canada, with some 230 soldiers in the UN Congo force, is opposed to the UN joining in an offensive against Katanga.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green earlier this week said the essence of the 8N role in the Congo is "mediation, not offensive action."

A new African coalition against Tshombe also was certain in the wake of a UN investigating committee's suggestion that former Congo premier Patrice Lumumba was murdered in mid-January, possibly in the presence of high Katanga officials.

The West is seeking adoption of a milder resolution reaffirming support of the UN Congo command and urging negotiations to end the Katanga secession.

Informed sources said U Thant is also against the use of force as a matter of principle and strongly favors using conciliation to deal with the issue.

The Afro-Asian resolution asks that Tshombe's insurgent stand and rapped his regime for failing armed action when called before the Security Council in south Katanga last September, when resolutions called on U Thant to take necessary steps to prevent entry or return of mercenaries and Katanga to stop the flow of arms to Tshombe's forces.

Council of Women Oppose Any Change in Regulations

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Council of Women of Canada today came to the rights and to married women accused of abusing the unemployment insurance fund.

In a brief to the Gill committee on unemployment insurance, the council, representing 200,000 women, said it is "unsatisfactory and unfair to discriminate in regulations which would be prejudicial to the rights and benefits of women whether married or single."

The brief noted that much publicity has been given to the "abuse of benefits by married women" to avoid taking a new job while continuing to draw unemployment insurance benefits.

"We wish to point out that similar fraudulent practices have been carried on by many single women," the brief continued.

"We believe the Unemployment Insurance Commission Service would give ample evidence.

"In any case, it would be unfair to penalize a whole group because certain members of it are guilty of misconduct.

"We contend that marital status is a factor bearing on the status of a worker, whether man or woman, in relation to unemployment. We would thus strongly opposed to any discrimination based on this regard."

The Council of Women urged a reorganization of the unemployment insurance plan using actuarial science and the principle of the Unemployment Insurance Commission's consulting committee on contributions according to the incidence of unemployment within various occupational groups."

The idea of relating the risk of unemployment to the rate of contributions has been put forward by several other organizations in briefs to the special parliamentary committee headed by Ernest C. Gill of Toronto.

Business Groups Advocate Federal Subsidy for Jobless

OTTAWA (CP) — Business spokesmen Tuesday advocated a federal subsidy to cover seasonal benefits paid to jobless workers from the shrinking coffers of the unemployment insurance fund.

This proposal, with some variants, was one of the major major groups from Canada's business community in submissions to Prime Minister Diefenbaker's special four-man committee investigating unemployment insurance.

The committee, headed by industry minister Hees, met in Toronto, launched a four - day series of hearings Monday and today to find out what may be wrong with unemployment insurance and how the system can be remedied.

The funds to which workers and employers contribute equally with the government administered by the unemployment fund, plunged to a low point of $115,000,000 in 1957 after rising from its 1956 peak of $326,700,000. At the end of September, 1961, it had risen to $142,500,000.

Payments of seasonal benefits from the insurance fund itself came under fire in briefs from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Retail Federation, the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association and the Retail Merchants Association of Canada.

The four groups covered a wide range of views but all agreed with the over-all problem.

The life insurance officers proposed a basic self-supporting unemployment insurance program financed by workers and employees without regular government contributions. The government would step in only when a "large cumulative deficit develops."

The Retail Federation, representing large stores, and the Life Insurance Officers Association advocated a new plan of unemployment insurance which would gear the risk of unemployment to the experience of individual industries in relation to a fluctuating rate of contributions.

"Under such a system industries would be placed in classes and the total contributions for each class — from employers, employees and government — should be related to the benefits paid out on behalf of the class," the federation said.

In essence, the plan means that workers and employers in industries where employment is relatively stable would pay low contributions to the insurance fund, while those in other industries, chiefly seasonal industries such as lumbering, inland water transportation and fishing, would pay higher rates.

The Retail Merchants Association proposed a new federal economics and productivity department, headed by a cabinet minister, to encompass the work of the Productivity Council and to co-ordinate the work of the departments of labor, finance, trade and commerce,

Two Shootings Occur on 'Main' In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Two shootings — one by police and the other a possible attempt by the protection racket—occurred on Montreal's Boulevard Saint-Laurent early today despite a renewed attempt by interior police directed by Premier Robert Bourassa to clean up the notorious Main.

Provincial police squads of uniformed police and detectives Monday night patrolled the string of taverns and night clubs which comprise "the Main" and ordered a dozen dozen suspects on charges ranging from loitering to suspicion of robbery.

The first shooting occurred when two men entered the Belle Tavern and shot waiter Theodore Letourneau in the face.

Letourneau, rushed to hospital, told police he thought it was "good" condition. Is the brother of Patrick Letourneau, who was murdered by police shortly after a wild brawl at the Rodeo Cafe in which a provincial detective was ready to tell police everything he knows about the protection racket.

Patrick Letourneau is facing charges of possession of a revolver in a manner dangerous to the public and bodily harm to a Rodeo waiter.

SHOOTING

The second shooting occurred when a 37-year-old burglary suspect was shot by police on an east end street just off the Main.

WAR HYSTERIA IS MOUNTING IN INDONESIA

Dutch Proposal Brings Crisis

JAKARTA (AP)—War hysteria is mounting in Indonesia as the United Nations approaches a vote on a Dutch proposal to give West New Guinea self-determination.

Lead by President Sukarno, who declared that Indonesia would get West New Guinea with or without the approval of the United Nations, government leaders have called on the people to prepare for war.

Sukarno insists that West New Guinea, as part of the pre-war Dutch East Indies, is an integral part of Indonesia.

The Dutch, who retained the western half of the big island after Indonesia won independence, contend that its mostly primitive Papuan population is ethnically separate from the Indonesians and entitled to determine its own future. The Dutch want the United Nations to administer the territory until the people are ready for a plebiscite.

Australia governs the eastern half of New Guinea, and so far the Indonesians have made no claim to it.

Jakarta is tense as UN debate on the issue nears a climax.

The air force has sent two C-130 Hercules transports to the "patrol" wing West New Guinea's borders.

The army has reinforced its garrisons in Ambon, East Indonesia.

Long-range Russian — made MIG-15 bombers, acquired three months ago under arms deal with the Soviet Union, have been put on alert positions.

In Jakarta's huge Merdeka Square, thousands of young men and girls have volunteered for dangerous military training, mainly in the use of rifles and other guerilla weapons.

Military leaders are touring the country, calling on the population to "be ready to die" for West Irian, as the Indonesians call the territory.

Rate Of Increase In Unemployed Below Normal

Oct. Jobless Represents 4.9 PC of Labor Force

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment in Canada rose by 10,000 to 318,000 in mid-October, from 308,000 in September, the bureau of statistics reported today. But the jump was less than usual for this time of year and the new figure is 39,000 lower than a year earlier.

October unemployment represented 4.9 per cent of the labor force, compared with 5.7 per cent in October of last year.

This is the third month in a row in which unemployment declined from the corresponding period of 1960, after 15 months of successive months of increases in the year-to-year comparison.

The number of employed persons was down 15,000 from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15 but was up 181,000 in "seasonally than usual owing to a relatively small drop in farm employment." Non-farm employment increased 30,3 than usual.

The bureau said late harvesting slowed the farm labor decline which usually is sharp at this time of year.

Total employment was 1.5 per cent higher than in October of last year, marking the first year-to-year increase reported for September. The figure for mid-October, 6,235,000 in September, was 1.3 per cent higher than in October, 1960.

Hound Living 5 Months After Lung Replaced by Transplant

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)— Homer, a sad-eyed hound, is living proof that a person whose lung has been replaced by a transplant. A research team here said today that it is getting closer to successful transplant of major organs.

One of Homer's lungs was replaced May 26 by a lung from another dog. For two weeks he received daily injection of methotrexate, a drug originally developed to fight cancer. He was sick for a time, but recovered.

Doctors at the University of Michigan Medical Centre think methotrexate may have properties that prevent rejection of alien tissue.

Transplant of eye corneas, blood and bone marrow is now fairly common, but transferring major organs has failed because such tissues usually are rejected by the receiving body.

Dr. Paulette Szadaly, A University of Michigan veterinarian, says she five months Homer has lived and may be a medical record.

The research dog is closely watched and has the services of his own physician, veterinarian and registered nurse.

Four Churches Given $10,000 Each in Will

PICTON — Four churches benefit to the extent of $40,000 under terms of the will of Harry F. Stark which is now being probated.

Each receiving ten thousand dollars are Salmon Point Uniited Church, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Picton, the Church of St. Mary Magdalene (Anglican) at Picton and the Corps of the Salvation Army.

The residue of the estate, after other bequests, goes to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

Amount of the estate and other bequests are not being revealed until the will is probated.

Announcement of the bequests was learned with much pleasure by the churches who were previously unaware they were beneficiaries.

ATTENDED AS YOUTH

Salmon Point Church is the church which Mr. Stark attended as a youth and until 1930. He sang in the choir and his first wife was organist there for many years.

Mr. Stark was born in Athol Township, in the Scott school neighborhood. He operated a farm on the south side of East Lake, a short distance east, not far from the church. In 1908 he started evaporators at Cherry Valley and Salmon Point and for many years carried on the business of drying apples. He was associated with the late E. Boulter and H. S. Colliver when the present Cherry Valley Canners factory was built.

Mr. Stark was prominent in community life in Athol Township. He served five years on Prince Edward County council, including three as Reeve. In 1928, he was chosen as Warden of Prince Edward County, being the last successive warden selected from that township.

His first wife, Lydia Garfield, died in 1926. Later, he married Loucila Thibault, B.A., a teacher at Picton Collegiate who in 1925, the year of her marriage, became the first lady member of the Collegiate Board after being a member of the Public School Board.

Mr. Stark passed away in Prince Edward County memorial hospital on November 1, 1961, in his 84th year. Service was held at the Church of Holy Name Funeral Home, Saturday, November 4 with Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt officiating. Interment was in Cherry Valley Cemetery.

Once Recreational Area, Coleman Flats Transformed Into Commercial District

Industrial and commercial enterprises are slowly but surely taking over Belleville's Coleman Flats, which not too many years ago was known as most suited for its recreational possibilities.

Not too many years ago "The Flats", west of Coleman Street, ran approximately to the south of the double CNR tracks, bounded on the south by Canniff Street where many a city championship was decided.

And many persons not too far beyond middle age remember Coleman Flats as a convenient place for swimming, where an abandoned stone quarry served as a swimming hole. The fact that there were a few frogs and water snakes mattered not at all.

But that is now all in the past!

The softball diamond has been gone for many years as commercial enterprise gradually took over. And the area has almost ceased to exist for swimming and skating.

The Belleville Cement Co. take shape in the years immediately following World War II as Bonwell Street north of Front Street saw a flurry of residential construction.

Then, a few years later commercial construction began to take over until now eight or ten warehouse and service-type establishments have been built in the area.

One of the first commercial enterprises in the area was the McCreery Transport structure built as a storage and headquarters for the transport firm on north Coleman Street.

The city fire department chose the south end of Coleman Flats as a site for No. 2 fire-hall, while a few years later Canadian Tire built its new store and garage at the corner of Coleman and Harriet Streets. Coleman Street was then extended to Wallbridge Loyalist Road then there has been plenty of building in the area.

FOUNDRY LATEST

Commercial buildings constructed in the past few years include Canada Supply, the General Electric Warehouse, Welding Gases, Warwick Ltd. and this year Foley Foundry has just completed their new service building replacing two premises on Front Street which will be used by the last winter.

Other commercial enterprises in the old Coleman Flats area include Bell Telephone Company and I. Supply Company, Hinchcliffe Electric, and Thrashers Feed Mill.

With the new trunk sanitary sewer scheduled to be extended along Fahey Street — directly through the centre of Coleman Flats — early in 1962, more possibility will see even greater commercial development in the near future.

'Current Affairs' Address At Engineering Institute Meeting

Members and wives of the Belleville Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada attended a dinner meeting at the Quennesway Hotel, Trenton, on the evening, November 13. The speaker for the evening was Professor R. A. Preston M.A. Ph.D. F.R. Hist. S. Professor of History at the Royal Military College, Kingston. Professor Preston, who was introduced by W. J. Grant, M.E.I.C. chose as his address the subject "Current Affairs".

"World attention is presently much focused on the real possibilities of the U.N. Charter which has been brought to the front by the resumption of nuclear testing by the Soviet Union. Nuclear fission is a developing field for scientists, put into practical form by scientists and engineers, but unfortunately political science has not kept pace with technological advances, with the result that there is no doubt that both the Soviet Union and the Western alliances possess tremendous powers of destruction due to what can be called the misuse of, scientific knowledge.

As a result of the recent tests by the Russians, it is evident that a position of nuclear stalemate has been reached with each side believing they have demonstrated that they have advanced to the stage where they can retaliate with equivalent weapons in event of attack so that they may be the deterrent to the development of a nuclear war. It now appeared that world powers were getting into the position that they dare not get involved in a war even if it could be established that future wars would be fought with conventional weapons, because there could be no guarantee that any slight power would not revert to the use of nuclear weapons."

Professor Preston also explained the formation of the United Nations Organization with particular reference to the duties of the Secretary General and the Security Council. He pointed out that the powers placed on the Security Council to preserve peace and security have been hindered by the use of the veto, and that the Security Council is blocked by a veto it places on the Secretary General to bring this to the attention of the General Assembly. He also explained the event a situation developing which is dangerous to world peace.

He also mentioned that in recent years the scientific-type countries had been admitted to the Atomic Organization which had changed the Council's basic voting power considerably within the organization.

In conclusion Professor Preston stated that whilst the Soviet Union had abandoned temporarily their proposal to replace the late Dag Hammarskjold with a "Troika," it was a matter of some conjecture as to what would happen in this respect when the term of office of the newly appointed Secretary General, Mr. U. Thant, expires next year. Meanwhile it would appear that the new Secretary General is determined to handle the affairs of the United Nations Council in a firm hand in accordance to establish world peace.

EXERCISE TOCSIN

fect. The Kremlin would like Canada and other Western nations to be completely at the mercy of the threats of communism.

"The exercise does not show a lack of faith but rather the need of combining works with faith for survival."

Mr. Harkness said the death toll now was "appalling". But a sufficient number of Canadians was left after attacks on the figure given was 14,000,000 — to "reactivate the life of the nation."

WOULD TAKE YEARS

He said that after a real attack, "undoubtedly it would take years" to return the country to anywhere near normal conditions.

After picking up the pieces here following attack, Canada's responsibility would be to continue fighting in the world war that would follow.

Maj. - Gen. Arthur Wrinch, army chief of national survival, said Canada could use the imaginary attack one-half to two-thirds of the industrial capacity of the nation was assumed to have survived. There was, sufficient food to keep alive the survivors and the condition of Canada's cities "would be unrecognizably good."

There was only about 40-per-cent failure in the siren warning system, Gen. Wrinch said in answering questions. He was increased to 1,500 by the mid-1960's.

Mr. Diefenbaker — and Governor-General Vanier — elected to stay in the capital during the attack.

Kroll's Future In West Berlin Still in Doubt

BONN (Reuters)—The future of Ambassador Hans Kroll appears in doubt today after the West German government's mission in West Berlin overtures in the Kremlin.

Kroll returned from Moscow Tuesday and met with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer for 90 minutes, denying beforehand a government statement that he took an unauthorized initiative in his talks with Premier Khrushchev.

But after the meeting with Adenauer a government statement repeated that "Personal talks which Kroll and Chancellor put forward in his talks with the Soviet prime minister were not authorized by the federal government."

A foreign ministry spokesman said it had not been decided whether Kroll would keep his years in the diplomatic service, would return to Moscow.

KROLL SEES SOLUTION

The government statement said West Germany will continue to seek a solution to the Berlin and German questions with the Western allies "on the basis of the agreed position."

Government spokesman Felix von Eckardt told a press conference Monday night that Kroll raised the possibility of four-power control over West Berlin in his Kremlin talks.

"Herr Kroll said other things but because they were not authorized, we are not interested in publishing them any further," von Eckardt said.

He said part of Kroll's "unauthorized initiative" consisted in discussing two points with Khrushchev — four - power agreement on a new status for West Berlin and a Soviet assurance that East Germany would acquiesce in the agreement.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials reached their third record index high in as many days during only moderate morning trading today.

The industrial index touched a high of 613.15, ahead 1.17, their highest point since the initial compilation of the index in 1934.

The general upward swing was led, as it has been all week, by refining oils, utilities and steels. Bell Telephone of Canada Steel paced utilities and steels by reaching new highs of 57½ and 50½, ahead ½ and ⅝ respectively.

The speculative market was generally dull. Lake Dufault gained 8 cents to 88.00 with volume of more than 52,000 shares.

On index, industrials rose 1.17 to 613.15, golds .71 to 88.45, base metals .50 to 209.91, their highest point since May, 1957, and western oils .02 to 108.40. The a.m. volume was 848,000 shares compared with 1,052,000 at the same time Tuesday.

The senior base metals list was strong with Noranda, Steep Rock and International Nickel all ahead to 20 cents.

Gold trade was weak with Campbell Red Lake up ¼.

In light western oil trading, Pacific Petroleum gained ⅛ and Dome dropped ⅛.

Tuesday-industrials and speculatives moved upwards during moderately heavy trading.

Industrials, after setting a new high on index of 612.20 at the noon compilation of the 30-stock market indicator, closed 611.98, ahead 2.78. Golds gained .66 to 87.74 and base metals 1.09 to 209.84, their highest point since May, 1957. Western oils fell .05 to 108.38. The volume was 3,858,000 shares compared with 3,904,000 Monday.

The industrial upswing was led by utilities, banks and financials, industrials and refining oils, with many issues setting new highs in moderate-to-heavy trading.

The day's largest individual gain occurred in Canada Permanent Mortgage, ahead $4 to $89.

Canadian Dyno led speculatives higher with a 27-cent rise to $2.57. Lake Dufault lost 15 cents to $7.30 to pace losing speculatives.

Senior base metals were active and strong. Ventures, Steep Rock, Labrador and International Nickel all ahead in the ⅛ to ½ range.

Golds trading was weak and sporadic with Dome Mines and Giant Yellowknife and Dome each new lows.

In weak western oil trade, Pacific Petroleum and Hi-Ston's Bay all dropped fractionally.

Wellington Hunter on the Loose Sets a Record Shooting Moose

WELLINGTON (Special) — "Ole Smoke" Daniel Reynolds, who hunted with the Mississauga Indians while he was busy founding this village back in the 1790's, never had it so good.

"Smoke" and his buddies, the braves, knocked down a deer whenever the larder was low, but it is doubtful if they celebrated Thanksgiving with moose steaks as they now savagely tie to a set of the King-of-the-Woods antlers.

Reynolds and his redmen may have been tops in their wisdom-seeking fraternity, but as moose hunters they've been relegated to the back benches of the communal teepee.

Percy Smith, for many years a resident of this village takes over in second centre, as the monarch of the moose-bunting lodge brothers.

For this matter, Smith, it is believed, has set a record for moose shooting in Ontario.

He brought down a bull weighing 1 125 pounds dressed; a cow moose weighing 800 pounds plus and a calf that tipped the scales at 440 pounds.

Smith lavished 2,385 pounds of moose meat to be prepared with four shots, fired at a range of 125 yards, and within the space of 25 minutes.

PARTY OF 12

He was hunting with a party of twelve which included Kingston and Toronto in the area south-west of Denbigh.

In passing it is noted that the party augmented the moose haul with deer. Three of these were bucks, one weighing 260 pounds. No fawns were taken.

The hunter stood near a marshy swamp when moose slowly morning. A sound of splashing drew his attention and as he looked in the direction the cow moose broke into the clear. Smith brought her down with the first bullet.

A minute later the big bull came charging in-his direction. Two shots brought the huge critter to earth.

Smith walked towards the kill and had gone but a few yards when he thought he saw a cow moose perch to its feet. He fired again and brought it down.

But when he reached the quarry he discovered what he took to be the cow was the new sire-calf to be born.

Scouting activities

13TH CUBS AND SCOUTS

Since the current season started the group has been very active. Cubs of "A" and "B" packs combined for a carnival night. Each Six came dressed as a "family," the Sixer was the "father", Seconder was "mother" and the rest of the Six made the family complete. The carnival included: Cat Darts, bowling, bombing, numbers and auto board. Successful were given as tokens for points and the winning Six from each pack received a prize.

While one pack was at the carnival the other pack enjoyed colored slides of the 15th weekend camp at Sagonaska, Upper Canada Village and Otta.

The refreshments served after the carnival made a perfect ending to a happy cub meeting.

CUB STEPHEN RILEY

At a recent "pinning-up" ceremony three Cubs were invested into the Scout troop: Warren Hay, Gregory Kaye and Stephen Riley. When Stephen arrived he was completely in his Cub uniform with all 14 badges, which is an achievement a very small number of Cubs obtain. We hasten to congratulate Stephen because when the ceremony is completed Cubs find themselves starting all over again. The only badge Stephen may wear is the "Leaping Wolf" badge presented to him by Akela Gordon Russell. This badge is given to "Two Star" Cubs to be worn on their Scout uniform.

SCOUTS AT CAMP

Scoutmaster Al Green and Cubmaster G. Russell held a weekend camp at Sagonaska for Patrol Leaders and Seconders. The remainder of the troop was there for Saturday.

Each box in the troop now has his own lashing for rope work. A lending library has been started. Eighteen Scouts under the guidance of the S.M. and the A.S.M., held a hike from Camp Sagonaska. Scouters Russell and Terry helped with the transportation.

Two leaders from the 15th attended a Basic "B" course at Sagonaska. Cubs and Scouts participated nearly 100 percent on "Apple Day" and the parking at the Plowing Match.

Berlin Police Fight Tear Gas Duel on Border

BERLIN (Reuters)—East and West Berlin police hurled more than 100 tear gas grenades across the tense border at Potsdamer Platz in the Communist sectors of the city during the night.

West Berlin police said the Communists touched off the tear-gas clash by firing 60 grenades at a loudspeaker truck on the Western side of the border. West Berlin police retaliated with 35 grenades of their own. No one was hurt.

The incident came after five East Germans had driven a truck through the wall of earth through a hail of East Berlin bullets and reached the West safely.

The refugees—two men and three women—put some 50 people reinforced with concrete on the back and sides of their station wagon and had failed to have placed over the windshield with a steel perforate for the driver to see through.

Pleads Guilty To Impaired Driving, Fined

TRENTON — In magistrate's court at Trenton on Tuesday, Percy F. Loveless, 28, of Brighton, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving and also to a further charge of driving while disqualified.

Asked to comment on sentence, Crown Attorney John A. Pringle, pointed out to Magistrate T. Y. Wills that the man had been "prohibited by law from driving, and inhibited by alcohol," and said that he thought the maximum penalty should be levelled.

Loveless was fined $50 plus $4 costs, (payable in three weeks), and will spend seven days in jail.

Donald Sharpe of Trenton pleaded guilty to a charge of drunk driving. He was sentenced to a 21-day jail term.

Sharpe was the driver of a car which, on Oct. 28, struck a parked car owned by Sidney Hilliard on Kidney, knocking it forward into another parked car owned by William Weese of Trenton which, in turn, struck a parking meter. Considerable damage was caused to the car and Anne Weese, a passenger in the Weese car, received neck injuries. The accident occurred on Dundas Street West near Division Street.

Carl Edward Orser of Belleville, charged with speeding, pleaded not guilty. Mr. Orser said that he had driven up the hill at the west end of town on August 30, and that he had seen the radar-equipped police car at the bottom of the hill. He said that he has regulated his speed when returning downhill, because he was aware of the "radar trap"

"I'd be signing a blank cheque to admit I was going 45 miles an hour," said Mr. Orser. Mr. Orser was fined $25 and 32." (Maximum speed in the zone is 30 m.p.h.)

Town solicitor Frederick Campbell suggested that Mr. Orser's speedometer might not have been registering properly.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills said that it seemed to be a "matter of degree" and that Mr. Orser was entitled to the benefit of the doubt. Mr. Orser was fined $5 for "24 bargain towels" to a Kitchener firm several weeks ago, and had failed to receive the towels.

The Kitchener Chamber of Commerce says that the town firm has moved to a new address and that several officials say that they are trying to import towels from the United States to which they are located.

If Trenton customers do not receive the towels within two weeks, they are asked to contact the Kitchener Chamber of Commerce.

The Trenton Chamber would like to hear from other persons who look advantage of the towel offer.

RELATIONS CHANGE

LONDON (Reuters) — The British foreign office will in future conduct Britain's relations with Ghana, Guinea and Liberia instead of the Commonwealth relations office, it was announced Tuesday. South Africa has withdrawn from the Commonwealth.

Bargain Towels Have Not Been Sent by Firm

TRENTON — Nostrand Sorasue, secretary of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday that he has received a number of telephone calls from customers who had mailed $3 for "24 bargain towels" to a Kitchener firm several weeks ago, and had failed to receive the towels.

The Kitchener Chamber of Commerce says that the town firm has moved to a new address and that several officials say that they are trying to import towels from the United States to which they are located.

If Trenton customers do not receive the towels within two weeks, they are asked to contact the Kitchener Chamber of Commerce.

The Trenton Chamber would like to hear from other persons who look advantage of the towel offer.

Board's Newest Playground Area Under Review

TRENTON — "Here I am, over here in the gravel pit." Echoing the words of a well-known radio commercial, members of the Trenton Board of Parks Management discussed the terrain at the site of the board's newest playground area, bordering on McNichol Street.

Board member Norman Armstrong said that he thought all the rocks in the area must have been dumped on the site during the ice-age.

Whether to truck the rocks away; have a bulldozer shove them over onto a road allowance; dig holes and bury them or cover them up with top soil — this was the question.

It was finally decided to call in an expert and seek his advice on the matter.

Others at the board meeting last night were Mrs. Chapman, E. M. Parker, Jr.; Miss Helen Baker, secretary; John Saylor, treasurer, and members Mrs. Clyde Mason and Bill Ireland. Also present was parks foreman Gardener Bert Boers and two members of the staff.

Mr. Mason said that the grass and brush on Mount Pelion had been burned off and that the new grass was coming in fine. The board will ask permission from the Board of Education to burn off the west section at the back of the mountain next spring and Mr. Mason and Mrs. Boers will see about cutting brush around the water tank.

Mrs. Chapman's treasury chargrined to find that the water bill for the summer at Dana Park was $62.50, while the revenue from trailers in the park was $40. Taps will be checked for leaks.

Mr. Ireland reported that the chain on one of the new swings in Cottrell Park had been unbolted. Mr. Boers said that three picnic tables had been broken in Hanna Park and that garbage cans had been flattened out. It was thought that Halloween pranksters might have been responsible for the damage.

The board will ask the town to ascertain park limits in Victoria (Glenwood) Park before proceeding with landscaping.

Finland Calls Three Elections

HELSINKI (AP)—Finland today headed into a series of feverish political activity with three elections scheduled within one month in an effort to ward off defence talks with Russia.

President Urho Kekkonen Tuesday dissolved parliament and moved up the date for parliamentary elections from July 2 to Feb. 4-5 in answer to a demand by Soviet Premier Khrushchev that Finland would maintain friendly relations with Russia.

Two New Leaders

The Ontario tour of Robert N. Thompson recently chosen national leader of the Social Credit party, calls attention to an interesting facet of the next Federal election. Two of the parties will be under new management. The other new leader, of course, is Tommy Douglas, former premier of Saskatchewan, and in his case he is leading into the fray a new party, the New Democratic Party replacing the CCF.

Both Douglas and Thompson are Westerners and the West has been the main stronghold, in other elections, of the groups which they represent. At the last Federal election, though, both were slaughtered by another Westerner, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker. The Socreds were wiped out entirely, while the CCF, predecessor of the Democrats, salvaged only one member in the prairie provinces, Hazen Argue. The Liberals suffered a similar fate, their only member from west of the Ontario border being from the Northwest Territories.

In these circumstances, the "New Two," Douglas and Thompson, must be regarding the recapture of old fortresses on the prairies as of prime importance, no matter how longingly they look at the more populous battlegrounds in eastern Canada, where a greater number of seats are at stake.

One would expect that the Socreds would enjoy some measure of success in British Columbia and Alberta, the two provinces in which they form the provincial governments. In the natural course of events, some "agin the guvment" reaction must be directed at the Diefenbaker regime and in these provinces the Socreds are likely to benefit, although in B.C. either the Liberals or the New Democrats might pull some surprises. In Saskatchewan the Socreds appear as powerless as the CCF has always been in Alberta, and Douglas may reasonably expect to regain some of the seats formerly held by his colleagues. The Liberals' best chances in the West will probably be found in Manitoba. In the East the Socreds might possibly break into the win column in Quebec, while the New Democrats' best chances will probably be found in Ontario.

Both the new party leaders thus face a problem of "patchwork" support which would appear to make any major gains unlikely. This outlook, however, is based on past performances, an even less reliable guide in politics than in horse racing.

New Day in Quebec

Reports from Quebec indicate that pressure is building up for a purge of the civil service. That such a move is merely being contemplated, rather than having been already written into history, so long after the Liberals' defeat of the Union Nationale regime is proof that there is a new political atmosphere in that province.

If any person doubted that, he must surely have been convinced by the sweeping reforms Premier Jean Lesage announced over the weekend. By limiting and controlling election expenses, redistributing seats and altering the balloting system, possibly by using voting machines, Lesage evidently hopes to eliminate the notorious practices, the fraud and corruption of voters which have admittedly featured Quebec provincial elections in the past.

There may be those who, comparing these reforms with the possibility that the Liberals may oust Union Nationale appointees from the civil service, will be tempted to accuse Lesage of hypocrisy.

The elimination of patronage from the civil service is certainly desirable—whether it is quite so important as fair elections may be open to debate. But it ought to be remembered that any government which attempts to administer affairs through civil servants appointed by a rival party for the sole reason that these people were political partisans faces a Herculean chore. Once a civil service is manned by people chosen on the basis of ability and efficiency, it becomes possible for a well-intentioned government to avoid purges. Before that is accomplished, however, a new government can rule only if its civil servants change their spots—and the Union Nationale supporters were so heavily spotted that one may doubt whether they could, or would, bring about this required transformation in their political outlook and attitude.

A purge of the Quebec civil service, we submit, would not be proof of Liberal hypocrisy. The real test would come afterwards, when the Liberals were filling the vacancies thus created. If the new civil servants were chosen by competitive examinations, or by an unbiased commission, this purge could be the last and Lesage would have achieved a reform to match in importance his revision of the electoral system.

Drug Prices Are Suspect

Brantford Expositor

The Canadian public is concerned and suspicious about drug prices, should not have much faith in any but the results of two official probes. The Select Committee set up by the Ontario Government last April has held no hearings lately. Presumably it is putting its report. The federal Restrictive Practices Commission has ended a countrywide investigation and will soon start drafting its findings.

One early feature of the Ontario hearings was that the Retail Pharmacists' Association at first offered no other information than that contained in a three-and-a-half page brief in April, general terms. This brief, signed by Norman Leslie Hooke (PC—York West) a pharmacist that evidence would be given on behalf of the druggists did not cooperate readily. Subsequently the druggists were more forthcoming and it is also interesting that soon after the inquiry began some drug prices were cut.

The federal inquiry brought out that the Ontario College of Pharmacy issues a price guide to druggists. Many druggists are retailers, is intended to help them arrive at what witnesses called a "fair price." Yet, a College spokesman said in evidence that prices for individual drug prescriptions vary from store to store "by ridiculous amounts." Not only prices but the quality of drugs varies from store to store, he said, although whatever price their suppliers set. Such a situation invites the inference that they are a captive market, a proper matter for investigation by the Combines Act.

The Commission will do a public service if it can put in true perspective the conflicting evidence on drug dosages and their usually much dearer North American brand names counterparts. In one instance cited, 500 per cent dearer. At the root of the price difference, therefore, there is reason to suspect, is not so much the question of quality as is often bruited by critics of these imports, as the commonly effective trade halo by American manufacturers who control most of the Canadian drug industry.

Finance Co. Confident

By Douglas Welch in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer

A fellow wrote to us the other day that he would be glad to come around and build a bomb and fallout shelter for us, and he said he could start today.

The interesting thing was that he offered no question before we could get to finance committee and we were invited not matter what happens.

The gentleman made the first reasonable handling this kind of paper for him was reasonably confident that the loan not one day vanish suddenly from the earth.

So we said we would take our chances of survival along with the finance company without the shelter.

It has been our experience that if a man figures all the angles, that if anyone plays it safe and sure, it is finance company.

And if we do anything, it will be to borrow next door to the finance company or get an apartment overhead.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NATURE OF FAITH

Most people regard faith simply as the capacity and willingness to believe certain things. The Bible teaches certain truths. We believe those truths; therefore we say, we have faith.

But this is not the Biblical idea of faith. It is more than belief, but faith goes far beyond belief. We are told in the Epistle to the Hebrews (11:1) that faith is "the evidence of things not seen," or, "the giving of substance to things hoped for." In other words, faith is a spiritual power. It is a capacity of heart and mind which enables us to create something — to give it substance. By having faith that we can do certain things, we help bring those things to pass. By praying to God and then having faith that He will answer our prayers and grant our petitions, we open ourselves to Him to the fulfillment of these desires.

Faith is the capacity of the human heart and mind whereby we assist God in His process of creation and re-creation. When we have faith, we become channels through which power flows. Let us not forget that just because we believe the Bible, and the creeds, and we stand church, that we have faith. We have faith when we trust God and let His power flow through us. And when we do this, we and God Himself become partners in projects which lead to triumphant achievement.

Faith is the giving of substance to things hoped for.

The local branch of the Red Cross Society is very grateful to Canadiens for a donation of twenty blankets in the recent emergency appeal.

Today police found a 1937 model Pontiac coach abandoned on Cemetery Street east of the city. The automobile had been stolen in Woodstock on Saturday, and Belleville police are of the opinion that the persons responsible for its theft, were also responsible for the theft of John Trudeau's Chrysler sedan. This automobile was stolen in Belleville on Sunday night, but was recovered in a damaged condition today in Oshawa.

Several homer pigeons, reported stolen from Belleville police learned. Eleven pigeons were stolen from one coop and it is believed the Homer type either escaped custody and flew home in a body or else were released by their captors.

Former minister of the Foxboro Methodist Church and interim minister for St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here, the Rev. Harold W. Reid, was inducted into his new charge at Quebec City a few days ago. Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Reid and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Reid of this city, Mr. Reid has been in Oshawa for the past number of years. He is well known here and was a member of the Board of Education during his tenure here.

On an average between 18 and 20 calls are received daily at the Ontario Government's Employment Bureau on Campbell Street, in search of help or jobs. The opportunity to make a little money is thankfully received by the men who are eagerly in need of it. There are men to take care of many more jobs than are coming in at the bureau.

Herring have started running in the bay; the first real haul was made yesterday when many fishermen were on hand at the fish warehouse. Many in Belleville in the old days looked forward to their annual feast of fresh herring, and also to salting away a few of them for the winter months.

The large elm tree on Front Street in front of the Hastings House has been cut down by city employees. The tree was planted in the year 1840 by Mr. Neil MacArthur, a former well known business man here. It is to be regretted that it was found necessary to do away with the beautiful tree; the shade looks empty and unattractive without it.

To 'Bag' Water For Shelters

Niagara Falls Review

Most of us remember Coleridge's poem the Ancient Mariner and the part that mentioned that keep coming into modern usage by their descriptive possibilities often apply to contemporary situations. One is that famous line concerning survival during and after nuclear warfare concerns the intelligence of the married surrounded by water he could not drink. It sat "as idle as a painted ship upon a painted ocean," with "Water, water everywhere, Nor any drop to drink."

It was in to survive he needs drinkable water. So a dairy firm in the United States has come up with an ingenious plan. It will pasteurize water to remove harmful bacteria, package it in air-gallon plastic bags, which will be placed in sealed cartons. They will be sold at one dollar apiece for storage in home shelters.

What the price may be should the pasteurizing plant remain unscathed in the event of a nuclear holocaust, and be able to sell pasteurized water to whoever emerges from their shelters afterwards is hard to guess. It is our opinion that a day afterwards a dollar for money be to any who survive the devastation attendant to nuclear war, with contamination and desolation, and death occupying the earth?

Even Irish Agree on This

Windsor Star

Here, albeit after some convolutions, is proof that Hibernians fit water supplies. This is being done on a modest scale by Dublin Corporation to reduce the incidence of dental caries in children, abnormally high in Ireland.

The Irish by nature are so argumentative people. Surely if the Irish can agree on such a controversial issue there is hope that people here can do likewise. The Irish have put the welfare of their children first.

There Are Few Crazy Quilt Patterns in U.S.

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A college boy I know, who has just returned from his first trip to Europe, asked me why European cities are so much more attractive than American ones.

"Each European city and town," he said, "has its own kind of individuality —but travelling through America, each city and town looks pretty much like all the others."

The reason is depressingly obvious. Almost all European cities grew to maturity before the industrial revolution. The parts, boulevards and squares of Paris, for instance, were developed for living and for playing — that is, for people.

Most American cities were born during the industrial revolution a hundred or so years ago. They were designed (and developed) for commerce, traffic and the burgeoning factories and offices. They had a few enormous transients, and the social and psychic needs of the twenty blankets in the recent thousands who lived in them were left out of consideration.

The result is that we have in our towns but nothing to do with the "superior" quality of the European. In Europe, to simply a sign of our haste, our rapid growth and our neglect of fundamentals in a truly revolutionary period of history. We had no time to spare.

Driving along the outskirts of Chicago yesterday, I saw mile after many factories and office buildings springing up out of the fields and suburbs. We are doing now what we should have done before the turn of the century: we are on the perimeter of the city, and retaining the city itself for our living.

It is almost too late. The cities are dying of the very growth that radiates outward from them. It is a kind of cancerous growth that radiates outward from them. It is a kind of cancerous growth that radiates outward from them. It is a kind of cancerous

DR. A. CHOURAQUI

Kiwanians Hear Talk by Aide Of Ben-Gurion

Israel is the meeting place of the Orient and the Occident, Dr. N. Andre Chouraqui, personal counsellor to Israel's Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, told local Kiwanians at their regular weekly dinner meeting held in the Kiwanis rooms yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Chouraqui, a widely-travelled journalist and university lecturer, is a law graduate of the Sorbonne, Paris, a former Algiers District Court of Appeals justice and a former vice-president of the Consultes of Non-Governmental Organizations of UNICEF.

Although a small country, Israel has fulfilled a tremendous role throughout history, being on the crossroads between Asia Africa and Europe where the cultures and civilizations of the Orient and the Occident, world, said Dr. Chouraqui. Circumstances, he continued, have placed the task of building bridges between these different cultures upon the people of Jerusalem and Israel since the first century A.D.

With the establishment of Israel as a homeland for the Jewish in 1947 to 1948 that country has been the recipient of thousands of immigrants from all over the world, varying between the affluent modern and well-educated North American and European to the uneducated, illiterate Arabic or African whose life is literally out of Biblical times, he commented.

The great variation between the type of immigrant in mental, cultural, geographic and economic background has created an immense problem in harmonious co-existence for these people in a new nation. This problem has been resolved through sharing the advantages which the country has amongst all of its people, while at the same time teaching an all-out effort to educate those whose cultural development has been behind that of the western world, he said.

The same techniques, which have proven successful in establishing a harmonious way of life within Israel, amongst people of greatly varying backgrounds, are being applied by Israel to her present task of building bridges of understanding and harmony between the peoples of Asia and Africa on one side and North America and Europe on the other.

The system of co-operation between Israel and her Asian and African neighbors is broken into three parts, he explained. Firstly the leaders of these countries visit Israel to see what progress she has made. Next Israel sends teachers and experts to help the new nations to build up their countries.

Lastly an association is built up in mutually developing various practical enterprises, such as shipbuilding or architecture.

The basic philosophy on which this activity is based is the old Bible adage of "love thy neighbor as thyself," Dr. Chouraqui said, and through it Israel is challenged to fulfill the vision of the prophets by building an international society on faith, love and harmony.

During the question and answer session which followed the speaker stated that a solution of the Israel-United Arab Republic situation should soon be resolved since there never was a real problem between the two countries' peoples in the beginning.

The conflict is an artificial one generated by irresponsible leaders for purely political reasons, maintained Dr. Chouraqui. Once responsible leaders realize the facts and take control of the situation there will be an end to the useless expenditure of money on arms and these funds will be turned to building some of the essential things which their people need, he concluded.

Dr. Chouraqui, who is on a speaking tour of the United States and Canada, was introduced by Kiwanian Ralph Graham and thanked by club member Vince Pearson. Club president Bob Brain conducted the meeting.

Foreign Students Finding It Easier to Gain Admission Here, Universities Told

By RUSSELL ELMAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Many foreign students attend Canadian universities mainly because they find it easier to gain admission here than in other countries, Dr. David Thomson, vice-principal of McGill University, said today.

He told the National Conference of Canadian Universities and Colleges that he believed a large proportion of our overseas students would rather have gone to the United Kingdom, or the United States."

"For them, Canada was a second, sometimes a third choice . . . because there seems to be a better chance of gaining admission and getting financial support in Canada than elsewhere."

Dr. Thomson added, however, that most foreign students on arrival are "staggered" at the quality of Canada's higher education.

NEED MORE REALISTIC?

He warned that while Canada offers approximately $4,000,000 a year in awards for foreign students, the Soviet Union has a more realistic approach to this problem — it sponsors students from under - developed countries.

He said some countries have no universities at all, while others produce graduates inadequately prepared to undertake graduate studies in Canadian universities. Most of the awards available to foreign students are not adequate.

Dr. Thomson said that such students, for example, sometimes not fluent in English or French might be exposed on arrival in Canada to "a new kind of culture shock."

"It is no kindness to admit such students to Canadian institutions at a level at which failure is almost inevitable, yet it may be very hard indeed to find them financial support on a lower level, and difficult to demote them without offending personal and national pride."

In addition many new nations, in Africa, would not require many persons with post-graduate degrees for some years.

"The immediate need is for teachers at lower levels; physicians; technologists and engineers; men familiar with the basic problems of agriculture, in a scientific sense; and men all sufficiently educated to organize and run a reasonably-efficient civil service."

Dr. Thomson's statements were included in a text of his address sent to the press before delivery.

HEAD APPEALS

At Monday's opening session of the three-day conference, the 120 delegates heard appeals for increased funds to universities to preserve their autonomy and build up their science and medical faculties.

However, J. J. Deutsch, vice-principal of Queen's University, said that those who will provide the money for an anticipated doubling of university revenues in the next five years will expect universities to manage their present facilities better.

Dr. J. W. T. Spinks, president of the University of Saskatchewan, called for greater research grants to equip university science departments adequately and give them some "flexibility" to deal with foreign universities for professors and students.

Dr. F. Farquharson, chairman of the Medical Research Council, said laboratory space and other facilities in university medical faculties are inadequate even for present needs.

In the next 20 years the number of doctors, at the present rate of population growth, would have to be increased to more than 30,000 from 20,000. They would require practically doubling the present enrolment in medical schools.

Opposes Move To End Butter Price Supports

TORONTO (CP) — The president of the Ontario Cream Producers' Marketing Board Tuesday opposed any move to abolish the present system of federal price supports for butter.

W. B. Hotson, speaking to the Cream Producers' annual meeting, said the board recognizes "that continually over - supplying the market is going to have an adverse effect on our income."

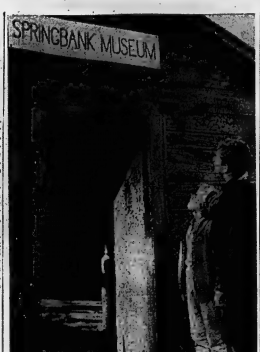
These problems are facing us and we must find a way of dealing with them."

One way, he suggested, might be through more flexible price supports.

He renewed the board's opposition to any relaxation of Ontario's law banning sale of yellow margarine.

"If this competitive product is as good as the manufacturers claim," he said, "surely it warrants a distinctive color of its own without having to take over butter's own natural color."

WILL SEEK VOTE



The board was authorized to seek a cream producers' vote on formation of a milk products board in the province.

Another resolution approved at the meeting seeks support of all dairy organizations in having the federal health department "to stop all unwarranted reports on the level of strontium 90 in milk.

Another resolution approved the principle of a government subsidy to reduce the price of butter to consumers "providing such action does not materially reduce the returns to bona fide producers of farm - separated cream, and that any further modification in national dairy policy be reviewed by all concerned well before the end of the present dairy year."

YOUTHFUL CURATOR — David Ross, 12, and his sister Nancy, 9, look at the name of their museum, housed in what was a henhouse last year on their parents' farm near Carlow, Ont. Nancy serves as secretary and looks after the guest book which contains the names of 193 persons who have inspected the collection of relics, many a century old. (CP Photo).

12-Year-Old Farm Boy Curator of Own Museum

CARLOW, Ont. (CP) — David Ross is the 12-year-old curator of his own museum.

Located on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. George Ross, not far from this village 40 miles north-west of Stratford, it's known as Springbank Museum and was set up last year in an abandoned henhouse.

It contains a collection of more than 150 articles and so far has been visited by almost 200 persons, each of whom has dutifully signed the guest book kept by David's nine-year-old sister Nancy.

David has always been interested in collecting things and his museum contains some articles more than a century old — one is the deed to the farm dated 1840 and owned by David's great-great - grandfather, Peter Robertson, who bought the 100 acres for £100, 18 shillings.

An ancient woollen blanket covers an old love seat, made out of tree limbs and believed to be the work of some Indians in the 19th century.

There is the proclamation of the electoral district of West Huron, printed by the Advance Print in 1882. It was given to David by the late Gavin Greer of nearby Goderich.

"Heads of long ago," reads a sign over a table showing bones and skulls of horses, cows and other animals found in the bushland on the farm. A local veterinarian helped David determine the species.

Relics of the First World War include a sword belt and spy glass case that belonged to Springbank Museum and was picked up by a grain carriers in Goderich harbor on Lake Huron in 1933.

A proud moment for the youthful curator came when E. J. Cutler of Dearborn, Mich., visited the farm. Mr. Cutler is connected with the Henry Ford Museum.

Cow Moose Shot Tips Scale at 1,000 Pounds

A large cow moose, by her size of the dewagon, has fallen to the guns of a Belleville and Kingston hunting group last week.

The "Lady of the Woods" tipped the scales at 1,000 pounds and was shot in the area south and west of Lake St. Peter.

In the party were John Weese, ex-M.P.; Dr. D. C. McVicker, Dr. Francis (Nig.) Ross, Doug Ellis and Bernard Baruch. He reads all those books about how to make millions in the stock market, and he believes them. He thinks he's on his way.

Every spare moment his nose is stuck either in a little magazine called "Shoeland and Paper Monthly Bulletin" or in the financial pages of newspapers and magazines or the folders he sends away for — all because of the $2.00 worth of stock he owns.

The last night was the payoff for me. I tried to get him to discuss whom to invite for Thanksgiving and all I heard were grunts and groans and finally, "Look what it's now, up 10¢! And I sold it for 51." How can I bring him back to earth?

Ross B. — Look, some men go to the horses and some to the craps. The market is my sport. It's a fascinating hobby for me. Melanie's only kick is that I discuss down on the yammer she has to put up with. Certainly she doesn't mind the $100 I gave her for a b5ll receiver, out of my profits.

I feel investing is a science. The science takes concentration and study. But instead of leaving me alone to figure things out, Melanie keeps breaking in with trivial matters. Thanksgiving! Both ladies had bagged their bucks while in the Canadian country" while hunting with his party.

Ross B. — It takes study. She does not object to the profits, I notice.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Melanie B. — He's a fanatic about the stock market. I can't reach him.

Ross B. — It takes study. She does not object to the profits, I notice.

Melanie B. — My husband is a salesman. But he's also a speculator. Billy Rose or Bernard Baruch. He reads all those books about how to make millions in the stock market, and he believes them. He thinks he's on his way.

Every spare moment his nose is stuck either in a little magazine called "Shoeland and Paper Monthly Bulletin" or in the financial pages of newspapers and magazines or the folders he sends away for — all because of the $2.00 worth of stock he owns.

The last night was the payoff for me. I tried to get him to discuss whom to invite for Thanksgiving and all I heard were grunts and groans and finally, "Look what it's now, up 10¢! And I sold it for 51." How can I bring him back to earth?

Ross B. — Look, some men go to the horses and some to the craps. The market is my sport. It's a fascinating hobby for me. Melanie's only kick is that I discuss down on the yammer she has to put up with. Certainly she doesn't mind the $100 I gave her for a b5ll receiver, out of my profits.

I feel investing is a science. The science takes concentration and study. But instead of leaving me alone to figure things out, Melanie keeps breaking in with trivial matters. Thanksgiving! Both ladies had bagged their bucks while in the Canadian country" while hunting with his party.

TWO MOOSE SHOT

A little-detailed report from Wellington states that hunter Brian Cronk bagged two moose "somewhere in the north country" while hunting with his party.

The Council: There's a touch of the masochist in the investor who keeps looking to see how far up is the stock he thought was going down, down, down! Watch it, Ross. You're like the divorced man who keeps going back to see how happy his former wife is with her new husband. There lies madness.

Here of course, the problem is one of degree. Ross is owen interested in the market, and Melanie is interested in a field her husband finds fascinating. How about sparking her interest next time, Ross, by handing her a small parcel of stock instead of cash for the b5ll eye-tem? That'll send her to the fine print at your elbow, pretty regularly.

And Ross must guard against this new interest becoming a passion that runs away with him. Thanksgiving is important, too, Turkey tastes better than lit'ter tape. Ta ke up stocks, sha re and dividends from morning to night can make anyone — except a brokir — a boring (albeit rich) companion and conversationalist.

Above all, h a r p i n g on what would be best" is like knocking yourself on the head and receiving sympathy. Where's the fun?

No. Keep the market in its place, down on Wall Street and in perspective at home. We're informed that no one makes money pulling it in and out of the market frequently, especially when a small amount is involved. A knowledgeable and astute investor talks as to advise you, Ross, to buy a substantial stock and ride with it a while, during that with, buying more as it the "dope sheets" you can be more responsive to Melanie than you've been.

Don't keep checking on what you've lost, unless you're buyer suffering. That would make for an interesting t e, to say the least—but not to your wife!

Belleville Commissioners Hold Annual Division Meeting

An annual division meeting of Brownies and Girl Guides was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. R. D. Arnott, with Mrs. D. Stewart, Belleville Division Commissioner, presiding.

Following the reading of the minutes, by Mrs. J.C. Demess secretary, Mrs. Stewart heard reports presented by each of the executive and the three District Commissioners.

According to the treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Kuntze's financial statement, training and camping costs were the two greatest Division expenses over the period of the year, and the annual tea the greatest asset.

In the capacity of International advisor, Mrs. Arnott expressed the hope that the District would call upon Mrs. Craighead, who is International representative, to assist the Brown Owls in conveying the full meaning of word "international" to the Brownies and Guides.

REPORT ON CAMP SITE

A camp report from representative, Mrs. A. Steenburg, revealed that the camp site at Wampoa had been utilized on eleven different occasions with a total of 269 people registering for such activities as pack holidays, day holidays and leader training.

Mrs. D. Settle, District Commissioner for Belleville West, stated she had 367 members in her area, with eight Brownie Packs and seven Girl Guide Companies. A highlight of the year's work was a Guide receiving an all around cord.

The Belleville South-east report was given by Mrs. B. Floyd. She was proud to announce the achievement of two all round cords, in her district, which consists of six Brownie Packs and four Guide Companies.

217 GIRLS REGISTERED

Mrs. R. Hay, who is in charge of the North-east District, has 217 girls registered, making four Brownie Packs and the same number of Guides Companies. She was pleased to say that one of the Brown Owls had sent a get-well card, signed by each of her girls, to Lady Baden Powell, who graciously sent a reply.

Mrs. Stewart informed the ladies that the Rangers, with only six members are in the care of Mrs. Ashley, who is hopeful of having her enrollment increased in the near future.

Having attended the recent area meeting, Mrs. Stewart had several items of interest to discuss with the Commissioners. She also informed the group of a visit she and four others had made to the camp-site and found everything in "shipshape"; the tents were packed ready to bring to Belleville for minor repairs.

ANNUAL DIVISION TEA

The annual division tea, to be convened by Mrs. F. Lennox, is tentatively slated for the latter part of February.

As a closing note Mrs. Hazzard suggested helping the Kiwanis with the drive for repairable Christmas toys, especially favoring the older age group, for whom Guides and Brownies could give something they would really like to receive themselves. She stated that already the Brown Owls in the South-east District have been instructed to appeal to their charges.

LEGER — KISER

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel was the setting on Saturday, November 11th, at 11.00 a.m. for a pretty fall wedding when Betty Patricia Kiser of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert M. Kiser, became the bride of Maurice E. Leger, also of Belleville, son of Mrs. Morris E. Leger of Belleville and the late Mr. Leger. The Reverend Peter H. Murphy officiated before an altar adorned with pink snapdragons and white 'mums.

Sister Mary Joan of Arc, church organist, produced the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Adrienne Vogt, who sang "Ave Marie" and "Panis Angelicus" before the ceremony and "Salve Mater" and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her white bridal gown of tiered, pleated nylon and lace featuring a lace bodice with full-length sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. The gracefully full skirt was in floor-length. She wore a seed pearl headdress and finger-tip veil of illusion tulle and carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by Mrs. Vivian Leger, of Cornwall, sister-in-law of the bride, attired in coral nylon fashioned with shirred skirt, and short sleeves with elbow-length gloves, and hat. Her corsage was of white and coral baby 'mums.

Mr. Gerald Leger of Cornwall, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Robert Kiser, brother of the bride, of Belleville, ushered.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at Club Canara, where the bridal table was appointed with white damask and centred by a three-tier wedding cake. The bridal bouquets added a pretty nuptial accent to the setting.

The bride's mother, wearing royal blue brocaded silk with matching hat, black accessories and corsage of white and red carnations, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in salmon color corded silk with beige and brown velvet hat, brown accessories, and corsage of yellow 'mums.

For the honeymoon to Toronto and other western points, the bride chose a knitted wool cherry-red suit, brown topcoat, and matching accessories. The happy couple will reside in Belleville at 27 Yeomans Street.

Guests attended from Cornwall, Trenton and Belleville.

A miscellaneous shower was held in Cornwall by friends and relatives of the bridegroom, and a kitchen shower for the bride by her co-workers at the Corby Library.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Leger are shown cutting the wedding cake following their recent marriage in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Betty Patricia Kiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert M. Kiser, of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Morris E. Leger, also of Belleville, and the late Mr. Leger.—(Photo by William E. Riley, Belleville.)

Mother's Helper

UNLESS you're in the kitchen yourself, that potentially dangerous room should be strictly off limits to your toddler. Even though you set aside a cupboard or drawer (with discarded pans and a few toys) just for him, you won't be sure he'll stick to that one if left unsupervised on those tempting occasions.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

HOW TO KEEP THE INVITATIONS COMING...

It always gives one a lift to take in writing it. This way it will be discovered and rectified. The name signed to a telephone message, just so there's no slip.

If it's necessary to refuse an invitation, a reason should be given, or the hostess won't get the impression that she's being slighted. It's not necessary to make it long or involved, but it should get across the idea that you would have attended if something hadn't come up previously.

Answering an invitation involves little trouble, but it does assure your continued presence at the top of preferred guest lists.

Question: I'm planning to use a picture of our three children on our Christmas card this year. My husband and I have a small business, and I had planned to send the same card to customers. Would this be in good taste?

Mrs. N. B. Allentown, Pa.

Answer: The picture card is fine for relatives and friends who like to keep track of how the children are growing up. But I do think a less folksy card should be sent to business clients, especially if the firm name is to go on it.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

SPRINGBROOK W.A.

The regular meeting of the Springbrook Women's Association was held on November 2 in the church basement. Mrs. Claude Reid and Mrs. Lorne Bailey acted as hostesses.

Mrs. Gordon Webb, president, opened the meeting.

The members observed one minute's silence in memory of Mrs. James Murray, who passed away last month.

Mrs. Clinton Robbins was in charge of the devotional period. Her theme was: "Our Willing Service." She was assisted by Mrs. Gerald Broadworth.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. George Thompson. Psalm 23 was read in unison and Lesson Thoughts by Mrs. G. Broadworth, with prayers by Mrs. K. Pilkes for the missionary, Miss Gould.

Mrs. C. Robbins closed with prayer.

Twenty-seven members answered the roll call by handing in their WMS thankoffering envelopes.

Members reported their cards sent and calls made to sick and shut-ins.

Mrs. Murney Mason reported making fifty calls for the special visiting committee. Flower and fruit convenors reported sending two cards.

Mrs. Gerald Broadworth gave an up-to-date treasurer's report, including the livestock sale and the anniversary supper.

This month's visiting volunteer is Mrs. Ralph Thompson.

It was decided to buy a cotton-maker to be used in the church basement.

Mrs. Clayton Burkitt gave an interesting topic, "Christian Education."

The program consisted of a medley of old songs played on the piano by Mrs. Ralph Wellman and a reading by Mrs. Percy Bateman.

Mrs. Delbert Fleming conducted a contest.

BETHEL-ZION W. M. S.

The November meeting of the Bethel-Zion W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Ketcheson with 15 members, two visitors and seven children present.

Mrs. John Ketcheson, president opened the meeting. It was decided for each member to bring an item for the bazaar table at the Christmas meeting or a donation. The ladies also decided to send the surplus from the bale to the Salvation Army. A flower committee was also appointed.

Mrs. Doug Sills was in charge of the worship service with the Scripture read by Mrs. Percy Ray, Mrs. Ted Ray was leader and gave a reading, "Today Won't Come Again". Mrs. Roy Sills gave the story, "Clothesline Christians". Mrs. Percy Ray read a poem, "Too Busy".

Mrs. Ralph Sills gave two chapters of the Study Book, assisted by Mrs. P. Ray, Mrs. Whitsell, Mrs. Sayers, Mrs. Benton, Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson and Mrs. Don Sills.

Numerous cards and calls were reported.

FOXBORO W.M.S.

The November meeting of the Foxboro United Church Woman's Missionary Society, held in the Sunday School room, was called to order by Mrs. Rombough, following quiet music by Mrs. F. Dudley.

Mrs. Rombough read an invocation written by Padre W. A. Young of Guelph C.A.C., in 1959.

Scripture reading was from Deut. 16:6-12, the comment being given by Mrs. Rombough.

The C.G.I.T. under the leadership of Mrs. W. L. Thompson, sang their opening hymn and "I've Got a Mansion," most delightfully. These songs were much enjoyed by those present.

The treasurer, Mrs. E. Defoe, reported $30.56 as collected from the thankoffering. She also reported the W.M.S. is short of its allocation.

Mrs. Thompson reported the C.G.I.T. are having a "supper service" at Christmas and hope to have the Young People join them. Also, as their project, the C.G.I.T. are going to fix up the "Beginners" Sunday School class room.

Some discussion on "United Church Women" concluded the business which had been in charge of Mrs. C. H. LaRue.

The program included, "Live for Peace," read by Mrs. G. Priest; "Play Etiquette" and "Those National Days of Prayer," from "The Observer;" were read by Mrs. H. Beatty; and "Sacrifice," by Mrs. H. S. Elliott.

A minute's silence was observed in honor of the war dead, with "A Prayer for the Nations," being read by Mrs. W. L. Johnston to close the meeting.

Nomination Meeting Held

TWEED — The Ladies Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion No. 428 held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening.

Reports were given from the various committees. Nominations for the 1962 offices took place and by the looks of the nominations it would indicate a good lively election.

Plans were made for the December meeting which will be in the form of a Christmas party. The card parties which are held every two weeks are proving to be quite successful.

Mrs. Bill Harden is to be convener for the next one.

After the meeting Mrs. Marjorie Higgin's lunch group served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed by the members.

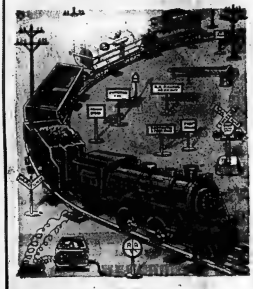
Complete New Deal, Vision Is Needed

CHATHAM (CP)—A complete new deal and a new vision is needed to improve the treatment and understanding of mental illness in Canada, members of the Women's Canadian Club were told Tuesday.

Dr. John D. Griffin, general director of the Canadian Mental Health Association, said a comprehensive community program including a range of services is required.

"That it is not being implemented as rapidly as one would like," Dr. Griffin said "is perhaps a reflection on public complacency rather than government inertia."

He listed services which should be part of such a program, including case - finding and referral services; emergency 24-hour psychiatric service; a mobile psychiatric team for home consultation and treatment; a wide range of out-patient mental health clinics; an adequate number of day- and night-care hospitals where a hospital treatment program would be administered without having the patient leave his home or job; and a system of hospital and health insurance which would give the same status to this kind of program as is now given to programs for treating physical illness.



SUGGESTS FUND

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The government should set up a mutual fund so that each Ontario worker can invest part of his monthly earnings in equity securities, John White, member of the legislature for London, Mr. White, speaking to the London Real Estate Board, said such a mutual fund would make more investment capital available to all provincial citizens. It would also provide money for capital expansion, which in turn would provide jobs.

VERSATILE ARTIST — Italian-born Isa Miranda has had a varied career as a painter, writer, model and actress. She has been appearing for 27 years in motion pictures made in Italy, France, Germany and Hollywood and was in Toronto to play the role of a London teddy boy's mother in a CBC dramatic production. (CP Photo).

Actress Isa Miranda Said Always Step Ahead of Self

TORONTO (CP)—Actress Isa Miranda is an energetic young woman who is almost constantly one step ahead of herself.

It's always been that way for the Italian-born 44-year-old actress — writer - painter who was in Toronto early in November to tape a CBC television production.

She recalled that when she was 12, working an 11 - hour day in a cotton factory, she was studying shorthand and typing.

When she became a typist, she studied to become a model, and when she succeeded she then set her sights on becoming an actress.

Now, while working as an actress, she is also writing a novel. Based on some incidents in her own life, the novel contains, as she says in her Italian accent, "feefty facts, feefty fantasies."

She also writes poetry, makes dolls for the support of 20 children she helps care for, cooks and is ready to tackle with vigor any project that strikes her fancy.

Three years ago Miss Miranda spent a year's free time posing for artist Paolo Gi- ni who made 200 paintings of her in different moods and costumes for an exhibition called The 200 faces of Miranda.

ADORES FALLS

The role of mother of a teddy boy in the Playdate production of Some Talk of Alexander brought her to Toronto. The play is to be shown Dec. 20.

Before coming to Toronto, she looked it up in an encyclopedia, and on her arrival proceeded to soak up the sights in the area. She adored Niagara Falls and talked about some interesting people she met at a wrestling match.

As in her novel, her real world seems to be a blend of fact and fancy.

"Do you know where the pigeons go at night?" she asked. "When it gets dark you can't see them. The angels light the candles in the sky—that's the stars—and the pigeons fly up to the angels."

Her hands fluttered bird-like as she spoke.

Asked what made her want to be an actress, she said:

"I was lying in bed one night and I woke up crying. I didn't know why. At that time my parents were too poor to afford a radio, but our neighbors had a radio and I heard music and

Wives of U.S. Govt. Officials Ambassadors of Good Will

By Ed Townsend
in the Christian Science Monitor

NEW YORK—Recently the nation's First Lady, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, disclosed that she planned a "personal and private" trip to India and Pakistan during the latter part of the month. A few days later, it was announced that the cultural visit has been postponed until January.

In the original statement the White House emphasized that Mrs. Kennedy does not intend to make an official or state visit to either country and that she will pay her own expenses.

The White House, in announcing the change in dates, said India's visiting Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru had persuaded Mrs. Kennedy "to make a more leisurely visit" and to be on hand for celebration of India's Republic Day on Jan. 26.

Nevertheless, it is widely speculated that the real reason for the delay is that Mr. Nehru has invited both President and Mrs. Kennedy to make a state visit to his country within the next few months.

In either case, Washington is becoming increasingly aware that there is a warm interest among women abroad in the nation's First Lady. It is an interest that extends to other wives of the men who form the American Government. Within recent days a number of Cabinet wives—Mrs. Orville L. Freeman, Mrs. Luther H. Hodges, and Mrs. Dean Rusk—were welcomed to Japan in a traditional tea ceremony.

The personal meetings—unofficial—between wives do not settle international problems but they do contribute, measurably, to the warmth and understanding between peoples.

Nobody feels more sure of this than Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, who recently returned to this country from a five-country European trip. His wife, Mrs. Dorothy Kurgans Goldberg, accompanied the Secretary of Labor, with the Goldbergs paying her travel costs. And, according to the Cabinet officer, his wife proved a real asset on the trip.

"I was tremendously impressed by the effectiveness and value of my wife's presence," Secretary Goldberg said recently. "She was a great help to me in establishing a better and closer personal contact with the foreign officials and proved to be without question an ambassador of good will for the United States."

Mrs. Goldberg, an artist of note, met and talked informally with many people in the countries visited and relayed him "invaluable" information and impressions about everyday life in the countries.

"As an American wife and mother, she was able to discuss those matters which mutually concern all wives and mothers in whatever country they are, thus creating a better understanding of the United States," Mr. Goldberg said in an official statement in Washington. He added: "More wives of United States Government representatives should accompany their husbands abroad than presently do."

Secretary and Mrs. Goldberg arrived in Helsinki, Finland, on the same day that the President of the Soviet Union, Leonid Brezhnev, arrived there. Newspaper interest centred on the wife of the American official. Most of the front page of the paper that day was devoted to Mrs. Goldberg's picture and an interview with her. An article on the Soviet official was buried on an inside page.

The Finnish people wanted to know about the common problems of an American mother and housewife — how a woman in the United States raises a family, manages a household, and still finds time to continue an art career that has won wide recognition for her. They also were interested in the lonely interviews — in the adjustments that had to be made for the wife of a labor attorney to become the wife of a Cabinet officer.

Mrs. Goldberg, an honor graduate of a Chicago public school and of the University of Chicago and the Chicago Art Institute, answered their questions and told of a daughter doing social service work in Israel where her husband is an intern, and of a son who is a sophomore at Amherst College and a "pretty good" tennis player.

On her return, she told friends that she had found a great interest in the Scandinavian countries in "warm, human things" about Americans. Secretary of Labor Goldberg is strongly convinced that his proposal to encourage more government wives to accompany husbands abroad would lead to broader worldwide woman understandings across national borders, and any understandings at any level — are vital today, he feels.

Legion Supper Highlighted by Presentations

WELLINGTON—On Saturday evening members of the Royal Canadian Legion and their wives enjoyed a pot-luck supper in the Legion Hall.

After a bounteous meal a social time was enjoyed by all.

During the evening four members of World War 1 were presented with a 30 year membership pin. The recipients were: Dr. R. A. Thompson, Mr. Wilbert King, Mr. Clarence Way and Mr. Leo Vandusen. Four other members eligible for a pin were unable to attend due to ill health.

The four members who had received their pins were elected to pay a visit to the shut-in members on Sunday afternoon and present them with their pins. They were: Mr. W. A. Davern, Mr. Alfred Ogilvy, Mr. Fred Ford and Mr. James Findlay. All are veterans of the 1st World War and legion members since its origin.

CLAIM ESTATE FUNDS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When Miss Rossa Mambar, a Polish immigrant, died in 1960 she left nearly a $3,000,000 estate amassed through judicious investment in apartment buildings. Relatives—or people who claim they are—from all over the world have filed depositions contending they are due portions of the estate. Superior Court Judge Newcomb Condee began sifting through the depositions Monday.

Right to The Point

Regardless of much talk of different shoe silhouettes for the coming season, most of the footwear on display goes right to the point again.

In step with the trend, these pumps are fashioned with an irregular throat line and perforations, both foot-flattering details. In black leather, they are available with either high or medium heels.

The Experts Say

Even on Dressy Occasions, Some Women Overdress

By EDNA BLAKELY

TORONTO (CP) — The most important fetet of fashion is a sense of the appropriate.

That's the opinion of Dora Matthews, fashion co - ordinator for the T. Eaton Company Limited.

The worst offence is to be overdressed. Even on dressy occasions, some women over-dress, Mrs. Matthews says.

When selecting clothing, people should look carefully at the type of life they live, then buy appropriate apparel. Mrs. Matthews, for instance, says she owns few separates because she doesn't have a country life. She admits she finds it hard to resist the tempting separates offered each season, but she doesn't condone impulse buying.

What constitutes "good" clothing depends on the individual. Some women think it is a good price to pay for a dress, while another woman might be insulted if you showed her a dress in that price range.

A $35 hat might seem "quite mad" to one woman but another woman might consider it a minimum.

"It depends on whether her prestige hangs on it," Mrs. Matthews explained.

She has a fondness for hats and says "no one will notice a suit for years if it's worn with a dashing hat." The hat should be either a conversation piece or attractive.

"Fashion shouldn't have a price," Mrs. Matthews says. "Fashion is available in every price range and in recent years many attractive styles have been made available for young people in dresses under $20.

For a limited clothes budget separates were probably best and dress - up separates were available. Separates were also good standbys for travelling since they could be mixed and matched.

Mrs. Matthews personally favors suits, the often goes from her downtown office to another engagement wearing the same suit. She adds a lace blouse and a hat and feels well dressed for any occasion.

"I don't know of any dress that would be quite that adaptable."

When choosing a party dress she recommends a good understated gown priced according to your clothes budget.

"Good fashion should last as long as the garment does. An understated dress can be changed by accessories so that new dress isn't required for every occasion.

Mrs. Matthews says there is no reason why a dress with good lines and in a becoming colour can't be worn for five years "and by that time you've usually gone through the elbows."

With so much fashion information available to the public there is no reason not to know what is fashionable.

"But it is important to remember that fashion is never adamant."

Women's Activities

FRONT ROAD W.A.

Front Road United Church W.A. held its November meeting, recently, at the home of Mrs. Walter Taylor.

Mrs. Clifford Reid, president, welcomed everyone and thanked Mrs. Taylor for opening her home.

Ten ladies answered the roll call with one visitor and one child present. The ladies were pleased to have the Rev. and Mrs. Vesery present.

Mrs. Fred Pope was in charge of the devotional which dealt with the topic, "Our Willing Service." Scripture reading, I Peter 4: 2-4 was read by Mrs. Lee Purdy; "Duty is Not Enough" read by Mrs. Pope"; reading, "The Open Door," by Mrs. C. Reid. This reading dealt with the opportunity awaiting every person, especially the women of the church. Women are the makers of homes. Father has his place of course, but the heart of the operation is the wife and mother. It is not news that the home as a Christian institution, is in some peril, and that is not for lack of good will on the part of women. It is that women need help, specific help and concrete guidance. Surely the church, above all else, should be concerned about re-establishing, the home as the main bulwark of Christian faith and living.

In woman's hand lies responsibility for a restoring of higher standards in the common ventures of life.

Readings, "The Ladies Aid," by Mrs. C. Bradshaw; "A Pinch of This and a Pinch of That," by Mrs. E. Preston, and "The Bravest of the Brave," by Mrs. C. Brown.

Business meeting followed. Mrs. Taylor served refreshments.

Foxboro H-S Assoc. Begins New Season

The Foxboro Home and School Association began its new season of activities late in October with Mrs. Bradshaw in charge of the meeting.

The treasurer reported $90.36 in the account.

There was some discussion regarding the first aid kit and some on the swings. However, it was reported the swings were going to be repaired by the school board, if they had not already been done.

Correspondence was read, a "Thank You" card from Mr. Dunsmore, and a letter from Mrs. Hulin for the money given her for use for her pupils in June and a "Thank You" letter from Ron Scott, on behalf of Mrs. Rose's room for the money given them in June.

It was decided to have Mrs. Walker buy a square dance record or records for use on stormy days.

Open house is to be held later in November and tea and coffee are to be served the parents as they visit the rooms.

Mrs. Rombough resigned as social convener. Mrs. Churchill volunteered as social convener with Mrs. J. Hill as co-convener. Mrs. Rombough is to replace Mrs. Churchill as membership convener.

It was also decided to try having the Friday night dances in the school auditorium again this winter.

A social hour over a cup of coffee closed the meeting.

Wool Plaid Two-Piecer

By VERA WINSTON

Wool in a bold black type and white plaid does nicely in this two-piece sports or casual outfit.

The top has a shallow boat neck and below-elbow sleeves. Under it is a sweater of Italian knit with a high turtle neck and wrist-length sleeves. The straight skirt has two vertical slit pockets.

Of course the sweater is entirely optional, the suit being quite adequate on its own.

1961—Dark Christmas Fruit Cake

The worries of the world seemed to have been lifted from my shoulders when the decision was made about which fruit cake I would give for our 1961 Christmas baking.

I thought I was all set last April when we made Pete and Margy's wedding cake but when it was now it showed a slight tendency to crumble. When it was aged it was fine. But you see some of you wait until the last minute to bake your cakes and they do not get time to ripen.

So I had to make a foolproof cake that would cut cleanly as soon as it was baked and yet be different and good. Some of you will notice that this cake is reminiscent of the 1940 and 1954 fruit cakes that I have given.

1961 DARK CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE:

Wet Ingredients: (including sugar), ¾ lbs. butter, 1 cup white sugar, 1 cup old-fashioned dark brown sugar well packed, 5 large eggs, 1 teaspoon almond extract, ½ teaspoon vanille, ¼ cup molasses, ¼ cup orange juice.

Dry Ingredients: 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon powdered cloves, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon allspice, ½ teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt.

Fruits and Nuts: ½ lb. whole pecans, ½ lb. walnuts whole or broken, ¼ lb. whole blanched almonds, ¼ lb. seeded Valencia raisins, ¾ lb. unbleached Sultana raisins, ½ lb. clean currants, ¼ lb. mixed green and red glace cherries, ½ lb. mixed orange and lemon peel, ¼ lb. cut yellow candied pineapple, ½ lb. chopped stoned dates.

In very large mixing bowl or clean dishpan cream the butter well (using electric beater if desired and cream the sugars into it until very light. Beat in the eggs, one at a time. In a cup mix together the almond extract, vanille, molasses and orange juice. Sift together the dry ingredients which are the sifted flour and spices and soda and salt. Remove 1 cup and mix thoroughly into fruits and nuts. Add remainder of the dry ingredients alternately with the wet ingredients in the cup to the butter mixture until batter is smooth. Add all of the floured fruits and nuts and mix very well indeed. Line 2 strange loaf pans with 3 thicknesses of wax paper and butter the surface which the batter touches and fill with batter, pressing it down with back of wooden spoon, so it fills corners and is well packed. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr. for 3 to 3½ hours with water pan below it during entire baking period. Water pan will need refilling about 3 times with boiling water. Remove from pans to cool but do not peel off wax paper. When cold carefully wrap and store in cool place for 3 or 4 weeks.

Five Women's Institutes In Canadian North Have Most Unusual Activities

OTTAWA (CP) — Women's Institutes are noted for the town meeting place or wide scope of their activities or a sourdough shindig, but few can claim to promote these as some of the more unusual activities reported by the five Women's Institutes in the Canadian north.

Founded a year ago with the co-operation of the department of northern affairs, four WIs in the Mackenzie District of the Northwest Territories are busy sponsoring social and educational projects.

The fifth northern WI, organized five years ago in Haines Junction, Yukon, has success fully campaigned for a school, community hall and library and sponsored bonspiels.

The success of the northern WIs, including two inside the Arctic Circle, is related Citizen, a publication of the citizenship department.

The magazine says the women's groups have done much to stimulate community life in the isolated northern settlements and to improve relations between whites and Indians and Eskimos.

WI AT INUVIK

The newest WI in the north, and also the most northerly of the 4,300 institutes in Canada, operates at Inuvik, N.W.T., the government's new administrative centre in the Mackenzie River delta near the Arctic coast.

The other northern institutes are in Fort McPherson, south of Aklavik and inside the Arctic Circle, and Discovery and Fort Province, both in the Great Slave Lake area.

The institutes have organized handicraft projects, hobby and fashion shows, health lectures and recreational programs.

The Fort Providence WI opened a club house in a vacant log cabin with a leaky roof after raising money for the renovations. The group also started a library with books from institutes in the provinces.

Considerable attention is being given to the production and sale of handicrafts, ranging from beaded moccasins to quilts. The institutes found that the women of the north have a common interest in handicrafts which serves as a starting point for getting a mixed group working together.

CONVERT TO MISSILES

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Navy is carrying out a major reorganization in a wide move toward rocketry and guided missiles, says the 1961 edition of the authoritative volume Jane's Fighting Ships. The manual of world seapower expresses doubt that the Soviet Union has more and faster nuclear-powered submarines than the United States.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Worried About Girl

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I have learned to be quiet ever since I had a serious accident at school which kept me from playing with the other boys and girls for years. Now I am lonely at dances and hardly even have someone to talk to.

Most of the girls in this part of the country go to the big cities to find jobs as soon as they finish school. I find the cities difficult because I get an awful headache from the heavy city traffic. But I am strong and have a successful grain farm.

I have one friendly girl who writes to me but I have avoided being serious with her because of a nerve trouble which puts her in mental hospital for months sometimes. It started with a love affair she had ten years ago. I feel very sorry for her, but do not wish to get into trouble with her nerves, now or later.

I was thinking that I might employ her as housekeeper for a while to see if she is improving. Or she could get a stenographer's job and at the same time be closer to me. That way we could get to know each other better. Perhaps she would be happier and this would improve her nerve situation.

Do you think it would be proper to do it? Or perhaps I should forget her?—LARRY.

DEAR LARRY—Happiness can heal. But find out what you are up against.

Perhaps a talk with your doctor would help you understand your girl's illness and its probable future. He should also be giving you a check-up about your own health.

A housekeeper job in the home you share with your parents is too close for comfort, but if she would move near enough for you to see each other frequently—this could be love!

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. O. J. C.—You have not said whether the girl was illegitimate; whether her father is dead or divorced. The regulations vary a little from province to province but legal counsellors tell me an adoption order is usually the best way, if there has not been a necessity for legitimation. For guidance about that particular case you mention, write to the Registrar-General, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island.

* * *

TO PILGRIM—You may depend on it, your letter will be kept confidential if you request this. Allow three or four weeks for my reply.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—My mother died when I was ten years of age. Would it be improper for her name to appear on my wedding invitation?—LITTLE ALICE.

* * *

DEAR LITTLE ALICE:—Yes. Your father issues the invitation in his name alone, unless he has remarried.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO P. R.—If you are looking for companionship do what others do: take up a hobby which will bring you into contact with people who like the same things you do. There are camera clubs, do-it-yourself groups, sky-searchers—even flying-saucer clubs!

Not to mention the things done in your own church, where they probably need what you got in the way of talent. The correspondent you mention lives in another part of Canada; and this column cannot solve your problem by linking you up with a pal!

(Tell Doris about it. Professional help can be yours).

WMS Meet Based on 'Peace' Theme

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Church Hall was nicely decorated with bouquets of chrysanthemums for the November meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society.

A worship centre was arranged around a map of the world, a bronze cross and lighted yellow tapers, and the hostesses were Mrs. Ernest Spencer and Mrs. Oscar Merrick. The pastor and 21 ladies were in attendance.

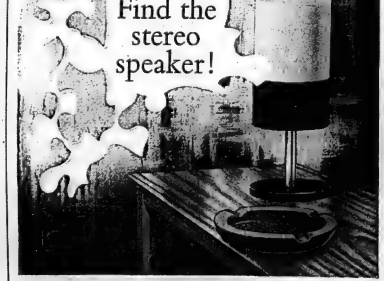
Mrs. Burton Sharpe played quiet music and the president opened with "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind." Mrs. Percy MacMullen read her report and the friendship calls were recorded. The treasurer, Mrs. Grant Hubble, reported $209 to date. Two letters were read, one of which was an invitation to the 60th anniversary of St. Andrew's W.M.S. at West Huntingdon. Mrs. Harry McAdam reported for the Mission Band Christmas card order. Mrs. Milford Wrightman reported a total of $42 for the Baby Band. Plans were made for a supply quilting, also a bake sale.

Mrs. Donald Knight gave a report of the circuit provisional committee which was held at the hall on Tuesday evening. The inaugural services will be held the first Sunday in January, 1962, at the three appointments.

The citizenship secretary Mrs. W. G. Fletcher, and stewardship secretary, each read brief items on the theme, "Peace." Mrs. Herbert Smith gave the highlights of the recent sectional rally held at Wellmans United Church.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Will Jeffs and Mrs. Ira David and the former presided. She read a selection, "Let Your Light Shine," and Mrs. Stanley Williams read the Bible lesson. Mrs. John Mulheron gave a brief resume of the World Council of Churches which convenes in New Delhi for the third assembly.

The offering was dedicated by Mrs. H. Smith and Mrs. D. Knight read "Baker's Hymn of Peace." Mrs. Burton Sharpe sang "The Crown of Peace" with Mrs. Garth Joslin as accompanist.



The Rev. W. G. Fletcher gave a discourse based on "Jesus Christ, the Light of the World," which is the theme of the meeting at New Delhi. Fellow Christians from all over the world will have a part in the work and witness of all churches everywhere.

The Ecumenical movement began in Edinburgh in 1910 and throughout the years the various churches have been learning to live together.

Mrs. Ralph Jeffs provided light refreshments and all enjoyed a brief period of fellowship.

Rival AFL-CIO Camps Trade Broadsides in Labor Civil War Led by Walter Reuther

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rival industrial and craft union camps in the AFL-CIO traded broadsides today in a fresh outburst of organized labor's civil war.

Walter Reuther, Auto Workers union president and commander of the industrial union forces, charged that the six-year-old AFL-CIO has called unions "in name only" because, he said, the federation has failed to solve traditional union rivalries. He blamed the craft unions for the impasse.

C. J. (Neil) Haggerty, leader of the crafts as president of the AFL-CIO building and construction trades, retorted that the industrial unions are ignoring agreed-upon disputes settlement machinery "making us wonder what an agreement with them is worth."

"Mr. Reuther," said Haggerty, "apparently thinks his best defence is an all-out offence."

The basis for the feuding is the same job rights controversy that split the old AFL into the rival AFL and CIO organizations in 1935. Since the AFL-merged CIO merger was agreed upon in 1955 there have been fruitless efforts to work out a binding arbitration arrangement for interunion disputes.

DISCLOSES PLANS

Deploring this, Reuther said in a report prepared for the annual convention of the industrial union department he heads that there must be some type of non - aggression pact for the AFL-CIO to survive. The conventions were Thursday.

Reuther said the fact the government has recently established machinery to settle interunion controversies at missile sites "should be a lesson to us that there will be more federal intervention if the AFL - CIO fails to solve its own problems."

Haggerty said the industrial unions were "openly and openly transgressing" a 1958 pact, known as the Mieml agreement, between the building union groups. This provided for a system of mediating disputes. Reuther said it was only a stopgap arrangement and lacked any enforcement

Just Entering Payoff Years When a Man Turns Fifty

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Are you approaching 50 and feeling fearful?

Calm down, man. What's to be afraid of? You're just entering the payoff years.

After being 50 some nine months now, I find it less unnerving out to be a far less shattering experience than turning 40 was.

Actually, you have the sense to realize it, life at the half-century mark (and after) has certain advantages. It adds a few flavorful bubbles to the foam on the beer of existence.

Such as? Well, such as—

At 50, you don't have as much trouble finding a parking space. (You leave the car in the garage more often.)

You don't have to leap the house apart to find something to tie up a package with. (As you now never throw anything away, you've a have plenty of string.)

NO SPRINTING

You're no longer in danger of getting a heart attack from running after a bus. (Why run? It'll be—you can't catch it anyway.)

Your clothing costs you less and less, each year. (As you get slimmer and slimgier, you hate to put out money for anything new.)

Your wife's clothes cost you less, too. (She'd rather put up with her old coat another year than listen to you complain about how high everything is getting these days.

Instead of going to the barber every two weeks, you go every three weeks. (After all, what's left to cut?)

You go to bed earlier and get more sleep. (Why stay up and watch the late film on television? You saw it 30 years ago at the movies—remember?)

You eat less and your food bills go down, down, down. (You have finally learned the less you overload your stomach the less it has to gripe about.)

You don't worry about getting on foolish things like chasing red - haired girls. (You don't know any. And those you once knew — well, their hair has turned to silver.)

You no longer have to fret about the future. (The boys has set you know you don't have any.)

After 50 you turn away from big problems and see the beauty in small joys, and at last you have the time for themtime for gratitude, time to be kind, time to remember, time even to grow young in heart again.

Who, on the summit of 50, would want to be 20, and have to start the long rocky climb again?

Who indeed?

"Jest a Second"

"She hasn't done anything — we just want her!"

Labor Minister 50 Years Old

CORNWALL (CP) — Labor Minister Michael Starr celebrated his 50th birthday here Tuesday night as he addressed 200 businessmen, industrial representatives and municipal officials at the start of Cornwall's winter works campaign.

The federal minister said all efforts were being made to "speed up the tight money situation."

He said all chartered banks had agreed to voluntarily curtail government - secured loans to small businesses and for home and farm improvement.

The federal government was also working closely with provincial authorities and was willing to contribute to any plan that would be an incentive to employment.

Special vocational training for the unemployed was one of the chief planks in this program, he said. The federal government has recently offered to subsidize payments made to unemployed persons for 26 weeks instead of 15.

"The old allowance for married men taking courses away from their jobs was 35 cents. We have suggested to the provinces we would be willing to pay 75 per cent of the cost if the provinces will agree to increase this to $50 a week."

Always Beating His Mother Son Testifies

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Marjorie Skiba collapsed Tuesday during her trial on a charge of murdering her husband, Kenneth Skiba, 36, in their west - end home May 8.

Her son, Kenneth William, 18, told an assize court jury before Mr. Justice D. C. Wells that he could not remember when his father was not abusing his mother.

"He was always beating her up with his fists, kicking her and using foul language," the youth said.

Young Kenneth said his father and mother went out separately the night of May 23. His father returned home and said "where's she (Mrs. Skiba) did come home, he was going to kick her in the head."

Later the son heard his parents quarrelling in their bedroom. He said he heard his mother being knocked around.

Then he heard his mother say: "I won't let you die - I'll call the police." When the boy went to investigate he found his father bleeding in the hallway.

The trial is continuing.

C of C Requests Changes in Pay In Jobless Fund

OTTAWA (CP)—Payment of seasonal unemployment benefits should be separated from the unemployment insurance fund, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce said today.

In a brief to the special human commo ttee investigating unemployment insurance, the chamber's exe u tive council also proposed that payments to "sources of drain" on the fund be stemmed.

It cited as sources of drain "some married women, some pensioners, some job leavers and duration of benefit."

The brief said that married women, by reason of t e benefits, should be required to meet additional conditions—at the least to prove some attachment to the labor market. It said some publicity decried by them to credo the insurance through out Canada that their movement is growing and that it has a broad basis of support.

Mr. Cole, a resident of Quebec City, said, the organization "are doing a great disservice to the unity and strength of Canada during a period when our economy is fraught with danger."

There was no place for separatism in Canada.

INDUSTRY NEEDS UNITY

Speaking on the need for unity in the dairy industry, Mr. Cole said "It is no exaggeration to state that the future of the dairy industry for a long period will be one of united or the uninformed."

"Only by working together and acquiring the getting into practice the know-how of modern management procedures can we hope to keep our business efficient and financially solvent."

He criticized the federal government for not taking action on Dairy Council recommendations aimed at relieving a "distress which now has assumed very ominous proportions"—declining butter consumption and rising surpluses.

He pointed to a resolution presented to the government by the Dairy Farmers of Canada which suggested that the consumer price of butter be reduced immediately by 14 cents a pound with a reduction of two cents a pound during the next dairy year.

The federal government now supports butter prices, purchasing surplus butter at 64 cents a pound for top grades.

CALLS FOR PROGRAM

Mr. Cole also called for an information and public relations program to inform Canadians of the value of milk as a source of calcium to prevent body absorption of radioactive strontium-90 fallout from nuclear explosions.

He said it was unfortunate that until recently milk was the only food used to any extent for measurement of radioactivity levels, in fact milk was substituted as a strontium-90 for other foods.

The text of Mr. Cole's address was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Police Convinced There Was Foul Play in Child's Death

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Inspector Lon Hamilton of city police, heading an investigation into the death of seven-year-old London girl whose body was found hanging in a vacant store, said Tuesday he is convinced there was foul play in the case.

He added he is certain that children who "do the answer" do to mysterious circumstances are responsible for the death of Sylvia Fisk.

Inspector Hamilton said police have no fear a child-slayer is in the case. They questioned neighborhood children and the girl's classmates and "there could obtain no clue.

"We couldn't have any discovered Monday night in a small, dingy alcove on the third floor of the four-storey apartment building on Adelaide Street in downtown London. She had left her home less than 100 yards away four hours earlier to pick up a newspaper for her father, Ernest Fisk.

The discovery was made by three men, neighbors of the Fisks, who undertook to help in the search. Could of Sylvia's disappearance was soon after 5 p.m. on his way home from work.

A time element came into the case Tuesday when investigating police found that the girl was seen about 5 p.m. on Adelaide Street a block north of where her body was found three hours later. She was alone.

Ayrshire Cow Brings $2,000 At Winter Fair

TORONTO (CP) — An Ayrshire cow from Fulmer, Que., Tuesday sold for $2,000 at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, Toronto's annual dairyfarm, consigned by Stansell Brothers, was purchased by Dr. R. B. Graves, of Red Wing, Minn.

The cow was one of 10 Ayrshires sold at an auction average of $717.50, or an over-all average of $1,980 for 12 head including two pen class heifers.

Stansell Brothers' cow, classified as excellent, came from a high-producing cow family. Her dam produced 17,046 pounds of milk and 719 pounds of fat at the age of five years.

Mr. Graves, R. E. Trotten of Dutton, Ont., won the championship with a Price Challenge Cup for Berkshires.

Could of Sylvia's disappearance was soon after 5 p.m. on his way home from work.

DISCLOSES INJURY

A post - mortem examination revealed the little girl had been assaulted but not sexually. Dr. John Fisher, who conducted the post-mortem, said she had suffered an internal injury which had been caused by a foreign instrument. But he could not determine whether death was a result of the injury or from strangulation.

Sylvia's body was dangling from her own coat belt. The body was about three feet back in the alcove and partly hidden visit.

No Place for Separatism In Canada Dairy Council President Tells Association

TORONTO (CP) — Pierre Cole, president of the National Dairy Council of Canada, today described Quebec separatism as an "ill-conceived and irresponsible minority movement."

Mr. Cole, addressing the annual meeting of the Ontario Milk Distributors' Association, said:

"The movement has been blown up out of all proportion to its size, influence or importance.

"The trouble-makers behind this thoroughly impractical and futile effort have deliberately adopted a policy of scandalous and noisy, prejudiced misstatements of fact, in order to attract the type of sensational publicity desired by them to credo the impression through out Canada that their movement is growing and that it has a broad basis of support.

Mr. Cole, a resident of Quebec City, said, the organization "are doing a great disservice to the unity and strength of Canada during a period when our economy is fraught with danger."

There was no place for separatism in Canada.

INDUSTRY NEEDS UNITY

Speaking on the need for unity in the dairy industry, Mr. Cole said "It is no exaggeration to state that the future of the dairy industry for a long period will be one of united or the uninformed."

Man Is Ruled Incompetent to Stand Trial

NEW YORK (CP) — Arnold Barbelo, 50, one of 12 men standing trial for smuggling narcotics into the United States, was ruled mentally incompetent to stand trial in U.S. federal court Tuesday and a special trial was ordered for him.

Judge William Herlands, who ordered a psychiatric examination of Barbelo after he allegedly attempted suicide in the bathroom of his home last week, ruled on the basis of the psychiatric report which was submitted Tuesday.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Edward Brodsky, in another development, asked that bail for Barbelo be increased to two of them from Toronto — be revoked.

Brodsky pointed out that one defendant—Barbelo — had allegedly attempted suicide, another has been killed, four others, including a third Toronto man, were fugitives and two of the defendants arrived late in court Tuesday.

Judge Herlands denied the motion and allowed bail to stand.

OVERTURES MADE?

William Holmes, 38, of New York City, who has been in court several months ago, Brodsky told the court Tuesday that he made overtures to co - operate with the government."

One of the four fugitive defendants, Albert Agueci of Toronto, a Canadian and his brother, Vito Aguecci, an Italian citizen living in Toronto, is standing trial. The two Toronto accused is Rocco Scopelliti, an Italian citizen.

The government contends the defendants were part of a narcotics ring that smuggled $150,000,000 in narcotics into the U.S. from Canada and Italy during a 10-year period.

Dairy Production In October Up Over Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Production of dairy products was greater last month than in October last year, the bureau of statistics reported today. Month-end stocks also were higher.

October production in pounds (with corresponding 1960 figures where bracketed): Creamery butter 23,371,000 (23,541,000); cheddar cheese 11,210,000 (9,844,000); evaporated milk 25,531,000 (24,715,000); ice cream (gallonage) 19,289,000 (12,193,000).

Stocks on hand, in pounds (with Nov. 1, 1960 figures bracketed): creamery butter 159,000, (439,000); cheddar cheese 1,134,754,000 (1,-042,000); cheese 70,936,000 (62,505,000); evaporated milk 8,242,000 (7,-907 000 (61,587,000); skim milk powder 33,497,000 (26,902,000).

PUMP OUT STOMACHS

TORONTO (CP) — Five prisoners who apparently took poof balls while being taken from a police court to the Don Jail in a patrol wagon were rushed to hospital Tuesday to have their stomachs pumped out. Jail officials said when the wagon doors opened two of the men were unconscious and the other three could hardly stand. The men had been in court on drunk charges.

Onus on Provinces to Give Universities Financial Aid Diefenbaker Tells Parley

OTTAWA (CP)—The onus is on the provinces to give more money to universities, Prime Minister Diefenbaker suggested Tuesday night.

However, he told the National Conference of Canadian Universities and Colleges there has been no "shelving" of the demands for greater federal aid.

The enormous amounts involved in NCCUC forecasts of university needs in the next 10 years required further consideration and the decision should "not be a piecemeal one," he said.

In emphasizing this statement, Mr. Diefenbaker made it plain that the federal government recognizes constitutional problems involved in such expenditures. The provinces had a primary responsibility in the field of education.

Furthermore, he said, the provinces' financial position had been strengthened by a $325,000,000 increase in unconditional grants to provinces, so that they might better meet their responsibilities.

LACK EXTREMISM

Conference leaders had made no secret that they were expecting Mr. Diefenbaker to announce more federal aid. His speech was greeted with a notable lack of enthusiasm and there were indications that resolutions on the subject were to go before the concluding session of the conference today.

Although he announced no new policies, Mr. Diefenbaker promised "sympathetic" consideration of their demands. He also said Canada dares not permit its universities to become second-rate in the face of the Communist challenge.

Considerable praise was given in the light both of constitutional difficulties and of national needs, he said.

During discussions Tuesday, the universities were urged by a number of speakers to prepare now to play a wider international role in education.

SUGGESTS EXTEND

Dr. J. F. Leddy, vice-president of the University of Saskatchewan, proposed that Canadian teachers and schools deliberately extend their knowledge of the Soviet Union and social sciences of the East to cope with a wave of students from Africa and Asia.

Dr. David Thomson, vice-principal of McGill University, urged greater provision of assistance for foreign under-graduate students.

Dr. F. Cyril James, principal of McGill, suggested Canadian universities sponsor new foreign universities in Africa and Asia in much the same way as they now sponsored new colleges in different parts of Canada.

Kroll Case Shows Floating Trial Balloons Is Dangerous

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Floating trial balloons on the Berlin crisis is dangerous diplomatic pastime. The floater runs the risk of being shot down at all sides.

Gen. Lucius Clay, U.S. representative in Berlin, found that out a while back when he floated a trial balloon about accepting the existence of two Germanies.

Elene Kroll, the veteran West German ambassador in Moscow, is the latest target although there still is no clear indication on whether he did the floating or was merely caught up in the string.

KREMLIN CHAT

According to Moscow reports, Kroll visited the Kremlin last Thursday to chat with Khrushchev's invitation and spent an hour and 45 minutes discussing it. That extended beyond the usual stand-pat positions.

Kroll, described as a new set of Soviet proposals, was quickly "leaked" to the Western press.

It is not known who made the first move — but the Kroll reaction was not long in coming.

Kroll, carefully quick-reported that they knew nothing of a new Soviet approach. Khrushchev Saturday were giving out that Kroll was "unenlightened" on any advanced ideas on a settlement privately.

By Sunday West German official would be getting an embarrassed way that "Doll and advanced moved things — on a purely personal basis.

On Monday Kroll was packing his bags to return home and explain it all, he was told, by government press secretary Conrad Ahlers that he had made proposals that did not represent the government's positions.

DANGEROUS TOPICS

The consternation in Bonn reportedly arose from reports that the Moscow chat had dealt with such explosive issues as "respect" for East Germany sovereignty, agreement on access to East Berlin and a new status for the city, now regarded as West German territory.

It appears improbable that Kroll would have made public such political dynamite without the approval of his government. More likely he was the victim of a Soviet move to probe Western thinking on such a plan.

Whatever the end, the incident will make Western negotiators doubly cautious about floating from the well-polished trial of clothes employed by their home governments.

SLAYER EXECUTED

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)— Richard Lindsey, a 32-year-old ex-convict who craved women, liquor and cars, died early Tuesday in the state's gas chamber for raping and k[illing] a [young] girl and [in the] [blur] of his pregnant sixth wife.

West Will Seek Reopening of Talks on Arms

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The General Assembly's main political committee prepared to begin a comprehensive debate on general disarmament today with the West ready to press for quick UN action to get the East-West negotiations started again.

Canada, a member of the inactive UN disarmament committee, was among those who urged the resumption of such negotiations.

Secretary - General U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson would press for such resumption. Stevenson was scheduled to speak immediately after Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin delivered a Soviet policy speech.

There was no direct word from the Russians as to what Zorin would say, but some delegations assumed he would offer a compromise to have non-aligned countries are added to the five Western and five Communist nations which have sat on the negotiations that collapsed in Geneva 17 months ago.

WANT TROIKA PLAN

Western sources have been insisting upon this extension of the troika principle to the disarmament negotiations, which the Western powers want to have equal representation to the non - aligned countries. The West has argued so far that only three neutralist countries should be included in the negotiations has been the main stumbling block to a resumption of negotiations.

The political committee's disarmament debate follows a long and detailed discussion of proposals by and against nuclear testing. The Soviet Union insisted throughout that it would only resume negotiations on a nuclear test ban as part of broader talks on complete and general disarmament. Both the Russians and the Western powers have said they accept a new uncontrolled moratorium of nuclear weapons testing.

PLANNERS NEEDED?

MOSCOW (AP)—Now that icy winter winds are sweeping across the Soviet Union some shops have begun selling summery sandals, the youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda reported Tuesday. And when customers ask for warm winter footwear, they are told such items were in short last summer, the paper said.

Atlantic Lands Urged to Boost Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will propose this week that the 20 members of the Atlantic Community increase their combined economic output 50 per cent by 1970, U.S. officials said Tuesday.

George W. Ball, U.S. undersecretary of state for economic affairs, will present the proposal at the conference of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development in Paris Thursday and Friday. Canada and the U.S. are full members of the OECD. Finance Minister Donald Fleming of Canada is chairman of the body.

The organization has three declared aims: To work in the interest of achieving the highest possible economic growth, to assist less-developed areas of the world with capital investments and to expand world trade.

The United States believes, officials said, that with the economic recovery of western Europe completed and with the free convertability of western European currencies generally achieved, it is time to set a new goal. It would raise the present gross national output of the 20 country body from about $600,000,000,000 a year to $1,320,000,000,000 within nine years.

U.S. WILL ALSO GROW

The annual gross national product of the United States would increase from $520,000,000,000 in 1961 to $780,000,000,000 by 1970 if the goal is reached.

The gross national product is a measure of a country's output of goods and services.

A top-ranking diplomat said adoption of the U.S. proposal—plus what he called necessary changes in domestic economic policies—would show that Western countries recognize economy must grow if it is to survive.

But he denied that the proposal is designed as an answer to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's ambitious economic program unveiled at the recent Communist party congress in Moscow. Cold war considerations played no part in the U.S. recommendation, he said.

Canada is reported to have criticized the proposed national goals, suggesting it would be ambitious and unrealistic to set economic growth targets before the organization considered specific plans that might help make that growth possible.

PRIZE FIRM

PAVIA, Italy (AP)—An Indian documentary film about leprosy, made by Prof. P. W. Brand of the Christian Medical College at Vellore, India, won the $1,500 first prize at an international festival of scientific and medical films here.

ROME (Reuters)—Pope John Wednesday will receive the presiding bishop of the Episcopal (Anglican) Church in the United States, Most Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, informed Vatican sources said today. It was believed the audience will be the first meeting between a Pope and a primate of the American Episcopal Church.

NORWEGIAN EDITOR DIES

Moments in History

In 1834, the people of Belleville petitioned the Legislative Assembly of Upper Canada, asking to have Belleville incorporated as a Police village. This was granted on the 6th of March. Sixteen years later — on January 1, 1950 —it was incorporated as a town. Almost fifty years later the predecessors of the Schuster company first began to supply homes and industry with fuels. Why not let Moira-Schuster supply your heating needs . . . fuel oil, coal, new furnace, 24-hour service. Call WO 2-4504 or drop in next time you're downtown.

Royal Canadian Legion Branch 428 Holds Remembrance Day Service

TWEED — Royal Canadian Legion Branch 428, Tweed, held a Remembrance Day service on Saturday at Memorial Park, Tweed, with a large attendance present.

The parade formed up at 10.30 a.m. at the Legion Hall and marched down Victoria Street south to the Cenotaph at Memorial Park. Having taken their places, the Salvation Army band played for the order of service and led the music in the singing of the hymns.

"O Canada" was followed by the invocation, given by the Rev. D. Louie, followed by the hymn, "Unto the Hills" and prayer by Capt Irving Hann of the Salvation Army, who said in part, "Let us in silence remember those who, in the service of their King and Queen and country, laid down their lives.

Last Post and Reveille were sounded.

"They shall not grow old, As we that are left grow old. Age shall not weary them, Nor the years condemn. At the going down of the sun and in the morning, We will remember them."

At this time, a large number of wreaths were placed at the Cenotaph, and the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past" was sung.

The Scripture was read by the Rev. L. E. Hawkes of St. James' Anglican Church and the address was given by the Rev. David G. Purdie of the Pentecostal Church, Tweed.

Production of Electricity From Coastal Tides Main Project of Red Scientists

By ROBERT ELPHICK

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet scientists have been given the go - ahead for one of their most ambitious projects yet—the production of electricity from coastal tides.

Blueprints have already been approved and a site surveyed on the coast of the Barents Sea, near Murmansk, for a tidal power station, a pilot project which the scientists hope will be the forerunner of bigger things.

The brain behind the project is a scientist named Lev Bernstein, who has made himself the official authority on tidal power stations and who has been dreaming for years of putting his ideas into practice.

He has had his plans accepted for a small power station to be built in Molovsky Bay, on the Kola Peninsula, where the last drops of the warm Gulf Stream keep the coast ice-free all year.

This station will be only a small project, developing just over 1,000 kilowatts. But Bernstein is looking forward with confidence to the time, about 20 years from now, when he hopes to build a station across Mezen Bay, in the White Sea, which will produce 30,000,000,000 kilowatts.

START WORK SOON

Work is expected to begin soon on the first pilot project just northwest of Murmansk, the biggest town above the Arctic Circle. The station will be brought to the site piece by ready-fabricated piece and erected on prepared foundations.

Molovsky Bay lies about 200 miles above the Arctic Circle, near the Norwegian frontier.

Bernstein believes his project will avoid the fate of a similar American experiment with a tidal power station on Passamaquoddy Bay in the 1930s. The U.S. station was described at the time as "economic madness" and "an expensive whim."

Bernstein says the real reason it was abandoned was that its engineering was inadequate. With the new techniques now at his disposal, he says engineering will present him with no problems.

Special reversible generators are to be installed to make electricity on both the incoming and outgoing tide.

ONE RESERVOIR

The station will be linked to the local grid from which it will draw current at off-peak hours. This current will be fed to the generators which, in effect, turns the generators into pumping motors. Sea water will then be pumped up from the sea into a reservoir penned in by the dam across the bay, thus providing a greater head of water.

Bernstein's designing section is already working on the blueprints of a second tidal power station, to be sited along the Murmansk coast, at Lumbovsky Bay, in the northeast of the Kola Peninsula. This one is expected to produce 400,000 kilowatts.

Bernstein urges the need for international pooling of grids so that the tides can be put to work for everyone.

A similar idea has been put forward by a Frenchman, Robert Gibre, who wants to build a tidal power station on the Cotentin Peninsula, in Normandy.

Bernstein welcomes Gibre's idea and, looking further ahead, talks of the immense benefits which could come from using the tides on an international scale by building power dams in the English Channel, across the Bering Strait between Alaska and Siberia, and in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and the state of Maine.

78-Year-Old Gives Reasons For Good Health

TORONTO (CP) — Dugald Semple, 78 - year - old Scottish philosopher, author and naturalist, says he is happy, healthy and wise because he does what he likes.

In an interview here Monday he recalled how, more than 50 years ago, he decided to start doing what he liked by telling his boss he wouldn't be back to work.

With that, he said, he bought a tent. "As a lad of 20 I started camping in the Highlands and the beauty of it all made me realize I was missing something."

"Very few people are doing what they like," he said, "I was brought up in a strict Calvinist home and my father would not even let us take a walk on Sunday. This strictness built up a great desire for freedom within me."

Mr. Semple, a vegetarian, claims that "cooked food is dead food."

RUNS TWO MILES

Despite his age, his day starts with an early two - mile run along the beach of the lake he lives beside in Ayrshire. He breakfasts on fruit, lunches on nuts and dines before six on vegetable or fruit salad.

He shuns dairy products, fowl, fish and eggs.

His way of living and his books, he said, earned him the friendship of Mohandas Ghandi and George Bernard Shaw.

Tweed HS Whips Whitby

TWEED (Special) — Tweed Senior High School football team won the C.O.S.S.A. Sr. B championship. Tweed defeated Whitby Henry St. School by a score of 26-0 to win to COSSA championship for the second consecutive year.

Glen Brough opened the scoring in the second quarter to give Tweed a 6-0 halftime lead. In the third and fourth quarters Terry Lesage, Glen Brough and Gerald O'Hearne scored with Terry and Leo Lesage adding converts to make it 26-0.

The Whitby team played extremely well and controlled the ball for a good portion of the game, but couldn't find the goal line. Switzer was the pick of their backs.

For Tweed it was hard to single out a star and yet the "Goldust Twins" Glen Brough and Gerald O'Hearne deserve a special mention for their offensive game.

Brough romps through the opposition were a pleasure to watch. Terry Lesage, the quarter turned in a fine passing effort.

Gerry Hunt, Verdun McGrath, Gerald McConnell, Earle Lemke, Leo Lesage, Pat Allore and Bob Bush stood out on defence.

Richard Grey, the small Tweed centre and centre halfback backer inspired the team with his tackling and blocking.

Many of the Tweed players are graduating this year and can look back with pride and a wonderful sense of achievement on such an excellent season.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Third-period scoring outbursts enabled Vancouver Canucks and Los Angeles Blades to improve their lowly Western Hockey League standing Tuesday night.

The Canucks used last-period goals by playing-coach Phil Maloney and Dave Duke to down Calgary Stampeders 4-2 while Los Angeles fired four straight third-period goals and eventually earned a 4-4 overtime tie with Edmonton Flyers.

A slim crowd of 1,863, smallest at Vancouver this year, saw the Canucks score their fourth win of the season—all at home—and move into a tie for third place in the Northern Division with Calgary.

The 34-year-old Maloney had two of Vancouver's goals while Duke and Murray Wilkie added singles. Lou Jankowski provided both Calgary goals.

At Los Angeles, the Blades overcame a 4-0 deficit on goals in the third period by Ray Powers, Gerry Gower, Danny Belisle and Calgary Carmichael.

Chuck Holmes, Leo Lunde, John Misanik and Roger Dejordy answered for Edmonton.

Forty-Pound Trout Won Fish Derby

REGINA (CP)—Trout from Tazin Lake, 20 miles north of Uranium City, have taken first and second prize in the Saskatchewan Fish Derby for the second consecutive year, provincial Travel Director Harvey Dryden announced.

Landing the prize trout, which weighed 40 pounds, two ounces, was Woody Barrit of Wichita, Kan. The fish was taken on a spinning rod using a 10-pound-test line.

Second in the lake trout competition was Ray Nickell of Browning, Miss., who caught a 37 - pound, eight-ounce trout.

The derby is sponsored jointly each year by the Saskatchewan Fish and Game League and the department of industry and information.

Uranium City is on Lake Athabasca in the northwest corner of Saskatchewan.

'We Won, Ma,' But Wife Had News, Too

TORONTO (CP) — Argonauts halfback Jim Roundtree telephoned his wife in Miami to give her the good news after the Toronto team knocked out Ottawa Rough Riders 43-19 in the sudden-death semi-final of the Eastern Football Conference.

Mrs. Roundtree had some news for her husband too: He has a call from the United States Army.

Reporting date is Dec. 5, three days after the Grey Cup game here.

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Boxing Commission disclosed Tuesday it has suspended Terry Downes of England, former middleweight champion, until he fulfils a return - bout agreement to fight Paul Pender of Boston.

In London, Downes's manager, Sam Burns, said he would fight the ban. "They didn't even give Terry a hearing before deciding this," he said.

Downes is recognized as champion in New York, Massachusetts and Europe. The British Boxing Board of Control has an agreement with the New York Athletic Commission to honor suspensions.

Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, is the recognized middleweight champion in states governed by the NBA.

Downes and Pender had been scheduled to meet, under a return-fight contract, in Boston Sept. 22. However, Downes underwent surgery for a thumb infection and had to postpone the fight.

Boston promoter Sam Silverman said he is not concerned. He said a representative of Downes had given him assurance that Downes would come here in January for a title fight with Pender.

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Back in the summer there were rumblings around town that Waller (Babe) Pratt might become the new head coach of Vancouver's Western Hockey League Canucks.

He didn't. Phil Maloney got that job with all its headaches.

The Babe? He became a newspaper columnist and for several weeks now has been able to do his coaching in print once a week, suffering none of the consequences of a losing team or a lousy game.

It's easier that way, he says, and the money's not bad for part-time employment. (He's a lumber company buyer in nearby New Westminster the rest of the time.)

Babe Pratt, now 45, writes a weekly hockey column for the Vancouver Province, giving advice to the Canucks between stints of long rest in hockey, a part that includes signing his first professional contract with Toronto Maple Leafs at 19.

FAN'S GUFF

His hockey career ended in 1952-53 as coach of New Westminster Royals in the WHL, in between he played for New York, Boston, Hershey, Cleveland, Toronto and New Westminster, a hard-hitting, hard-living defenceman about whom many a story has been told.

In the weeks he's been telling tales himself in public print, he's handed Maloney all sorts of advice, called Vancouver's assists "fluke" or "set, daughter's crackerbox." and given his readers some inside stories on the past.

He talked with general manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings during an exhibition game here. "I reminded Jolly Jack of the time our New York Rangers were leading 6-0 at the end of the second period in a game in 1937. The New York newspapers had carried stories of Adams receiving his citizenship papers the same day.

"One of the fog-horned voices from the gallery hollered down: 'Hey, Adams, it's a good thing you got your papers today. Now you'll qualify for home relief.'"

Warren Godfrey was with the Wings. Pratt recalled that he was "a protege of mine from days with Timmins Rockets (and he) showed me some moves I didn't think were in the book."

"His clutching and holding did my heart good," the Babe wrote. "He ought to be good for two dozen sweaters a season."

DINER SANCTUM

When Toronto Maple Leafs played here, Pratt wrote:

"Meeting Stafford Smythe and being invited into the Toronto dressing room was unheard of in my playing days with the Leafs. Stafford's father, Conn, wouldn't allow a draught in the dressing room.

"I used to call it the Sanctum Sanctorum of sweat, blood and hot air—the heart and guts from the players and the hot air from the coach after we had played a stinker.

"During my five years with Leafs only one visitor was ever seen in the dressing room and he was Ontario premier George Drew. It must have been an election year."

Pratt devoted one column to advice to the players of today. About 600 words down in the column, he said "never take your eyes off the game whether you're on the ice or the bench (i.e. forget about that blonde in the fourth row)."

A little farther down, the Babe wrote:

"If I could have done all these things in my 18 years as a pro hockey, I'd have chased Cyclone Taylor right out of the Hall of Fame."

WANTS HELP

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Robert Sommer of British Columbia said Tuesday night the federal government should "bestir itself" and give the private sector of the economy some assistance. Addressing a dinner sponsored by the Young Socred Association of Metropolitan Toronto, Mr. Sommer said "it is not enough to sell private business to 'sell hard.'" There were problems of tariffs, trade relations and market assessments that require government action, he said.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Galindo easily won the featured Silver Grain Purse at Old Woodbine Park Tuesday, defeating Popsayno by two lengths.

Blue Light, winner of the $72,000 Queen's Plate, finished third.

Galindo, winner of one division of the Canadian Derby at Edmonton in August, registered his second win in six starts since coming to Toronto in September. The three - year - old paid $9 straight as he ran the mile in 1:40 3-5 over a drying track.

The daily double of Actor's Award and All Canadian, winners of the first two races, paid $21.50. The quinella of Galindo and Popsayno paid $52.80.

The crowd of 6,489 wagered $277,785.

Petes Hop Up Ladder

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough Petes jumped out of the cellar and to within a point of second place in the evenly-matched Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A Series Tuesday night when they edged Niagara Falls Flyers 3-2.

The badly disorganized Flyers played one of their poorest games of the season. Some 1,100 hometown fans watched them fall two goals behind the Petes by the end of the second period.

A tip-in by Tom Carty in the first period and a goal by Claude Larose in the second accounted for Peterborough's scoring. Jack Nairn scored for Niagara Falls.

The crowd was the smallest at Niagara Falls since the former Barrie franchise was moved there two years ago.

In OHA Metro Junior A action Unionville and Toronto Marlboros tied 4-4 at Unionville. Carl Winterstein, Leo Oliver, Doug Kelcher and Wayne Carlton scored for Unionville and Brian Conacher, Doug MacDonald, Ron Ellis and Bob Ferguson for Marlboros.

Diaz Wins Over Don Jordan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Rodolfo (Chivo) Diaz, making his first start in California, won a unanimous 10-round decision over former world's welterweight champion Don Jordan Tuesday night.

Diaz of Durango, Mexico, weighed 141½; Jordan, Los Angeles, 144.

There were no knockdowns in the 10-round main event.

Diaz started fast, drew Jordan's blood early and banged away at will thereafter. He showed a fast left and a solid right. Referee Mario Duccini had it 9-0-1 for Diaz and the two judges 8-0-2 and 10-0, Diaz.

For Jordan, it was the third loss in five comeback trail bouts.

Surprised at Eskimo Defeat

Stop The Stamps, Bombers Problem

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers threw out the book on Jackie Parker, Johnny Bright and the other Edmonton, Eskimos Tuesday night and began working on the problem of stopping Eagle Day, Earl Lunsford and their Calgary Stampeders cohorts.

The Bombers, from coach Bud Grant down, admitted they had been surprised by Calgary's cliff-hanging victory over the Eskimos in the Western Football Conference semi-final Monday night.

"We were even kind of sorry to see Edmonton lose it," Grant said. "Those Winnipeg-Edmonton finals have become traditional and they've been great battles.

"If Calgary can make all those big clutch plays as they did against Edmonton, they can beat anyone. They have momentum now and they'll be tough."

The final opens Saturday afternoon at Calgary.

The Stamps won 27-26, in the two-game, total-points western semi-final.

The Bombers are in general good health and Grant's immediate problems centre on selecting the right man for the right job.

His arrival here Tuesday to learn there was no tarpaulin separating the McMahon Stadium gridiron from an inch of snow that fell earlier in the day.

Bombers coach Ike Armonin says his defending champions have had to adjust defences quickly on other occasions and that the condition of the field won't really matter.

Game-time weather will be a brisk 30 degrees or colder, with a clear sky and winds of 15 m.p.h. Officials expect a crowd of about 15,000, with proceeds going to the Shriners' Winnipeg and Montreal hospitals for crippled children.

Demers also scored seven goals to lead the Canadiens to a 10-1 decision over the Black Hawks. Paul Hall, Steven Lougheed and Bill Lazarini potted a goal each. John Holland netted the lone Hawk goal.

Red Wings copped a 5-1 win over the Royals, led by A. Wilson with a pair of goals. Others went to R. Hines, T. McDonald and D. Willerton. S. Ella scored for the Royals.

Junior Final Tonight

CALGARY (CP)—A slippery field could be the big equalizer tonight as Montreal Rosemount Bombers and Winnipeg's St. James Rods meet for the Canadian junior football championship.

Indians Whip Royals

BELMONT (CP) — Stratford Indians sent St. Thomas Royals to their sixth straight loss of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association season, 10-6 Tuesday night.

Neil Cockburn and newly appointed playing - coach Billy Chick each scored three goals for Stratford. Jack McIlwain scored two and Ken Doig and Gary Luyben one each.

Don Sangsiais, acquired from Sarnia Rams last week, scored three goals for the Royals, who were playing their first home game at Belmont Arena and put on their best performance of the season. Jim Erison, Darby Moore and Al Porter scored the others.

The game was delayed when St. Thomas goalie Jack McLean suffered a recurrenct of a first-period hip injury in the third. He was replaced by Eddie Lenar.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Jean Paul Lamirande, the playing coach of the city's "Unmentionables" intermediate "A" hockey club, is an optimist, to say the least.

And his optimism and determination have paid off, insofar as providing this city with a hockey club in the higher brackets is concerned.

I don't know if his philosophy of life is "keep your big mouth shut and don't let your best friend know what your right hand is doing," but that has seemed to be his policy and to this point it has not gone far wrong.

The stocky French Canadian mentor, who has adopted this city as his own, told me two months ago, with a slow wink and shrug of his broad Habitant shoulders, "we will have a hockey team this winter."

The word got around. Random in general shrugged its shoulders. Many laughed. Others questioned Lammy's mental status. In fact it got down to the point where only one person believed him. He was one, Jean Paul Lamirande.

Senior hockey officials of the district called a meeting. Lamirande was the first to enter a club. At subsequent meetings in one of the weirdest, wackiest sequences of organizational events, Lammy stuck by his guns. A five-team league, a four-team circuit, he was the first to enter.

Close questioning brought nothing but a shoulder shrug. Not even his best friends were "in" on his plans. He agreed with a suggestion by Belleville and Kingston teams play in the Ottawa Valley League. That went down the drain.

Then Lorne Cook, OHA past president and eastern Ontario convener, grabbed at a last straw for Kingston and Belleville clubs. He suggested they enter the Lakeshore Intermediate League, with playoff arrange. ments.

Lammy's big moment had arrived. Kingston refused to enter but Napanee and Belleville were accepted by Fort Hope, Bowmanville, Uxbridge and Trenton RCAF.

Now, said the wise ones, it is up to Lamirande. He'll have to put up or shut up. Lamirande only did the one thing. He "put up." He did not have to shut up.

Questioning by newsmen failed to elicit any information. They were greeted with the familiar "shrug" and the statement, "I've got a club."

An arena ice-time roadblock failed to shake his decision. It was rumored at the time either hockey people were waiting to step into the breach if Lammy "failed to produce." Lamirande knew this and if anything it only served to bolster his determination to keep his word and bring hockey to Belleville.

He received the co-operation of arena officials and the Belleville Minor Hockey Association and the way was paved to give the mystery team Wednesday nights as official playing time.

Still the cynics were not satisfied. Who is his sponsor? Who are the players? Where will he get equipment?

Lamirande answered two of these questions last Friday night. He trotted out a team that had a nucleus of ex-McFarlands and included the Belleville McFarlands juniors a 7-3 defeat before 278 of the faithful (paid.)

Not only that, he had his mystery squad decked out in dazzling brand new scarlet-and-white uniforms. The faithful gasped because the jerseys had no names or numbers decorating front or back.

The players? "Turk" Barclay, "Wiener" Brown, Fiori Georgan, Davy Janes, Lionel Bolley, a guy named Lamirande, a segment of the grand rang that stood in Zimni Stadium in France and watched the Canadian emigre raised high in honor of world champions.

They were bolstered by promising local players, such as Billy Moxon, "Shaker" Baker, Chuck Rowbotham, Gord Irwin and others.

Added in the near future will be Keith MacIlmoil. He Hildebrand will play home games with the squad. Lou Smrke may turn out. Lamirande says he has other good players ready to show their wares.

After all, taking into consideration everything that Lamirande has done to bring hockey here, it is rather difficult to disbelieve him.

This city, this winter, will have one of the better teams in the Lakeshore Intermediate League, in this corner's opinion. The fact we have hockey at all, is due to the guts and determination of one man, Jean Paul Lamirande. And fans hereabouts can show their appreciation by getting behind Lammy and up to this point, his "Unmentionables."

BULLETIN!

The mystery has been cleared. - The "Unmentionables" are now the Belleville Pepsi's. See story on sports page.

Verbal Battle Over Deposit

TORONTO (CP)—Boston millionaire Peter Fuller appears to have won a million-dollar argument over the Dec. 9 world heavyweight championship fight here between champion Floyd Patterson and Tom McNeeley.

The argument started Tuesday afternoon when Cus D'Amato, Patterson's vitriolic manager, accused Fuller of not living up to his contract as McNeeley's manager.

D'Amato claimed the contract specified Fuller ought by now to have put up a $1,000,000 guarantee of a return bout should McNeeley gain the champion. ship.

He warned Fuller to have the cash in a Boston bank "before this week is out—or else."

D'Amato claimed the contract called for Fuller to deposit the money within 10 days of the Oct. 16 signing.

"Fuller knows what I'll do if the money isn't deposited," D'Amato said. "I pulled this fight out of Boston and I'm not saying I'll do the same here, but he had better get that money up, and get it up fast."

FULLER RESPONDS

In Boston a couple of hours later Fuller produced his rebuttal.

"He didn't to have read the contract," was the millionaire's advice to D'Amato.

Fuller said the contract called for the remaining $1 million to be deposited within 10 days of the time he is notified by the Ontario Athletic Commission that it has okayed the fight — not 10 days after the signing.

"So far I haven't heard from the commission," Fuller said. "I expect it (the notification) may be in the mail now. But it costs a little something to put $1,000,000 in a bank and I'm not anxious to put it up, say, a month or so early."

What sounded like the final verdict came a couple of hours after from Toronto, where Merv McKenzie, Ontario's athletic commissioner, said Fuller was right.

"I sent the letter a couple of days ago to Fuller's lawyer in Boston asking him to put up the money," MacKenzie said, adding he was "quite positive" Fuller wasn't trying to "dodge" the contract terms.

GIBES AT McNEELEY

Meanwhile D'Amato aimed a gibe at McNeeley in the midst of his beer session.

"The world champion has been in Toronto for days working out." Patterson's manager said. "Where is McNeeley? This is a half-million-dollar fight, so he's training hundreds of miles away in the States (in Massachusetts). He should be here to put up protection."

Replied Fuller:

"We'll train where we want to. Patterson is up there. He's the champion. He should be able to promote the fight. We'll be there in plenty of time. That's all Patterson has to worry about."

Aces Stun Indians In 4-1 Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Quebec Aces, wallowing in the basement of the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League, had at least one consolation today:

When they click, they can beat the best.

The Aces, who show a 5-12 record, stunned the leading Springfield Indians 4-1 in the only game in the league Tuesday night. The defeat was only the third of the season for the Indians.

Diminutive ace centre Skippy Burchell scored two third-period goals to crack the game wide open. Until then, the Aces held only a one-goal lead as a result of second period scores by Jean - Marie Coenia and Jim Morrison and another by Springfield centre Dennis Olson.

Habs, Leafs Meet Tonight

Flu Bodychecks Kelly, Boomer

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bernie (Boom ,Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal Canadiens and Red Kelly of Toronto Maple Leafs, both key men in their team's offence, are ailing.

The Boomer expects to be in the line-up when the Canadiens meet the Leafs at Toronto in one of two National Hockey League games tonight. Kelly, however, may miss the game because of the flu.

Detroit Red Wings start a three-game road trip at Chicago in tonight's other game.

Geoffrion and Ralph Backstrom, both injured last Saturday, fly to Toronto today to rejoin the club. The Blaker injury - plagued crew. Geoffrion suffered bruised ribs when cross-checked and Backstrom twisted his right knee in a game against Chicago. Both missed Sunday's game at Detroit.

Defenceman Tom Johnson, who has an infected toe, and centre Phil Goyette, with a sore wrist, are expected to dress for the Leafs.

KELLY MAY PLAY

Toronto manager - coach Punch Imlach said that Kelly, Leafs leading point - getter, "may be okay but if he isn't he'll put Dave Harris in his spot between Frank Mahovlich and Bob Nevin."

Canadiens and Leafs have split two previous meetings this season. Leafs won 3-2 on home ice Nov. 1 and Canadiens won 3-2 in Montreal Nov. 8.

Blake, angry with Canadiens' 3-0 loss at Detroit Sunday, said: "I was annoyed with Goyette. He told me his injured wrist was okay, but he couldn't control the puck and this cost us the first goal. I guess Phil figured we were down to nine forwards and he just had to go."

Kelly has had a hand in four of the five goals Toronto has scored against Montreal this season, getting one himself and helping set up three others.

Claude Provost, the league's top goal-getter with 13 in 14 games, has four of Montreal's seven tallies against Leafs. He also has an assist.

The Detroit - Chicago battle also will be the third this season between last spring's Stanley Cup finalists. Previous engagements the teams tied 3-3 at Detroit and 2-2 at Chicago.

Exit the 'Unmentionables'

Enter the Belleville Pepsi's

Jean Paul Lamirande, playing coach of the hitherto "Unmentionables" hockey team of this city, made good his third promise last night.

He came up with the long-delayed sponsor.

The "Unmentionables" will be known from hereon as the "Belleville Pepsi's."

Mr. Bill Spinelli, Coleman Street, who handles the product in the man behind the sponsor.

"I am glad to be able to do something for the boys," Mr. Spinelli said this morning. "I wish I could do more."

Two months ago Lamirande said he would enter a Belleville hockey team if there was a league.

He kept his promise.

A month ago he said he had a club ready to go if a hockey league was available. He proved he was right.

Intermittently he claimed he had a sponsor. Mysteriously he declined to mention a name.

Last night he again proved he was right.

"Now we can really go to work," Lamirande said last night. "I have the nucleus of what I think is a good club and hope to add more good players."

He said Ike Hildebrand would play for the team in his home games. He hopes to get Ron Hall and, if possible, Floyd Crawford. He said he has been in touch with Paul Farrell and there is a possibility Paul may return to this city.

Lamirande also announced his admission prices. They will be one dollar general admission and fifty cent in the arena. Children will be charged fifty cents.

The Belleville Pepsi's open their Lakeshore Intermediate Hockey League schedule next Sunday night when they visit Uxbridge.

Their first home appearance will be on Wednesday, November 22, when they entertain the Napanee Comets.

McNeill Under Fire

By LAURENT CHIASSON

MONTREAL (CP) — Allister MacNeil, a stocky 185 - pound newcomer with Montreal Canadiens, is out to silence his critics who claim he can't play the right side of the defence.

MacNeil was impressive at the Canadiens pre-season training camp. But the fact he had little experience as a right rearguard almost cost him a job with the National Hockey League club.

Canadiens, in need of strengthening their right side, kept him primarily because right defenceman Jean Gauthier wasn't quite ready for the NHL.

MacNeil, in his second bid to make the NHL, saw little duty at the beginning of the season as Montreal romped through its first eight games unbeaten. But when things started going rough, coach Toe Blake took MacNeil off the bench and placed him alongside left defenceman Jean-Guy Talbot.

MacNeil and Talbot were standouts until last Sunday night's game in Detroit when Canadiens were beaten 3-0. Blake called it the pair's first poor game in four.

OUT OF POSITION

"Al was caught out of position on two goals and they were on for all three," said Blake.

"Some people still insist I can't play the right side," said MacNeil in an interview. "But I can play both sides and I intend to prove it."

Blake says Lou Fontinato, acquired from New York Rangers last summer, and MacNeil have provided the Canadiens with some of the heavy hitting that was lacking in former seasons.

"In one game, MacNeil met a New York puck carrier headon at centre ice and hit him hard," says Blake, "Before the Ranger player could recover, he had the puck near the Ranger net and the Pocket (Henri Richard) scored.

"The secret," continues Blake, "is to keep the boys aware that a good solid check delivered at the right time can change an entire game."

MacNeil, 26, joined the Toronto Maple Leafs organization when he was only 18. Two years ago the Leafs sent him to Montreal in a trade for forward Stan Smrke.

Last year, MacNeil had a brilliant season with Montreal's Hull-Ottawa farm club in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Packers Want Deal With Dallas

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Packers Tuesday were reported to be attempting to swing a deal with Dallas Texans of the rival American Football League.

Joited by military callups and injuries although they lead the National League's Western Division with a 7-2 record, the Packers are attempting to get Ben Agajanian, a 42-year - old place-kicking specialist, in time for Sunday's game against Los Angeles Rams at Green Bay.

It was learned that only the refusal of rookie quarterback Val Keckin to be traded to Texas has held up the deal. Neither club will admit any transaction is a trade since deals with the other pro circuit are frowned upon by the respective leagues.
